Marvin Martin Entertains

Marvin Martin entertained thirty-five of his friends last evening with a masquerade Hallowe'en party, at his home on Madison street. Ferns, a profusion of yellow flowers, moss, jack-o'-lanterns, and the black figures of witches, cats and various other spooky forms created a perfect Hallowe'en scene.

During the evening the young people visited the witch's den, where Miss Frances Henley impersonating the witch, told their fortunes. A popcorn contest caused much merriment. Miss Jessie Points won the prize of a little black pot with a witch on the handle, filled with Hallowe'en corn-candy, as she managed to feed the other blindfolded contestants from her bowl of popcorn with the most success. A Trip to Pussyville was another contest, and the prize of a candy filled box upon which was a witch was presented to Miss Frances Henley, for having thought of the greatest number of words containing the word "cat."

The games were followed by the serving of refreshments in the dining room, the table looking very pretty with its overhangings of black and yellow crepe streamers, a large bunch of daisies in the center. The refreshments of sandwiches, doughnuts, fruit punch, candy and little individual pumpkin pies were appropriate to the season.

The guests were Misses Betty Holst, Frances Henley, Olive Johnson, Frances and Gertrude Williams, Margaret and Katherine Hedick, Vivian Bond, Helen Bruce, Lillian Andrews, Jessie Points Gertrude Towner, Harriett Cane, Josephine Hudson, Merrill Wattles, Weyms and Albert Walton, Harry McCormick, George Stelts, Alvin and Earl Waits, Walton Boyle, Warburg Steen, Weldon Henley, William Hilty, Kendrick Mattox, Walter Shelley, Tom Charles Stallings, Jim Millican, Joe Nerwich, John Berry Davis, Fred Bruce and Buster Causey.

John Smith Host.

John Smith was host last evening at a Hallowe'en dance given at the home of his parents Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith on North Second street. Spooky Hallowe'en decorations were everywhere in evidence, with the chandeliers casting a pale yellow light over the scene. From her corner, the witch beckoned to the dancers, and as they hovered around the cauldron she delved into its depths and brought forth horns and various weird sounding instruments.

During the evening punch was served, Mrs. C. H. Messmer presiding at the punch bowl. When the dancing program was completed, black and yellow brick cream, and cakes were served.

Those enjoying the evening were, Misses Evelyn Austin, Hazel Benbow, Ruth Loveland, Ophelia Curry, Clara Kephart, Marie Price, Louise Johnson, Marie Ruth Woodruff, Katherine Johnson, Fannie Points, Emma May Pacetti, and Leona Hagan, Messrs. Frank McIntosh, Douglas Austin, Edgar Austin, Miller Stockton, Adolph Dressler, Hugh Dougherty, Joe Lamon, Archie Neck, Carl Zart, Roy Hagan, and Clifford Trombley.

B. Y. P. U. Hallowe'en Party.

An attractive Hallowe'en Masquerade party was given last evening by the B. Y. P. U. of the Baptist church at the home of Rev. and Mrs. J. F. Savell.

When the guests arrived they were escorted through the unlighted house, meeting many "spooky" forms. One of them insisted upon shaking hands with each member of the party, causing many frightened utterances, because the hand proved to be a rubber glove filled with ice, making a strange sensation.

After the weird procession, Mrs. Savell rendered several vocal solos which were greatly enjoyed, and Mrs. H. O. Hamm charmingly gave an amusing recitation. Various games were then played, and a "shadow show" was very interesting to all. Punch was served throughout the evening, and a salad course, consisting of chicken salad, coffee, and wafers was served.

Mrs. Cook Entertains.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Cook entertained last evening with a Hallowe'en party at their home in Bungalow Park. The home was decorated in yellow flowers and Hallowe'en decorations. The guests were greeted by a witch who ushered them to view the remains of the proverbial black cat. Later in the evening each part of the dissected cat was passed in the dark for the guests to feel, causing many frightened shrieks.

Another feature of the evening which afforded a great deal of merriment was a trick stool, constructed with springs and rollers, causing those who attempted to sit in it to fall. Then the witch told their fortunes after giving them magic water to drink.

Hot chocolate, served from the witch's cauldron, and wafers were enjoyed at the conclusion of the evening.

Those present were: Messrs and Mesdames H. Wolfenden, H. D. Petty, J. Q. Tilghman, A. O. Pearce, J. D. Buky, Wendell Beasley, Randall Wells, M. A. Murphy, E. H. Collier, T. A. Neate, J. H. Yelverton, F. V. Owens of Satsuma Heights, R. L. Kennerly and Dr. and Mrs. V. E. Charpia.

Hallowe'en Dance.

A masquerade dance was given last evening at the Woman's Club by fifteen of the grammar school boys in celebration of Hallowe'en. Decorations appropriate to the season were used and formed an attractive setting for the disguised dancers. At the conclusion of the dance, the young people went to the Palatka Pharmacy where they enjoyed a delicious ice course.

Those chaperoning the party were Mesdames James Ray, David Benbow and Misses Caroline Meigs and Margaret Anderson.

Meeting of Junior Guild.

There will be a meeting of the Junior Guild of St. Mark's church Monday afternoon at four o'clock, and all members are urgently requested to be present.

Winston Stephens Entertains

Winston Stephens entertained thirty of his little friends last evening with a Hallowe'en party at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Stephens, on Kirby street.

The color scheme of orange and black was well carried out with cats, pumpkins, witches and other forms suggestive of Hallowe'en season, also jack-o'-lanterns, which created a scene of great charm.

The children arrived at six thirty, dressed in masquerade costumes. Mrs. W. M. Overstreet, in witch's garb, told their fortunes, and many games were played.

Refreshments were served at eight thirty, and included ice cream, cake, nuts, apples and punch. Mrs. W. M. Overstreet assisted Mrs. Stephens in serving.

JACKSONVILLE EXPORTS SHOW INCREASE

All Records Broken, According to Shipping Statistics

JACKSONVILLE, No. 1.—Export business of the port of Jacksonville for the month of October exceeded all previous records for a month's period in the history of the port.

A new record was also set in the number of vessels engaged in the foreign trade, a total of eighteen vessels with a net tonnage of 37,956 cleared during the month.

The export shipments of lumber, railroad ties, naval stores, steel billets and railroad rails exceeded the record of any previous month, not only putting shipping on a pro-war basis, but with the increase expected from year to year.

TAMPA AS A SUNDAY SCHOOL CENTER

Methodists Planning to Locate Center of Conference There

TAMPA, Nov. 1.—Tampa may be the future seat of Sunday school work in the Florida Methodist Conference Dr. J. H. Therrell, field secretary and executive secretary of the Florida Wesley Bible Class Federation, was in the city recently looking for a house, and hopes to move his family here soon. The Tampa district is perhaps the most thickly populated district in the Florida Conference and has more Sunday schools than any other district in the conference. The Wesley Bible Class Federation work will be carried on from Tampa this year also.

PLANT CITY VOTES BONDS. PLANT CITY, Nov. 1.—Plant City free-holders Tuesday "came from behind" and voted, 170 to 35, to authorize issuance of $70,000 in twenty-year street-paving bonds to cover the city's proportion of the cost to improve twenty-one streets.
