THREE INDICTMENTS ON USURY CHARGE

Grand Jury Returns Bills Against Money Lender—Former Postmaster Accused of Making False Affidavit.

Persons in the clutches of money lenders probably will watch with considerable interest the outcome of three indictments returned with a partial report of the Grand Jury to Judge Foster yesterday charging Charles W. McFarland with usury.

Mrs. Martha J. Oliver of No. 4219 Washington avenue is the complaining witness against McFarland in each of the indictments. One indictment alleges that McFarland charged Mrs. Oliver 10 per cent a month on a loan of $300 made June 8, 1904, exceeding the legal rate of 2 per cent. The second indictment charges that 10 per cent a month was charged on a loan of $47 made January 2, 1905, and the third charges McFarland with exacting 10 per cent a month on $65 loaned July 15, 1904.

The capias will be issued this morning and McFarland will be arrested unless, meantime, he surrenders and gives bond.

Forty-four indictments were returned by the Grand Jury. Of these only one was withheld. It is said that the indictment charges the defendant with establishing a lottery.

Martin A. Reddoch, alias J. A. Sherman, former postmaster at Yazoo, Miss., is indicted on the charge of making a voluntary false affidavit. It is charged that Reddoch, who served five years in the Penitentiary at Nashville, Tenn., for embezzlement of the Post Office funds made affidavit under the name of J. A. Sherman that Congressman Kitchen of North Carolina received $250 to get a pardon for W. R. Brown, a Federal prisoner.

FORMER POSTMASTER INDICTED.

Reddoch, it is alleged, represented to the Department of Justice at Washington that he had received information while in the Penitentiary that Congressman Kitchen was obtaining pardons for Federal prisoners for the money. The Government employed Reddoch to work up the cases. It is alleged that Reddoch came to St. Louis and before Louis Bassler Jr., a notary public, made affidavit that he witnessed the payment of $250 to Congressman Kitchen to obtain Brown's pardon.

Reddoch signed the name of Sherman to the affidavit. The Post-Office Inspectors then took up the case and found the affidavit to be false and discovered that Reddoch had impersonated Sherman. Reddoch is now under a bond and is said to be in Mexico.

Three North St. Louis saloonkeepers are indicted on charges of keeping slot machines. They are Edward Gerkemper, William Meyer and Adolph Klausing. Pat Hoffman John Doyle is the only witness against Gerkemper. Hoffman, a Pullman porter, on which they are said to have violated the law.

Grand Jury indicted Tony Kimento on a charge of murder in the second degree. It is alleged that Kimento killed Tony Santoro at Seventh and Wash streets on March 12. Kimento is under arrest.

ROUTINE INDICTMENTS.

Among the routine indictments returned are the following:

Grand larceny—Edward Barber, Morris Handler, William Hinderaman, Harry Royal, Carrie Johnson, Jordan Williams, Jessie White and Sarah Long.

Assault to kill—William Brown, James Hughes, Joseph Kelly, Perry King, John Lindsey, Michael Pfeuntner, Harry Rich, Mary St. John, Fannie Scott and Fred Williams.

Murder in second degree—William Fox and Nicolas Papasodis.

Embezzlement by bailee and grand larceny—Roy Harrington and Mike Katie, Thomas P. Kennedy and Edward Shaefer.

Burglary, second degree, and larceny—Frank Hudson, Charles Johnson, Sam Mallo, Geo. Cherubini and Joseph Robati.

Habitual criminal and burglary—George Nolan.

Grand larceny—Charles Hart and Harry Lattrell, Edward Smith, Joseph Sullivan and Frank Mallon.

Harboring female under 18—Hazel Burton.

Robbery in first degree—Thomas Hogan and William Woodcock.

Attempted grand larceny—James F. Sullivan.

The Grand Jury will make its final report Saturday.

CROSSING OF WIRES CAUSES BURGLAR ALARM TO SOUND.

Ringing of Bell Results in Captain Boyd and Policemen Hurrying to South Side Bank.

The accidental crossing of an electrical device connecting the South Side Bank with the Second District Police Station, the Hooks, was responsible for a swarm of police around the financial institution yesterday morning about 2 o'clock.

The crossing of the wires caused an alarm to be sounded in the station. Captain Boyd and a number of patrolmen were ordered to the bank. When they reached the place they found no sign of a burglar. The officers could find no reason why the alarm should have been sounded. The bank was not robbed.

