GUILTY OF MURDER IN THE FIRST DEGREE.

Roland B. Molineux Received the Verdict of the Jury Without a Tremor.

ENCOURAGED BY HIS FATHER.

Prisoner Cheered by Crowds as He Left the Courtroom—Sentence Will Be Pronounced February 16.

New York, Feb. 10.—After deliberating seven and a half hours, the jury returned a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree against Roland B. Molineux, charged with the murder of Mrs. Katherine J. Adams by poison on December 29, 1898.

Barlow S. Weeks, counsel for the defense, made the usual motion, and Recorder Goff adjourned court until February 16, when, he said, he would hear the motion and sentence the defendant.

From the time the jury went out, at 3:15 p. m., the crowd in the courtroom watched the door through which they had left the court in silent expectancy. It was almost two hours before there was any news. The solemnity of the occasion had affected court officers and visitors alike.

The jury came in shortly after 9 o'clock to ask for exhibits of handwriting, and made at least they came in for instructions. Fifteen minutes later there was no doubt that the jury had agreed. Court officers planted for exhibits. Jerome was locked, and the gray-haired clerk of the court took his seat below the Recorder's bench. General Molineux sat straight in his chair, a queer look in his eyes and his hands folded on the table in front of him, trembling a little in spite of himself. Then there was a hush. The jurors walked to their chairs between a double file of court officers. There was no sign of cheer in any of their faces. As soon as they had taken their seats a Tenth Sheriff brought Molineux from the prison.

There was no sign of apprehension on the young man's face. His step was light and springy, and he smiled as if he had not a care in the world. Then he sat down, looked for a moment straight at the Recorder's bench and then whispered to Weeks, who was showing signs of nervousness. A moment later the Recorder entered. The names of the jury were read and the clerk said:

"Gentlemen of the jury, have you agreed upon a verdict?"

"We have," replied the foreman.

"The jurors will please rise. The defendant will rise."

General Molineux sat with his hands clasped in front of him on the table. His face never flinched as the clerk asked again:

"What is your verdict?"

Guilty of Murder.

"We find the defendant guilty of murder in the first degree."

As the words were spoken the bell in the firehouse near by struck 11 o'clock. It sounded like the tolling of a church bell for the dead. Molineux hardly moved. His neck stiffened a little and he straightened his back. General Molineux reached his hand to his son's shoulder and pressed it hard. Molineux put his own hand on his father's shoulder and stood without further movement while his counsel asked that the jury be polled. Each juryman agreed with the verdict rendered by the foreman, and then the Recorder asked if the counsel had any request to make.

"It will be necessary to make some formal motion," said Mr. Weeks.

"The time has already been extended," said the Recorder. "and we can extend it further for the purpose. I will hear the motion and sentence the prisoner on Friday next. The court is adjourned until February 16. Remove the defendant."

Molineux shook hands with his father and his brother, Leslie, and started to follow the Deputy Sheriff to the prison. As he left his seat, General Molineux said to him, in tones loud enough to be heard by all:

"Keep up your nerve!" and the prisoner replied, with a smile:

"Yes; don't be afraid."

Molineux's mother and his wife, unable to bear the strain of long waiting for the verdict, had left the courtroom soon after the jury went out.

Mr. Weeks asked on behalf of General Molineux that the latter be permitted to visit his son, and the Recorder made an exception in this case and granted permission.

Foreman Martin stated that the jury had agreed among themselves to absolutely refrain from the discussion of any of the proceedings in the jury-room.

Molineux Cheered.

A tremendous crowd walled in the corridors of the courtroom and about the building until after the return of the verdict, and when Molineux was brought out by the Deputy Sheriff somebody called for "Three cheers for Molineux!" and a remarkable demonstration, with great cheering, followed.

Many women were in the crowd and took part in the demonstration. It seemed to please Molineux, for he smiled and bowed and all the way through the great crowd that pressed around him he had occasion to smile and bow a number of times, for the cheers were repeated again and again. There were calls of "Order!" too, but the cheers for Molineux overtopped the cries.

Regarding the verdict, Assistant Attorney Osborne said:

"I am confident that the verdict will stand. From the presentation of the case as furnished us by the Police Department there could not have been any other verdict."

Barlow S. Weeks, Molineux's counsel, would say nothing about the verdict.

Harry Cornish said:

"I do not see how any twelve men could hear the evidence given and render any other verdict. I cannot say anything else about the verdict, and, furthermore, will not."

The announcement of the verdict of guilty was received in the uptown districts and about the clubs apparently with great surprise. Many of the clubmen seemed to be staggered by the announcement, and it was the main topic for discussion for the night.

It is said the trial has cost $20,000.

HENAGHAN'S WHEREABOUTS.

Letter Intimates That the Policeman May Be Found.

An anonymous letter said to have been received by Detective John Sheridan has given rise to rumors in police circles to the effect that Former Patrolman Patrick J. Henaghan, who has been missing for two months, about to be located.

