Many Eldorado people were in the city yesterday.

The Little river is swarming with boating parties these evenings.

John Harris will soon begin his new residence on Seneca street, West Wichita.

H. O. Lee, one of Kingman's leading legal lights made us a pleasant call yesterday.

H. L. Nesbit of the Harper Daily Graphic, who was in the city yesterday made us a pleasant call.

D. L. Snively has sold his property on South Main and will build a fine, new home on the west side.

The Knights of Pythias band has decided not to commence giving open air concerts for some weeks yet.

Attorneys R. Hatfield and W. E. Stanley went out Burton last evening to talk railroad matters to the populi.

The Queen City Cigar manufactory have removed their works from Main to the third story of the Ditman block.

F. P. Day, a merchant and business man of the capital city of Kingman county was in the city on business yesterday and called.

Perry Silkmitter was in town marketing a cheese of superior quality he is now making at his establishment in Gypsum township.

A. Brown will remove to South Main taking charge of the Grove house. J. B. Hill, of Conway, will open a restaurant at his old stand.

Policeman Clark ran in a dark red six-year-old cow last night to the City stables. The owner may find her come up missing this morning.

The ladies of the Christian church are requested to meet at 332 Waco street Wednesday at 2:30 p. m. Important.

MRS. H. G. TOLLES, President.

Mr. C. R. Miller and wife and daughter Cora are off for the Lakes yesterday morning the EAGLE wishes its old friends a pleasant trip, an enjoyable time and a safe return.

On west Douglas a team hitched to a four and feed delivery wagon took fright at the cars and ran for some distance, but were fortunately stopped before doing any damage.

Mr. Thomas H. Means, of Minneha township, one of our solid farmers, dropped in yesterday leaving a few ears of splendid white corn which is already fully matured.

Mr. H. G. Lee is off for the seashore. He says he don't believe that he ought to have with so many interests crowding upon him but his promise to visit his brother was out and so he is off.

Wells, Fargo & Company's express office has been newly fitted and arranged, making it much more convenient for the transaction of the large carrying business of which they at present have charge.

—M. W. Utz, superintendent of the Mount Carrel, Illinois, schools, returns home today. During his stay of some weeks as the guest of Prof. Fritch he has formed the most favorable opinion of Wichita and vicinity.

—D. M. Dale, Esq., has returned from his visit of several weeks to Colorado. He says he met Wichita people almost every day during his absence and every place he stopped people were inquiring of "that booming young metropolis down in Kansas called Wichita."

Commodore W. C. Woodman has put us under obligations for a loaded basket of Concord grapes, extraordinarily fine and ripe to perfection. Such kindness cannot be overlooked. The Commodore leaves in a few days for the Yellow Stone Park as the guest of Mr. King, who was in this city a few weeks ago and who owns a big ranche up in that country. Our old friend, the Commodore, will have shooting and angling to his heart's content, but expects to be at home by the time the leaves begin to fall if not before.

Mr. J. G. McCoy is in receipt of a telegram from E. B. Phillips who with his wife had arrived at the Hot Springs yesterday. Dr. Kingsley said because the cancer had been attempted to be removed with a knife that it had scattered to so more vital parts and was therefore beyond his skill or curative powers of his medicine. Persons who desire to contribute to this worthy man in his hour of affliction will please place their contributions in Mr. McCoy's hands who was appointed to take charge of the contributions by Rev. Hewett.

With the racing in Riverside, the steamboats and the innumerable row boats present a metropolitan appearance in the evening on Little river. Mr. Gay says the boating public of Wichita are remarkably well spoken of in nautical terms. The new boat which is in construction and which is to match the Atlanta, is progressing nicely. Mr. Gay will put four of Humphrey's patent ten-foot oars, the finest in the west, on her and she will skim along the river in fine style.

Our old friend, Henry Sherman, the great and successful gardner and fruit raiser, whose productions have been commonly enjoyed by this people ever since the town was a town, sent in yesterday, with his compliments, a basket full of grapes containing three varieties, all splendidly developed. The kinds were the Croton Dracut, Amber and Concord. Much obliged.

