COTTON LIST TAKES ERRATIC COURSE

After Early Advance Reacts on Local Liquidation and Southern Hedging.

The cotton market pursued yesterday an erratic course in its moderately active session, and after it had advanced about 10 to 40 points during the opening call, reacted rather sharply on local liquidation and Southern hedge offerings. The selling carried the list below Tuesday's closing bids in most cases, although near months were relatively steady during most of the day. The market continued in large part a trading and evening up one, due to the proximity of the Government's cotton condition report. Traders here are not looking for any wide fluctuations until the day of that report.

A private concern placed the condition of the crop at 41.3 of normal, with a probable yield of 6,361,000 bales. Another house made the condition 43.5 per cent. and the probable yield as 6,736,000 bales. Neither report had much influence on the market. The local opening was firm, with a gain of 17 to 34 points net and Liverpool and local support. Liverpool cables were about as expected. The weather map was regarded as generally favorable.

The Government's weekly weather report was as bullish as expected. It mentioned the spread of the boll weevil and stated that no top crop could be expected in any State. Trade interests were among the early buyers, but despite their support the list eased off gradually after the opening. For the most part the market displayed steadiness and a slight gain.

It was estimated that about thirty notices were issued yesterday, but they were promptly stopped. A feature of the late trading was the rapidly nuctuating action of the October delivery. Much of the business in the last half hour consisted of switching by spot interests, which sold near options and bought distant ones. Final bids were 23 points lower to 4 higher. The local spot market was unchanged at 21.55 cents.

WEEKLY WEATHER REPORT.

A generally unfavorable report for the week ended on Tuesday, was issued yesterday by the United States Department of Agriculture. Further deterioration in corn by moulding, sprouting and rotting was reported in Iowa. "Cribbed corn," the report said, "was unfavorably affected by higher temperatures. There was some heavy damage in central Missouri. It was too wet for corn in shock in all parts of Illinois, Indiana and Minnesota.

Conditions in the Cotton Belt were also unfavorable for the best progress of the cotton crop, the report said, and continued as follows:

"Unseasonably warm weather prevailed throughout the Cotton Belt with extensive rains in the northern portions, but only light local showers in the southern. Little or no improvement in the condition of the crop was reported from any section."
