BUFFALO, June 23.

Charles Carrington, murderer of Dill, and who was yesterday sentenced to be hung on the 11th of August, escaped last night with three other prisoners named Levi Givens, James Kelly and Thomas Hickey, from jail in this city.

WASHINGTON, June 23.

In the trial of a Geo. B. Hutchinson, of Canada, testified as to being present at the Convention at St. Lawrence Hall, Montreal, on the 2d or 3d of June, between Dr. Merrill, Beverly Tucker, Gen. Carroll and ex-Governor Prescott, and that Tucker said he had burned the letters up for fear the Yankee sons of bitches would steal them out of his room. These parties had been talking about the trial. Mr. Wing read an argument in defense of Arnold, contending, though Arnold had entered into a scheme for the abduction of the President, he abandoned the conspirators before the assassination was planned; therefore, having no part whatever in the murder, and not being present in the city when it was committed, he was guiltless of any crime.

Mrs. Surratt continues very sick.

The commission of Henry Van Dyke as Assistant Treasurer of New York, was signed by President Johnson this morning.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 20.

Dispatches from New Westminster, Capitol of British Columbia, says the work stringing wires of the Russian Telegraph line was communicated today in this city. A large force is employed. We will soon be in telegraphic communication with the mining camps of Carbosi and intermediate towns.

The city elections of Portland, Oregon, yesterday resulted in the complete success of the Union ticket, with scarcely any opposition.

WASHINGTON, June 23.

A special to the Boston Journal states that the South Carolina delegation very modestly ask that the Government shall redeem the Confederate bonds proper, which amount, according to their calculation, to about $2,000,000. The delegation represent about $1,000,000 worth of this trash, which is pronounced the secret of their anxiety on the subject.

AUBURN, N. Y., June 23.

The remains of the late Mrs. W. H. Seward left Washington Thursday, at 7:30 A. M., in a special train provided by the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, under charge of Assistant Superintendant Duke Hart, and arrived in this city at 6 o'clock this morning. The remains were accompanied to this city by Secretary Seward and Frances Seward, Major General Hancock, Brig. Gen. Mitchell, of General Hancock's staff, and Maj. Morris, Surgeon U. S. A., one of the surgeons who attended Secretary Seward's family. The funeral of the deceased will take place at St. Peter's Church in this city to-morrow (Saturday) at 3 o'clock, P. M. Secretary Seward's health does not seem to have been injured much by fatigue. He is remarkably well.

AN ACT to punish all armed Prowlers, Guerrillas, Brigands and Highway Robbers, and for other purposes.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Tennessee, That every man, or squad of men, who may hereafter make inroads for plunder, upon the peaceable inhabitants of this State, and by force deprive them of their property, or endeavor to deprive them, by the alarm caused by their being armed, when in fact he or they were not at the time part of any organized army, and sharing continuously in its duties, but who sometimes return to their homes, with the assumption of the semblance of peaceful pursuits, divesting him or themselves of the appearance and character of soldiers, are hereby declared guerrillas and highway robbers and brigands, and upon his or their conviction, shall suffer death by hanging.

Section 2. Be it further enacted, that scouts or single soldiers, if disguised in the dress of the country, or clothed in the uniform of either army, who shall wilfully, maliciously and forcibly take from the possession or person of the peaceful citizens of the State their property by threats of violence or the actual use of force and violence, and under the terror of arms, shall, upon conviction, suffer death by hanging.

Section 3. Be it further enacted, That all armed prowlers by whatever name they may be called, who shall wilfully, maliciously and forcibly make an attack upon any one of the peaceable citizens of this State, for the purpose of robbing him [or her,] or of stealing his [or her] property, or of killing him [or her,] shall, upon conviction, suffer death by hanging.

Section 4. Be it further enacted, That all persons who shall knowingly, willingly and voluntarily feed any such person or persons, as described in the previous sections of this Act, or furnish them information for the purpose of aiding and assisting them in their unlawful and illegal objects, shall be deemed guilty of a felony, and on conviction thereof, shall be imprisoned in the Penitentiary for a period of not less than five years, nor more than twenty-one.

Section 5. Be it further enacted, That this Act shall take effect from and after its passage.

Letter from General Stoneman.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., June 4, 1865.

Hon. E. M. Stanton, Secretary of War:

SIR: I have just seen in print the letter of Gen. Sherman to Lieut. Gen. Grant of April 28, and in which appears the following words: "Mr. Stanton, stating that my orders to Gen. Stoneman were likely to result in the escape of Jeff. Davis to Mexico or Europe, is in deep error. Stoneman was not at Salisbury, but had gone back to Statesville. Davis was beyond him; by turning towards me he was approaching Davis, and had he joined me as ordered, I would have had a mounted force, greatly needed for that and other purposes, &c." Gen. Sherman, directly and by implications, in these remarks and assertions, does me great injustice, and makes assertions without a knowledge of circumstances, and which are not borne out by facts. Gen. Thomas has assured you that I obeyed orders strictly, and I consider it a duty I owe to myself to state that I am ready to prove and show, I think, to your satisfaction—first, that had I obeyed Gen. Sherman's orders Davis would in all probability have escaped. 2. That had not Sherman's orders, proclaiming that peace had been restored from the Potomac to the Rio Grande, been received when they were, Davis would most likely have been captured by my cavalry in April, such was the disposition I had made of the command for that and other purposes. 3. That had I not afterwards, by direction, paid no attention to Gen. Sherman's orders, Davis in all human probability would have escaped to the Mississippi River unmolested. The object of General Sherman when he wrote the letter was evidently to throw the responsibility of the escape of Davis upon himself, and inasmuch as his letter has been published to the world, and its poisons been imbibed by the public mind, I have to ask that this statement may be given to the public as its antidote.

