Growing Old Rapidly.

W. A. COOK, M. D.

This is the sad condition of so many men of our day and generation. At 30 they feel 50, at 40 they feel 60, and at 50 or 60, when they should be in the very prime of life, they are almost ready for the grave. The fire of youth has gone out, the fountain of vitality is exhausted. Premature old age! No matter what brought it on, the one thing for you to do is to get back the vim, the vigor and the vivacity of youth. Don't loose your grip on life. There are yet many for you if you only set help. Even help you can cure you. Curing diseases and weaknesses of the sexual and urinary system has been my exclusive business for the last 30 years, during which time I have lifted up enough fallen men to make an army. My treatment will restore to you what you have lost—your precious manhood. It stops all unnatural discharges and drains of vigor, and makes perfect and permanent power to the sexual organs. It makes the blood pure and rich, the complexion clear, the eyes bright, the flesh firm, the muscles solid and the nerves strong and steady. It clears up the cloudy brain, brightens the intellect, and dispels all despondency. In short, my treatment for weak men fortifies the physical and mental as well as sexual man, and prepares him anew for the duties and pleasures of both married and single life.

I also cure to stay cured AFTER-EFFECTS OF CONTAGIOUS BLOOD POISON, NERVOUS DEBILITY and all other complications and secondary diseases and weaknesses of men. To those making above I have earnestly devoted 30 of the best years of my life. Physicians having stubborn cases to treat are cordially invited to consult with me. I make no charge for private counsel, and give each patient a legal contract in writing, backed by a bank charter, to do what I promise. If not worth your while to investigate a cure that has made life anew to multitudes of men.

TRAIN ROBBER KILLED.

Lonie Logan Shot Down While Trying to Escape.

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 28.—While making a dash to escape to-day, Lonie Logan, known also as Lou Curry one of the six men who, on June 2 last, robbed a Union Pacific train of $3,000 in cash, near Rock Creek, Wy., was shot and killed by detectives who had tracked him from Cripple Creek. Logan was visiting the home of his aunt and cousin, Mrs. Bob Lee and Miss Lizzie Lee, and had been there a week. This makes the fifth member of the gang who has been made to bite the dust.

Thomas Sayers, assistant superintendent of the Pinkerton office at San Francisco, discovered Logan at Cripple Creek, Colo., two weeks ago, but lost him and finally traced him to Kansas City, where he appears to have arrived on February 18. Yesterday Logan was located at the Lee home and early this morning three local detectives and three Pinkertons, heading Sayers, surrounded the house and called on him to surrender. Instead Logan darted out of a rear door, pistol in hand. As he reached the gate and turned to fire, a volley from the detectives caused him to waver. He ran 150 yards across the road and into a corn field before he fell. When the detectives reached him he was breathing his last, with a bullet wound through his head and his revolver still clutched in his hand. Logan was placed in a wagon and brought to the morgue in Kansas City.

There were six men in the Rock Creek robbery. Lonie Logan, his two brothers, Harvey and Bob, Bob Lee, their cousin and two others. They made their escape to the Hole in the Wall country, in Wyoming, after killing Sheriff Hall, one of the posse pursuing them. About a month ago Bob Lee and Harvey Logan were killed in that country after a brave fight, and two of the others are said to have since been killed. Harvey Lee is now known to have visited Lonsen last fall and to have returned to Wyoming January 1. Bob Logan is still at large. Rewards of $5,000 by the government and $2,000 by the railroad and express companies were offered for each of the robbers.

Lonie, who was killed to-day, was well dressed and apparently prosperous. The Logans and Lee were brought up near Lebanon, where their relatives are respected.

MRS. MARGARET BRENNAN.

Wife of the Real Estate Agent to Be Buried To-Morrow.

Mrs. Margaret A. Brennan, wife of Martin S. Brennan, the real estate agent, died at 11 o'clock yesterday morning at her residence, No. 1134 Bayard avenue. She had been sick only a few days. The funeral will take place to-morrow morning at 9 o'clock from Visitation Church. The burial will be in Calvary Cemetery.

