8821—Lady Doll's Set. One size, 19 inch body.

Lady Doll's Set, No. 8821—At this season of the year, when preparations prevail among the younger members of the family in anticipation of the holiday festivities, Dolbene in doll form, changes once a year, and that is around Christmas time. New clothes must be dressed in the latest style, and no little one should be presented with a change of clothes in order that they may compare with the more recent comers.

This illustration shows a set of garments for a little girl, namely, a waist, skirt and hat. The waist is made of pale blue jaconet with white lace trimmings.

The simple waist is provided with shoulder straps, and has eight fullness in shoulders and back. The front two tucks are made in shoulder and stitched down about a inch. The opening is made in regulation style, the right side fastening over onto the left, under a band of lace.

A plain lace collar completes the neck. The sleeves are in puff style, gathered into the lace edge and finished with a lace trimming.

The skirt is in gathered flounce. It closes in back, and is provided with a lace trimming.

The pattern for the hat is plain and simple in outline, and is made of pale blue satin, and has a slight fullness in the crown. The front two tucks are made in shoulder and stitched down about an