GEORGE STONEMAN, Maj. Gen.

AN ELEGANT WEAPON.—There is to be seen in the room of Mr. Fletcher, the Secretary of State, an elegant specimen of the Henry rifle. It was presented to Gov. Brownlow by the manufacturers of that serviceable style of arm. It is of the usual size of that kind of gun, and of exquisite finish.—The breech and lock plates are heavily plated with gold, and chased in the most ornate and unique manner. On one side is engraved the coat of arms of the United States, encircled by the words, "With the compliments of the Manufacturers," while the reverse is ornamented by the coat of arms of Tennessee, surrounded by the words, "Wm. G. Brownlow, Governor of Tennessee." The whole piece is a proof of the high standard which the manufacturers of the United States have attained in the finish of fire arms, and reflects great credit on the works of the "New Haven Arms Company," where this beautiful rifle was made.—Nashville Press and Times.

CORRECT SPEAKING.—We would advise all young people to acquire, in early life, the habit of correct speaking and writing, and to abandon as early as possible any use of slang words and phrases. The longer you live, the more difficult the acquirement of correct language will be; and if the golden age of youth, the proper season for the acquisition of language, be passed in its abuse, the unfortunate victim if neglected, is very properly doomed to talk slang for life. Money is not necessary to procure an education. Every man has it in his power. He need merely to use the language which he reads, instead of the slang which he hears; to form his taste from the best speakers and poets in the country; to treasure up choice phrases in his memory, and habitate himself to their use, avoiding, at the same time, that pedantic precision and bombast which show the weakness of vain ambition rather than the mesh of an educated mind.

A Tower of Skulls.

Lamartine, in his "Pilgrimage to the Holy Land," writes as follows:

"When I was about a league from Nisc, the last Turkish town almost on the frontier of Servia, I saw a large tower rising up in the midst of the plain, as white as Parian marble. I took the path that led to it. I desired a Turkish lady who accompanied me to hold my horse, and I sat down under the shade of the tower to enjoy a few moments repose. No sooner was I seated, than raising my eye to the monument, I discovered that the walls, which I supposed to be built of marble, were regular rows of human skulls, which, bleached by rain and sun, and cemented by a little sand and lime, formed entirely the triumphal arch which now sheltered me from the burning sun. There must be from fifteen to twenty thousand. In some places portions of the hair are still hanging, and waved like lichen or moss with every breeze, which was then blowing fresh, penetrating the innumerable cavities of the skulls, and sounded like a mournful and plaintive sigh. These were the skulls of fifteen thousand Servians who had been put to death by the pacha in the last insurrection in Servia. Servia, however, is now free, and this monument will teach her children the value of independence, by showing them the price at which their forefathers purchased it."

HD'QRS DEPARTMENT OF THE CUMBERLAND,
Office Provost Marshal General,
Nashville, Tenn., June 20, 1865.

The war having been brought to a successful close, and there being no organized enemy in the country, it is ordered,

II. That all deserters from the late rebel army who were sent north of the Ohio river to remain during the war, be and they are hereby permitted to return to their homes.

III. That all deserters from the late rebel army who were allowed to go to their homes, but were required to report once a month to the Provost Marshal nearest their homes, hereby relieved from their obligations to report.

IV. That no military passes shall hereafter be required from citizens travelling on the railroads and rivers of this department.

Military conductors will be continued on all the railroads in the department, and will receive instructions as to their duties from this office.

By command of Maj. Gen. GEO. H. THOMAS.
J. G. PARKHURST,
Brevet Brigadier General and Provost Marshal General Department of the Cumberland.

The Waste of Blackberries.

One of our prominent secessionists, who fled from the country, and subsisted for half of the year on fruits, and especially on blackberries, is loosing a great deal of real enjoyment by being absent at this time. The article, though abundant here, has advanced in price at least two hundred per cent, which would be a great draw back on a stingy man; but then, if here, he would not have to buy for his "last little nigger," as the darkie is trading for himself.

THE conservatives of Kentucky, having declared their intention never to ratify the constitutional amendment, are losing all their negroes as a consequence. They have given an impetus to negro enlistments that entitles them to the thanks of the Government, if it is in want of negro troops; and as for the abolitionists, we suppose they don't care a tinker's condemnation whether the conservatives ratify the amendment and save the labor they need to cultivate their plantations, or refusing to ratify, lose that labor and let their plantations go to weeds. Cincinnati Commercial.
