Eastern Star Entertains.

Eastern Star, Palatka Chapter No. 33 O. E. S. entertained the Masons with a reception last evening at the Masonic hall, which in its decorations, was suggestive of Hallowe'en.

Old fashioned Hallowe'en games of fortune were played, and various other games. A fortune teller's booth proved very popular. Also a grab bag booth and an apple bob caused merriment. A cauldron filled with fortunes added a touch of mystery to the entertainment.

N. G. Tilghman, and Judge E. E. Haskell entertained them with humorous recitations, Judge Haskell also gave a very interesting talk about the Masonic Home and Orphanage in St. Petersburg. Louis Kalbfeld Newton gave from memory a reproduction of the Frisco Jazz Band heard in New York last summer.

N. A. Stumpe presented a fountain pen as a birthday remembrance to Judge Haskell from the Eastern Star. At the conclusion of the evening a luncheon was served, consisting of sandwiches with steamed weenies, potato salad, pickles, and coffee.

The Old Peabody Pew.

This famous story dramatized by the author will be enacted by an all star cast at The Woman's Club Friday Nov. 7th.

The story is fiction woven from the scenes and occurrences around the Episcopal church at Dunton Corners, Maine. The players belong to the old village and the Dorcas Society is a reality—composed of those who actually worked fifteen years at this old village for the betterment of the community and the inhabitants.

Mrs. Byrnes at Sanford.

Mrs. Frances Byrnes well known in and around Palatka has resigned her position in the schools of Savannah, Ga., to accept a like position in the city schools of Sanford, Florida. This position she accepted that she might be with her daughter Edna, who contracted to teach one of the fifth grades in the same city. Mrs. Byrnes was also offered the principalship of the Orange City school work at a salary of ninety-dollars a month, but for the same reason mentioned, accepted her present position at Sanford.

MOST FRAGRANT OF FLOWERS

Baltimore Admirer Declares the Breath of the Lilac Stands Unmatched for Sweetness.

When the lilacs breathe, odors of Arabia become fetid and astringent in comparison. When the lilacs breathe, their odorous breath carries the fragrance of the distillation of a generation of life and love that they have gathered to themselves, where they have bloomed by the garden wall or against the porch pillar. The old home—wonderful in the vividness of its memories and associations—is created by the pleasuring of beauty and tenderness that the fragrance of the blossoming lilacs brings to the mind. One sees the path through the garden winding down to the clump of lilacs. The faces of other days are framed in the pictures that fancy creates through the magic of the lilacs.

The panicles of bloom are in full flower and the blooms will be hailed with joy by the multitudes who have in their feelings the sentiments to which lilacs appeal. They are a meditative and reflective kind of flower. They come so quietly in the spring. They bloom forth so abundantly and magnificently. They sing their concert to the airs of April and cause the four winds of the heavens to become their survivors to the joy of mankind.

The lilacs are the softest and most persuasive of all tints, those of lavender and purple, with some of driven whiteness. How wonderful their beauty, the assembling of the blossoms and their disposition upon the branch! How full of art! How exquisitely Dresden is the lilac as it swings in the breeze! And every lilac bush is a product of years of growth, and that growth goes on perennially until one and another generation is laid beneath the sod, and the lilac has been entrusted with the cherished memories of youth and maturity and age—passed out of life.—Baltimore American.

WRECK DESTROYS BIG FILM FOR THE ARCADE

ANOTHER BEING RUSHED HERE FOR FRIDAY'S SHOW.

Hundreds of People Disappointed By Failure of Celebrated Show to Arrive in Time.

Hundreds of people were disappointed yesterday when the big feature film "The Woman Thou Gavest Me," which was to be shown at The Arcade, failed to arrive. Telegraphic communication with the exchange at Atlanta elicited the information that the film was destroyed in a wreck and that another print was being rushed here by special delivery. This print will arrive today and be held for showing Friday. It will be presented continuously Friday from 3:30 in the afternoon to 11 o'clock at night.

Perhaps the greatest disappointed was suffered by the management of the Arcade as this was the first of the series of big pictures which have been booked for showing during the next few weeks. Included in these bookings are Mrs. Vernon Castle in "The Firing Line," from Robert W. Chambers famous story, Katherin Calvert in "The Carrer of Katherin Bush," by Elinor Glynn, Major Robert Warwick in "Secret Service," the play in which William Gillett made his stage career, "Fires of Faith," in which Commander Evangelin Booth is featured, Cecil B. DeMille's new version of "The Squaw Man," and "Dont Change Your Husband," "White Heather," "Little Women" and many others.

