CORNELL RULES STRONG FAVORITE

Regatta at Poughkeepsie To-Day Narrows Down to Ithaca and Syracuse.

BETTING IS QUITE HEAVY.

Columbia and Georgetown Best Liked for Third, With Wisconsin Very Close Behind.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

New York, June 27.—With the crews almost equally matched in physique and strength, with Cornell's oarsmanship and technique or the cruder methods of Syracuse with the variety race on the Hudson at Poughkeepsie to-morrow afternoon in the tenth annual regatta of the Intercollegiate Rowing Association.

The betting makes Cornell a decided favorite at odds of 6 to 5, but this is a great measure is due to the fact that the Ithacans have more money than any of the other contenders. Most rowing experts believe that it is a close-up between Cornell and Syracuse, though to-night at Poughkeepsie Columbia and Georgetown were more favorably considered than during the past few days.

The eight from Ithaca, coached by the veteran Charles Courtney, rows in the most graceful style of any crew. Syracuse, on the other hand, puts more strength to the oar, and is more like a scratch crew of professionals.

HEAVY BETTING.

The betting has been enough to make a bookmaker dizzy. It was generally believed that Cornell would win, but Syracuse and Cornell were backed equally well at the start. The popularity of Syracuse with the betting men was shown when it was reduced to 6 to 5 from 10 to 6 in a few hours. Cornell's money was willing to bet even money on the Ithacans, but there were few takers.

For the freshman race the Cornell option was 2 to 1 against Syracuse, but this was soon reduced to 6 to 5 from 10 to 6 in a few hours. The popularity of the two first men was shown by the wager of $500 to $200 that Columbia would beat the Syracuse freshmen, and $300 to $200 that Columbia would beat the Cornell freshmen. Columbia's popularity in the betting was shown by a wager of $500 to $200 that Columbia would beat the Wisconsin freshmen.

Cornell's coach, a manager of the Syracuse crew, and a Yale oarsman were in the Syracuse boat-house to-day. The Syracuse coach said he was satisfied with his crew, but he seemed to be in a nervous state, and said he was willing to bet even money on his crew against the Cornell crew.

The Yale oarsman, who is a member of the Syracuse crew, said he was satisfied that Syracuse would beat Cornell. He said the Syracuse crew was in better condition than any other Wisconsin or Cornell crew.

"Now listen, my hearties," quoth Fred Clarke, the man of Smoketown, as he rode with his Pirates at pennant possibilities in the "blue to the ball grounds yesterday afternoon.

"Get after these fellows early this afternoon, secure your lead and then fatten your batting averages.

"Burke has a good bunch when they are going right, but that crowd of cripples this afternoon ought to be easy picking. Besides, you know, Barney has been down in the mouth about this McGraw affair, and he's up to us to make amends for the poor games back there at home. I'll sort of chew the old man up. Now, mind you, hike into plenty of them, and the two games at all costs."

"Aye, aye," came back from the red and blue legs. And well that Pittsburg crowd kept its promises. It took the two games easily, pounded all of the local pitchers almost at will and scored more long hits than most teams do in three games.

A good crowd of the faithful gathered in the stands to watch the eighteen innings, but it was a far different demonstration than that which the fans saw here Saturday. Nine of the Cardinal regulars, expected to be in hospital cripples to cripple both of the games, but some injured men were in the lineup. Injuries and illness have so limited the ranks of the men, however, that some of them had their proper bearing.

Pittsburg took the first game, 4 to 2, with young Akopian again at the bat.

Big and one had money and Phillippe had none, and the last of the game. Jack Phillippe was pounded about as hard as on the opening day of the series. Jack started all right, but Bergen getting worse each inning until he got so bad that Burke had to be substituted. Brown was a special injured man in Phillippe's place, and he was taken out in the second game. Jack got the second in the second game.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

Chicago, June 27.—Ten innings were necessary for Jones and his men to win from St. Louis to-day, and the final count was 3 to 2.

Up to the ninth inning the Browns had only two hits and these had scored one run. In the same eight innings the Sox had accumulated only three hits off Glade, but had scored twice.

