That portly member of Clark Griffith's pitching corps, "Red John" Powell, opened the Highlanders' series against his former teammates yesterday in the presence of 8,000, and the former Brownie won. The score was 5 to 2.

Willie Sudhoff, who has shown some of his old-time qualities, was preserved by McAleer to lower the colors of the Browns' hoo-doo torturer. "Wee Willie" failed, as others have failed before him.

Jack O'Connor's business pal has been beaten, clouted and wiped from the diamond time and again, but not in St. Louis this year. His ponderous pellets, which roam about the rubber with audacious license in St. Louis, generally find repose either in the fielders' hands or Jim McGuire gets what is left.

It was that easy swing and Jack's surprising control which prevented the Browns from hitting. It was the wildness of Sudhoff and his lack of control which permitted the invaders to take unseemly liberties on the bases and poke out a hit when Grif pleaded with his crippled followers to open the gate for a base runner.

Willie was erratic in the first part of the clash. It took him five innings to get his range. By that time the agile New Yorkers had pilfered enough cushions to give five runs to them, and the frolic was lost.

There is just one place in the country that Powell shines. Jack shows off in St. Louis every time he comes here and generally thousands of the faithful are inspecting his maneuvers. He has developed the faculty of chipping pieces off the plate to perfection. John never hurls the pellet directly over the rubber. That is the secret of his success against the young Brownies. They want to swat and Jack won't let them. They pummel at poor ones and a smile creeps over the immovable features of the one-time Brownie. It's like a game of knock-up and catch to "Red John."

Powell was particularly good. He was the whole show in critical places and there were some five or six of these pinches.

The side-show was the base running of Keeler, Elberfeld, Williams and Dougherty. It was almost as popular as John's interpretation of the role of executioner. In the repertoire of this quartet infield hits were beat to bases, the celebrated invention of Griffith's, the "squeeze play," was worked to perfection twice and sacks were plundered with astonishing activity.

Grif's stranded pennant seekers were quick to take advantage of Sudhoff's wildness. Conroy, now an outfielder and apparently a right smart sample of the gardener, judging by the seven drives he sacked, led off when Willie issued a pass. That little, old fellow with the big batting average, Keeler, laid down one of the bunts which have made him famous and by the time Elberfeld's trap had reached Wallace "Wid" and Willie were out of danger a peg further along the sacks.

"Try the squeeze" suggested the small statured Griff to Williams. Jimmy did. Conroy rushed for home as Sudhoff began twisting for the third ball and Williams laid the ball down to Gleason too late to get "Wid" at home. Keeler tallied a moment after when Yaeger punched to left.

With Wallace gone in the next inning, Keeler beat a bunt, took second when Williams hit him in the back on Jones's offering and took third when the ball rolled to left field. Gleason scored "Dutch" on a drive to Conroy, and Roth fanned. St. Louis scored another in the fifth with two out. Stone walked, stole second, and Charlie Starr, who proved the real star of the bunch at bat, sent him home.

Dougherty did a slow bounder to Wallace and beat the ball to first. He beat another throw to second and sprinted safely to third ahead of another infield out. Powell whipped to left, adding another tally.

The cleverest work on base came in the fifth inning. Keeler coaxed Willie for a walk and got it. On Elberfeld's punky smash to left, Grif's Willie took third. He was asleep when Williams hit to Wallace and was caught and run down and out. Elberfeld took his place at third immediately and scored on Sudhoff's wild pitch.

Williams then took "Sherry's" place at third, and on the first ball thrown to Roth dashed for home. Yaeger's trusty willow did the rest. Joe was retired by Wallace but Williams tallied. Dougherty ended the exciting inning by fanning.

Sudhoff then developed some effectiveness and the enemy ceased to score. Powell teased with plenty of luck in the latter part of the game. Wallace and Kocher flew out to the same fielder twice, and then Jones and Gleason followed with singles in two different innings. Once Roth struck out and the other time he flew out to Conroy, ending the abortive rally each time. The score:

MICHIGAN LEAGUE BASEMAN JOINS GRIFFITH'S TEAM.

Fred Curtis, a first baseman, the "Bonaza King" of the Copper League, reported to Manager Griffith at the Southern Hotel last night. Curtis is a giant in stature. He walked into the hotel with his handle and bats in one hand and a telescope clasped in the other. With a droll twang Fred announced himself as "Mr. Curtis, leading the Copper League in batting and the best first baseman ever turned out of Michigan."

Instantly the bellboys about the corridors were alive, several making a rush for his bundle of willows and others grabbing his belongings tucked away in the canvas case securely fastened by three big straps.

"What's that Clark Griffith, the fellow at the head of the great New York ball club?

"He just wired me he needed a good first baseman and me, being the best in Michigan, I jumped on a train and came here."

Manager Griffith approached the tall stranger decked in a wide sombrero and smiled affably. Clark handed the stranger's grips to the boys and wrote "Fred Curtis, New York Baseball Club," on the register. Curtis entertained Jim McGuire and Mike Powers about the hotel telling his experience in the Copper League. Fred says he always thought he would be discovered. He will take Chase's place on the initial sack to-day. Mike Powers alternating with Jim McGuire back of the bat.

Notes of the Game.

