RESULT OF THE PRIMARIES.

Delegates Who Will Sit in the Republican Convention.

GREAT INTEREST IS SHOWN

Representative List of Men, Many of Whom Are Eminent in Their Respective Professions and Avocations—Vote in Some Instances Close and Exciting, With a Number of Ties—Convention Thursday.

The Republican primaries were held last night from 6 to 9 o'clock throughout the city. The degree of interest and enthusiasm manifested was a pleasant surprise to many Republicans, who believed the party was growing apathetic. The attendance was good, and at many of the polling places the vote between the contending delegates was close and exciting, resulting in several ties, and in one instance, as will be seen below, in a tie between three men.

No loyal Republican can glance through the lists of the delegates elected from the various precincts without a feeling of gratification at the representative character of the men, many of whom stand at the very summit of the various professions, trades and avocations which go to make up the complex web of city life.

The total number of delegates to the city convention is 258, apportioned among the various wards as follows: First ward, 31; Second, 29; Third, 36; Fourth, 37; Fifth, 50; Sixth, 34; Seventh, 41; Eighth, 32; Ninth, 29. Accordingly, the number of votes necessary to an election in the convention will be 163.

The following returns from the primaries last night give almost the complete membership of the convention. That body will assemble in Armory hall day after to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock, and will proceed to place in nomination, as stated in the call, "persons to be voted for for mayor, comptroller, corporation counsel, city treasurer, nine councilmen (one from each ward), two councilmen-at-large," at the election which occurs on March 8.

LEVI G. SMITH HAS GONE.

Just Where and When, Only Friends Know.

TO TAKE A NEW START IN LIFE.

Without Awaiting the Action of the Grand Jury He Quickly Leaves for Parts Unknown—Prosecuting Attorney McElroy Says There Was No Reason Why He Should Go—No Probability of Prosecution.

The proverb says that "he laughs best who laughs last." The grand jury smiled a week or so ago at the expense of Levi G. Smith when it reported to the court that the charges of obtaining money under false pretenses against Smith had been dismissed by the prosecuting attorney by an error in judgment, and recommended that they be revived and vigorously prosecuted. Now it is Smith's turn to laugh. The members of the grand jury will appreciate the humor of the situation when they learn that the debonair Levi has determined not to wait until he is indicted by them and again placed in durance vile, and has packed his earthly possessions in a grip-sack and departed for parts unknown.

But this is what has happened. Just where Levi is only his friends know, and under the circumstances they feel a little delicacy about telling, but they will not deny that he has gone. One of Smith's lawyers was asked concerning the truth of the report last night, and although he at first pretended ignorance, he at length admitted that it was true. Smith had no call to stay longer, said the lawyer, for his shortage was settled, the charges dismissed and his bondsmen exonerated. If he chose to leave the country and start life anew where his past was unknown, no one could hinder.

"Well, he is a goose," said Prosecuting Attorney McElroy, when told the story of Smith's departure. "I'd like to know whether that's true. There was no earthly reason why he should go."

There is nothing to prevent the grand jury from indicting Smith while he is out of the state, but since the expense of bringing him back for trial, should he be unwilling to come back voluntarily, would be large, and the utility of it doubtful in the minds of most of the officials, it is not likely that the charges against Smith will ever be tried. He has been living at Kent since his release from custody and dismissal.

Owing to the illness of Special Counsel King and the absence of Special Counsel Vance, the grand jury held a session without legal advisers yesterday.

O. R. & N. CO. WITHDRAWS.

Will Not Participate in Cut Rates From Sound Points.

ANNOUNCEMENT NO SURPRISE.

One of the Queer Things Brought About by Present Rate War Is Advantage of Buying Round About Transportation in Order to Reach Intermediate Points Not Affected by Cut—A. C. P. Man Talks.

