The huge frame of "Cy" Young, seemingly as speedy and tricky as ever, loomed up as an impenetrable barrier to the swatting of the Browns yesterday, and Harry Howell and his pals went down to defeat, 5 to 2, before a great crowd of enthusiasts.

The veteran had the Browns at his mercy with the exception of one inning, when the locals bunched three hits and scored their pair of runs. In no other inning did the local lads have a chance to increase their tallies. Young held the faithful enthralled to the first three innings, when he faced seven of the nine batters. He managed to work in two more, making a total of nine, which is one less than the season's record, held by Waddell.

Jimmy Collins won the game by a lucky smash which struck against the right field pavilion and rolled back of the stand. Before Pelsk could get the ball back to the infield Barkett and Parent had scored and the Buffalo son was resting at third base.

Howell was unfortunate in having two bad innings, the visitors bunching six hits and scoring four runs.

At other stages of the contest Harry's slippery-elm ball was working well, Joe Sugden being the principal sufferer. Stahlstone was limping and shaking his injured fingers during most of the game, much to the amusement of the visitors, and in their ninth, in the two-sallen faces which Barkett and Stahl fished were as possible for four of the five runs landed in the Chamberlain.

KOEHLER AT SECOND.

Rochester was too ill to play, and McAleer asked Koehler to the ball game, the v-mantle youngster playing a remarkably good account of himself, by incidentally, when he attempted "third" of the year. It was his work in the sixth place Benjamin Schreiber spent the rest of the last, as "Doc" Powers was stamped from one of the best all-around players to caught in the minor leagues years.

Howell played the position in clever fashion, the surprising character of his work being a striking hint of the advantage Hackett, Dahl and Miller expected to derive from a year in Pacific coast ball. He got two hits, stole a base and scored two of the runs.

Howell pulling himself out of a deserved rap, made in the fourth inning, after the visitors had gone to work on Young, with a base hit, a sacrifice and another hit, which Pelsk misjudged and allowed to roll for two bases. Howell was a wooden Indian in fielding and he showed which "hick" he was, when he found Freeman alive.

Anderson, recalled from Providence, and Hickman, who came to the Browns in the Lajoie deal, made their first appearance in the Brown ranks. The latter has a habit of confiding rumors in a manner which leads to the belief that he intends to be a "kid" player. Young ended the game when he struck out Howell, who threw at and missed the plate, having three of the Boston nine at his mercy.

COLLINS'S LUCKY TRIPLE.

Collins was responsible for the three runs the visitors made, Stahl having fanned, but Parent singled to left. Barkett hit to left, unknowing that Pelsk had fielded Parent's hit off the wall, and Collins, thinking he had time to score, started home. Pelsk, who threw home to the plate, had time to recover the ball.

With the bases four men to the good, Young seemed to be in a fix. Wolter was due to bat for Sugden, and Howell was glad to right the bases, offering Sugden a free pass to first. Young, at the plate, Wolter was intimidated by Young's delivery, and Sugden was forced to second, Wolter being thrown out by Pelsk, leaving the Boston pitcher on third.

Freeman, who had run on a hit by Parent, stole home and a single to left by Barkett gave Parent the signal to follow. Pelsk relayed the ball to Howell, who threw home, Young jumping to the plate to get the ball, but Parent was safe, Young ending the agonizing season by throwing to Howell, who threw Stahl out at the plate, having three of the Boston nine at his mercy.

COLLINS'S LUCKY TRIPLE.

Hoffer will be sent to the rubber against Boston to-day, as Willis has been a stumbling block for the Eastern aggregation for years. His antagonist may be "Big Bill" Dinneen. On the last two visits Bill has given a strong imitation of the form which virtually won the world's championship for Collins. With Young and Young going at their proper pace, the Boston club will get within striking distance of another flag.

White lack, in a great measure, has helped the Bostons to take their two games in St. Louis; there is some reason for Collins and President Taylor to make predictions which to many seem the height of humor. Jimmy has his crew playing and hitting in fast order, and quite they are not yet a champion pace, they look impressive and will be hard to beat from now on.

Dougherty in his field is a tower of strength to Collins in the slugging here. Jesse still has a host of friends in St. Louis, judging by the friendly greetings which he has received. One of twelve chances at the bat he made the hits, one of them a triple, scored three of the runs made by Boston and saved a game for his club. His batting here has been above the par mark and better than any of his pals.

Boston plays here to-day instead of to-morrow, according to the schedule. Manager McAleer agreed to work his team in order to allow Collins to play a proposed game at Cincinnati Tuesday. The Reserve will not that day, Attleboro coming the day after.

Koehler again signed his ability as an all-around player in substituting for Rochester at second. The heavy center fielder gave evidence of being one of the stars of the diamond game a year in last competition. Jimmy Collins has suffered a fracture of a group of players who are bound to be found first, Dougherty and Koehler are jumping from third to first order at present, and this is the first season with a regular berth on a big team.

