

THE EVENING POST.

Inspector O'Brien did not see it. The bad work in the tunnel done behind his back. When THE EVENING POST's report of the tunnel investigation closed yesterday, Inspector O'Brien, the one whose work was pronounced criminally bad, was on the stand. He testified that owing to the close quarters in which he had to work it was sometimes impossible to see how the packing was done. He never knew of an instance where no stone at all was put on top of the arch. He was frequently absent, however, sorting out stone. In answer to a question as to why he should sort out stone when he was placed there as an inspector, he said he was ordered by Col. Kirilin to do it. There was dry packing done at times, but only when they ran out of mortar. There were no open spaces left. He was time-keeper for the masons and packers and usually started them to work. He had heard Contractor Palmer hurry up the work. He had received money as a compensation for keeping time for the contractors, being paid $1 a day. He could not account for the vacant spaces found in his work. He had no suspicion at any time that bad work was being done. He also stated that Col. Kirilin was perfectly aware that he was looking after the contractors' interests. Col. Kirilin had told him he might oversee the men, and he construed it as an order to do so. He did not think Col. Kirilin knew he was receiving pay for it. Close cross-examination only brought from the witness expressions of complete innocence and surprise that bad work had been found in his bailiwick. It was certainly done while his back was turned and without his knowledge. To-day's session of the Court. At to-day's session of the Military Court, which commenced at 10:30 this morning, Edmund E. Fisher, a sub-inspector, was examined. He worked at Foundry Branch and Rock Creek, and his only duty was to supervise the laying of the stone side walls. The witness was not examined at great length. John B. Rowzee was next sworn. He was a cartage-maker by trade, and said he was not a mason. However, he had been a sub-inspector on the masonry and stone work of the tunnel. He was given instructions as to how the work should be done, and was told to see that the stone was laid in the manner described in the contract. Upon two or three occasions he caught the packers trying to slight their work, and upon reporting them, they were discharged. Several times the brick masons would try to do bad work, but he caught them at it and they were discharged and the work done over. He supposed their motive was because they were working in an unpleasant place, where the water was dripping on them, and they wished to get through and away. Instances were also discovered where attempts were made to use dry packing, but he had the stone taken out and set in mortar and the workmen discharged for their neglect. Witness had never received money from any outside parties, his only pay being from the Government. Witness had seen Lieut. Townsend in the tunnel about once a week, and upon those occasions the Lieutenant would examine the work and give instructions. Witness had never seen Maj. J. Decker in the tunnel—in fact, he would not have known him had he seen him. During the investigation of the tunnel by Lieut. Townsend some time since, no bad work was found in Rowzee's section and no charges of bad work have ever been made against him. He gave his testimony in a sincere way, and after he had seen Lieut. Townsend in the tunnel on the fact that the best work in the tunnel was under a man who was not a mason, but a cartage-maker. There being no more witnesses, the Court resumed the reading of testimony taken at former meetings. A Dramatic Suicide. Details of a shocking tragedy have reached Mumfordsville, Ky., from Rowlett's, a little village several miles back in the country. On Thursday afternoon last a party of young people went out on a picnic. In the party were Henry Rowe and Sallie Legden. Young Rowe and Miss Legden had been sweet-hearting a long time. While walking together young Rowe asked Miss Legden to name a day for their wedding. She replied that she would do so when he took his last drink of liquor. She said she had come to the conclusion that she would do so, and would prove it then and there. He stepped out of her pocket, pulled a revolver from his pocket, and before any one could get a word in he had fired through the stomach of his companion. He then turned and fled. Miss Legden fell to the ground in a swoon, and when she recovered was a raving maniac. She has been under medical care since, but as yet shows no sign of