One of these rumors has it that Henaghan made his appearance only from the police force in order to enter a monastery as a candidate for holy orders. Another story is to the effect that the policeman was abducted, carried off bodily, in broad daylight, and held for ransom in some den of thieves.

Chief of Police Campbell, Night Chief Picked and Chief of Detectives Desmond said last night that, as far as they knew, there was nothing in any of the rumors, and that they would know if there were. They flatly denied that any arrests had been made or were contemplated in connection with the case.

It will be remembered that Henaghan disappeared while on his way back from the funeral of the wife of Police Captain E. P. Creecy. Just where and when he left the carriage in which he and three other policemen were riding was involved in doubt, as there was a difference of opinion among the three. For some time he was looked for without success, and finally his name was dropped from the police rolls. The matter lay dormant until yesterday, when the anonymous letter was added to the mystery.

In discussing the case last night, Chief Picked said: "I don't place the slightest reliance in this talk. I don't see how a policeman could be abducted under such circumstances, and the other story is 'out air.' I have heard that on the way back from Mrs. Creecy's funeral some of Henaghan's friends found he had been drinking, and upbraided him sharply for his condition. He was an educated man, and sensitive. I believe he became so ashamed of himself that he determined to quit the force and leave the city."

Captain Creecy, who has been much interested in the case, and, it is said, still hopes to find Henaghan, said that he had no tangible clew in the case. He appeared worried over the rumors, and declined to discuss the case in detail.

BRITAIN'S STATUS IN EGYPT.

Paris Regards Revolt of Native Troops as Serious.

Copyrighted, 1900, by the Associated Press.

Paris, Feb. 10.—Great Britain's status in Egypt, as affected by the revolt of the native troops, is treated here as extremely serious. This news, which was first announced from Cairo January 31, has now become an important feature in the Parisian press, and receives full confirmation. Its importance will be realized when it is remembered that Egypt is a tinderbox, whence a spark may set into flame the Anglo-French animosity.

The hope is freely expressed in the French press that England's authority to quell the insurrection may justify the international properties of the Egyptian question, in which France could not remain a passive spectator. The repeated mutinies tend to replace the English garrison in Egypt at the present juncture by native troops is demanded by no less authority than the international agreement.

The news of conferences between Lord Currie, the British Ambassador at Rome, and Sir Edmund Monson, British Ambassador at Paris, regarding the movement, are obviously inactive, but Sir Edmund Monson's departure to the Italian Riviera was certainly, as announced in the Associated Press, due to the phase of the Egyptian Government at the bitter anti-English feeling reflected everywhere here.

Officially Sir Edmund Monson has gone South on account of his health, but it is pointed out the climate of the French Riviera is quite as good as that of the Italian Riviera, and if health were the only question the British Ambassador could have stayed in Nice or Cannes, and also have saved the five a day which he is now compelled to pay the British Charge d'Affaires, according to diplomatic regulations, during his absence from the country to which he is accredited.

AGED MOTHER WAS INJURED.

Desperate Battle in the Home of Mrs. Mary McGlynn.

Mrs. Mary McGlynn, a gray-haired mother, who has already felt the weight of 60 years, lies on a cot at the City Hospital, suffering from the effects of an assault, which, the police say, was inflicted by her two grown sons, James Theodore McGlynn and John McGlynn, who are 26 and 24 years old respectively. The sons are locked upon the Four Courts, and probably will be sent to the Police Court to-morrow.

In the frame in the McGlynn home, at No. 916 Market street, Patrolman Kohrs of the Central District, narrowly escaped being shot, and, in trying to rescue the mother from the two sons, bodiers his coat was torn into shreds by them. When he reached the City Dispensary with the prisoners he looks like a ribbon counter in a dry goods store on bargain day. The facts, as he gathered them, were that John and James McGlynn—the former a bad carter and the latter an ex-soldier—came home last night under the influence of liquor. Their mother, a widow, remonstrated, and a fight ensued. The policeman reported that while the sons were assaulting their mother, the door was open and the house resounded to the lusty lungs' screams attracted Officer Kohrs. He dragged the mother out of the house, after a battle with the sons, and was leading her through a hallway, when some one drew a revolver and fired on him. The ball passed through Kohrs's coat, just grazing his body. The report of the shot attracted Officers Bunting and Hicker, who quickly placed the brothers under arrest. At the City Dispensary the mother and sons were found to be suffering from scalp wounds and numerous bruises. Mrs. McGlynn was sent to the City Hospital, while the sons were taken to the Four Courts.

HE IS A DEMOCRAT.

Frank K. Ryan's Views on Government Ownership.

Frank K. Ryan, who was reported as present at the meeting of the Municipal Ownership League on Friday night, stated last night that he was not present at the meeting, and that he is not in sympathy with its purposes.