Messrs. Ladd & Nelson, the gentlemen comprising the jobbing firm from Quincy, Ill., of whom mention has before been made in these columns, called yesterday. These gentlemen, who are solid men, have leased a business room in the Aldrich & Brown block, which is to be ready by October 1st, we believe. Messrs. Ladd & Nelson are welcomed to our city.

Mr. G. W. Larimer, of the popular dry goods firm of Larimer & Stinson, will leave today for a business trip to New York city and Philadelphia, where he will remain near three weeks. His firm has introduced a novel and very convenient cash carrying system on the elevated railroad plan which works like a charm, and many are they who are heard speaking of it.

M. A. Viele, of Saratoga, New York, whose presence in this city we mentioned some time since, called yesterday, he having become one of us. Mr. V. is a solid business man, and comes to us with a well established name as an energetic citizen, and he is doubly welcome, he and his family.

Robert McKim, of the Tremont, who recently purchased the old Schnitzler place on North Emporia avenue, has improved it by clearing away bushes and trees from the yard, painting the house and fitting up the interior in the richest and finest manner. It is now a complete and desirable home.

Mrs. Robert Dunn left yesterday for her childhood's home where she expects to spend several happy weeks with old associate and associations. Mrs. D., is most deserving of a holiday and her many friends here unite in wishing her a delightful trip.

Every member of the Art Club is expected to be present at meeting Thursday at 9 o'clock a. m. If the weather remains good, meet at Orchard Bench dog cabins; if it rains, at residence of Mrs. Kramer, Topeka avenue.

ELLA G. SHIELDS, Secretary.

The offices of the Wichita and Western railroad have been moved from over Israel Bro's grocery to the Hartwig block. Mr. Hill, the genial and accommodating superintendent, will thus have more commodious quarters for the increasing business of the road.

The horse hitched to Stafford's delivery wagon became tired of standing in the sun and started off at a good gate up Second street. The crowd that started in pursuit soon captured the runaway.

Col. Bob Smith of this city has laid out a promising town on the line of the D. M & A. midway between Kingman and Norwich, the name of which is Alameda. Pretty name and they say the site is also.

Harriet A. Hoffman, daughter of Eli L. Hoffman, 727 N. Lawrence avenue, died yesterday morning at 10:30. The friends are cordially invited to attend the funeral services at the house this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The board of education held a meeting last night in the city chamber and transacted some important business. A full report is at hand, but owing to the lack of space it is impossible to print it.

Architects Terry & Dumont are drawing plans and specifications for a fine residence for Mr. A. D. Carpenter, which he will build on North Lawrence avenue, between Oak and Walnut streets. It will cost near $4,000.

STOLEN FRUIT.

Some days ago one of the proprietors of the Wichita Cracker factory repaired to an establishment in this city and bought a box of eggs. The fruit proved to be older than could easily be utilized, so he gave it an out door position and expected to have to give some fellow a job of moving the same to some point outside of the city limits. Much to his surprise he learned yesterday morning that the box and its loud contents had disappeared. Thus endeth the first chapter.

Yesterday a lad of the tough variety was heard telling a chum that he with some of the rest of the boys had had quite an undesirable experience on the previous night. He stated that one of the crowd had hooked a box of eggs at a certain place and conveyed them to a certain joint on East Douglas avenue, and sounded the alarm for all his friends to assemble on the run. They did so of course. The good news was told in an excited and over-joyful manner, and the intention was disclosed to have a big layout of eggnog. The suggestion carried overwhelmingly by acclamation. Congratulations and compliments were heaped upon the fellow who had been so thrifty as to lay violent hands upon the eggs, and all agreed that the drink would be much better as the ornamental part had been "hooked." The number of glasses partially filled by the richly colored liquid soon equaled the number of jubilant chaps present. A little later as many eggs were dumped and "here's to you, old boy," resounded over the dilapidated saw dust. It would be difficult to describe what followed. Some laughed, some cursed and wanted to fight. The fact that the central figure of the evening had made way with quite a large per cent. of his undesirable drink, partially proved to the disgusted and disappointed crowd that he had not set up a job on them. This fact the loud talker considered saved him a ride on a rail or something of that sort. He got out of the matter not by allowing them to set up the drinks, but by securing credit from the half scared and surprised barkeeper and setting up a number of glasses to his disappointed guests.

