BANKERS INCLINE TOWARD PESSIMISM

Situation in the East Somewhat Quieter, With Little Change Here.

CROP REPORTS STIMULATIVE

Bradstreet's Shows Banks Increased Loans and Discounts 8.7 Per Cent, Deposits 8.8 Per Cent.

Local bankers say the financial situation shows no change this week, except that in the east matters are a little quieter, with prospects of their remaining so for some time to come. Financial men are not regarding the immediate future with as much hopefulness as some time ago. Many leading railroads are curtailing expenses, and making no more investments than are necessary, which in turn lowers the demand for railroad supplies, notably steel; this producing a reaction in many industries. Nearly all railroads report material increase in cost of operation.

As to the situation locally, banking men claim things are no better, and to the extent of the increasing number of men out of employment, they are that much the worse. Fine weather has acted as a stimulant to some activities in certain lines, and uniformly good reports of fair crops are an occasion for the farmers, at least, to rejoice. But local indications are not as active as could be desired.

THE BANKS AT LARGE.

In its last issue, Bradstreet's says of the banks, the country over:

It will be seen that a comparison between the position of all the banks, 23,093 in number, on April 28, 1909, and June 30, 1910, develops the fact that their loans and discounts, amounting to $12,365,000,000, increased to the extent of 8.7 per cent, and that individual deposits had been swollen by the enormous sum of $1,247,900,000, or 8.8 per cent, while on the other hand the cash decreased $31,200,000, or 2 per cent, the total cash holdings in June last having amounted to $1,879,900,000. In respect to the expansion in loans and deposits the report now presented is in close agreement with the statement of the national banks alone for the periods covered by the comparison, and reflect the same tendency in connection with an accompanying reduction of cash holdings.

Turning to the returns relative to state banks and bankers at the periods under consideration, it is seen that the loans and discounts, amounting to $6,934,800,000 on June 30 last, had increased from those of the spring of 1909 by $549,300,000, or 8.6 per cent, thus keeping pace with the national banks. The same was the case with their individual deposits, which increased 8.5 per cent, but, differing from the national banks, there is an increase of 6.5 per cent in their cash

SKIN DISEASES

HUMORS IN THE BLOOD

Nature has made ample provision in the moisture and sunshine of the air for the outward protection and healthy condition of the skin. But the more important work of nourishing the cuticle has been left to an inward source—the blood. It is from the circulation that the pores and glands receive their stimulus, and the fibrous tissues are all preserved in a healthful state because of constant nutriment supplied by the blood. It is only when the circulation becomes infected with humors or acids that we are troubled with skin affections. The humors producing these troubles are carried through the circulation direct to the skin, and their irritating or inflammatory effect remains until the blood is cleansed. S. S. S. cures Skin Diseases, because it is the greatest of all blood purifiers. It goes into the circulation and REMOVES the acids and humors which are causing the trouble, builds up the weak, acrid blood, and completely cures Eczema, Acne, Tetter, Salt Rheum, pimples, rashes, and all eruptions of the skin. When S. S. S. has driven out the humors every symptom passes away, the skin is again nourished with cooling, healthful blood, natural evaporation is renewed, and the skin becomes soft and smooth. HARDWARE.

The hardware trade reports this month's sales lighter than should have been expected, though local houses are receiving more orders than the average, but smaller in the aggregate as to actual quantity of goods ordered. Dealers about the country appear to be buying from the jobbers more closely, resorting to filling in and not maintaining such large stocks. As it is getting along toward the close of the year, dealers are regulating their business so as to have as small stocks on hand as possible by Jan. 1, when inventory time begins. Collections are reported improving, with money easier. The stove market and miscellaneous buying are active at present, as are also staples. Harness and saddlery are reported quiet, as the fall rush for this class of goods is over, and general wants are supplied. The heavy machinery part of the trade continues to improve, mostly in the line of concentrating equipment, while the general demand for supplies is maintained.

LUMBER UNCHANGED.