"I favor government ownership of public franchises," he said, "but I do not favor splitting the issue up into such things as municipal ownership, county ownership, State ownership, and the like. Not so I believe in taking the issue out of the ranks of the Democratic party. I want to get the party to take up the matter, but I do not want any Bolting. I think that the party is big enough to fulfill any reforms like that if it will take them up, but I do not believe in splitting the party into factions upon the question. I am not in sympathy with the organization that held its meeting Friday night, and cannot be counted as a supporter of it. I am with the party."

A. W. DIMOCK A BANKRUPT.

His Liabilities Are Over a Million, His Assets $150.

New York, Feb. 10.—Anthony W. Dimock, many years ago a famous stock operator, head of the firm of A. W. Dimock & Co., bankers and brokers, Wall street, filed a petition in bankruptcy today. His liabilities are set down at $1,202,736 and his assets at $150.

Mr. Dimock states that he is a broker of Deming, N. Y. He says that his liabilities were all contracted before May 15, 1893, when the firm of A. W. Dimock & Co. made an assignment to George Putnam Smith. The assignment was afterwards set aside, and the property sold under a judgment by H. A. Wheeler.

ROOSEVELT FIRM.

Is Not a Candidate for the Vice Presidency.

New York, Feb. 10.—The Press to-morrow will say:

"Roosevelt is not a candidate for the Republican nomination for the Vice Presidency. Woodruff is. Roosevelt told Senator Platt and Chairman O'Dell of the State Committee yesterday (Saturday) that he would not take the nomination. He told them, too, that he had written a letter to his friend, Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, in Washington, asserting that he was not and would not be a candidate for a place on the national ticket."

PECK'S STAFF INCREASED.

Men Who Will Assist Him at Paris Exposition.

Copyright, 1900, by the Associated Press.

Paris, Feb. 10.—The staff of Commissioner General Peck of the Paris Exposition was increased this week by the arrival of Fred J. V. Skiff, director of mines and metallurgy; Alexander S. Cochran, director of bank and printing machinery; Charles Richards Dodge, director of agriculture; Lieutenant C. C. Baker, U. S. N., and Cæsar Cosentinsky. These gentlemen, who are members of Commissioner Peck's staff, immediately assumed their duties, greatly relieving Assistant General Commissioner Wood of his manifold labors.

Call for Busch Volunteers.

The surviving members of the First Missouri Busch Volunteers will hold an important meeting at Judge Handy's courtroom, No. 262 Easton avenue, Monday evening, April 12. The object of the meeting is to make the necessary arrangements for the reception of Admiral Dewey and the celebration of "Dewey Day." It is expected that all the old members will attend, as this organization was the first to celebrate "Dewey Day," just before the declaration of war by the United States in the Spanish-American war, and made a very creditable showing at the time, having in line over 1,000 men. The Busch Volunteers were organized through the efforts of Judge Handy and Captain T. R. Rodner, and was the first volunteer regiment organized in the United States in the late war.

He Had a Raised Bill.

Richard Wolle was arrested by Sergeant Quinlivan about 11 o'clock last night at No. 718 Franklin avenue, in the confectionery store of Charles Menus, where he had bought a pound of candy and tendered in payment a one-dollar bill that had been clumsily raised to $5. Menus immediately discovered the irregularity of the bank note, and called Sergeant Quinlivan, who was passing, and who took Wolle into custody. At the station another raised bill and $78 in currency were found on the prisoner.

TURNERS DANCED IN TURKISH COSTUMES.

Annual Mask Ball of the South Side Society Was Attended by a Large Crowd.

VAUDEVILLE SHOW APPLAUDED.

It Consisted of Interesting Sketches, Acrobatic Feats and Marches—Programmes Were Attractive.

The South St. Louis Turner Society gave its thirty-first annual masquerade ball last night in the Turner Hall, on Tooth and Carondelet streets. The hall, which contains 800 rooms, was not built to hold the great number of guests who were present last night. The affair was successful from every standpoint. The hall was beautifully decorated, and the guests were costumed richly. There was an interesting vaudeville show on the stage, impromptu for the Turners themselves. At 10:30 o'clock the grand march was inaugurated and at 12 o'clock the band played the supper march.

The affair was a Turkish masquerade. All the decorations were carried out in Turkish style, and many of the costumes worn were Turkish. The colors in the decorative scheme were red and yellow. Long streamers of these colors radiated from the chandelier in the center of the hall, and two blocks of the same color stood on each side of the hall near the stage. The walls were all draped in Turkish fashion in red and yellow and outlined in their soft portiers were the six white columns, on each side of the floor that were surrounded by silver crescents. Scimitars and fezzes hung upon the walls, with great bouches of roses, on which hung fluttering butterfly-winged butterflies.

On each side of the stage there were masses of palms. The ensemble of the scene, with the bright lights and the brilliant moving parquets on the floor, was striking. Even to the doorkeepers were the Turkish decoration extended—they were clothed as guards, carried scimitars and wore black beards, and all the committees wore Turkish uniforms.