recovery. The Fencibles' Fair. The National Fencibles' Fair opened auspiciously at the National Rifles' Armory last night. Gen. Orway, commander of the National Guard, D. C., opened the fair with appropriate remarks, in which he complimented the company. A large number of the friends were present. The booths are the following: Houston Light Guard, Houston, Tex.; 2nd Regiment, Minutemen, N. G., colors, red and white. Chickasaw Guards, Memphis, Tenn.; colors, red, white and blue. Given another chance. Albert Green, convicted of murdering James Lucas, put on trial. Albert Green, in whose case a new trial was granted by the Court in General Term on exceptions to the rulings of the court, was begun in the Criminal Court before Justice Montgomery this morning. Green was convicted of murder in having killed James Lucas at a colored broom drill, on September 12, 1887, near First and N streets southwest. A quarrel arose between them, which resulted in Green cutting Lucas in the abdomen. Messrs. Lipscomb and Mallowney appeared for the Government, and, as before, Messrs. R. B. Lewis and L. Brown appeared for Green. Green was originally tried with Newton Webb, but the latter was acquitted. The following jury was sworn at half-past two: William Mayfield, Alfred Worch, Charles G. Heilmuller, Thomas E. Spencer, Daniel B. Kealy, James M. Harrod, J. E. Johnson, W. W. Smoot, Charles W. Wood, William H. Carrio, Edward Brick and Daniel T. Johnson. Green was very neatly dressed, and had evidently given considerable attention to his personal appearance. He listened with close attention to the opening speech for the Government made by Mr. Mallowney. The defense reserved their opening. The first witness called was Isabella Henry. She stated that Green was intoxicated and behaving in a disorderly manner. A recess was taken in the broom drill festivities, during which she saw Green, Webb and Lucas together. Lucas said, "Don't use such language around here, my friend; there are ladies around." Green cursed violently, and Lucas said "I'll not have you insult my hand on Lucas' shoulder," the saying, "Jimmy, don't have any fuss." He replied that he was not going to have any fuss. She went to tell Lucas' brother that he was about to get into a fuss. A BIG TURNOUT PROMISED. Perfecting Arrangements for the Republican Demonstration. About 150 people, representatives of clubs and others, met last evening at the rooms of the National Republican League to make arrangements for the Republican parade to-morrow night. Dr. E. A. Adams, the chairman of the Finance Committee, called the meeting to order, and after a few remarks, introduced Chief Marshal Robert S. Fletcher, who presided and will have charge of the parade. The division will be headed by the Marine, Third Artillery and Soldiers' Home bands. Mr. Robert S. Fletcher was appointed chief marshal. The assistant marshals are Ira Goffrey, Frank K. Ward, Captain Donald McCallahan, G. A. Harkness, E. Southernland, Major M. Trimble, T. W. Talmadge, W. O. Douglass, Frouse Aldrich, A. S. Tabor, Dr. G. A. Leech, Col. Perry Carson, Andrew Gleason, W. Calvin Price, Ralph Wormley, C. A. Morse, George McElfresh and Frank Joyce. The parade will be formed into three divisions. About 600 men will head the parade, and each member will be furnished with a Chinese lantern. It is estimated that 5,000 men will be in line, including all the State Republican associations and clubs. Among the outside clubs expected are the "Lozan Art Vincibles," of Baltimore; the "Hyattsville, Md., and Bladensburg Republican Clubs"; "Takoma Park, Md., Harrison and Morton Club"; the "Mounted Republican Club," of Lewinsville, Va. Fireworks will be displayed at the parade. Every man in line will carry either a torch or a lantern. The line will form at Fifth and F streets. The route of the procession will be down Fifth street to the City Hall, to Indiana avenue, to Thirtieth street, to Pennsylvania avenue, to Fifteenth street, to Fifteenth street to H, thence to Seventeenth street, to Connecticut avenue, to Dupont Circle, down Massachusetts avenue, passing the League House, where a number of distinguished guests will receive the parade; thence to Ninth street, where the clubs will disband. Georgetown Notes. Thomas Addison, colored, was arrested last night by Officer Volkman charged with stealing a dollar from George Lee. Lee had the dollar, holding it in his hand, when Addison snatched it, as Lee thought, in play, but when he refused to return it, Lee had him arrested. Dr. Fullerton, and the interment was at Oak Hill. Temperature and condition of water at 7 a. m.