The lumber trade reports conditions practically unchanged from the previous week; and that as long as this fine open weather continues there will be something doing. The wholesalers are reducing their stocks as much as trade conditions will admit, prior to taking stock inventory Jan. 1. The cement trade continues unchanged also, the demand continuing as long as the present fine stress of weather continues. The car shortage on the O. S. L. is reported as much improved, as the congestion has been cleaned up, and lumber shipments are moving more freely.

WHOLESALE DRY GOODS.

The wholesale dry goods trade reports local conditions somewhat slow, owing to the time of year. Many buyers are east, looking after spring ordering. Light spring shipments are being sent out to some extent, such call as there is being for staples and seasonables generally. Jobbers report for the general dry goods market that buyers are acting cautiously, as values are regarded as too high for profitable distribution, and with all the mills running, stocks may accumulate. Then the financial situation occasions conservatism, though many encouraging features are noted. One large house whose distribution of staple domestics is not less than $7,000,000 annually, did not buy half a million's worth in the last two weeks of October. Collections are reported as only fair, with constant reports of shrinkage in net profits at eastern retail centers. Staple printed goods have been selling better of late, with printed crepes, foulards and batistes ordered once more by wholesalers and jobbers who have made good advance sales. Ginghams continue popular, with a shortage in staples possible, and heavy colored lines are fairly well sold for the balance of the year. Duck, awning stripes and other coarse goods are not in the demand hoped for. The blanket demand is excellent with cooler weather which aids the distribution of all napped fabrics. Quilts, too, have been selling steadily. As the holidays approach there is a larger demand for fancy toweling and fancy woven articles for decorative purposes.

Linens are very high, though better qualities of domestic damasks are being bought fairly well. Fancy cotton neckwear of all kinds has been in active demand in the specialties line. Fancy weaves have the call, with trend toward sheer weaves in jaquards; Swisses and embroideries are also popular.

ADVANCE IN JUTE.

There is quite a variety in knit goods, many new effects in which are likely to become staple. Underwear lines for 1911 show a 10 per cent advance in prices. In hosiery, cotton lines are not so good, but black lisle goods are selling well. Stapes are quiet. There has been an excitement in the burlap market, with a sharp advance in jute due to final government estimate on the crop. Stocks are small and hard to replenish. Silks seem to be increasing in favor, so that retailers are finding early supplies inadequate for the fall and winter demand. Dress satins and voiles are in good request, with raw material advancing further. Opera cloaks of satin are very elaborate this season in blacks, whites and creams. The satin scarf is also much in evidence, made up of silk or velvet, and trimmed with fur or feathers; also hats from the finer grades of satin. The separate waist of satin, covered with silk voile, crepe and chiffon is steadily gaining favor, and will be a feature this winter.

WEATHER AFFECTS TRADE.

The retail dry goods trade reports that this unseasonable fair weather is holding back business immensely, restricting general purchasing, though in some few lines there seems to be quite a little activity. At this time of the year, the weather ought to be biting cold, which would bring hundreds of shoppers into the retail stores, and Christmas purchasing would be opening up. But as long as the clerk of the weather keeps repeating with the poet, "Come, gentle spring, ethereal mildness come," local dry goods managers must be content to see their clerks "enjoying a much needed rest." However, there is quite a little call for furs and fur-trimmed goods, which promise to be "all the go" this winter. The millinery departments are figuring on spring styles, and doing only a restricted trade in goods to be worn at present. The big cartwheel hat is fast disappearing, and the turban is now supplanting it.

BUSINESS NOTES

The greater part of the tax payments is now out of the way, and while the bank deposits have shown the customary shrinkage that always follows tax periods, money is somewhat easier than it has been. Still, loans are difficult to obtain for any new enterprises most of the banks only taking care of customers' needs. The sugar factories begin to close down after Dec. 1. They will make one more payment to the farmers for November delivery of beets, on Dec. 15, but this payment will be much less than the November payment, probably not exceeding $500,000. All this money, however, has gone and will go into local channels of trade, and should do much to ease the money conditions.

CALL FOR CONVENTION.

Annual Session of National Woolgrowers to be Held at Portland.

