CHARTER MEMBERS GUESTS OF HONOR

Memorial Meeting of the Daughters of the Pioneers Held Friday.

MOST INTERESTING SESSION

Gathering a Commemorative One Devoted to the Founder General Of the Society.

A most interesting session of the society of the Daughters of Pioneers was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. M. Y. Dougall, Mrs. Lily C. Wolstenholme presiding, and the charter members being guests of honor. The meeting was chiefly a commemorative one devoted to the founder-general of the society, the late Mrs. Annie Taylor Hyde, and an article upon her public life was read from the Young Woman's Journal by Mrs. Flora B. Horne, followed by a sketch of her more private one by Mrs. M. Y. Dougall, who had been associated with Mrs. Hyde from early girlhood. They attended singing school together, and their children associated in the Primary work, taking prizes in cooking and sewing offered in the Primaries at one time as an incentive to endeavor. Mrs. Dougall paid a high tribute to Mrs. Hyde as a wife, mother and friend, and stated that when she was called to preside over the M. I. A. of the Seventeenth ward she chose Mrs. Hyde as one of her counselors, thus being associated with her in various capacities during life.

Others also spoke of Mrs. Hyde's admirable qualities. Among them Mrs. Annie Wells Cannon, Mrs. Leonora Harrington, Mrs. Sarah J. Cannon and Mrs. Hannah Lapish. Mrs. Annie Wells Cannon made special reference to historical events in early pioneer life, especially the sea-gull episode at the time of the cricket-pest, and said the incident was given in the public schools strript of the religious facts which made it so memorable to the pioneers. She paid a beautiful tribute to their heroism and said that the society could not do too much to show reverence for their memory. Beautiful vocal numbers were given by Miss Bessie Edmonds, Mrs. June C. Clayton and Irene Kelly, and letters were read from the society's president, Mrs. Zina Card, who is absent in Canada, expressing her interest in the society.

A song written by Mrs. Lydia D. Alder entitled "Daughters of Pioneers" was read. It will be set to music by Charles Pike and sung at the pioneer celebration on the 24th, should one be held. Three interesting relics received from Arnet Hale of Grantsville were exhibited, comprising the bow of an ox-yoke, which crossed the plains five times, a petrified potato, and a Colt's revolver lost by the great Hastings' exploring party in 1849, none of the party surviving the trip across the desert. The rooms were bright with flowers, and refreshments were served, the meeting being altogether a most enjoyable one.

The charter members present were Annie Wells Cannon, Lydia Y. Merrill, Phebe Y. Beatie, Libbie R. Pratt, Isabel W. Sears, Leonora T. Harrington, Ellen E. Richardson, Emily Y. Clawson.

AMUSEMENTS

Theater—Mrs. Fiske attracted to the theater last night, as she always does in Salt Lake, a brilliant, representative, and critical audience. It is 12 years since Thackeray's immortal work, "Vanity Fair," esteemed by many as the great novel of the English language, was cleverly adapted to the stage. Salt Lake beheld it some years since at the Grand, but the quarters were so cramped that no adequate justice could be done to the mounting, and it might almost be said it was seen for the first time last night. The rendition throughout again stamped Mrs. Fiske, not only as foremost among American actresses, but among American producers. Her magnetism is like that of Bernhardt, and the sway she exercises over her audience, even while rendering the most commonplace dialogue, is like a sort of fascination. She was the inimitable Becky Sharp to the life; she might have stepped out of the pages of the great novel, and in spite of her trickery and deceit, it was impossible not to feel a certain sympathy for her, which was just what Thackeray intended. She made the utmost of the telling dramatic scene at the supper table with Lord Steyn, where her husband bursts through the curtains and discovers them, and nothing could have been more tense than the strained, cracking voice she used in declaring "I am innocent!" Equally superb was her work in the last act when her rapid descent down the social ladder becomes so marked, and her slouchy dress, tumbled hair, and the general abandonment of her appearance, all told the tale better than words could have done. She was rewarded with any number of curtain calls.