The first number of the vaudeville performance was the "Hod and Brick Carriers' Strike." With clay-besmeared boots and trousers, and clay pipes, the strikers marched on the stage, with such signs as "We want more beer" and "More pay and less work." After the procession, they resolved themselves into a meeting, and one of the strikers made a humorous speech. Finally, the tin bucket circulated rather unkindly, and the strikers began to fight and finally they rioted among themselves.

The strikers were: Messrs. William Manthe, O. Tatome, O. Hack, A. Bolin, H. Winkler, H. Spieler, S. Voigt, L. H. Becker, A. Hanstein, George Endres, O. Hampe, A. Winter, Jr., A. Zumstein, A. Kunz, H. Hendricks, W. L. Seller and Edward Else.

All of them are active Turners, between the ages of 21 and 32.

Then came the Amazons, a drill by the lady turners, who wore kilted kilts and Tyrolean hats, with helmets, and marched with accuracy. They were Misses Greta Frank, Rosa Maurer, Anna Bieck, Emma Bick, Martha Rutz, Emma Dennert, Emma Erickson, Tilie Earickson, Mamie Betz, Clara Betz, Lulu Leinkauguler, Lena Ferrer, Clara Herold, Lena Fronger, Lilie Peterson, Gertie Johannes, Mina Winter.

An exhibition of tumbling was given by the girls' class, the members of which are more than 25 years old. The club is known as the "Bears." They included Messrs. A. Hintze, Joseph Gubser, Martin Funk, John Friesel, William Hempen, William Rube, Herman Kuneman, Charles Eilhartz, August Wittkopf, Henry Tesch, George Rodiers and John Alt.

Finally there was a humorous representation of a wedding in Ireland in the year 1829. The following gentlemen participated: Messrs. Joseph Brinkmann, Julius Ehrenberg, Philip Wagner, Jr., H. Mallios, Augustus Barthels, William Ebnert, Henry Gale, Charles Galle, Henry J. Meyer, Henry H. Hofstetter, Jr., William Pfoell, William Crossent, Charles Ehrenberg, Jr.

At 10:30 o'clock the grand march was inaugurated. It was led by Wurdtbeer's Band. The Arrangement Committee, consisting of Messrs. E. C. Roesel, August Eyermann and R. A. Melschimer, arrived at 8:45. Dudes followed. Then the Entertainment Committee, Messrs. George Wittick, Jr., William Manthe, Alex Gumbel and Palmer. Then came the Floor Committee, Messrs. Oliver Papp, Sam Bohmann, Charles Johannes, Charles Thym and Oscar Erickson, as Turks in beautiful costumes, with drawn swords. Then came the Irish strikers, the clowdish bears, the amazons and the motley array of maskers.

There were, besides pierrots, soldiers, Turks, Japanese, Mephistopheles, jockeys, gypsies, Greco dudes, German tramps, a man on a hobby horse and a great number of nondescript maskers. After the march the dancing began and the programmes were distributed. They were neat cards of red and yellow, with the silver crescent on the scarlet background. Each dance was named after a Turkish custom.

Among those present were:

Messrs.—

Emil Voigt, J. H. Meyer,
Doctor Hugo Kinner, G. A. Mingos,
A. Rheidlander, William Martin,
C. H. Heuer, A. G. Minges,
L. H. Becker, John Leichinger,
Arthur Kunz, J. Zoeggeler,
Ed Roeliger, A. Roth,
Charles Galle, Jr., Emil Pfoerer,
M. Langsdorf, Oliver Papp,
Henry Roll, Henry Galle,
Leo S. Bressler, W. Ehnert,
Bruno Rassbur, W. Burkhardt,
Hans Hassfurther, Ed Schellenberg, Jr.,
William Crossant, Ed Tritschler,
Julius Hammerstein, R. Toelke,
A. Hanstein, A. Kuenzel,
A. Zumstein, E. Kuehn,
George Endres, Jr., Louis Winter,
Otto Hampe, G. F. Wittkopf,
H. Hendricks, Louis Elsisser,
Edward Else, O. H. Boethe,
W. L. Seller, A. Winter,
August Rohn, G. William Senn,
Charles Ehrenberg, J. G. H. Meyer,
Charles Steinhauer, Charles Helwig,
August Barthels, Henry Luchsel,
Philip Steller, J. Kraemer,
August F. Eyermann, Louis Becker,
Edward C. Buechel, Charles Claudius,
George Wittick, Louis Zepp,
A. Zeegler, Gerhard Eckhardt,
William Manthe, William Schumacher,
Oliver Papp, H. Langsdorf,
Oscar Erickson, Charles Roettger,
Charles Thyle, L. Thym,
Charles Johannes, Gustav Meissenbach,
Sam Bohmann, Henry Gale,
Robert A. Melschimer, Edward Schroeder,
Fred Winter, Ed Gutmann,
William Rick, Louis Lea,
R. Rick, August Graf,
Alex Pfoerer, Adolph Troll,
Henry Bohmann, William Epsehl,
Henry Mueller, A. Crossent,
Chas Ehrenberg, Sr., John Heimueller,
F. W. Roethel, Doctor G. H. Robinson,
Otto Thieme, E. Hoffstetter,
William Stanning, G. Wetzel,
Fred Merkel, E. Rickel,
George Spieler, Albert Coast,
Henry Fronger, Frank Wahl,
Xavier Kerver, Henry J. Scheele,
A. Herold, L. Hofstetter,
Math. Meyer, Doctor Toepper,
William Kenzel, Sr.,
A. Winter, Joseph Gubser,
H. Winkler, G. R. Schultz,
William Rube, Peter Pieren,
William Elsler, Henry Tesch,
George Mueller, John Alt,
William Schmidt, William Hempen,
A. Hintze, John Trieset,
William Schedt, Louis Hack,
Martin Frueck, Charles Becker,
H. Mallios, C. Kammeyer,
H. Spieler, G. Friederick,
Herman Kaeremann, R. Koop,
Oscar Boek, William Spies,
L. Johnson,