"Why did you not smell the stuff?" was the very appropriate question propounded by the lad who had been enjoying the story.

"Smell it? did you say?" was the quoting answer, hurriedly manufactured. "We did not think of that and were in such a hurry that no one could have detected anything."

A RACKET.

There was quite an excitement on Emporia avenue, in front of the Goodyear place last Sunday, caused by a colored man named Starr Ballard and a barber belonging to the shop near McAlister's produce building. Ballard is a large, stout man, while the barber, who gave his name as John Doe, is built small and slender. He was very neatly attired and looked like a French dude. Just as the reporter reached the scene "John Doe" bounded across the walk holding a dude cane in his left hand, while he planted a regular Sullivan righthander on the side of Ballard's head. Both parties seemed to be making an effort to draw some deadly weapon and some one in the crowd cried Ballard is armed. A bystander in order to stop the shedding of blood stepped between the parties and began to reason with them, when Ballard challenged his adversary to go outside of the city and fight this thing to the bitter end. The plucky little John Doe very willingly accepted the challenge, and both parties started down Emporia avenue. The crowd not desiring to witness a duel on Sunday did not follow. The reporter, however, learned that some personal friends of the parties headed them off in the south part of the city and while they did not succeed in amicably adjusting the difficulty they induced the parties to declare the fight off for the present which was better for both.

A white man who said he lived in the south part of the city, told the reporter that the innocent cause of this whole difficulty was a dashing maiden who lived down there. He said Ballard supposed he had succeeded in winning the good opinion of the lass and that in time all would be well. But he said of late Ballard had accused the ladies of sending a smile at the barber and was kicking up a rumpus about it.

A colored woman said, do you know who that man is who told you that his name was John Doe. The reporter said he supposed that he was a son of old man Doe. No sir, he said, that man would be called a colored man in old Virginia, but his name is Pollard, he belongs to the same family as the man who wrote the history of the rebellion. "The Lost Cause," they call his book. He is a bad lad too, and when you stir up the old Virginia in him he will fight. Though I think this matter can be settled without any further trouble.

BITTINGS AND THE SURVEY.

In answer to our correspondent, signing himself "In a Hurry," permit us to say that it is not a matter in which the EAGLE is called upon to express an opinion or to "scream," as the writer puts it. It is a matter not between the property holders in that immediate vicinity and the Messrs. Bittings, but between the city and these gentlemen; then let the city pay Mr. Bittings for the valuable ground, for it is very valuable. There is another reason why we do not feel like screaming for the city as against the Messrs. Bittings, and that is, they have been very enterprising citizens—not speculators on the city's prosperity, but business men, who have done much to build up a wholesale trade for this city. Even the occasion of Mrs. "In a Hurry's" letter was only brought about by the fact that this firm had torn down a $5000 building to put up something of which the city would have reason to be proud. For another thing: This is not the only trouble which must come of the attempt to arbitrarily correct the original lose survey of the town. The EAGLE said at the time the matter was attempted to be cooled up by the legislature, so as to make everybody conform to the new survey that there would. The old lines, imperfect though they were, should have stood, then nobody would have had cause to complain. As for criticism made of narrow streets, there is nothing to it. All of our streets are too wide to look well. The reason a building makes a better appearance on Main street than one of the same size and height does on Douglas avenue is because Main street is narrower, therefore less expensive to have, etc. We hope these lines will satisfy our fair correspondent, why the EAGLE hasn't done any loud screaming about the matter of which she writes in such a hurry.

WHERE HE FOUND HIS HORSE.