Mrs. Fiske's generosity in mounting her plays and bringing upon the road the same ideal cast with which she presents her plays on Broadway, are well known. The staging and business of the historic ball room scene, with its thrilling suggestions of Waterloo, the episode which inspired Byron's famous poem—were simply superb. The costumes were exact and picturesque, and the sharp contrast brought out by the murmurs of gaiety while the dancing went on, with the hush of terror that fell upon the assembly when "the cannon's opening roar" was heard," was admirable. The cast was ideal. Mr. Holbrook Blinn as the old marquis, was strongly effective; Mr. Ferguson, the original of the disgusting old baronet, gave a bit of character acting to the highest degree artistic. Mr. Buckland and Mr. Stephenson as the two Crawleys were both strong, the latter especially good as Rawdon, though his handling of the old marquis bore somewhat of a suggestion of "by your leave, sir," rather than the fury with which he ought to have been encompassed. Mr. Lewis' Dobbin was manly, though hardly the book character, and Mr. Mackay's George was true to life. Harold Russell was given a reception as he appeared in the part of the old beau, and his rendition of a part which belongs to another age, showed the true comedy instinct. Alice John was a pretty Amelia, and Miss Arnold's rendition of the termagant aunt was as fine a piece of work as anything done in the supporting cast.

"There Was a Sound of Revelry by Night,"

The orchestra assisted handsomely in creating the necessary atmosphere by rendering some charming old songs. Prof. McClellan being noticed at the piano as a substitute for Mr. Carrington. Tonight the engagement ends with the first production here of Ibsen's play, "The Pillars of Society."

HERD BOY KILLED IN SAND CAVE-IN

William J. Anderson, Aged 15, Smothered in Cave on Foothills Near Sandy.

While endeavoring to escape the blinding rays of the sun Wm. J. Anderson, the 15-year-old son of Peter Anderson of Sandy, crawled into a narrow cave in the sandhills about two miles east of Sandy.

The feet of the boy sticking out of the sand on the hillside yesterday afternoon bore mute testimony that the sand had caved in on him and he had been smothered to death.

The lad was herding cows on the foothills and was not missed until it was time to bring the animals home. A search along the hillside revealed the faithful dog, who accompanied the lad on his trips, sitting beside the feet and whining.

No time was lost in digging out the body and taking it home to the sorrowing parents.

The funeral will be held at 12 noon Sunday at the Sandy meetinghouse.

SALT PALACE ONCE MORE.

Once more the Salt Palace liquor license is destined to come up for consideration by the council, as a new application was filed by Gus Ling in the city recorder's office Friday. It will be submitted to the council next Monday night.

there in 1900, he spent the next five years in the L. D. S. college and the University of Utah. In the fall of 1905 he registered in the short winter course in the college of agriculture of Cornell, and returned the following year as a regular student.

During his student life Mr. Boyle has always shown a strong inclination towards research. In his freshman year at Cornell he carried off the second prize for experimental work in "The effect of moisture in the artificial incubation of eggs." This prize was offered by the New York State Experimenters' association.

At college Mr. Boyle has been popular with his classmates and is a member of various college clubs and associations.

CONNERS SEEKS PARDON.

Sentenced for Life and Got Ten Years Additional Later.

Frank Conners who has the distinction of serving a sentence at the penitentiary for "10 years more than his natural life," is now seeking his release from the Utah prison through proceedings for a writ of habeas corpus in the supreme court of the state.

Conners was sentenced for life for the killing of Policeman Strong at Provo and later for 10 years on account of assistance in the jail-breaking of Abe Majors and others.

DEATH OF OLD RESIDENT.

Benjamin Rowland of the Fifteenth Ward Succumbs to Dropsy.

Benjamin Rowland died at his residence, 146 south Fourth West street, Thursday afternoon at 1:30 p. m., of dropsy. He left South Wales with his mother and two brothers in the year 1849 with Capt. Dan Jones. He came as far as Council Bluffs and stayed there in Winter Quarters for two years. He buried his mother there. He drove an ox team across the plains and arrived here in the year 1852.

He lived in the Fifteenth ward until he left for Iron county, there he guarded the Indians for nine months. He came back to Salt Lake and was a resident of the Fifteenth ward up until his death.

Benjamin Rowland is survived by a widow and seven children and 14 grandchildren, the children being Benjamin W. Rawland, Roy E. Rowland and Parley W. Rowland, Mrs. Nell Love, Margaret C. Rowland, Rosella Rowland and Mrs. Dean Richmond.