The Cy Young with his slow curve just had everything a pitcher needed yesterday. Just to demonstrate that his repertoire was complete, Young threw six different balls to Williams. It caused the big fellow temporarily a slow motion look to be addressed as he tabbed a slow underhand outcurve over the plate. Young gave Williams the unimaginable, and Stahl and Parent followed suit. Stahl got his single, and Parent doubled, driving home Wolter, who had reached first on a base hit. Howell was left on third, Young ending the agonizing season by throwing to Howell, who threw Stahl out at the plate, having three of the Boston nine at his mercy.

Notes of the Games.

Manager McGraw yesterday wired Charles Nichols, asking his terms to work for the Giants. The message came one day too late. Nichols would have given New York the prefer, and with the fast Chicago team of Nichols's promises would be unquestioned. The sensational manager was the respect of the Giants by beating them on their last visit here. Nichols answered that he had accepted terms with Duffy, the Boston St. Louis club, starting with his family for his new home in the Quaker metropolis.

Sudhoff may be sent to the rubber against Boston to-day, as Willis has been a stumbling block for the Eastern aggregation for years. His antagonist may be "Big Bill" Dineen. WHITE SEALS WIN FROM MAGAZINES

Connery's Fast Bunch Has Little Trouble in Defeating McSweeney's Team by Score of Twelve to One.

Superior hitting and all-round playing gave to the White Seals a one-sided victory over the Woman's Magazine team at Kulage's Park yesterday afternoon. The score was 12 to 1.

At no stage of the game did the Magazines look dangerous. It was simply a romp for the Seals.

In the opening inning the Seals practically won the game by scoring two runs, but they kept on adding to their total until they had run up twelve tallies.

Much of the credit for the victory belongs to Hurley. He pitched a steady game, kept the hits well scattered and was cool and collected in the few pinches he was in.

The Magazines made only five hits off his delivery and two of them were of the scratch order.

During the absence of Connett Meier pitched for the Magazines. The Seals pounded his delivery hard at all stages of the game, making a total of fourteen hits, including three doubles and a triple.

"Bob" Connery, the Seals' crack first baseman, put up one of the best games ever seen at Kulage's. He rapped out two doubles and a single, scored four runs and accepted the seventeen chances sent his way with ease. Connery put up a game that would have done credit to a major league performer.

McKeown, at third, also played well, and accepted the five chances sent his way. Mcvilligan, at second, had a good day. He made three hits, including a triple, out of five times up, stole a base and accepted five chances without an error.

Coltrane played a great game for the Magazines. He had a hand in three raps out of the four times that he faced Hurley. All his hits were of the clean variety.

Alton Blues Beat Monarchs.

The exceptional clever pitching of A. Bess of the Alton Blues had much to do with that club's victory over the Alton Monarchs at Alton yesterday afternoon. After a clever contest the player was from the Monarchs by a score of 3 to 2.

In the department of the game did the Monarchs display at much cleverness as did Bess's aggregation. Walsh pitched his usual brilliant game for the Blues. Gray played a clever game for the Monarchs, while Hamilton's hard hitting was the feature of the game.

Jake Beck, manager of the Blues, is greatly pleased with the showing of his boys, and usually has to meet any club in the Trolley League in a series of games. The score:

Millers Beat Commercial Men.

Billy Gray's hard hitting Ben Millers defeated the Commercial Merchants by a score of 8 to 5 on the Women's Magazine Park yesterday afternoon.

Gray made a home run with Millers in the second inning, scoring from the base. Hogan followed this performance with a triple, which he made in the Millers' ninth, the Millers ending the game.

Notes of the Games.

Manager McGraw yesterday wired Charles Nichols, asking his terms to work for the Giants. The message came one day too late. Nichols would have given New York the preference, and with the fast Chicago team of Nichols's promises would be unquestioned. The sensational manager won the respect of the Giants by beating them on their last visit here. Nichols answered that he had accepted terms with Duffy, the Boston St. Louis club, starting with his family for his new home in the Quaker metropolis.

Sudhoff may be sent to the rubber against Boston to-day, as Willis has been a stumbling block for the Eastern aggregation for years. His antagonist may be "Big Bill" Dineen. On the last two visits Bill has given a strong imitation of the form which virtually won the world's championship for Collins. With Young and Young going at their proper pace, the Boston club will get within striking distance of another flag.

White luck, in a great measure, has helped the Bostons to take their two games in St. Louis; there is some reason for Collins and President Taylor to make predictions which to many seem the height of humor. Jimmy has his crew playing and hitting in fast order, and quite they are not yet a champion pace, they look impressive and will be hard to beat from now on.

Dougherty in his field is a tower of strength to Collins in the slugging here. Jesse still has a host of friends in St. Louis, judging by the friendly greetings which he has received. One of twelve chances at the bat he made the hits, one of them a triple, scored three of the runs made by Boston and saved a game for his club. His batting here has been above the par mark and better than any of his pals.

Boston plays here to-day instead of to-morrow, according to the schedule. Manager McAleer agreed to work his team