Features of the World.

This list, as it will be seen, includes the leading feature photo-plays of the world, the same that are featured in all of the large cities. In addition to this special Paramount-Artcraft productions of "The Miracle Man," Houdini in "The Grim Game," Marguerite Clark in "Luck in Pawn," Elsie Ferguson in "The Witness for the Defense," Douglas Fairbanks in "Arizona" and "He Comes Up Smiling," and Wallace Reid in six of his best and latest productions.

But to make it even stronger the Arcade has also booked all of the Mack Sennett comedies, as well as Fatty Arbuckle, making up programs for the winter movie season that cannot be excelled anywhere. And, the Arcade is the only picture house in Florida presenting exclusively Paramount-Artcraft pictures. Always a good show, whether you know the star or the play or not.

HOW "OLD ORDER CHANGETH"

British Miner No Longer the Grimy Individual He Has Been So Frequently Pictured.

A new type of miner is being evolved at Atherton, Lancashire, through the growing popularity of the baths at Messrs. Fletcher, Burrows and company's collieries. At first only 10 per cent of the men used them; now the figure is 50 per cent. The miner now goes to work in tweeds and brown boots instead of his oldest clothes and clogs. He no longer be-smirches the seats of tramways and railway carriages with the grime of his calling. Nor does he drive his wife to despair with the amount of work he brings into the house each day. He goes home spruce and well groomed, with no signs of the weariness so characteristic of the men "coming up."

"All the young men use the baths," said the keeper of the bathhouse. "Some of the older men don't."

"They are learning sense," volunteered an old miner. "And I wonder the women didn't teach it to some of them a bit sooner."

"Convenience!" His eyes twinkled. "Why, man, if I wanted to jazz I could bring my dress clothes here and be ready for the ball twenty minutes after I got out of the cage. No, I'm not going to start jazzing—not at my time of life. But I might be going to a directors' banquet one of these days. You never know in these times." Fifteen minutes suffice for a miner's bath. Men in a hurry take a little less, dandles a little more. They find their own soap and towels.—London Times

All About Eggs. In a hen's egg only one-fifth of the substance is nutritious. One-ninth is refuse, and the greater portion, about two-thirds, is water.

Judged by the amount of nutriment, a goose's egg is the most valuable; next in order are duck's, guinea fowl's, hen's, turkey's.

Eggs contain a large quantity of sulphur, which is purifying to the blood and good for the complexion.

To get the best egg you must feed your fowl on grain.

And to cook it in the most digestible way you must not boil the water. Heat the water to 180 degrees and leave the egg in it for ten minutes. You will then digest every morsel. But if you boil it for three minutes no less than one-twelfth of it will fail to be digested.—Short Stories.

Gasoline to Be Mined.

The latest estimates of the United States geological survey show that if gasoline continues to be used up at the present rate, all the petroleum fields now in use will be exhausted before 1950. Where, then, will the future supply of gasoline come from? Billions of dollars are involved in the question. The probable answer is that "mined" gasoline will be used.

Colorado, Utah and other Western and middle Western states contain extensive oil-bearing deposits of bituminous shale. Crude oil can be extracted from them and this can be distilled further to obtain gasoline.

It is estimated that enough gasoline could be produced in this way to equal many times the amount obtained from all present-day fields.

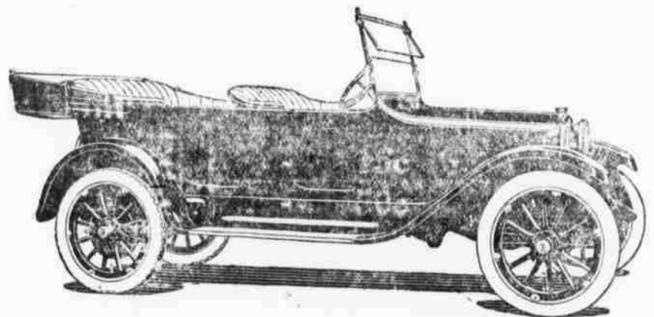

A Muddled Moujik.

Mr. Tower, former American ambassador to Russia, told this story of a typical moujik entering a railroad station and inquiring when a certain train would leave. He received the information and departed.

A little later, however, he was back again, asking the same question.

"Why," exclaimed the agent, "I told you that only a minute ago."

"You did truly," the moujik answered, "but it isn't myself that wants to know this time, it's my mate outside."—Boston Transcript.