The funeral services will be held from the Fifteenth ward meetinghouse at 2 p.m. Sunday.

SCARLET RESORTS RAIDED BY POLICE

Eighteen Women Arrested on Jane Doe Warrants in Uptown Districts.

With the stockade closed and darkened, City Atty. H. J. Dininny turned his attention to the uptown houses of ill-fame last night, and under complaints issued by him four rooming houses were raided by the police last night and 18 women arrested.

The houses raided were those of Beatrice Bartlett, 7 Victoria avenue; "The Grove," rear of 243 south Main street; Emelia Fiske, 65½ Commercial street and Frances Coulmaine, 62 Commercial street.

The warrants were given to the chief of police last evening and at 11:30 o'clock the 18 women were taken into custody by a squad of officers consisting of Lieut. Shannon, Sergt. Beckstead and Patrolmen Olsen, Conyers, Baker, Carstensen and Wickel. After being taken to police headquarters the women were released under $50 cash bail each.

The cases against the defendants were called in police court this morning, and although they were represented by attorneys ready to enter pleas of not guilty, the arraignments were continued until Monday morning by Judge Bowman under the order that the defendants must be present in court at the time of arraignment.

The stokade was in total darkness and tenantless last night, and the word has been given out that Belle London will not attempt to re-engage in the traffic of white slavery for some time at least in Salt Lake City. City Atty. Dininny will continue to hold the club of complaints and warrants over the stockade and with the evident fear of the proprietoress of the stockade it is in the cards that the city attorney has accomplished what others have failed to do, and that the stockade is a thing of the past.

The arrest of the 18 women last night had as an incident a personal encounter between Atty. Wm. Newton and Patrolman Carstensen, and in the clash abusive epithets were flung freely while Mr. Newton attempted a blow with his cane at the officer. The altercation arose when Newton, as attorney for the Bartlett woman, was talking with her, and the officer interfered.

OLD FLOKS CHOIR ADD JOY TO TRIP

Singers Provided Well Known Songs To Delight the Silver Greys At Tooele.

On the trip of the old folks to Tooele last Wednesday, no feature of the entertainment provided was more thoroughly enjoyed than the music throughout the journey given by the organization known as the Old Folks' choir. For more than 20 years the choir has accompanied the old people on their excursions. The idea of the organization was first conceived by the late C. R. Savage, and with the late Prof. Bressley and Prof. George Careless, and others of the old-time organization, the music of the choir has been one of the chief attractions of the pilgrimages made.

This year the choir is under the leadership of Thomas Butler, who has belonged to the organization for 20 years, and for the last four years has occupied the position of conductor. The music produced on the recent excursion included such pieces as "The Happy farmer;" "Continental Railroad Chorus;" "Alpine Herdsman's Song;" "Nearer Home;" "Whispering Hope;" "Song of Triumph;" "Hail Smiling Morn;" "The Joy and the Song," and "Hearts and Homes."

The choir sang a piece as the train stood ready to pull out at the Union station, and on the train the choir walked through the coaches cheering the hearts of the old people with joyful music. At the speakers' stand at the Tooele grove the choir rendered several selections, also at the smelter sites, and on the return trip home.

The singers taking part on the recent excursion were as follows: Conductor, Thomas Butler. Sopranos—Mrs. C. V. Anderson, Mrs. Kimball, Mrs. Lulu Levey, Mabel Cooper and Edna Evans. Miss Evans is also organist for the choir. Contraltos—Kate McAllister, Aura Rogers, Mrs. Ridges and Mrs. Butler. Tenors—E. H. Pierce, Alfred Peterson, William Lester and W. J. Bailey. Basos—Andrew Peterson, Bishop Maxwell of the Twenty-seventh ward, Fred Beesley, L. C. Duncan and Mr. Bocker.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mrs. Ashby D. Cleveland was guest bridge tea, given in honor of Mrs. Parker of St. Paul and Mrs. George W. Heintze, the rooms being decorated throughout in yellow with coreopsis, tiger lilies and Shasta daises. About 75 were present and assisting during the afternoon were Mrs. W. H. Alexander, the mother of the hostess; Mrs. W. H. Cunningham, Mrs. L. L. Terry, Mrs. W. L. Fox, Mrs. R. J. Glendenning and Mrs. Lester D. Freed.