Mesdames—

L. S. Bressleur, Edward Gutmann,
Henry Troll, August Graf,
Philip Steller, Albert Crossaint,
George Wittick, John Heimueller,
William Manthe, G. Schnefer,
Oliver Papp, G. Wetzel,
H. Winkler, M. May,
William Elsler, Frank Wahl,
George Mueller, Henry J. Scheele,
Edward C. Buechel, J. Hoffstetter,
August F. Eyermann, J. G. H. Meyer,
A. Fueger, Charles Helwig,
William Schmidt, Oscar Werges,
Martin Schedt, F. Richmann,
Martin Fruecke, N. Maurer,
Robert A. Melschimer, Joseph Bruckmann,
A. Earickson,

Herman Kuenemann, J. Hercules,
Joseph Gubser, M. Betz,
G. R. Schulz, W. Hassfurther,
Peter Dieroff, Charles Ehrenberg, Sr.
Henry Tesch, F. W. Pothof,
John Alt, Henry Fronger,
William Hempen, W. Ketterer,
John Trieset, A. Herold,
Louis Hack, G. A. Minges,
F. R. Schulz, W. Martin,
Louis Becker, L. Leichinger,
Chas Claudius, J. Zoeggeleiter,
Louis Zepp, A. Roeff,
Gerhardt Eckhardt, Henry Galle,
H. Lienesdorf, E. Kohn,
Charles Roettger, F. L. Winter,
Gust Meissenbach, A. Geller,
Henry Hack, J. Merkel,
Edward Schroeder, A. Rolde,
M. F. Till, A. Vieschbeck,

Misses—

R. Kaiser, A. Goetz,
L. Schlerich, L. Kohn,
H. Roth, F. Winter,
L. Heuer, A. Geller,
K. Heuer, L. Pfoerer,
L. Heuer, F. Rechtsander,
C. Bolling, L. Bertram,
E. Bolling, J. Winger,
I. Dorline, Gertie Frack,
A. Trell, Clara Sahrs,
E. Schnell, Tilie Earickson,
C. Betz, L. Earickson,
Mamie Beckelmann, M. Betz,
F. Beckelmann, K. Betz,
A. Hintze, E. Leichleitner,
C. Gehlig, F. Pfoerer,
A. Michel, E. Mueller,
L. Hemmerstein, L. Richmond,
L. Heller, L. Hofstetter,
L. Schaefer, L. Hofstetter,
Tilie Hampe, N. Rhoes,
C. Young, M. Heuer,
H. Weck, L. Hemmerstein,
C. H. Smith, A. Eckerle,
W. Kraus, A. Eckerle,
M. Eberling, C. Kegel,
Emma Gebhardt, L. Kegel,
S. Goeds, L. Galle,
F. Krage, L. Lange,
H. Meiner, F. Zoeggeleiter,
N. Farrell, Lena Fibelmann,
L. Hoelling, M. Galle,
H. Beck, R. Ehnert,
H. Eaton, C. Roeder,
E. Bacon, L. Gehl,
A. Ehrem, M. Schroeder,
Tilie Winter, M. Stumpf,
L. Wahl, M. Winter,
A. Wahl, E. Brandhofer,
L. Wahl, A. Thelmen,
H. Toepper, A. Frechel,
E. Clapp, F. Clapp,
A. Schmidt, G. Hickel.

HE IS LEAVING KENTUCKY.

Charles Sterling Fears Taylor's Armed Band of Followers.

According to the story of Charles Sterling, a Kentuckian, who passed through St. Louis last night with his wife and a family of seven children, the trouble in the Blue-Grass State has only commenced. Mr. Sterling says that Taylor has organized bands of mountaineers throughout the State, among the classes who know nothing outside of the distilling of contraband whisky and the sights of a Winchester rifle.

An organization of this kind, Sterling claims, was the cause of his moving his family from Kentucky. Sterling is a tobacco grower and lives near Mount Sterling. According to his story, he was visited a few days ago by a group of mountaineers, who asked him if he would vote for Governor Taylor. He replied that he had a large family of children, and asked a week's time to remove them from the country. After he had so told them, he said, he would be willing to fill in with any company who were liable to use rifles.