Mr. Wilkey is the owner of a fine black horse which he keeps in the same stable that Pat Healy does his. One night about two weeks ago Dill went to this place for his horse and the one returned he believed his, which Healey had been using for some time. The next morning he hitched him to the scraper and continued to use him until yesterday in work upon the street. Wilkey, seeing his horse, advertised far and near with the offer of a liberal reward for what he claimed was a lost, strayed or stolen horse. The animal, however, failed to materialize. Yesterday a laborer for Dill came in from the country and told him that his (Dill's) horse would balk and he could do nothing with him. Dill was much surprised at this piece of information for he thought he was himself working his own horse. An investigation was made and sure enough here were the two animals which had been worked by Dill for the last two weeks without his being aware of the fact. Wilkey who had no doubt passed the horse in the street a dozen times, came and recognizing him went home with his long sought for horse.

AN ACCIDENT.

Among the arrivals on the morning train over the Santa Fe yesterday was a woman who appeared to be suffering intensely. She was taken from the car and removed to the Richey house, where she gave here name as Miss Maggie Burdick. She said she had come to Wellington the night before from Winfield and when attempting to board the train after it had started she fell forward against a large trunk on the platform of the depot, breaking her collar bone and sustaining several other injuries. While her injuries are not necessarily serious yet they are very painful.

REMARKS FROM THE INSTITUTE

Yesterday opened with singing and reading the scripture.

The attendance was large which can be attributed to the fact that the weather was all that could be wished for and there is also an increase in the work that is being done.

In fractions there was quite a lively time, all being ready to respond, although some are disposed to be a little given to hair splitting.

In history the lives of public men of the revolutionary times were given; such men as Robert Morris, Benj. Franklin, Washington, Jefferson and others were described in a very concise manner and by a peculiar method of questioning by the instructor at large. An amount of information was given and every one can be benefitted if they will give attention to the recitation.

In physiology, the circulation of the blood was under discussion and it is the same here as it has been ever since Harvey made his discovery. That is, that people do not agree on this question, although everyone may express an opinion with the chances in his favor of being right.

The class in constitution gave the official privileges of the members of congress, freedom of speech, etc., also the power of congress to raise money by taxation duties, etc.

Direct and indirect taxation were defined as to the justice of each, some think one way and some the other. In Philosophy the class had a continuance of gravity falling bodies and gravity was discussed, equilism was defined as being stable, unstable and indefinent. The pendulum was next described and its action given. The grammar class was full there being about one hundred members present, they were struggling with the pronouns in the different forms, sentences were given and analized by the class.

The number of good grammarians in the world is large and increasing, and this institute has its share. The class in calisthenics is getting along in fine style, they can go through with as many motion as a French dancing master and if health is the object they will be healthy but if fun is what they want they will get there on time sure.

Book-keeping and reading were well conducted and I find that there is more attention given to the recitation, showing that the members begin to realize that they are here for a purpose and that something can be accomplished by close application to business. In school organization we have a continuance of the same subject and the instructor has the happy faculty of keeping an audience interested. We had a number of visitors that appeared to be interested in the work that is carried on at the institute. Our number has increased to 162 and at that rate we shall get the premium this year.

JOTTER.

BOAT HOUSE SITE SELECTED.

The Wichita boat club has determined upon the location for their boat house. They accepted the offer made by the Riverside Land Company which gives them a lot with a hundred foot river front immediately south of the Oak street bridge.

Several members of the club were heard to express themselves as highly pleased with the location, thinking it is one of the best that could have been selected. The next thing in order is the building of a boat house and that will be commenced at the earliest possible period. A general plan of the building has been talked of but nothing of a permanent nature agreed upon. An architect will soon be employed to draw up plans and specifications for the building and after this is completed and adopted the contract for building will be let on the fly.

A STRAY BRICK.

Yesterday as Mr. C. H. Hoge was walking up Main street past the brick building of Stockman & Miller, which is now in course of erection, he was hit on the right shoulder by a descending brick. It did not completely lay him out but was by no means a welcome messenger.