When the visitors came to the bat in the ninth it looked easy for a 2-to-1 victory, the way things had been breaking. Owen precipitated his own disaster by issuing a pass to Rockenfeld, the first man up. Stone slammed one to Dundon, who forced Rockenfeld and tried for a double play, but Stone beat it by a nose. Van Zant popped out.

Pohlar made a safe drive through to left and "Ducky" stopped it, holding Stone at second. Wallace deposited a low fly safely in right and Stone made a dash for the plate. But Isbel had the ball up cleanly and shot it home.

It went wide of the plate, but beat Stone by thirty feet. Sullivan, however, had not expected Stone to take chance against long odds. When the visitors sneaked around behind him, Sullivan did not realize the situation until Stone had almost passed him. Then he made a desperate dive, touched Stone, but dropped the ball, the runner scrambling to the plate with the run that tied up the score.

Gleason was passed, filling the bases, but Joe Sugden was called out on strikes.

It was one, two, three for the visitors in the tenth, and the Sox won out in a jiffy in their half. Donohue forked Glade for another pass.

Isbell tried for a bunt and failed, then took a crack at the next one that came along. It sailed on a line over Sugden's head to safety. Vaughan headed it off, but the ball went past him and went clear to the fence, letting "Jiggs" home with the winning run before a man had been retired.

The string broke in the fifth. With two out, Owens issued his first free ticket and Sugden was the recipient. Weaver whipped a single out to "Ducky," who let it pass and Sugden scored on the bungle.

The Sox immediately evened up things. Donohue was passed and sacrificed to second by Isbell.

Sullivan tied the knot with a drive to safety in left, on which "Jiggs" registered. Sullivan stole second, but died there.

Davis opened the seventh with a double to right center. Donohue bunted him ahead a notch, and Isbell batted a safety into left, breaking the tie with one run.

Isbell tried to steal second, just as Sullivan struck out, and was doubled up for his pains.

YALE DEFEATS HARVARD FOR THE CHAMPIONSHIP

New Haven Team Captures Final Game by Score of 7 to 2 by Bunching Hits—Sons of Eli Stronger With the Willow Than Captain Randall's Men and Bat Out a Victory While Classmates Revel in Riot—Twelve Thousand Persons See the Contest.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

New Haven, Conn., June 27.—Yale won the baseball championship of the big Eastern colleges to-day with a decisive victory over Harvard by a score of 7 to 2.

The game was seen by the largest crowd that has ever attended a baseball contest on Yale Field. It is estimated that about 12,000 persons, including the graduates back for reunion, saw Yale win the championship for the first time since 1898.

The day was interesting, not only as regards the game itself, but as regards the scenes and enthusiasm that prevailed before the game. More than 1,000 graduates in kilts, kimonos and other uniforms, headed by bands and drum corps, marched from the campus to the field.

CHASE A PIG.

While the wearers of the blue were at practice the reunion classes paraded around the bases, indulging in various antics to their hearts' content. They shot a small cannon, chased a brown pig that was the mascot of the class of 1905 and applauded the "highland fling" of the real Scotch bagpipe player, who set the pace for the amateur highlanders of the class of 1905.

The brown pig caused more or less of a disturbance—once while the game was in progress. Held in leash with a rope around one leg, he broke loose in the sixth inning, upsetting his keeper and running toward the Harvard batsman. The game was stopped until he was finally caught and carried away in a wagon by two townsmen.

The game was largely a pitcher's battle, Yale's stick work was stronger than Harvard's, the former getting a home run, a two-base hit and four singles to Harvard's six singles, all of the latter being scattered. Yale's three errors were in the two first innings, and were due to nervousness. Harvard made one error in the first and two in the critical sixth, when Yale scored three runs.

FIRST BLOOD.

Kernan began the game by hitting to Keeney, whose fumble was a bad one. Leonard sacrificed and Stephenson singled, scoring Kernan. Matthews and Randall were out in short order, retiring Harvard with one run. Yale's batters were put out in the second without incident, except Bradbury's error in handling O'Brien's grounder.

The second, third and fourth innings were featureless for Harvard, but Yale took her lead in the fourth, with two runs by timely batting. O'Brien started with a single to center field, and Kinney followed with a hit to the same locality. Dexter misfielded the bound and the ball rolled past him, giving O'Brien a chance to score. Kinney, on the throw-in reached third safely. Cole was out at first and Hulskamp fouled out, but Bowman brought Kinney home with a two-bagger, Camp struck out.

Harvard was quickly retired in the fifth inning, but Yale kept up her batting streak, scoring two more runs. Chapin was out at first on a weak hit to Bradbury. Jackson hit an easy infield fly, which Leonard dropped, while scrambling close to his own base. Barnes placed a home run to his credit with a hit to deep center, scoring Jackson.

The thousands on the stand and bleachers yelled themselves hoarse at this stage, for the game was apparently Yale's. O'Brien and Kinney were quickly out, retiring Yale. From this point on Yale worked with perfect confidence.

FATAL SIXTH.

In the sixth inning Cate waited and got his base on balls. Huiskamp bunted safely and a passed ball sent Cate to third. Bowman fouled out. Camp singled to left field and Cate crossed the plate. Chapin hit to Bradbury, who tried to stop Huiskamp by throwing home. Stephenson missed the ball on a bound and both Huiskamp and Camp scored. Chapin taking second. Jackson and Barnes were quickly retired. These were the last runs scored by Yale.

Harvard made her second and final run in the seventh inning. Randall singled safely. Greenough struck out. Dexter hit to O'Brien and was thrown out at first. Bradbury hit to center, scoring Randall, who had made third base on Jackson's wild pitch.

In the ninth inning Captain Randall of Harvard sent Scheonfuss and McCarty to bat in the place of Greenough and Dexter, respectively, but they were easily retired.

The game concluded, the graduating class of Yale carried Captain Bowman and his players off the field, and the dance of the reunion classes began and continued until the procession started back to town. The class of 1880 to-night proudly carried through the streets a transparency labeled "What's the matter with '80's class boy, Barnes?" For Barnes, who made the only home run of the game, is the "class baby" of 1880.

The score:

Yale	0	0	0	2	2	1	0	0	1	7

J. P. MAYBERRY WINS OVER DELMAR FIELD.

O'Neall and Egan Gelding Wins Over Footlights Favorite and Taby Tosa—Jack Young Also Ran.

J. P. Mayberry had little trouble in winning from his field in the fourth race, a handicap at a mile and seventy yards, over the Delmar track yesterday afternoon.

Mayberry got off in front and decided the race at once, as he never was worse than first. He showed a good burst of speed down the stretch and outgamed Footlights Favorite in the run home.

Footlights Favorite was an easy second and Taby Tosa had little trouble getting the short end of the purse. Jack Young also ran.

The sport opened with a four-and-one-half-furlong affair, which was won by Floral Artist. The colt was off well, and, handled neatly by Watson, won as he pleased. Sewell made a try for first place with Kisil in the stretch, but Kisil could not catch the flying Artist, and had to be satisfied with the place. Bill Holt was a handy third.

Tom Kiley was an easy-going winner in the second race. Wilson handled Kiley nicely, and although Tom lost a bit of ground on the stretch turn, he lasted long enough to be first. Minon was best of the others, and was second, while Thank Haven was third, without a contender.

Una C. handily captured the third race. She went to the front on the stretch turn and came home with something to spare, winning by a length. Mrs. Falconer was second and Fortune Teller third.

Lucian won the fifth race, an event of seven furlongs, much as he pleased. The Walker gelding was always in front and won without trouble. Eleanor Howard was second and Gene Handion third.

Broodler, under a careful ride by Sewell, won the last race. Broodler lay well behind Athelrose's pace until straightened for the run home, when he went to the front and won. Athelrose tired and was second, with Pompano third. The summaries:

First race, four and one-half furlongs, maiden 2-year-olds, purse $400—Floral Artist, 108 (Watson), first; Kisil, 108 (Sewell), second; Bill Holt, 108 (Coleman), third. Time, 1:00 3-5. Hadur, Meadowbreeze, Armolo, Bourbon News and Mint Boy also ran.