Mrs. Brennan, whose maiden name was Scully, was a sister of the late T. J. Scully, Assessor and Collector of Water Rates under the administration of Mayor Noonan. Her husband was for many years District Assessor of Taxes, holding the position under Republican and Democratic administrations. A large family of children survive her. Redmond, one of the sons, is connected with the L. M. Rumsey Manufacturing Company.

WEST VIRGINIA TRAGEDY.

Joseph Glean Killed His Daughter, Her Lover and Himself.

Bluefield, W. Va., Feb. 28.—Joseph Glean, a farmer, living six miles north of this place, killed his daughter and Albert Marsh, her lover, and then killed himself yesterday. Glean had forbidden Marsh to call on his daughter, and finding him in the parlor ordered him to leave. Upon Marsh's refusal, Glean fired at him with a shot gun. Ellen Glean sprang in front of her lover and received the charge in her throat, dying instantly. The second shot killed Marsh. Glean then cut his own throat.

ARRESTED IN CHICAGO.

T. S. Kelly Wanted in Omaha—Embezzlement Charged.

Chicago, Feb. 28.—Thomas S. Kelly, formerly treasurer of the Omaha branch of the Phoenix Life Insurance Company, and who is charged with the embezzlement of $,000, was arrested here to-day. Kelly disappeared from Omaha two years ago, going to Manila and joining the regular army there. He served as a private for sixteen months, returning a month ago and receiving his discharge. He will be taken to Omaha for trial.

LIFE A BURDEN TO AN OLD ENGINEER.

W. H. Chisholm Shot Himself Through the Heart in the Odd Fellows' Building.

WAS THERE TO ATTEND LODGE.

Fellow-Knight of Pythias Found His Dead Body—Left Letters Asking That His Daughter Be Cared For.

W. H. Chisholm, aged and crippled engineer, committed suicide in the lavatory on the eighth floor of the Odd Fellows' building at 4 o'clock last night by shooting himself through the heart. The weapon used was an old-fashioned Swamper hunting revolver.

Chisholm was a member of Red Cross Lodge, No. 24, Knights of Pythias. He called at the lodge rooms in the building last night and talked about the weather and other things with several of the lodge members. The last man he talked with was Alfred Boyle, the keeper of records and seal of the lodge. When he finished talking with Boyle, Chisholm walked into the lavatory and Boyle went back to the lodge rooms.

A few minutes later the men in the lodge rooms heard a noise which sounded like the report of a revolver, but they were busy and paid no attention to it. Chisholm's dead body was found lying on the floor a few minutes later by John S. Blake when he went into the room.

Mr. Blake thought that the old man had fainted and he stooped to pick him up when he saw blood stains on his shirt just above the heart. He saw the revolver with which Chisholm fired the fatal shot lying a few feet away from the old man's body.

Death Was Instantaneous.

Blake ran back to the lodge rooms and called to his fellow-members that Chisholm had shot himself. A doctor was hastily summoned and he said that death had been instantaneous. An ambulance was called and the body was taken to the Morgue, where it was received by Superintendent Ambruster. The bullet touched the apex of the heart.

Letters found on the body of the dead man at the morgue showed that he probably contemplated suicide before he went to the lodge rooms. One of the letters was addressed to the press, and requested Tod Perison to send money, which he said was a debt, to his little girl in the Methodist Orphans' Home at No. 936 Maryland avenue. Another letter written by Chisholm was addressed to the Knights of Pythias lodge of which he was a member. It is written on Missouri Safe Deposit stationery, and requests the lodge to care for his daughter.

His fellow-lodge members said that Chisholm had been an old-time river engineer and had made as much as $50 a week in the old days. He has been a member of the Knights of Pythias lodge since February 2, 1884. Chisholm had a paralytic stroke about six months ago, and since that time he has been unable to work.

When Chisholm entered the lodge rooms last night he asked to see his physician, Doctor Nicholson. He seemed to be in his usual good spirits and no one in the lodge had any idea that the old man would kill himself.

Daughter Knew of No Cause.

Chisholm's address could not be ascertained last night. At the lodge rooms the members said that he was boarding at the Illinois House, on Lucas avenue between Broadway and Sixth street. The proprietor of that hostelry said that Chisholm left his place two months ago, saying he was going to live in the country. The hotel man also said that the dead man did not work during his stay there, but that he paid his bills when presented. He said that Chisholm had some money and was living on his income.