Mrs. Joseph Howells entertained about 25 friends at a delightful afternoon affair yesterday.

BUTTE OFFICERS GET LAYTON BANK ROBBER

Willard Thompson, Thought to be Accomplice of William Bringhurst, Held in Montana City.

Willard Thompson, the alleged accomplice of William Bringhurst in numerous robberies and holdups, including the Cliff house gaming room holdup and the attempt to rob the Layton bank, was apprehended in Butte yesterday, and is held there for the Salt Lake authorities. Sheriff Jos C. Sharp left for Butte last night to secure Thompson.

The sheriff's forces have been on the trail of Thompson since the attempted bank robbery. Bringhurst was caught several weeks ago in Ogden, and pleading guilty to the charge of robbery, was sent to the state prison for a term of 12 years. Thompson had been with Bringhurst in Ogden the day before the latter's capture, but managed to elude the officers.

While Deputy Sheriff Jack Corliss was in California on the Orrin L. Beardsley case, information was received that Thompson was at Kennet, Cal. Deputy Corless started after the wanted man to find that he had left Kennet, and Thompson was tracked to Hornbrook, Cal., where the trail was lost.

It was the supposition that Thompson had gone northward and the police of the northwest were furnished with descriptive circulars of Thompson. Yesterday Thompson was picked up in Butte, and is reported to have made a partial confession to Chief of Police Quinn, admitting his complicity in the Salt Lake robberies.

Sheriff Sharp is expected to return Sunday night with his prisoner.

GIRL'S ROMANCE LEADS TO JAIL

Erma Johnson, Formerly of This City, Gives Bogus Name and Odd Story to Police.

Ending her romance in a cell in the Portland city jail, Erma Johnson, 18 years of age, formerly of 808 Jefferson street this city, who gave her name to the Portland police as Orma Jorgensen, was arrested there this morning, presumably upon the request of her parents, though details of her detention were not given in the brief message sent to this city today telling of the girl's plight.

About two months ago Miss Jorgensen, who was employed up to that time as a seamstress at Cutler Brothers, left the city with Andrew Morphis, a Greek who operated a coffee house at 523 west Second South street. The mother of the girl was aware of her departure, for the man called at the family home and helped her to remove her baggage, which consisted of a suit case. One day later the mother and several sisters and brothers left the city, going to Nevada, where the father was an ore contractor. The only relatives remaining in this city are Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Smith, according to the girl's story to the Portland police. Neighbors say that when the family left they left behind them a trail of unpaid bills and that ever since the neighbors have been importuned by divers and sundry collectors to shed some light on the whereabouts of the family. The girl told the police that she was an heiress and that she eloped with the Greek, both of which tales are discredited by their former neighbors.

OBITUARY.

Parowan, Iron Co., Utah, June 20.—In the death of Jenkin A. Evans, which occurred suddenly on June 6, Parowan loses one of its most esteemed pioneer citizens. He had suffered many years from asthma, which brought on heart trouble, and he died without warning just after viewing his beautiful flower garden. The funeral was held on the 8th and was very largely attended, all places of business being closed during the services. The speakers were Elders William C. Mitchell, George Fowler, Charles Adams, Mr. Horsley of Paragoonah, John Stevens, ex-Bishop Morgan Richards, Bishop Walter C. Mitchell and L. N. Marsden. All bore testimony of the beautiful character, untarnished name and honesty of purpose of the deceased, whom most had known for more than 50 years. Beautiful selections were rendered by the ward choir.

Mr. Evans was born in Wales, Sept. 30, 1832, and came to Utah in 1856, with his brother and widowed mother, his father dying at Green river. They settled in Parowan the same year, where deceased spent the remainder of his life. He leaves a wife, four sons, Jenkin Evans of Sugar City, Idaho, and William A. Evans, Veltis Evans, and John Arthur Evans of Parowan, also four daughters, Mrs. John Zabriskie, Mrs. Harry Chipman and Mrs. Albert Warren, all of Salt Lake City, and Mrs. Cecilia S. Page of Parowan. Three sisters also survive, Mrs. Elizabeth Hollingshead, Mrs. Mary Ann Baker of Minersville, and Mrs. Jane Barton of Paragoonah. There are also a large number of grandchildren.

