BANNER DAY AT THE STATE FAIR

Estimated That About 16,000 People Passed the Turnstiles Yesterday.

CHOIR CONCERT A FEATURE.

Tabernacle Singers Divided Honors With the Fireworks Last Evening —Judges Announce Awards.

Yesterday was a banner day at the state fair; this in spite of the unsettled weather conditions at early morning. Rain falling during the night and continuing in a drizzle before breakfast had its effects upon some of the outside stands and paths but not upon the management nor employes of the fair. When the sun started to break through the clouds the crowds from out of town began to put in an appearance and at 10 o'clock the rush had started in earnest. Cars came down one after another, each loaded to the guards, as railroaders say. Opposed to the rawness of the air were many things making yesterday the biggest day yet. First of all it was Salt Lake county day; this city and every town within the county's boundaries turned out. The conference visitors arrived in great numbers during the day and residents of outside towns now constitute the biggest portion of each day's crowds.

STORES CLOSED AT 1 P. M.

A majority of the stores and business institutions of this city closed at 1 o'clock yesterday and a few minutes after the crowd passing through the gates into the grounds surpassed any yet. To those who have been in attendance every day since the fair opened, yesterday really saw the affair getting into its best strides. The attendance yesterday—estimated carefully, was between 15,000 and 17,000 persons. By 3 o'clock the immense floor space in Manufacturers' hall was covered with people greatly interested in the exhibits shown; the same could be said of Horticulture hall; the new poultry-kennel; cattle and live-stock yards and every department.

The free and out-door attractions are proving hits—each and every one of them. The person who goes down to the fair with the idea that he is going to see a "naughty" midway will be disappointed this year; the Midway is a place of very respectable and mild attractions. Probably the loudest thing on the Midway is the red vest of the industrious "barker."

RACES AND PARADE.

The races were good in spite of four inches of mud on the track. Running races are far more popular than the harness contests and the crowd which completely filled the grand-stand attested this fact.

The horse slipped and fell but the little jockey, Joe Flanders, slid away short. Yesterday saw an excellent program of running races. When the races were finished ladies and gentlemen owning pretty ponies; fine road-sters and driving horses paraded their paces before the grand-stand where judges sat watching the parade to distribute awards.

The real treat of the day came at 4:30 o'clock when the Salt Lake tabernacle choir appeared in Manufacturers' hall and under the direction of Prof. Evan Stephens rendered a short but excellent program. Among the selections rendered were the Soldiers' Chorus from Gounod's "Faust," and the "Pilgrims' Chorus" from Verdi's "I Lombardi," the last selection being, "From Afar Gracious Lord." The choir was assembled on the platform above the main entrance of Manufacturers' or Industrial hall. Hundreds of persons stood on the floor below, while hundreds occupied bench-seats running around the balcony. As the singers finished each song the big building was filled with applause; an ovation was accorded the artists between every number. The immense crowd gathered in Manufacturers' hall long before the hour set for the first number of the concert was mighty evidence of the organization's popularity and drawing power.

GOOD FIREWORKS.

The fireworks display last evening was more pretentious than any yet and pleased those who could not get inside Manufacturers' hall to listen to the choir. The various adjudging committees were busy early yesterday morning and during the day the following prize-winners lists were announced:

A Feature at The Store This Week.

Miss Ohlsen, expert Corset authority, of New York, is demonstrating Redfern & Warner's Corsets this week at the store. Every woman will be richly benefited by a talk with Miss Ohlsen.

The Redfern & Warner's Corsets were selected because they are conceded to be eminently superior to all other makes.

If You Knew the Value of a Good Corset

You would never buy a corset on the "say-so" of anyone but an experienced person. Mrs. Jones' corset may fit her perfectly but not fit you. The expert judgment of the woman who sells is the one to take for a specific style. If the advertised corset seemingly meets your needs, ask for that general make, but not for the individual style advertised. Then let the saleswoman show you the style in that make that will suit your form are generally advertised only to familiarize you with the meritorious features, but there is a style for you that has all the good corset points with the added construction made to fit you. Each model has the "SECURITY" Rubber Button Hose Supporters attached—as good a hose supporter as the coreet is a corset.