The dead man's 14-year-old daughter, Mabel, is at the Methodist Orphans' Home on Maryland avenue. She could not imagine the cause of her father's act, and said that he always seemed cheerful when she saw him.

The old man was a widower, his wife having died shortly after their daughter was born, and was about 55 years old. He was bald, but wore an auburn wig. The Red Cross Lodge will take charge of the body, and the funeral will be held under their auspices, probably on Friday.

NEWS OF THE CHURCHES.

St. Paul's M. E. to Celebrate Its Silver Anniversary.

St. Paul's M. E. Church, Twentieth and St. Louis avenue, will celebrate its silver anniversary next Sunday. There will be three special services—morning, afternoon and evening—and an extended programme has been arranged for each service. Bishop E. R. Hendrix will preach in the morning, Doctor J. W. Lee is to preside at a connectional service in the afternoon, in which all the churches of the denomination will participate. In the evening, the Reverend Doctor J. D. Vincil will preach. An elaborate song service has been prepared for the occasion. A handsome souvenir programme has been published.

The Reverend C. H. Patton, D. D., pastor of the First Congregational Church, has prepared a series of Lenten readings from the religious poetry of Robert Browning, with interpretations. The readings will be given at the church Friday morning at 10 o'clock, and the list is as follows: March 2, "Saul"; March 9, "Selections From Paracelsus"; March 16, "Rabbi Ben Ezra," "Abt Vogler," "A Toccata of Galuppi's"; March 23, "The Bishop Orders His Tomb," "An Epistle Containing the Strange Medical Experience of Karshish"; March 30, "A Death in the Desert," "Epilogue," "Dramatis Personae"; April 6, "The Ring and the Book," selections from "Pompilia"; April 13, selections from "Easter Day." A musical selection will be given at the close of each reading, and those who attend are requested to study the poems beforehand.

The special series of noonday Lenten services, held under the auspices of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, opened yesterday in the Holland building, and the Right Reverend Bishop D. S. Tuttle preached the sermon. Notwithstanding the storm, there was a good attendance. The meeting to-day will be addressed by a local Episcopal clergyman. The services are being held on the first floor in the room formerly occupied by the Purina cafe.

STRIKING MACHINISTS.

Number Now Out in Chicago Estimated at Two Thousand.

Chicago, Feb. 28.—The first steps toward making general the strike of machinists for recognition of their union and a minimum scale of wages was taken to-day by the Executive Council of the International Machinists' Union, when a member of the Executive Committee left for Milwaukee to call out the union machinists in that city. The number of striking machinists in this city was augmented to-day by the calling out of the men at the Gates Iron Works, the Link Belt and Machinery Company, and the Excelsior Iron Works, about 400 in all, making the total number of striking machinists in this city about 2,000. Members of the machinists' Executive Council intimate that there is a possibility of a strike being ordered of the machinists employed by the various railroads centering in Chicago. Of the 210 machine shops in Chicago the union men claim about twenty-five or thirty are now tied up, and that the union machinists in the other shops will be called out as fast as possible if such a course is found necessary.

LIEUTENANT A SUICIDE.

John R. Waugh Kills Himself at Manila.

Washington, Feb. 28.—General Otis has reported to the War Department that Second Lieutenant John R. Waugh, Thirty-ninth Volunteer Infantry, shot himself through the heart while temporarily deranged from extreme nervousness on the 27th inst., at Manila.

Lieutenant Waugh was born in Nebraska in 1876.

FINANCIAL BILL IN THE SENATE.

Aldrich Explains Amendments Agreed To by the Conference Committee.

M'LAURIN FAVORS EXPANSION.

South Carolina Democratic Senator Urges the Retention of the Philippines — The Hawaiian Measure.

Washington, Feb. 28.—Notwithstanding the agreement made by the Senate to vote on the Hawaiian Government bill at to-day's session, the final vote on the measure was postponed until 4 o'clock to-morrow. Practically no progress was made on the bill today, although it was under consideration nearly four hours.

