BREAKS HIS WORD; RETURNS TO PRISON

Eighteen-Year-Old Roy Courtwright, Pardoned by Governor Folk on Condition, to Be Brought Back to Penitentiary.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

Jefferson City, Mo., Sept. 9.—One of Governor Folk's famous conditional pardons has been broken. Nearly all of the pardons issued by him are upon certain conditions. About a month ago he pardoned Roy Courtwright, an 18-year-old Kansas City boy, who ran away from home and got into trouble at Springfield, Mo., there being grave doubts as to his guilt and all the court officers requesting his pardon.

The pardon was granted upon the condition that Roy remain at home until 21, and that he obey all the laws of the State. Last night the Governor received intelligence to the effect that the boy had broken the conditions of his pardon in Kansas City by running away from home again and engaging in an attempt at burglary.

Governor Folk promptly ordered the Warden of the Penitentiary to bring him back to prison, there to serve out the remainder of his term of three years. Courtwright is the first to break the conditions of a pardon.

TO PUSH GAS FRANCHISE SUIT AT KANSAS CITY.

Prosecuting Attorney Says He Has No Intention of Dropping Injunction Case, Despite Grand Jury.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 9.—Prosecuting Attorney Kimbell declared to-day that, regardless of the report of the Grand Jury, he proposes to push the injunction suit in the gas franchise case, and says he hopes Judge Wofford will call another Grand Jury.

When the Grand Jury practically gave the Council a "clean bill of health" it was supposed by many that the Prosecuting Attorney would dismiss the proceedings in the Circuit Court and leave the Council free to act.

"I have no intention of dismissing the case," Mr. Kimbell says.

"While the Grand Jury failed to find facts on which to base specific indictments, I am more convinced now than I ever was that there was corruption at least attempted in connection with gas franchises.

"I believe another Grand Jury could take up the work of this one where it finished and probably secure results."

PRICES OF PORK AND BEEF CONTINUE TO CLIMB DAILY.

Kansas City Packers Deny Secret Understanding, But Give Out Same Figures Every Morning.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

Kansas City, Sept. 9.—The wholesale prices of all grades of pork and beef are still one-half to 2½ cents a pound higher now than they were a few days ago.

This has caused a corresponding advance in the retail prices of meats, and butchers are kept busy explaining to their customers that the packers and not the retailers, are responsible for the high charges.

This is the season of the year for the pork and beef prices to decline. Instead, prices are climbing higher each week.

The packers deny there is a secret understanding about prices, but all packers give out the same prices every day.

The packers explain that the hog and cattle market is unusually high for this season of the year, but the quotations from the stock yards indicate the packers are holding the prices down.

MANY TEACHERS AUTHORIZED.

State Superintendent Awards Nineteen Life Certificates.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

Jefferson City, Mo., Sept. 9.—During the latter part of August, the State Superintendent of Schools, W. T. Carrington, held examinations for teachers at the following places: Columbia, Jefferson City, Kansas City, Kirksville, Macon, Springfield and Warrensburg. One hundred and seventy-six teachers took these examinations and wrote 608 papers, covering forty-one branches. Of these papers, 198 were graded below passing (60 per cent).

The following completed the work in full and were issued life certificates: Fred L. Appleby, Springfield; Helen Louise Barr, Nevada; Madeline B. Bywaters, Neosho; W. A. Waggett, Springfield; Esta B. Dayton, Springfield; Elizabeth Faulkner, Lamar; Sara George, New Madrid; T. B. Lockett, Dresden; Mrs. Martha P. McClintock, Neosho; J. E. McCutchan, Moberly; Mattie Matthews, Liberty; Nellie Mills, Monett; Mrs. Carrie Phelps, West Plains; Mabel M. Richards, Bevier; F. M. Stephens, Rich Hill; Genevieve Turk, Macon; Mrs. Mary F. Winningham, West Plains; Anna Wilson, Liberty; William H. Ziegel, Dearborn.

The following received five-year certificates: Emily B. Albeelta, Marshall; C. F. Allen, Schell City; F. M. Alsup, Warrensburg; Mrs. W. A. Annin, Macon; Mary E. Asbury, Farmington; Laura Baker, Mexico; Grace Benton, Webb City; Anna L. Blair, Springfield; Lee R. Biggs, Memphis; Pearl V. Brooke, Springfield; E. M. Brooks, Hume; Mary V. Clarks, Marshall; Lela L. Elmore, Carthage; W. S. Fannon, Barnard; