Humiliated and defeated the redoubtable "Muggsy" McGraw and his Giants shook the dust of St. Louis from their brogans last night, stung to the bone by the overwhelming execution at League Park yesterday afternoon, with Jack Taylor as slabsman. Almost 10,000 of the faithful braved the threatening breezes to watch the slaughter of the Gotham players to the tune of 8 to 2.

Mr. McGraw is not one whit more popular with the fans than when he was here last time, as was demonstrated when an umbrella in the hands of a rooter and several stones hurried the exit of the Giants from the park.

Only the timely arrival of the police saved "Muggsy" from what probably would have resulted in closer acquaintance with a mob in the bleachers, whom he and his pals offended by some retorts as they were leaving the grounds.

As the red-faced Champions slowly strolled from their bench the crowd in the stand let loose, and when the hooting and jeering got too warm "Muggsy" and his followers took turns in saying things about St. Louis fandom which were promptly resented.

A hornet's nest broke about the ears of the leaders, and in a moment the crowd was after them. Sergeant St. John saw the storm breaking and hurried his detail to the rescue of the players. While the New Yorkers scrambled into their seats a fusillade of stones and pebbles danced about the automobiles of the departing foe and followed them after they left the grounds.

One fan was taken into custody, but was released when it was shown that he was not guilty.

McGRAW'S OLD TACTICS.

McGraw's reputation as a disturber has followed him throughout his baseball career. Up to yesterday he had shown a striking inclination to sit during the game under the cover of the awning, preferring to allow Mike Donlin, Bowerman and others to incense the fans by their cutting remarks while coaching.

Over-aged vegetables and other choice bouquets have been the tokens of esteem handed to the Champs on their sojourn about the circuit. The success of the Cardinals yesterday aroused the ire of John J., and when he starts things look a dark blue about his immediate vicinity. The fans were quick to spy the downcast "Muggsy," and opened their artillery of railery and sarcasm even before he left the bench.

McGraw fought back and before he realized it, the spectators were in a state of frenzy. Several of the sturdy adherents made a dash for McGraw as the police pushed to the scene. It was at this time that the umbrella swung for John's solar plexus. Had there been bricks or cobblestones about the Giants might have felt their effect, as the crowd was incensed at the language of the Giants.

Recognizing that as the better part of discretion in this instance, the New Yorkers jumped aboard their bus armed with the protection of the law and made a dash for the gate. Stones and sticks followed the rig and the exchange of epithets followed the clashing parties until the Giants were out of sight.

JACK TAYLOR.

Next in importance of notice was the awful walloping which "Iron Man" McGinnity sustained when a base on balls, a hit batsman and eight singles, many of them gentle bunts, produced seven runs in one inning and furnished a rare chance for the fans to unbend their lungs.

The haunted pre-eminence of the lads from the Hudson has not shown itself in St. Louis. True they took two of the four games from the local toilers, but their conquests were dearly bought, and had the Cardinals, badly crippled, showed half the fighting spirit evidenced Thursday and yesterday, "Muggsy" would have more to trouble his managerial mind than injunctions and legal battles with President Pulliam.

Jimmy Burke, limping on his right foot, jumped into harness and supervised the work of his fold from the coaching lines until the beginning of the seventh, when James rolled back to his seat and was glad.

Perhaps Jimmy's presence was a mascot for the cannonading which must have been heard around the circuit. Chicago fans, at least, aired a wild shout of "Brave" and the echo joined in the bedlam which resounded against the walls of the old battle ground in Vandeventer avenue.

For five long innings the "Iron Man" was invincible. Three of the Cardinals faced him in each inning. The Champs had scored twice in the opening inning before Taylor had located his range on a single by Browne and a triple by Donlin. After that Jack was nowhere to be found. In seven of the eight remaining innings the visitors went to their places as fast as they grabbed a bat, and Jack was pitching in his best form.

"Cozy" Clarke opened up the sixth with a double, the first hit of the game. With Warner and Taylor out, Bill Shay came to the rescue with a neat single, scoring Clarke. He took second on the throw in and then stole third, as Bowerman fumbled the ball throw and threw badly to Devlin. Dan died at third.

Harry Arndt, whose playing was a distinct feature, accepting eleven chances, three of them of the spectacular order, was hit by McGinnity in the seventh. Burke then gave the word for bunting. And bunting the Cardinals did until the fans shouted and cheered themselves hoarse.

McGinnity was completely up in the air. He started out with misplacing Beckley's tap and then Smoot's bunt gave him the finishing jolt. When Brain came to the bat a neat single to left scored Arndt and Beckley. Clarke walked again, filling the bases, and his mate, Warner, drove Smoot home and Brain was caught trying to score on the throw. Taylor hit to left, scoring Clarke, and Shay slashed over above second, scoring Warner.

MORE RUNS SCORED.

Shannon put another in the same place and Donlin fumbled the ball, allowing Taylor to score. Arndt, batting the second time in the inning, drove to right and Shay tallied the seventh run of the inning with only one out. Beckley's tap was caught by McGinnity and Shannon was thrown out at third. Smoot ended the orgy by flying out to Devlin.