Mr. Aldrich, chairman of the Finance Committee, at the opening of the session, made an explanation of the work of the conferees on the financial measure, his statement resulting in an unexpected and spirited debate.

One of the features of the session was the speech of Mr. McLaurin of South Carolina on the Philippine question. He is the first Democrat in the Senate to declare himself for expansion. He scouted what he called the "bugbear of imperialism," with which some of his colleagues were trying to frighten the people, declared the question was not one of politics, and maintained that the acquisition of the Philippines would be of immense advantage to this country, especially the South, by opening to the United States the trade of the Orient.

The first change in the financial bill was in the section defining the standard. It was Mr. Aldrich said, purely a verbal change, a change in phraseology and undoubtedly strengthened the section.

Finance Bill Changes.

The second change was a provision making it the express duty of the Secretary of the Treasury to maintain the reserve fund in order that the parity of United States money should be preserved. Mr. Aldrich thought the Senate bill did impose that duty, but the House conferees insisted that the injunction should be incorporated in the bill in definite terms.

The next change provided that the gold reserve might be held in gold coin "or bullion," the last two words being added, because the facilities for the coinage of gold would not at present admit of coining the gold in sufficient quantity to maintain at all times the reserve in gold coin.

The next change, Mr. Aldrich explained, provided directly that the Secretary of the Treasury should not use the money raised by the sale of bonds for the payment of the current expenses of the Government, so as to destroy all possibility that the so-called endless chain might be established. A new section was inserted providing that nothing in the present act should affect the legal tender quality of the silver dollar or of any other money of the United States, so as to remove any possible doubt as to the retention of the legal tender quality of silver.

The next amendment provided that two new divisions should be established in the Treasury Department, one of issue and the other of redemption. The next amendment provided that so long as the aggregate amount of United States notes and silver certificates in the general fund of the Treasury shall exceed $50,000,000 the Secretary may suspend the issue of certificates. This, Mr. Aldrich said, was simply another way of protecting the reserve.

The next amendment provided that the Secretary of the Treasury might issue 10 per cent of the total value of silver certificates in notes of large denominations for convenience to banks and those handling large sums of money.

The next amendment provided for the issue first of silver certificates of small denominations, Mr. Aldrich explaining that the provision in the Senate substitute, in the opinion of the Secretary of the Treasury, might cause a contraction of the currency.

The next amendment provided that national banks with a capital of $25,000 might be organized in towns of 3,000 inhabitants, instead of 4,000.

Favors Expansion.

At the conclusion of Mr. Aldrich's statement, Mr. McLaurin was recognized to deliver an announced speech upon the Philippine question.

The fact that he is in favor of the policy of expansion, and thus differs from his Democratic colleagues, rendered his speech of interest.

Mr. McLaurin said the Philippine question is not a political question and strongly deplored the position the Democratic Senators had taken in making the Philippine question of expansion a political issue.

Some of the greatest Democrats of the past were expansionists, but for whose acts and measures the United States would not have been the nation it is to-day. Mr. McLaurin, dwelt particularly on the great opportunities afforded by the islands for trade between Americans and the nations of the Orient. He quoted statistics to prove that the experience of the last decade contradicted those who asserted that our Eastern trade was not of immense consequence.

"It is in the Orient," said he, "that we must look for markets. We must enter into actual competition for this trade, and I believe that, by holding the Philippines, our trade in the Orient will continue to increase until all surplus products for years to come will find remunerative markets in the East."

The South had a special interest in the expansion of our trade. Fealty to party and misleading information, he feared, had produced among the Southern farmers opposition to territorial expansion. Efforts had been made in his own State to suppress all information and arouse public sentiment against expansion. The frightful ghost of imperialism had been held up before the people of the South to frighten them, but he believed it is impossible much longer thus to mislead them.

When Mr. McLaurin had concluded, consideration of the Hawaiian Government bill was resumed, and at 6 o'clock the Senate adjourned.

ADULTERATION OF FOOD PRODUCTS.

Senate Committee on Manufactures Recommends Laws to Suppress It.

PRACTICE IS VERY GENERAL.