Sterling is a mountaineer and has lived for years among the men who have made the Kentucky mountains formidable. He thoroughly understands the men in his locality, and knows what means are used to influence their political views. He says that when a man who is for one party is willing to make any sacrifice, if he can, by so doing, advance party interests. The men, he says, are law-abiding and honest in law which is not laid down by their leaders.

"The Goebel murder," he continued, "was a thing which the mountaineers expected for a long time. It was known that the man had to be put out of the way because he was a leader in the road of Republican interests. No one knew details, but it was an understood thing that something politically was about to drop. The old rifles of the mountaineers were grooved with mutton tallow, and the sights filed and tested. It was certain that at a drop of the gubernatorial chalk so that willing thousands would rush into the cities and towns and place themselves at the disposal of Republican leaders."

Mr. Sterling does not know the name of the organization which approached him, but he declares that he is a good Republican and will stay with his party, come what will. He simply wished to move his wife and young children beyond the range of the bullets, which he firmly believes will soon fly in Kentucky. His family will go to Dallas, Tex., where they will remain until peace and order are restored to the peaceful vales of Kentucky.

HE WORE A FALSE BEARD.

Thomas Foy, Arrested After a Struggle, Was Well Armed.

Detectives Walsh, Sullivan and Dwyer last night arrested a man that had the best blackwarman's outfit that has been confiscated in many a day. The man gave the name of Thomas For. He wore a false beard and carried a loaded revolver, a dirk, a slungshot and set of skeleton keys. He was finally encountered after a desperate fight, in which Foy was so badly beaten that he had to be sent to the City Dispensary to have his wounds dressed. He is now in the Four Courts holdover.

At 11 o'clock last night the three detectives were walking west on Pine street. At Fifteenth street, leaning against a wall in an areaway, in a deep shadow, was a powerfully built man. As he saw the detectives he shrank back, as though to escape being seen. Detective Walsh noticed that the fellow's beard was false. He stepped forward, and Foy started as though to escape. Walsh announced that he and his companions were police officers. The man put his hand in his pocket, and the struggle began. When it was over the fellow was taken to the Four Courts, where he was searched.

Here the tools were found. He first gave the name of William Donovan. In looking over his effects were found cards, which indicated that his name was Thomas Foy and that he was a member of a local lodge of plumbers. Later he said that his right name was Foy, and that he lived at No. 2621 North Market street. He said his disguise was bought on the street, and the whole escapade was merely a lark.

SAYS SHE SEES VISIONS.

Marvelous Story Told by Religious French Girl.

Copyright, 1900, by the Associated Press.

Paris, Feb. 10.—A striking illustration of the religious feeling which is so deeply rooted among the French peasantry comes from Tremblay, near Ancers. A 15-year-old girl, a servant of the Mayor of Tremblay, is suffering from hallucinations, and pretends that she saw the Virgin Mary seated at the foot of an acacia tree, in the middle of a field, dressed in white and wearing a blue girdle. The girl says that in her vision the Virgin asked her to come to the spot every evening at half past 6, until February 19. The girl goes to the field, kneels in front of the tree, telling her beads and gazing upon the apparition and listening, she declares, to counsels and injunctions which she receives. An enormous throng of people from the whole countryside accompanies her and gathers around at a respectful distance, many even responding to the girl's invocations.

NIHILIST LAVROSI DEAD.

Russian Revolutionary Exile Found Refuge in France.

Copyright, 1900, by the Associated Press.

Paris, Feb. 10.—The celebrated Russian Nihilist, Peter Lavrosi, died in Paris this week. He came of a noble family, and was at one time a Colonel in the Russian artillery. He became involved in a political movement, was exiled from Russia, and fled to France. Since then he has devoted his life to revolutionary propaganda. He was compromised in an attempt upon the life of Alexander II, at Karakosoff.

Italian Club Ball.

The St. Louis Italian Athletic Club gave its first annual ball last night at Harmonie Hall. The function was well attended and was a success in every way. Dancing was indulged in until a late hour. The following committees managed the affair: Arrangement Committee—O. G. Pieri, F. Bertocchini, Tony Fracchia, John Poppiano, Gus Castello, Joseph Porfido; Reception Committee—H. J. Pieri, Sam Barsanti, A. Tanelli, James Corda, John Barattino, O. G. Pieri; Floor Committee—Louis J. Cuneo, Gus Castello, John Cuneo, Louis Rigali, James Dadarasco, Louis Capestro, James Raggiano, Dave Casalegno, Gus Cicardi, Tony Repetto; musical director—Gus Castello. The officers of the club are: O. G. Pieri, president; H. J. Pieri, secretary; F. Bertocchini, treasurer; J. E. Poppiano, vice president; A. Tonelli, vice-secretary; Gus Castello, marshal; Sam Barsanti, warden.

