SOUTHERN CATTLE—The light supply of quarantine cattle was fully in keeping with the demand, and while values were about steady, trading was slow and dragging. Some sellers having common to fair lots, were not favorably impressed with their sales and said an easier tone prevailed, finding buyers hard to interest on this class of stock.

Steers made up the big end of the supply, and were mostly fair to pretty good at $3.85@4.10. Some good to choice 1,100-lb. cattle brought $4.25, and choice heavy steers and heifers $4.35. Several cars of common, light-fleshed kinds sold at $3@3.75. Several cars of fair to good calves sold steady, very good veaters bringing $5.00.

Receipts are over twice as heavy as last week, totaling 13,697 head, against 7,128. Outside buyers were liberal purchasers, and benefited the trade considerably, but receipts were too heavy to sustain prices, and while the strictly good to choice steers declined approximately 25c, the bulk of cattle selling from $4.25@4.50 last week, averaged 20@25c lower, while common and inferior kinds ruled 10@25c off.

Similar conditions prevailed on the stock, there being a fair representation available, prices declining 10@15c. While bulls were largely steady, some weakness developed at the latter end, but few would cover the decline. Stags of all kinds have sold on a 10@25c lower basis. Receipts of calves were 221 head, against 31 last week, and were the largest number for sale for several months. Values have maintained a good, steady basis.

HOGS—A good fair run of hogs arrived for Friday, the receipts amounting to around 5,000 head. Other Western markets were also fairly well supplied, the five principal ones having a total of 31,000 head on sale.

The market opened with a fair demand for the best lights for shipping purposes, and the best butcher hogs, 190 to 200 lbs., and they sold readily enough and close to steady, with the general Thursday trade, but the general run of packers and mixed lots were slow and values ruled about 5c lower.

Pigs and lights that were not real good were also 5c lower and slow sale. Buyers are much more particular about quality than usual, and do not hesitate to throw out all old rough sows and stags and anything else that does not suit them.

The late trade was inclined to be weak and fully 5c lower, but the clearance was good.

A load of hogs weighing 327 lbs. sold at $5.45, which was the top for the day, and the bulk weighing more than 250 lbs. went at $5.32½@5.40, against $5.40 top Thursday, and the bulk at $5.35@5.40. Pigs and lights under 150 lbs. sold at $4.10@5.40, the bulk at $4.60@5.25.

SHEEP—The receipts of sheep consisted of 7 double decks from Texas, 3 of lambs from Tennessee and a double deck of goats. The market was very slow and dull, and no sales were made until after noon. The Texas sheep averaged 87 and 88 lbs. and sold at $4.60, which was generally considered 10c lower than Thursday, or 25c lower than the early part of the week. The lambs sold at $7@7.25, which was considered 10@25c lower than Thursday.

HORSES—The comparatively quiet condition which has prevailed in the horse market all the week on account of light receipts, was in evidence to-day by the fact that arrivals were practically nominal and activity depended entirely upon what few offerings that had been held over from previous days. Most of the buyers had completed their purchases for the week, and only a few buyers were present, and these were trying to complete consignments. It was a quiet trade and devoid of any new features.

The week has been a strong and active one on all the good to choice horses offered whether in the city trade or for shipment. Eastern trade was quite liberal for the better kinds of offerings, and was supplemented by a fair demand from the South for good drivers, and by considerable local request for both drivers and workers.

The trade is ruling of very good proportions for this season of the year, and prices are retaining their strength very uniformly. The demand, however, is almost exclusively for the better kinds, and common qualities are selling slowly.

Next week the wholesale range horse sale season will be inaugurated with a sale of at least 1,500 head on Tuesday. The demand thus far has been good and a satisfactory sale is looked for.

Horse quotations:

Heavy draft, common to good	120@150
Small draft	100@150

Southern horses, choice to extra	75@125

Small plugs	20@ 40

MULES—Scarcely any offerings were on the commission market Friday. Receipts of the week, however, were about 300 head, all of which had been sold, and the only activity was between the dealers and a few Eastern buyers. The market has maintained a steady trade throughout the week, which, in view of the high range of prices, is quite encouraging. It is equivalent to a strong tone. The demand, however, was confined almost entirely to the choicer kinds, and buyers did not want the common and medium ones, good mules have sold quickly each day, but a few plain kinds which were received dragged somewhat.