A gentleman who saw the affair was induced to give his mind on the subject. "Have been expecting to hear of some fellow being killed in that way all summer," he commenced. "We pass along these streets every day, and many of us never think to pay attention to what is going on above and we run a great risk of meeting with a serious accident. Of course the workmen are careful, but while they are busily engaged no one could expect them to keep a single thing from falling, and that single thing falling thirty or forty feet could as easily kill a man as not."

THE BOOM ON SOUTH MAIN.

H. B. Butler will in a short time begin the erection of a three story business block on South Main between Williams and English. The building will be one hundred feet in depth, and have an ornamental brick front of seventy-five feet in length. The first floor will have three large and desirable business rooms; the second and third will be arranged in suites and used as flats. The cost when completed will be $35,000. These three together with the other six, mention of which has already been made in the EAGLE, will make in all nine elegant business rooms for South Main. Surely this section has a boom.

HIS HONOR'S RECEPTION.

At His Honor's reception yesterday morning the two festive West Wichitains who arrived at the calaboose at a late hour the night before, just came up and paid their fines and costs amounting to $5 each and passed out to kick themselves. Then came along Dan Schidt, who appeared to have been enjoying a drunk by himself for the police did not see the fun so. Daniel waltzed along after depositing a V. Then came two of those incorrigible Doe boys—not brothers, the names were both John—who had been violating the liquor ordinance and were glad to get off with $25 and costs. Richard Roe a relative of the Does, brought up the rear and being charged with a similar offense got off in the same manner.

A LETTER FROM JOHN V. FARWELL.

The Young Men's Christian Association has been endeavoring to secure John V. Farwell Esq., of Chicago, to come to Wichita and deliver an address on the work of the association. Yesterday a letter, of which the following is a copy, was received:

CHICAGO, Aug. 8, 1886.

To A. Noble, Esq.:

Dear sir—I have yours of the 29th ult. I am to be away from home for about two months, and therefore cannot come, though I would like to see your vigorous and growing town with a Y. M. C. A. located. It would be one good guarantee of a prosperous future. Yours very truly,

J. V. FARWELL.

PRESSED BRICK BUILDING.

Mr. A. Baisley has decided to tear down his old building at the corner of Main and First streets, and replace it with a fine four-story pile of pressed brick. At first he thought to rebuild from the first story, but a second consideration of the question led him to decide that Wichita was by far too stylish for that, so he decided to come out with a full-fledged pressed brick establishment.

While the work is being done Mr. Gandolfo, the popular restaurant man, is not in a good condition to receive a heavy Kansas rain. Being asked yesterday what he would do if he was compelled to entertain such a visitor, he replied with the favorite motto, "In God we trust."

BONDS VICTORIOUS.

The vote for the Kansas Midland bonds at Valley Center resulted as follows:

	For	Against
Sedgwick precinct	17	15
Valley Center	139	26
Majority for bonds		44

RIVERSIDE MOTOR LINE.

The Riverside Land Company has applied for a charter to construct a motor line from some central point in the city to the Riverside park. It has not yet been returned but is expected every day. Nothing will be done for some weeks owing to the absence of Messrs. H. G. Lee and J. O. Davidson, but on their return measures will be immediately taken for commencing work, and the whole line will be completed as fast as possible.

Real Estate Epistle.

Mr. Ford, I understand that you have laid out a quarter section of land one mile east of Fresco Heights into five acre lots, which you design selling at low rates and on easy terms. Please drop a line to your friend, ICHABOD.

FRIEND ICHABOD:—Your understanding is correct, and if you need a small tract of rich land suitable for fruit raising and gardening, with a sixty foot street on three sides of it, located in a pleasant neighborhood, within a short distance of the business center of the finest city in Kansas, in Ford's third addition of our lots, you will find it. The price is $120 per acre, one-third cash, one-third in six months and the balance in one year at 6 per cent. Call at the county clerk's office this evening and we will talk it over. Yours very truly, 27-eod-tf E. P. FORD.