"We would be well up in the first division to-day," said Clarke Griffith of the Highlanders last night, "were it not for the big list of cripples which has been my lot all season. I had five of the strong men of the team injured in two days, and in Detroit I went down and out when Chase and Kleinow were hurt. I telephoned Mack at Cleveland and told him I was all in and Connie said he would leave a player at Cleveland for me. When I got there I found my friend Mike Powers. He has been a big help to me and I may keep him for the rest of the season."

Griffith said the Highlanders had won seven out of their last eight games before leaving the metropolis and were playing the best game of baseball in the league. He blames the injuries to his players for the low place in the league. Clarke thinks he will beat out Chicago, Boston and Detroit and be fighting Philadelphia and Cleveland for the flag when the end of the season draws near.

"Shorty" Elberfeld is as good as ever, according to "Grif." The veteran certainly showed some fine work together with Kocher, the needed "Wid" Conroy, the latter going to center field. Griffith declares Conroy has turned out to be a wonderful fielder and that the former infielder may hold a place in the gardens in the future.

Dave Fultz was not in the line-up yesterday. Pat Dougherty taking his place in left field. Dave is one of the few players in the big leagues who refuse to play on Sunday.

Jimmy Collins took a game on Onio and yesterday which was not in Cleveland. Detroit and the Champions looked up at Columbus, and Collins's poor rubbers were returned the victors. Strange, wasn't it?

Charlie Starr has made three hits in each of two of the four games in which he has worked in Rockenfield's place. Yesterday he hit Powell each time he came to the plate. Three of the swats went into safe land and the other two were sent by Elberfeld, one a line drive and the other a Texas Leaguer over third. Starr gives much promise as a batter. He handles his stick much a la Keeler, and has a healthy jab which sends the ball over the infield.

The "squeeze play" was immediately identified by the faithful, who marveled at the velocity with which those Highlanders ran bases. Powell, of course, helped a great deal to win the game, but the base running of his pals was what brought over the five runs.

Frisk was substituted in place of Sudhoff in the last inning, and gave to Willie Keeler a long chase against the score board in right field. It is a most deplorable circumstance that Emil is unable to cover a sufficient amount of territory to keep him in the game all the time. The lad has a faculty of walloping which is rarely seen in the big leagues hitter. Emil is a house afire in a minor league, and his poor fielding keeps him back in the big leagues.

At Orth, who had pitched thirty-seven innings up to Saturday without allowing a run, and Jack Chesbro, the noted spit-ball twirler, will seen in St. Louis. Both of these pitchers are going at their fastest clip, and Griffith declares he will go out of St. Louis with at least three of the four battles. Buchanan will face the music to-day.

SEALS' HITTING WINS FAST GAME

Connery's Braves Train Their Artillery on Pitcher De Temple and Shatter His Curves Fourteen Times.

The gunners of the White Seals had their ammunition dry yesterday and they shattered the delivery of Pitcher De Temple of the Commission Merchants beyond recognition at Kulage's Park. Connery's braves punctured De Temple's curves fourteen times.

It was a regular old-time batting bee. The Seals pounded the ball just as often as they pleased.

Beyond the prodigious hitting of the Seals there was nothing to the game. There was not a minute when the Commission Merchants were in it.

Kelly and McKeown, the Seals' clever infielders, did the best stick work. Kelley had two doubles and a single to his credit and McKeown three singles. Captain Connery whacked out a three-base hit.

The Commission Men lost heart in the third inning, when the Seals battered De Temple for five runs, and after that only played because there was nothing else to do.

Hurley, the Seals' big pitcher, nailed the "lid" down tight on the Merchants. He allowed only seven hits to them and fanned eleven men.

Connery played a good fielding game for the Seals. John Donahue led the Commission Merchants at the bat. He pounded out a home run and single. Catcher Clifford of the Seals also made a "hemlauf."

ALTON SHUT OUT WITHOUT A HIT

Jokerst, Collinsville's Crack Pitcher, Duplicates Henley's Feat in Game at Alton.

Weldon Henley's recent feat of pitching a no-hit, no-run game was duplicated at Alton yesterday when Jokerst of Collinsville let the Alton Blues down without a hit or run. It was the most remarkable game ever pitched at Alton.

The only rap that approached a hit was a grounder made by Carney down the first-base line, which he almost beat out.

Jokerst was in remarkable form. He struck out fifteen batsmen and retired the side on strikes twice.

He allowed only four bases on balls, and not a runner of Bene's team reached third base.

The Collinsville man received good support in the field from his teammates.

A. Bene of the Alton Blues made several remarkable catches.

BEN MILLERS WIN GREAT GAME.

Defeat Woman's Magazines in Fourteenth Inning by Making 3 Runs.

The Woman's Magazines and the Ben Millers indulged in another remarkable game at Magazine Park yesterday. It required fourteen innings to decide which club was best, after which the Ben Millers were returned victors by a score of 8 to 4.

On July 4 the same teams played at Magazine Park, and the Magazines won after fourteen innings by a score of 1 to 0. This was the record game of the season, and only stands equaled by the performance of the same clubs yesterday.

The Magazines had McDuffie in the box for them, and, barring the third and last innings, he pitched remarkable ball. Allred twirled for the Ben Millers and pitched a marvelous game.

Allred farned eleven batters and allowed only five hits in fourteen innings.
