FOREHAND MAY SCORE ONCE MORE; LURALIGHTER LOOKS WELL AT UNION

Bennett Colt Seems to Have a First-Class Chance to Make It "Four Straight" at the Fair Grounds.

Another Victory for the Davis Mare Seems Probable on the New Track in Feature Event To-Day.

Over a muddy track and with the soft going favoring her chances, it seems as if Floral Wreath should score in the feature event at the Fair Grounds this afternoon.

Although Dan McKenna has shown partiality for the conditions which should prevail to-day, it is likely that the Bennett horse will go down to defeat before Floral Wreath. The last-named is in at a weight which will not disturb her, is said to be in first-class trim and ought to turn the trick here.

Pinton and Prince Wing will be close contenders. Pinton, although receiving credit or favoring a track of this sort, really prefers one with less stickiness. Prince Wing in the past has shown some form over similar footing. It should be a close fit between them for show money.

In the fifth event, one of those triangular contests which generally afford good racing is staged. Harmakis would be on even terms with Forehand here, had his recent work been entirely satisfactory. It is said, however, that a race or two will put him before he gets into racing trim, and it seems as if Forehand should realize a fair straight wins.

Forehand is a grand colt just now. There can be no question on this point. The gain of thirteen pounds as good as he ever did in the Futurity, and that at 126 is a lighter load than is likely desired. Malta is always competitive, and is particularly fast with her 5 pounds off on her back. But it looks as if Forehand should lead the finest across the finish.

In the final race Ambrella may win. The Bonnie mare has won a couple of good races this year, although she was unfortunate in getting off a trifle badly in the Rainland. At times she has gone wrong and the bad with a good deal of determination. She could not be able to score in the coming event on beaten's card.

Miss Hanson and Aladdin are about her peers. Aladdin has not shown parlty lately, albeit he has been in good hands. He is supposed to be ready for a good try. By a right turn in the money in the prior six races from this shorter distance it seems as he has been starting.

Remember, we have a contender and one to fear in first of early speed now. Take the third place. He needs to come home ahead of Ali Black and Frank L. Perley. In the second race Joe Cotton may repeat his recent victory and should defeat Ida Kearney and Beechwood.

Fleetwing—Walsen Jim Lee—making another attempt on a fast track. Ran some fair races in this and going out West, and if the same at Fairmount will win. He may be able to repeat this afternoon. Setting from the Hughes stable he is dangerous here and may be sound, while Conquistador ought to get show money.

RAINLAND WINNER OVER LITTLE SCOUT.

Geldhiatt Horse Won Fourth Event at Fair Grounds, Easily Beating the Bennett Campaigner.

Taking to the muddy going as a duck does to water, Rainland came home ahead of his field at the feature event at the Fair Grounds yesterday. The Geldhiatt colt was simply galloping at the end.

Little Scout, from the Bennett stable, was an odious favorite and did his best. The veteran campaigner, who has won several stakes of local racing, made his usual bid to the stretch and run an honest race, but he could never get to the leaders and had to be content with second place.

Starting poorly and taking the lead on the first turn, Rainland was never in trouble. He ran rock and rock with Joe Lesser for a time, then drew away and was by himself at the end. Little Scout, holding third honors and beginning in his usual slow fashion, could not quite make connections.

Joe Lesser, who had his fill at the early pace, and Ida Kearney, who set a lively clip for Whitmer's Jim Lee, finished strongly, the latter gaining the third place. Jim Lee was never in the thing earlier, but he came on with unusual speed. Beechwood, who was in the thing earlier, finished with a good rush. Fleetwing, the favorite, was never in the thing at any time. Walsen Jim Lee was in trouble at the start and was pulled up.

Rainland's victory was a popular one, the Davis horse having been a great favorite with the crowd. He was ridden by J. Jordan, who for the second time in succession rode a winner for the Davis stable. Jordan's mount was never in trouble and was not ridden to the end of the race. Rainland's time, 1:14, was fast for the conditions.

The Davis stable had the advantage of an early start, Rainland being in the stable for a few days before the race. He was in good condition and value home well.

The mud rather a good enough race and showed fear weakness in the long going. Joe Lesser, who was in the lead in the early stages and was in the lead to the end, Vellinger, Jim Lee, Jim, and was a good second. Walsen Walsh, who started at the post, but was pulled up. Time, 1:14. Winner, Davis stable's b. h. Rainland, by Imperial—Ruby Ray. Trained by Davis. Betting: Rainland, 3 to 5, Little Scout, 4 to 1, Joe Lesser, 6 to 1, Ida Kearney, 8 to 1, Fleetwing, 3 to 1, Walsen Jim Lee, 3 to 1.

JAMES V. GALLOPS IN FEATURE AT UNION.

Experiences Little Trouble in Defeating Little Giant and Bennora—Hilarity at a Long Price.

James V., in the fourth race at the Union course yesterday, proved far too much for the field, and he won in a manner that made the race look like a parade. In the heavy mud James set a pretty stiff pace, and from the moment the barrier dropped until his classic head shot past the post there was no doubt about the eventual outcome.

The scratching of Profession made James a strong favorite. He opened at 2 to 5 and the public backed him down to 1 to 4. Little Giant finished second, and while he was better than Bennora, he never had a chance with the beautiful chestnut colt of D. R. De Armin. Bennora finished third and Pontmarix finished a bad fourth.

In the opening event Bonnora a 7-year-old, won a very fast race. Well ridden by L. Jordan, he won in a canter. Jo Fish, who was the well ridden by J. Jordan, he won in a canter. Jo Fish, who was second, and while at times he appeared as though he would a race for the belt in the stretch and mid was unable to stand the grueling at the end. Lillianette, a sweet little filly, finished third, outlasting the remainder of the field in the unusually heavy mud.

Off in the dead Hilarity, a 10-to-1 shot, easily beat a field in which Soundly appeared to be the best past time. But the mud was too much for Soundly, and it was Hilarity's race from the barrier. Bonnie Boy, ridden by Schilling, was second, while St. Noel was a good third. Hilarity was in trouble in the early stages of the race, shunted to the rear, and had to be carried wide on the turn home, and had to be carried wide on the turn home, and had to be satisfied with third place.

Jolly Handel surprised the form players in the third race when he handily won from a field of capable contenders. Orchestra and Limerick Girl had the early lead.

Limerick Girl did not show her much-touted performance for the mud, and did not appear strong enough in the heavy going to hold with the others finished second to Jolly while the latter finished second to Jolly while the latter finished second with third place. Thora Lee was much disappointed her admirers. She did not run the race that such a mare should run.

McLaughlin had to exert much of the beginning of a clever jockey in the fifth race, on Hopkinson over Pure Gold. Hopkinson had the gold, Gallant and Pure Gold had the silver, and Gallant was a good second. Pure Gold was a good third. Hopkinson was a good finish. Jockey Kent, who rode Pure Gold, was suspended for the remainder of the meeting for rough riding.

Pinton and Prince Wing were the favorites in the sixth race, and they finished in the order named. Pinton was a good second. Prince Wing was a good third. Time, 1:14. Winner, R. Bennett's ch. h. Pinton, by Sir Dixon—Pinton. Trained by Bennett. Betting: Pinton, 2 to 1, Prince Wing, 4 to 1, Ben Lomond, 4 to 1, Ben Lomond, 4 to 1, Pontmarix, 4 to 1, Pontmarix, 4 to 1, Pontmarix