The Salt Lake Glass & Paint Company

IN THEIR NEW HOME ON EAST FIRST SOUTH STREET

INTERIOR AND EXTERIOR OF SALT LAKE'S BIG PAINT AND GLASS CONCERN.

The Salt Lake Paint & Glass Company, who 2 years ago, succeeded Morrison, Merrill in the glass and paint department, soon found their growth so rapid that they were obliged to seek larger and more commodious quarters; accordingly they erected their own building at 23-31 East First So., where a most inviting institution now opens its doors to the public, Monday morning, June 27th. Mr. Harry Shepherd is general manager, and through his years of experience in this line has succeeded in bringing this concern prominently to the front. They are engaged in both wholesale and retail, covering Utah, Idaho and Wyoming, the traveling salesman being Mr. Leo Woodruff. The above illustration shows the present interior with its offices in the rear, and the inviting exterior. Already the three floors of the building are well stocked with full lines of glass, paints, oils, varnishes, brushes and supplies for painters and paper hangers. They are the exclusive agents for Pratt & Lambert's celebrated varnishes, Keystona, the original flat wall finish; also McPhie & McGinnity's prepared paints, as well as the celebrated wall finish "Muresco." In connection with the store the big warehouse is used at Third West and Second North, in order to popularize further their store and to acquaint people with their new location. Monday next will be observed as opening day. From 8 a. m. til 6 p. m., a general invitation is extended, punch to be served throughout the day. Beginning 8 p. m. a smoker will be given for contracting builders and painters. Salt Lake recognizes the thrift and enterprise of the Salt Lake Glass & Paint Company.

PIOCHE NOW IN TOUCH WITH OUTSIDE WORLD

First Train Since January Steams Into Nevada Mining Camp This Morning.

(Special to The News.)

Pioche, Nev., June 25.—The first train that has entered Pioche since Jan. 1, arrived here at 10 o'clock today and the regular service will be established tomorrow.

Next Monday has been designated a holiday with a big celebration and excursions will be run from Caliente and intermediate points.

There is great rejoicing here over the restoration of the Pioche branch, and several mines idle since the first of the year will resume operations next week.

PRIZE FIGHT SPECIAL.

The Short Line will run a special to the prize fight at Reno, leaving this city at 1:15 p.m. Sunday, July 3, arriving at Reno at 6:30 a.m. The special is to arrive here on the return July 5.

WIRELESS ON UNION PACIFIC.

The Union Pacific will equip its stations at Cheyenne and Sidney with a wireless telegraph apparatus. These stations are 103 miles apart.

CAR ACCOUNTANTS ARE GUESTS.

One hundred and sixty railroad car accountants with their wives are in the city from the Colorado Springs convention on a special trip, and are being shown the town. This includes the noon organ recital at the tabernacle and a trip to Saltair. They leave for the east Sunday afternoon.

TRACK MEN WANTED.

There is a great scarcity of track laborers on the Short Line, owing to desertions of Japs for the beet fields and higher wages. Some 1,200 men are needed by the Short Line.

MUCH COAL IN STORAGE.

The Denver & Rio Grande has over 100,000 tons of coal stored at points between Ogden and Grand Junction, the pile in the Salt Lake yards amounting to 30,000 tons. This is five times the amount on hand at this time last year. The Utah Fuel also has 20,000 tons on hand for summer storage, and local dealers are following this example.

SALT LAKE TOURING PARTY MAKES GOOD TIME

Montello, Nev., June 24.—The Pierce Arrow automobile party traveling overland from Salt Lake to 'Frisco, arrived here tonight showing a speedometer register for the day of 141 miles. They report roads in fair condition and that up to date no car trouble of any kind has bothered them. Many automobiles from eastern cities are seen along the road, going to Reno for the big fight. Tomorrow the party intends to reach Eureka, Nev., a distance of 220 miles and expects some of the worst roads on the trip. Reports here are to the effect that other cars had all kinds of trouble over the rough roads. The members of the party are: S. A. Whitney, Jack Groesbeck, Frank Botterill, Henry Newell, wife and chauffeur, Will Pyper and Lawrence Green.