There was a small sensation created in Pioneer place yesterday morning when the Oregon Railroad & Navigation Company announced that it withdrew from a participation in the cut rates from Puget sound east, or a west-bound business to Puget sound points at the rate war schedule. The announcement did not drop down among the busy railroad offices with the effect of a bomb, as it was not unexpected, and a confirmation, by inquiry, of the telegraphic advices from Portland simply brought out the information at the O. R. & N. local offices that, beyond the instructions to return to regular schedule rates, no orders had been received. It is not doubted that the rates from Portland east will be maintained as long as the rate war is kept up, but the Oregon Railroad & Navigation Company has been heavily handicapped in its passenger traffic from the Sound, owing to the necessary payment of the Northern Pacific's $7 local. On a second-class ticket, taking Chicago as a point convenient to base an estimate upon, it left but $12.50 to be divided proportionate to the haul and regular mileage between the Oregon Railroad & Navigation Company, the Oregon Short Line and the Union Pacific.

The Portland instructions to the Seattle office of the Oregon Railroad & Navigation Company were received in Seattle at 10 o'clock yesterday morning and became immediately effective. No notification of a discontinuance of the cut rate to the Interstate commerce commission was necessary from the O. R. & N. in relation to Seattle business, as Seattle is not a terminal point of the road, but the ten-day notification of a resumption of regular schedule on the company's own line would follow unless a telegraphic cancellation arrived in Washington City prior to the receipt and filing of the announcement of a cut rate, which required three days' notice to the commission. It is said that the Oregon Railroad & Navigation Company may have decided to withdraw from the rate war and take care of its own business on regular passenger tariff schedule, allowing the Northern Pacific and Great Northern roads to carry on the war against the Canadian, which is in reality at the bottom of the present mixed-up situation.

One of the queer things brought out by the present rate war is the advantage in buying roundabout transportation in order to reach intermediate points not affected by the rates in operation. For instance, a man yesterday entered a certain railway office and inquired the rate to Denver. He was told that it was $50 first-class and $30 second-class. The possible purchaser then said that on one of the roads participating in the war he could buy to Lincoln, Neb., in Missouri river territory, from Seattle for $25 flat. This the agent admitted.

Then the man who wanted to go to Denver took out his pencil and figured that by going to Lincoln and paying his $25 he could add the Burlington local from Lincoln to Denver, $16.25, making his full fare from Seattle to Denver via Lincoln $41.25, a saving of $8.75. This trip would take him a day longer, but when time cut no figure the advantage lay in the Lincoln routing.

Another instance in the ideas that some people entertain in relation to the rate war was in the application at the Canadian Pacific offices yesterday of a passenger who wanted to go to St. Paul, but he wanted his ticket to read to Montreal and back to St. Paul, with a stop-over privilege at the Canadian metropolis. The application for a rate was declined. The cut rate has been of no advantage to holders of half-rate privileges, although there have been several applications at the different offices for an application of the privilege to the existing rates. There have also been applications for round-trip tickets at the present cut rates, but these have also been refused, even when limited to the ten days that is necessary to notify the interstate commerce commission of a raise.

E. J. Coyle, district passenger agent of the Canadian Pacific, arrived in the city Sunday night from Vancouver. Yesterday Mr. Coyle was seen at the offices of his company and was asked to throw some new light on the railroad situation. He replied that he knew nothing more than he had read in the Associated Press dispatches. He confirmed, however, the statement of the cut rates, but denied that the second cut that was charged to the Soo line had gone into effect. What might be the outcome of the rate war he was not prepared to say. He alluded to the meeting appointed to take place in Montreal yesterday between a committee of American railroad officials, appointed by Commissioner Farmer, of the trunk lines, and the officials of the Canadian Pacific, and said that new developments might follow upon the conference. Mr. Coyle said that his visit to Seattle was to look over the situation. He will not return to Vancouver until tomorrow.

The Associated Press brought the information from Chicago last night that the American roads have adopted a vigorous attitude of offense in the war on the Canadian Pacific. They have thrown that road out of the Western immigration clearing house. The effect of this action will be that the Canadian Pacific will be shut out from participation in immigrant travel arriving at New York and Boston. Acting in harmony with this action of the Western roads, the trans-Atlantic steamship lines, which are parties to the immigrant agreement with these roads, have cabled their agents in Europe and throughout the Northwest not to sell any tickets or prepaid orders calling for tickets over the Canadian Pacific. These instructions apply to all immigrant business, irrespective of where it originates or in what direction it may be, whether East or West. The Southern Pacific road is also a party to this boycott, so that the Canadian Pacific practically has left itself without friends. As a result of this action the Canadian Pacific will have to rely on traffic at Portland, Me., or Canadian ports for its immigrant business.