In a few minutes the police surrounded the bank. Some twenty patrolmen entered the building and examined every nook and cranny. The commander, Captain Boyd, and his men searched for clues to the alarm. While none of them had turned in the alarm, it was thought wires somewhere between the bank and station had crossed.

Mrs. Louise Richter Ends Life by Taking Carbolic Acid—Survived by Four Children.

A little girl 7 years old, upon returning from school Tuesday afternoon, found her mother, aged about 40 years, lying in the middle of the floor of her home, No. [illegible] Lucas avenue, dead, and an empty bottle which had contained carbolic acid at her side.

The child ran from the house to the office of Dr. [illegible], at No. [illegible] Lucas avenue. When the physician arrived he found the woman dead. The police learned that the mother had been ill for some time. Her husband, who is a [illegible], left home early in the morning. The woman's children, Mrs. J. E. Jones, Ella and Katie, the latter of whom lives with her mother, were not informed.

Mrs. Richter had been dead about an hour, according to the coroner, when found by her daughter. She had purchased the carbolic acid at the Cherokee Pharmacy, No. [illegible] Cherokee street, on the same morning. Her husband had left the house early in the morning to go to his home in Belleville.

RAILROADS

WABASH HAS NEW PENNSYLVANIA ROUTE

Ramsey's Plan Said to Be Abandoned and Right of Way Obtained Through the Keystone State.

SPECIAL DISPATCH SPECIAL.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 31.—It was said here today that the Wabash System has obtained a new route to the east through Pennsylvania and New Jersey and that the acquisition of the Little Kanawha properties, controlled by Joseph Ramsey Jr., has been entirely abandoned.

George J. Gould and the men associated with him in the Wabash Railroad ventures are not satisfied with the present line into Pittsburg, it is said. They have planned another road through the center of the State and after two years of patient, quiet work on surveys and the acquisition of strategic points, details of the projected line from Pittsburg through Westmoreland, Indiana, Clearfield, Center, Union, Snyder and other counties have been revealed.

The project contemplates the building of a through trunk line from Pittsburg to New York with connections through allied railroad interests with Buffalo and the lakes and New England. The Pennsylvania Railroad, which has been working for two years in an attempt to block the Wabash, and has had agents in the State for a long time, locating coal lands, has practically given up all hope of preventing the Wabash from building a road through the heart of Pennsylvania and prominent officials of that company admit it is now impossible to block the way for the Wabash.

The route surveyed from Allegheny to the east has the advantage of the lowest grade crossing of the Allegheny Mountains in this State at Cherry Tree. The surveys that have lost heavy expense indicate that while the road will be a high-grade one, cutting through the hills well toward their tops, instead of following the valleys closely, it will have practically a water grade for its entire length and will shorten the distance of the haul by the Buffalo, Rochester, Pittsburg and other friendly roads to Pittsburg by about thirty-five miles.

RATES ON HAY ARE HELD TO BE UNREASONABLE.

Washington, May 31.—In the case of the St. Louis Hay and Grain Company against the Mobile and Ohio, Illinois Central, Louisville and Nashville and Southern Railway Companies, the Interstate Commerce Commission today decided that the carriers' rates on transcontinental hay from warehouses in East St. Louis to points south of the Ohio River, amounting to 2 cents more than their charges for hay from East St. Louis to points south of the Ohio River, are unjust and unreasonable, and that complainant is entitled to reparation.

NEVADA ROAD EXTENSION.

Southern Pacific Supposed to Be the Prospective Buyer.

Reno, Nev., May 31.—H. M. Yerington, president of the Virginia and Truckee Railroad, has issued a call for all of the stockholders of the road to attend a meeting at Carson City on June 21, and arrange for the sale of the road to another corporation. It is supposed that the Southern Pacific Company is after the road.

The road is now being extended from the Carson Valley to tap a large agricultural country. It is at present the main road of the Telegraph and Gold Hill Comstock, and is one of the best paying lines on the coast.

Grading Burlington Extension.

SPECIAL DISPATCH.

Dupont, Ill., May 31.—The first carload of the Burlington extension of the Southern Illinois coal field has been completed and the work has begun on the grading. The road will extend south from Centralia to Christopher, a distance, through Zeigler and Herrin, the heart of the Williamson county field. The line for the road is now subsequent to offer competition for the control of the coal and traffic, and operators anticipate material reductions in rates at the completion of the extension.