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

IN ORDER TO REDUCE OUR IMMENSE STOCK BEFORE MARCH 1,

THE ORIGINAL

"HOUSE OF JACCARD"

WILL START ON MONDAY MORNING A GREAT

STOCK-TAKING SALE

Fine Diamonds	At Reduced Prices	Fine Clocks	At Reduced Prices
Fine Watches	At Reduced Prices	Fine Canes	At Reduced Prices
Fine Bronzes	At Reduced Prices	Fine Umbrellas	At Reduced Prices
Fine Marbles	At Reduced Prices	Fine Leather Goods	At Reduced Prices
Fine Vienna Ware	At Reduced Prices	Fine Silver-Plated Ware	At Reduced Prices
Fine Cut Glass	At Reduced Prices	Fine Bric-a-Brac of all descriptions	At Reduced Prices

SEE OUR WINDOWS FOR SPECIAL PRICES.

E. Jaccard Jewelry Co.,

OLIVE AND SIXTH.

ARRANGEMENTS COMPLETED FOR D. O. C. FLOWER BALL.

MAIDS OF HONOR AND COMMITTEES NAMED.

Brilliant Event Promised at the St. Nicholas Hotel To-Morrow Evening.

Arrangements for the D. O. C. "Flower Ball," to be given to-morrow night at the St. Nicholas Hotel, have been completed and the final rehearsal of the maids of honor, with their queen, will take place to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock at the hotel.

The floral idea is to reign supreme in all the ball appointments. Miss Sallie Walsh, as queen of the ball, will be costumed as an American beauty rose, while her three maids, Miss Louise Filley, Miss Ellen Walsh and Miss Lenore Scullin, will represent Easter lilies. The remaining maids, who number twenty-five, will wear costumes of white muslin trimmed in garlands of flowers. The ball will be opened at 9 o'clock by the queen and some prominent man of town selected by the men's committee. From that time until after midnight dancing will occupy the attention of the guests and as a closing feature there will be a battle of confetti, colored serpentines of paper being tossed about with the confetti.

The following young ladies will act as maids of honor:

Misses—

May Scott, Celeste Michel,
Viola Burdett, Mary Nisbett,
Marion Hutchinson, Geraldine Dillon,
Julia Gaskins, Eugenie Romyer,
Ethel Goddard, Mabel Green,
Leila Martin, Daisy Larimore,
Leola Chapin, Virginia Lee,
Marie Tracy, Nettie Hale,
Virginia Sanford, Sallie Colliver,
Katherine Coates, Lucy Schuler,
Alice Gleason, Blanche Durose,
Emma Baker, Marie Esther Durose.

Men's Reception Committee:

Theodore Jones, Doctor W. G. Moore,
Chairman. John W. Drummond,
Judge Leroy S. Valle, Doctor W. C. Green,
Frank Estes,
Judge Warnack Booth, Frank P. Hayes,
Colonel James Hosmer, George McGrew,
Richard A. Barrett,
Joseph T. Dickman, Doctor Thomas O'Reilly,
Doctor H. Hatch, John C. Roberts,
Major Edward Canavan, Judge Henry Hand,
Frank Wells,
John W. Harrison, Edward M. Norris,
A. C. Stewart, Alex R. Pemberton,
Samuel Kennard, Adolphus Busch,
Frank Gaskins, A. S. Harlan,
Major Frank Kelly, A. A. McMillan,
Alfred Campbell, Thomas K. Skinker,
Colonel Calvin Price, Goodman King,
John W. Harrison, James Beardsman,
A. C. Stewart, Carr Chapman,
Phil Chew, Charles Clark,
John C. Williams, D. R. Francis,
Doctor Charles Michel, Colonel George H. Goddard,
Steele Williams, Julius S. Walsh,
Hugo Baumann, E. H. Apple,
C. N. Judson, Samuel P. Walker,
Major Merriweather, Benjamin Blendin,
John C. Lee, Colonel A. D. Pierce,
Judge James A. Seddon, Colonel R. Sampson,
Captain Joseph Boyce,
Colonel Moses C. Wetmore,
Judge W. H. Clopton, George H. Thompson,
Lieutenant G. Tyler, George W. Tansey,
Thomas West, Richard Kerens,
H. H. Dale.

Ladies' Reception Committee—Mrs. Julius Walsh, chairman:

Mesdames and Mesdames—

Henry Bender, J. C. Crenshaw,
Charles A. Faris, John Dickson,
J. F. Carter, R. L. Dickson,
Marshall Hodgeman, Charles Dickson,
Alexander Sheldon, Daniel Russell,
Wilbur Ault, Edward A. Filley,
R. W. Stapleton, Frank Walsh,
J. S. Gorman, Edward Walsh,
Colonel and Mrs. Henry Wahrmann, Robert Pilcher,
Judge and Mrs. Henry Edmunds, Charles Pilcher,
P. C. Mallett, Walter Cooper,
Harry Janeway, Dwight Filley,
John Davis, Rolla Wells,
J. Overall, Brickenridge Jones,
Wilson Churchill, Allan Shepherd,
Will Hollmeyer, Arthur Garrison,
William C. Little, Charles Barnes,
Walter Douglass, Alfred Carr.