The Western roads have also made application at Washington to the interstate commerce commission for a suspension of the long and short haul clause of the interstate commerce act, so far as transcontinental passenger rates are concerned. This action was taken in order to save their intermediate rates in their conflict with the Canadian Pacific road over transcontinental business.

VAN DE VANTER'S BOOKS.

Expert Young Could Not Unearth Any Crookedness.

That the affairs of the sheriff's office during the incumbency of ex-Sheriff A. T. Van de Vanter were properly administered received ample proof yesterday from a report which Douglas Young, the accountant, who was employed by the county commissioners to expert Mr. Van de Vanter's accounts, filed with the board. Not only does he find that the books were correct, but he compliments Mr. Van de Vanter on account of them.

A few clerical errors were found by which Mr. Van de Vanter is indebted to the county to the extent of $43.65.

Mr. Van de Vanter yesterday handed to the county auditor a certificate of deposit on the National Bank of Commerce for this amount.

The report in full is as follows:

"To the Honorable Board of County Commissioners of King County: Pursuant to your instructions, I have examined the books of the sheriff's office under the incumbency of A. T. Van de Vanter, from January, 1896, to January, 1897.

"I have to commend the conduct of the accounts of the office; many apparent errors, when traced further were found to be of the county clerk's office.

"During the two years I find but twenty-two (22) errors, debit credit, aggregating $43.65, debit, as per statement following. They were clerical only, and such as may occur in the conduct of any office.

"Respectfully submitted,

"DOUGLAS YOUNG."

JESUITS FOR THE KLONDIKE.

Prefect J. B. Rene, of Alaska, Seeks Aid in Carrying on His Work.

Rev. J. B. René, apolostic prefect of Alaska, has sailed from New York for Paris and Rome, to obtain from the heads of the Society of Jesus, to which he belongs, at least ten more assistants for work in the Klondike.

There is now in Dawson a hospital, a schoolhouse and a church belonging to the society. They are not very pretentious, being built of logs. The hospital is two stories high and is under the charge of Father Williams Judge, of Baltimore. It has twenty-six patients, who are nursed by the miners. Six Sisters of St. Anne, who started from Montreal to act as nurses and teachers, were stranded on the lower Yukon and had to return to Koserefski. They will reach Dawson when the river opens in the spring.

Prefect Rene has at heart the establishment in the center of Alaska of an agricultural institute to teach methods of raising all kinds of vegetables, and also cattle and reindeer, and to cut and dress lumber.

New Orleans Carnival Opens.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 21.—The New Orleans carnival was opened today by Rex and his retinue. The river was covered with a brilliantly decorated flotilla, when the royal yacht appeared with the King of Mirth. The three warships in port, Austrian, French and American, were attractively decorated. The government revenue cutters participated. The procession included the military, the king's retinue, lords of the realm and citizens. Porteus appears tonight, followed by a grand society ball.

BREVITIES.

Willie Barker, aged 16; Harry Austin, aged 17, and Robert Edgar, aged 17 years, are in jail on the charge of stealing $300 worth of brass from the electric light works, corner of Pine street and Fifth avenue.

The literary and musical entertainment which was to have been given at the Y. M. C. A. this evening has been postponed.

U. G. Stark was knocked down by two men on Third avenue, opposite the Plymouth Congregational church, late last night and robbed of his watch and chain.

George Dassler was arrested late last night by Merchant Patrolman Surrey for stealing a clock from Klodt's jewelry store. Dassler was captured after a hot chase. He had the clock in his possession.

Steamship Queen, Carrying Bluecoats to Alaska.

The above picture was taken of the excursion steamship Queen as she drew away from Ocean dock last Saturday afternoon, bearing 365 passengers for Alaska. Stationed in the bow of the vessel are the soldiers of the two companies which will be stationed at Skagway to preserve law and order so long as the rush to the gold fields shall continue to make things lively at that point. On this voyage north the Queen carries altogether 700 passengers, being without question the largest passenger carrier at present on the Alaska run. Her return is looked for about March 1.