BANQUET FOR VARRELMANN: VALLIANT TAKES CHARGE.

Former Street Commissioner and His Successor Entertained With B. P. I. by Julius Pitzman.

A banquet was given in honor of former Street Commissioner Charles Varrelmann, who resigned his position to travel in Europe, by Julius Pitzman last night at the latter's residence, No. [illegible] South Compton avenue.

The affair was entirely informal, only the members of the Board of Public Improvements being invited. Board Attorney Walter Commissioner Joseph P. White, Harbor and Wharf Commissioner and Robert Aull, Park Commissioner, were called upon for a few remarks. F. W. Valliant also spoke.

Mr. Valliant, who was recently appointed by Mayor Rolla Wells to head the Street Department, accepted for the new position vacated by taking the oath in the City Register's office. He will take charge of the Street Department today.

Charles Varrelmann, who is at the City Hall but a few minutes yesterday, but will be on hand to-day and assist his successor in becoming familiar with the details of the department.

There is much talk and speculation at the City Hall regarding a shakeup that the politicians expect to follow the new Commissioner's taking hold.

CHILD IS CRUSHED TO DEATH BY WAGON

Body of Julius Martin, Six Years Old, Recognized by Kindergarten Teacher—Boy Playing on Vehicle.

Julius Martin, the 6-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Martin of No. [illegible] Caroline street, was killed by a wagon running over his chest yesterday at 3:30 p. m.

The Chouteau Kindergarten had just been dismissed for the day and the children were returning home from school, playing in the streets and catching onto wagons.

William Hamann, No. 956 Chambers street, a driver for the Union Bleach Company, was driving with two wagons coupled together. Little Julius caught hold of the tongue of the second wagon. The driver warned him to be careful, but he did not heed the warning. He lost his hold and fell, the wheels of the rear wagon passing over his chest.

He rose to his feet and walked five steps and then fell unconscious to the ground. The driver picked him up and carried him to the pavement. Two physicians were summoned, but he died in ten minutes.

Several children witnessed the accident, but they were terror-stricken and could not identify the child.

Miss Nora A. Fagan, director of the Chouteau Kindergarten, was sent for and she identified the child and notified Mrs. Martin of the accident. Mr. Martin did not know of his little son's death until he returned home from work last evening.

AVERS HUSBAND HELD HIM WHILE WIFE CHASTISED.

Robert Swinger Sues Mr. and Mrs. William McFarland for $2,500 Damages.

Robert Swinger yesterday filed suit in the Circuit Court against William and Minnie McFarland, asking $2,500 damages for a pummeling they are alleged to have given him.

It is said that the McFarlands, who are husband and wife and live in De Hodiamont, took umbrage at a remark that Swinger is alleged to have made, and that when they met him one day last week William McFarland pushed him up against the brick wall of a building and held him there, while his wife chastised him.

Swinger alleges that his actual damages as a result of the assault are $500, and asks that an additional $2,000 be assessed against the defendants as exemplary damages.

WORKMAN BURIED IN TRENCH.

John Sunkiegue Suffers no Ill Effects From Cave-In.

John Sunkiegue suffered no ill effects from being buried for nearly an hour in a trench which he was assisting to dig for the Laclede Gas Light Company at Grand avenue and Keokuk street yesterday morning and was able to resume work when relieved by fellow laborers.

Sunkiegue was working at a depth of nine feet when the banks caved in above him. The dirt completely covered him. Harry Vacon, foreman of the crew, directed the efforts of the rescuers, and it took them more than half an hour to dig him out. Sunkiegue was smiling when found and declared he was not hurt. He lives at No. 1639 Market street.

FEARS FOR CHILD'S SAFETY.

Mrs. Clara Bradley Held for Observation.

Detective Thomas McNiel yesterday at Fourth and Market streets took Mrs. Clara Bradley of No. 16 North Spring avenue into custody and had her conveyed to the City Hospital for observation.

Mrs. Bradley, it is said, imagines some person wishes to take her boy from her. She had a loaded pistol in the bosom of her dress which she claims to protect the child. She has refused to allow him to go to school, fearing he may be harmed by her supposed enemies.