Misses—

L. D. Harrison, J. H. Holliday,
M. P. Scanlan, Will Barnett,
Chris Belle Tracy, Saunders Foster,
Hester Clymer, A. Ziegenhein,
Mary Lee Coates, Virginia Kayser,
Ashley D. Scott, Florence Jones,
Leolia D. Sanford.

Mesdames and Mesdames—

Pierre Chouteau, Hudson King,
Charles Stockton, Lewis M. Rumsey,
Selby Barnes, Doctor Bruce,
Alonzo Church, L. N. Judson,
Volney Turner, Alfred Speyhagh,
Andrew Scudder, James Drummond,
James Woods, Isabel Cassone,
Shoemaker, John Indam,
Leo Hayward, Guy Hilton,
Thomas K. Nedelton, Alexander Douglas,
Sylvester Pagnotti, J. C. Van Blarcom,
Shepard Smith, Henry C. Scott,
Charles Mullikan, J. V. H. Barrett,
George Stafford, James Barnes,
Wilson Bond, George Schneider,
Gene Merriam, David Kalme,
Gibbs Pumskeel, John W. Harrison,
Claude Kilpatrick, Amadee Herbert,
John Lelash Green, J. G. Scullin,
Ray Bates, Lelah Brooks,
William H. Housley, Philip Williams,
Hudson Walsh, Theodore Bendel,
Walton Cave, James Germain,
George Tyler, Richmond O'Fallon,
Jesse Robinson, Thomas O'Reilly,
Will Alex, Charles Alfred Booth,
Shapleigh Boyd, Howard Blossom,
Joseph Miller, Joseph D. Lucas,
Rufus Wood, Charles Van Studdiford,
Charles M. Lane, Daniel Catlin,
J. P. Bruce, Ed Papin,
Thomas Mellier, Herbert Walker,
Joseph Miller, William H. Thornburgh.

Floor Committee—Henry T. Kent, chairman:

Messieurs

Eugene Abadie, Henry Garneau,
Henry Ames, Hamilton Gamble,
George Armstrong, John Gamble,
Morris Anderson, Charlie Gleason,
Arthur Barrett, Charlie Goodman,
Jesse Beard, Frank Greene,
Garth Billingsley, Edgar Floyd Jones,
Henry Blossom, Captain Corkery,
Henry Benker, James T. Drummond,
Ed Beaker, Harrison J. Drummond,
Doctor W. P. Blair, Charles R. Drummond,
Doctor Burnett, James Robinson,
Paul Babcock, Charles D. McClure,
Messrs. Boyle, G. Herbert Walker,
Harry Bell, G. P. B. Jackson,
Robert Brookings, R. H. Kern,
Pierre Chouteau, C. P. Ellerbe,
Arthur Carpenter, Ben Kimball, Jr.,
Horace Collins, Forrest Ferguson,
Charlie Clark, Doctor Shep Bryan,
Al Carr, Ashley Cabell,
Yeatman Carr, Dunbar Hunt,
Lucian Carr, Charles Dwight Mitchell,
John Cabanne, William Horner,
Arthur Cabanne, W. S. Hancock,
Goode Cabanne, J. Avery Webb,
Eugene Chouteau, Sager,
Frank Crosby, Alfred Carr, Jr.,
Messrs. Chopin, French Sessions,
Calhoune, Leslie Kretschmar,
Messrs. Caldwell, L. R. Willey,
Joe Carr,

Bob Carr, Henry L. Edmunds,
Blakeley Collins, Thomas H. Francis,
Nafin Dyer, Dave von Wedekind,
Archie Douglass, William J. Lemp, Jr.,
George Doster, Jr., Oscar Johnson,
J. H. Douglass, Jack Johnson,
Joe Dees, John W. Valliant,
Sam Davis, Leroy W. Valliant,
John Davis, Alonzo Church,
Dwight Davis, Andre Scudder,
Joe Dickson, Sam Booher,
Gaston Deane, L. G. McNair,
Mark Ewing, Bethel Calantine,
Nat Eaton, Harry Hayes,
Bert Ewing, Joseph D. Lucas,
Messrs. Fordyce, J. W. Polk,
Bert Filley, Doctor Louis Pim,
Julius Fox, Walker Hill,
Clark Fletcher, George J. Tansey,
Dave Fentress, Alex Polman, Jr.,
Will Filley, Randolph Leachlin, Jr.,
Doctor Frank Glasgow, Rolla Wells,
John Drummond, Ellis Wainwright,
Pierre Garneau,
Ben Von Phul, Matt Potter,
Charles P. Haga, Messrs. Pettus,
Doctor Lutz, Lee Ramsey,
John Scullin, Frank Ramsey,
Judge T. B. Harvey, Messrs. Bell,