STOCK MARKET LISTLESS WITH VERY FEW DEALINGS.

EXPECTED INVESTMENT DEMAND FAILS TO SHOW.

Public Participation in Day's Business Almost None, Professionals Holding the Floor.

New York, Jan. 5.—There was little life left in the stock market to-day, and the sentiment as expressed in the movement was thoroughly uncertain.

The fluctuations were constant and the level of the market shifted many times from an average higher than last night to a lower one. Dealings were small and were attributed almost altogether to professional sources.

It was the common remark that there was no evidence of public participation in the market. The expected January investment demand failed to develop, and the fear was thus engendered that whatever buying was to be expected on this account had been included in the Dec. movement, which was attributed at the time to a demand from dealers for the purpose of stocking up for the Jan. investment demand. The feeble downward movements which alternated with the indifferent advances were supposed to be due to short selling by traders to a large extent, such as is the consequence almost invariably of a dull and halting period in the buying of stocks. There was some natural reaction from the stimulation caused by the fall of Port Arthur and the Northern Securities decision, and the tone of the discussion both here and abroad was much less hopeful of a prompt peace as the result of the surrender of General Stoessel.

Rumors of prospective railroad combinations and absorptions still attracted attention, and the admitted intention of President Cassatt of the Pennsylvania to enter the New Haven directory, and the general belief in additional representation for the Standard Oil interest on the New York Central directory, were calculated to keep alive this discussion.

But there was less confidence in the universal tendency of these prospective changes to harmonize the railroad situation as a whole, and the possibility was canvassed of new rivalries being awakened instead. New Haven's recent extension of influence into the Northern trunk line field, if accepted as having a Pennsylvania inspiration, would suggest a shifting of the long-established balance in that field. A possibility of the expected Northwestern railway developments tending to a similar outcome may also be considered.

Some effect is produced on sentiment by the rather censorious discussion of some recent episodes in the making of bank loans for stock-market purposes which have come to light in the process of liquidation. The criticism offered by the New York State Controller in his annual report of some banking and trust company methods are given additional force by such occurrences. Further engagements of gold for export added to the influence of that factor.

Money, however, continued extremely easy and served as a safeguard against any pressure on the stock market. The general list was sustained also by a number of points of positive strength. Amalgamated Copper had the benefit of a further advance in the price of the metal. The coalers responded to the reports of excellent conditions in the anthracite trade. This last group proved the mainstay of the market and it was the strong feature in the Stocks that made the closing steady. Rumors of an early dividend for Erie second preferred accompanied the rise.

The bond market was very broad, but the movement of prices somewhat irregular. Total sales, par value, $3,420,000. United States bonds were all unchanged on call.

New York Curb Market.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

New York, Jan. 5.—The curb market to-day was dull and uninteresting. Prices were heavy and moved in sympathy with the course of securities on the exchange, showing little or no improvement. Northern Securities was the active feature. The stock was irregular within a limited range. After a recovery from 91 to 91¾, it broke to 189¾. It ran up at the close to 192¾. In the copper group, Greene Consolidated recovered from 5 to 5¼, despite profit-taking sales. Tennessee closed at 57¾. Lackawanna Iron and Steel was taken in hand after a long interval. The stock worked up from 60½ to 62. Interborough Rapid Transit was strong around 138. Mackay Companys stock was maintained. American Can issues were strong. Wabash-Pittsburg Terminal issues were moved up to 9¾. Standard Oil, after opening at 636¾, declined to 631.

COTTON COMPRESS STOCK SCORES SHARP ADVANCE.

GENERAL TONE OF LIST IS GOOD.

Tractions Are Firm and Banking Issues Are Well Taken by Investors.

Cotton Compress stock was the feature of the miscellaneous list in yesterday's market for local securities. Though the volume of trading in the issue was not large, there was an advance of 8 points to $50 a share, with that bid for more.

The general list was fairly active and strong. Missouri-Lincoln Trust was a possible exception with a decline from $132 to $132.50, but even this stock was firmly held at the close. Commonwealth was a real strong spot on the upturn, from $297.50 to $300. Mechanics' National sold at $250 and Bank of Commerce at $302.50. National Candy first preferred at $100 and American Credit Indemnity at $150 were strong. Brewery 6s were in good demand at par.

LIVE-STOCK MARKET.

Native Cattle 10c to 15c Higher—Southern Cattle 5c to 10c Higher—Hogs Steady to Weak.

NATIVE CATTLE—Beef Steers—The small supply of beef cattle met with urgent demand, and values ruled 10@15c higher generally, and paces were recorded where a 25c advance was shown. The representation was not very extensive, and but little much of an assortment, offerings grading largely just fair and medium flesh, selling around $3.20@4.90, and only a load or two of decent cattle were available.

Stockers and Feeders—A good trade was had in these department, as the supply was very small. However, the demand was very firm, and, from indications, was broad enough to sustain a good, healthy market. Only a few cold head were fair to good light and medium weights, all of which brought firm prices.