The official call for the annual convention in January of the National Woolgrowers' convention at Portland, was received in this city Friday evening. In summarizing the sheep situation, the call says:

"The season of 1910, now drawing to a close, has been a trying one for those engaged in sheep breeding and feeding, wool and mohair growing, and at no time since the close of the Wilson free wool period and the enactment of the Dingley tariff, has the industry been menaced as at present. For several years prior to the revision of the tariff during the summer of 1909 the free traders, muckrakers and others hostile to the sheep and wool industry kept up a continuous agitation for free wool, but the growers were victorious in maintaining in the Payne-Aldrich law all of the wool duties of the Dingley act, except one relating to tops, in which a slight reduction was made. But the muckrakers renewed their attacks, and by publishing numerous articles in leading magazines and other periodicals, in which the tariff on wool and its effect upon the price of clothing to the consumer has been grossly and maliciously misrepresented, they have incited a strong suspicion in the public mind regarding not only the wool tariff but the industry as a whole. Indeed, the hue and cry for another downward revision is directed mainly against schedule K, the wool and woolen schedule. One of our leading political parties, and, we regret to say, the 'insurgent' members of the other party, were most insistent during the last revision that the wool schedules be lowered, and since the free trade party will control the lower house of Congress, the attacks upon the wool schedule are to be renewed with increased vigor, and probably at the present session. Those interests demanding free raw wool, or at least a reduction in present duties, are strongly organized, and insistent in their demands.

"It behooves the members of the National Wool Growers' association and all others engaged in the industry, or whose business depends upon the successful conduct of sheep and wool growing, to be up and doing, for our interests are in immediate peril. The time has come when greater effort must must be put forth and more united action had to stave off disaster. Every sheep raiser and wool grower who can spare the time from his business should attend this Portland convention and there assist in formulating plans to protect his indiyidual interests and the welfare of the industry as a whole.

"There are many other subjects of vital importance affecting the growers, and all will be discussed at this meeting and plans formed for the future. Among the more important are the marketing of sheep, wool and mohair, and while your association has established a successful independent selling and handling company, there remains much to be done. Officers in charge of the central market and wool warehouse movement will explain the plan and discuss with the growers its future growth and development.

"The rates on wool, long regarded as unwarranted, have become burdensome, against which the association has for years protested.

"In addition to these matters are the grazing of sheep in the national forests and charge for this privilege; conservation, use of the public range, improvement in breeding, etc., to come before the convention. The discussion of these many important topics will be led by government officials, leading wool growers and noted public speakers, among those already invited being the Hon. Richard A. Ballinger, secretary of the interior; Hon. James Wilson, secretary of agriculture; Prof. Graves, chief forester, and many others."

SAVES AN IOWA MAN'S LIFE.

The very grave seemed to yawn before Robert Madsen, of West Burlington, Iowa, when, after seven weeks in the hospital, four of the best physicians gave him up. Then was shown the marvelous curative power of Electric Bitters. For, after eight months of frightful suffering from liver trouble and yellow jaundice, getting no help fom other remedies or doctors, five bottles of this matchless medicine completely cured him. Its positively guaranteed for Stomach, Liver or Kidney troubles and never disappoints. Only 50c. at Z. C. M. I., 112-114 Main St., Salt Lake City.

STORIES OF SUCCESS

Samuel Sloan

Samuel Sloan was a Scotch-Irish boy who saved his money and kept one eye open for investments. This in its kernel is the success story of the fourteen-year-old boy whose thrift and energy climbed every rung in the ladder of success from a clerkship in an importing house to the presidency of the Delaware & Lackawanna Railroad.

From the first step in his career he turned his whole attention to business, and the experience gave him an acquaintance with money and the way of letting a dollar earn a dollar.

Said this great financier: "No matter how small my salary was, I saved some of it and deposited it in the bank to earn a dividend."

If you would win success in life, patronize the savings bank.

No matter how prosperous you may be now, the day is sure to come when ready money will be a necessity.

A savings account started with this bank now is a friend in need that will never go back on you.