All through the progress of the miniature McMoor Hill charge, McGinnity cast wistful eyes in the direction of McGraw, but never a word or look of encouragement came to Joe. He pleaded for relief, but McGraw was hot under the collar, and Joe had to withstand the brunt of the attack. McGinnity's excitement in the opening of the inning made the slaughter possible.

"Muggsy" then yanked Joe from the wigwag and sent his private secretary, Elliott, who has done little since his association with the Champs but take care of the bats and hats, to the slab. Elliott pitched one inning and was hit four times, for one of them counting.

CARDINALS FAST.

Taylor seemed to gain strength and retired the last three Giants in simple fashion, striking out that mighty slugger, Donlin, after Mike had scored two triples of the six hits which his pards are credited with. Warner caught and batted in good shape, knocking down the only two attempts at base stealing and catching Donlin at the plate on a rapid throw to Taylor by Brain and home.

The Cardinals playing in all departments of the game was in striking contrast to that of Saturday. They outfielded and outbatted the Giants and the base running of Shay, Arndt and Clarke was great.

This afternoon Fred Tenney's Beaneaters come here for a series of four games. With the Cardinal pitching corps in good form, Burke should take three of the four games.

WHITE SEALS 4, NIAGARAS 0.

Hurley of Kulage's Team Allows Local Semiprofessionals Three Hits.

The White Seals of the Trolley League were again victorious when they defeated the Niagaras at Kulage's Park yesterday afternoon by a score of 4 to 0.

The Seals' victory keeps them in the front in the Trolley League. Kulage's team won the game in the third inning when they scored a tally. The Seals scored two more in the sixth and one in the eighth, which clinched the game.

"Spike" Hurley pitched for the Seals and allowed the Niagaras only three hits.

UMPIRE BUSH IS RELEASED.

Hopkinsville Denies That It Will Desert League—Signs New Players.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

Paducah, Ky., June 18.—President Charles Brown has released Umpire Bush of St. Louis and signed Umpire Quinn, a former Central League player, who was with the Henderson team until a few weeks ago.

Hopkinsville is signing new players and denies the report that it is going to drop out of the league. The management has bought the release of outfielder Schulinger from the Joplin, Mo., club.

Cairo has released Catcher Andy Pettit, who immediately signed with Jackson, in the Cotton States League. De Hajen, an outfielder, was also released, and Viler, a catcher and outfielder, who led the Cotton States in hitting last year, has been signed.

Alonzo Hedges, a pitcher, who started in the K. I. T. League, later going to Milwaukee, then to the Three I, has signed with Paducah. He is a Paducah boy.

Vahrenhorst, an outfielder and pitcher, was released by Paducah and signed by Vincennes. Vahrenhorst is from St. Louis.

Simpson, a pitcher, with Hopkinsville the first of the season, but who left the team, has returned.

Manager Ray of Princeton has signed Pitcher Ewing Harris and Shortstop Murch of the Texas League.

Linton, Ind., a city of 12,000, has applied for a berth in the K. I. T. League next season.

Prospects are that the salary limit next season will be raised from $900 to $1,200.

Wiley Pratt, who has been suffering from erysipelas, will be able to pitch early the coming week.

George Gilbert, a pitcher, who was with Henderson last season, has again signed with that team and won his first game Friday.

Cairo offered to buy Outfielder Long and Second Baseman French from Henderson, but the reply was that they were not for sale. Long is leading the league in hitting and French is probably the fastest and hardest-hitting second baseman in the league.

Notes of the Game.

"Muggsy" McGraw did not have time to get out an injunction against that umbrella which came his way and the fusillade of stones and sticks. There wasn't much fight in one McGraw when he saw the lowering countenances of that St. Louis mob, which would surely have pounced on the diminutive exponent of rowdy baseball had not the police intervened.

McGraw can hope for no better treatment when on the road. The Giants have been doubly disagreeable since their leader sought to retrain the president of the league from enforcing the rules against rowdyism. Even that small crowd which wants to see wrangling in baseball games has no use for the man who will rush to the courts to evade a punishment which is due him.

The Giants have come to be marked men in the baseball world. They cannot resort to the same tricks which are generally considered legitimate and pass without bringing down on their heads the wrath of a frenzied mob like that of yesterday. Unless McGraw and his men conduct themselves meekly they will surely be roughly handled. Certain it is that were the Giants to play away from home, depending on the foreign games to win another pennant they would never succeed, for the crowds would not permit the tactics which win games for the Giants.

The Western trip of the Giants so far has been disappointing to Mr. Brush, who has so stanchly upheld the rebellious conduct of his lieutenant. Pittsburg took two of the four games, Chicago annexed three of the four games, and the Cardinals took two out of four, making five won and seven lost. Cincinnati should take two more from the alleged champions.

New York's two victories in St. Louis were not gained without heavy losses. "Dummy" Taylor was beaten, Christy Mathewson was forced to quit the square after Brain's home run, and yesterday "Iron Man" McGinnity was pounded for a lengthy farewell. The trio won the pennant for New York last year, and all three of them were easy for the Cardinals. Leon Ames was favored by luck, taking the second game by the walloping Kelum received from the visitors.

Each member of the Cardinals made a hit off McGinnity yesterday, and Danny Shay made two. Eight of them came with a rush in one inning. The "Iron Man's"