Suggestion to Put Articles Under the Internal Revenue Act—Fault Is Ascribed to Competition.

Washington, Feb. 28.—Senator William E. Mason, chairman of the Committee on Manufactures, today submitted to the Senate a report on the extensive investigation conducted into allegations that many important articles of food and drink are adulterated so as to be either a serious detriment to the public health or, where the adulterant is not injurious to health, a fraud on the purchaser. Accompanying the report is a great mass of testimony taken in the leading cities of the country. The report says that the importance of the investigation made and the legislation proposed cannot be too strongly emphasized. It adds:

"The adulteration of prepared or manufactured foods is very extensively practiced, and in many cases to the great discredit of the manufacturers. It is only fair to say, however, that a large proportion of the American manufacturers who are engaged in adulterating food products do so in order to meet competition, and it is the expression of those gentlemen that 'We would be glad to get out of the business of adulterating. We would like to quit putting this stuff in coffee, and would be willing to brand our syrups for what they are, but our competitors get a trade advantage which we cannot surrender.'

"It is the purpose of this committee to adopt this uniform rule: To prohibit the sale of deleterious and unhealthful food products, and as to those food products which are simply cheapened by adulterants, to compel the marking of those goods for what they are. Deleterious food products should be prohibited and the rest thoroughly regulated.

Plans Suggested.

"There have been two general ways suggested as to the matter of regulation. First, to put the important food products under the internal revenue law, as we have in the case of butter, filled cheese, and, at the last Congress, flour. The pure flour bill has absolutely prohibited the sale of adulterated flour, which was found to be in many cases dangerous to public health, and has increased the sale of American flour probably 25 per cent in other countries. If the rule established by this committee can be carried out as to our other food products, we will not only protect the consumer and the honest manufacturer, who is willing to sell his goods for what they are, but we will also establish a reputation for our food products which will assist us to find a ready market for them in other countries.

"The other plan to regulate the food products is contained in Senate bill 2828, which establishes a department under the Secretary of Agriculture and provides for the establishment of a board which shall fix the standards for food, drinks and for drugs, based on the American Pharmacopoeia. The strong argument in favor of his plan is the fact that it would be cumbersome to take all the small articles of food products that are now adulterated and allow their sophistication or adulteration for the purpose of cheapening and require a stamp upon each of the small packages offered for sale.

"To illustrate: The evidence before the committee shows that all our peppers, cinnamon, cloves and spices generally, including ginger and mustard, are adulterated. One manufacturer testified that he adulterated these largely with cocoanut shells and that the amount of adulterants put in depended upon the man who ordered it. Sometimes as high as 60 per cent was put in. It would be difficult, it may be seen at a glance, to establish a law for spices to compel to stamp as mixed spice every package sold. It may be that such cumbersome legislation will have to be made in order to properly punish those who adulterate their goods, but it is hoped that Senate bill 2828 will reach all interests in traffic in manufactured food products, and that the board established under the bill will have power to fix standards based upon what is now the standard in the American Pharmacopoeia.

Frauds Apparent.

"In the case of butter, cheese and flour the frauds practiced were so apparent and dealt so with the most important food products that the revenue plan seemed to be and is wise and successful, and it may become necessary, if the real purpose of this bill meets with opposition and defeat, which we do not hope, for the committee to have prepared and ready revenue legislation to reach some of the most glaring evils by adding it to the next revenue bill.

"The report says that the committee has had many difficulties to overcome and feels that in many cases it has not been able to reach the absolute truth. That so much knowledge has been gained, it feels, is due largely to Secretary Wilson and Doctor H. W. Wiley, Chief Chemist of the Agricultural Department."

After a detailed explanation with reference to the testimony and analysis as regards the specific articles of food or drink and the extent to which they were found free from or guilty of adulteration, the committee takes up the matter of the importation of adulterated foods, and says:

"If it is the policy to restrict our citizens to the use of pure food, we certainly should apply the rule to foreigners who manufacture goods to be sold in this country. There is no doubt in the minds of the committee that large amounts of imported goods are sold in this country, the sale of which goods would be prohibited in the country from which they come.

"The committee gives some instances of this unwholesome and unfair competition which reputable American dealers and manufacturers have to meet, and recommends the establishment of a standard of quality for various articles, and the establishment at ports of entry of inspective examinations and tests to determine whether imports come up to these standards.

CAMPBELL ON THE STAND.

Prosecutor in the Clark Case Denies Hill's Statement.

Washington, Feb. 28.—Congressman Campbell, ex-chief prosecutor for the prosecution of the Clark case, was on the stand during the greater portion of the day before the Senate Committee on Privileges. He said that while he had attended the preliminary conferences of the counsel of Mr. Clark, which were held in the office of Senator Gear, he had not heard much of the talk during some of these conferences. He had given the Clark people no formal notice when he decided to withdraw from the case to Mr. Clark, which, he said, had become distributed with his connection therewith.

He emphatically denied Ben Hill's statement that he or officials had opened the disbarment letter leading upon the prosecution of Mr. Wanamaker, but confessed that he had opened Hill's letter to Mr. Clark, but he felt it was important for Mr. Wanamaker to protect him from an indirect prosecution that he should have advised this course, even if he had been familiar with the penal statutes, which he was not.

MAY SELL THEIR LANDS.

Bill to Facilitate Emigration of Indians Who Desire to Move.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

Washington, Feb. 28.—Those members of the Five Civilized Tribes of the Indian Territory who desire to sell their lands and improvements there and emigrate elsewhere are to have no obstacle placed in their way.

For the purpose of facilitating the emigration, Representative Wilson of Idaho has introduced in the House a measure intended to carry out the views of the Indians.

The bill provides that when 200 or more Indians of the Territory shall request permission of the Secretary of the Interior to sell or otherwise dispose of their lands or improvements for the purpose of buying elsewhere, the Secretary of the Interior is authorized to at once ascertain their proportionate share of lands and funds.

He is also directed by the bill to set aside their share and to issue deeds to well and to give deeds and patents in fee or execute papers for the United States Government to carry out the desires of the Indians.

The Secretary is to see that their rights are protected of record by the payment to them or their order, in full, of all moneys due them for such lands, or that good and ample bonds of securities for the payment of such lands be secured to the Indians.

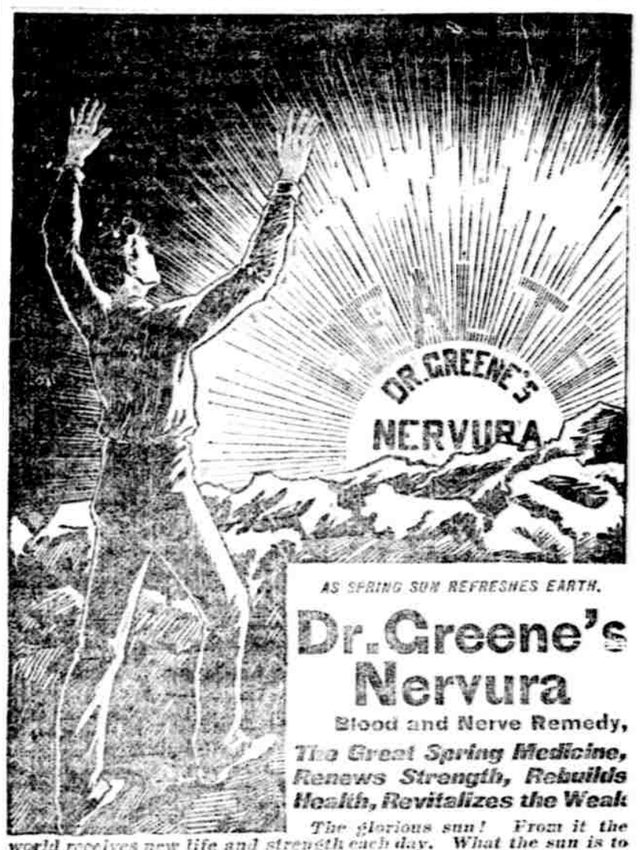
EDDY FREE BRIDGE BILL.

Assurances of Support Received by Colonel Spilman.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

Washington, Feb. 28.—Colonel E. G. Spilman, national committeeman for Oklahoma, departed for home to-day.

Before departing he saw a number of the leading members of the Democratic party in the House and Senate, and urged the passage of the Eddy free bridge bill, stating in detail the needs for this legislation and the advantages which would arise from its enactment. He was assured that the Democratic leaders will favor the bill, and is confident that it will become a law during the present Congress.



AS SPRING SUN REFRESHES EARTH.

Dr. Greene's Nervura

Blood and Nerve Remedy,

The Great Spring Medicine, Renews Strength, Rebuilds Health, Revitalizes the Weak

The glorious sun! From it the world receives new life and strength each day. What the sun is to the world, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is to health. Life itself! If a flower withers and droops, give it the revivifying sun. If the nerves languish, if the blood grows impure and sluggish, give them Dr. Greene's Nervura. Do you think Nature intended you for a weak, miserable machine, incapable of enjoying or giving enjoyment? No, indeed! Dr. Greene's Nervura proves that. The medicines contained in this great nerve and blood remedy were planted in the earth expressly for the benefit of weak, sick, and run-down human beings. It is a reserve fund of health, to be drawn upon when all else fails. It feeds the vital nerves and blood of the human machinery with the fuel that turns into vigor and strength. Take it for poor appetite, dyspepsia, rheumatism, biliousness, sleeplessness, nervousness, general debility, spring ailments, despondency, nervous prostration, neuralgia, or other troubles originating from impure blood and feeble nerve force.

Now is the time to take Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, the greatest and best spring remedy the world has ever known.

MISS SCHMIDLAPP DIES.

One Wreck Victim Still Unidentified—Reporter's Courage.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 28.—Miss Emma Schmidlapp died to-day from the injuries sustained in the Missouri Pacific wreck near Independence, Mo., yesterday. This is the third fatality as a result of the disaster. All three were women. One is still unidentified.

The railroad officials are criticised for the delay in getting a relief train to the scene, but they claim that the blinding snowstorm and the position of a freight train on the track made it impossible for them to reach the wreck sooner.

Doctor William Rosenthal of New York City, who was on the forward car of the wrecked train, rendered heroic work in alleviating the injured.

Vaughan, the Cincinnati newspaper man, whose arm was crushed and who was pinioned for some time under a window frame, displayed great nerve in waiting to be extricated. He went for three hours without medical treatment.

Mr. Schmidlapp to-day asked repeatedly concerning his wife and daughter. Although Mr. Schmidlapp's injuries are not dangerous, the attending physician did not consider it wise to let him know of the fatalities, and he was led to believe that his folks were resting easily.

Vaughan, suffering great pain, will undoubtedly recover, but the physicians have slight hopes of saving his right arm, which is crushed out of shape.

NERVOUSNESS.

Archer, Tenn., Dec. 1, 1898.

My wife has been sick for months. The doctors pronounced it nervous prostration. I got her a bottle of Wine of Cardui. She has taken five doses only, and it has done her more good than all the medicine she has taken from the doctors.

E. C. BAUCOM.

McELREE'S Wine of Cardui

Doctors often make mistakes. They haven't the time necessary to devote to each patient. You see Mrs. Baucom didn't have nervous prostration at all. She had some derangement of the womanly organs, and needed Wine of Cardui. But a woman's nervous system does have intimate connection with her menstrual functions. And nature's laws are inexorable. The monthly flow must be regular or the nerves will suffer. Sometimes the strain is so unbearable that she feels like screaming at the top of her voice. The least little thing disturbs her. Pains dart through the back and hips, the head aches, and a sense of impending danger is apparent. Wine of Cardui is the greatest and best nerve restorer. It regulates the coming and duration of the menses with truly wonderful precision. When a woman is "regular" her nerves will not trouble her. They will be iron-like and strong. Wine of Cardui is nature's best gift to women. Its good results are apparent from the first dose. Why not get a $1.00 bottle at your drug store to-day? If you do that, you will feel better to-morrow.

For advice in cases requiring special directions, address, giving symptoms, the "Ladies' Advisory Department," The Chattanooga Medicine Company, Chattanooga, Tenn.

All Druggists Sell Wine of Cardui.
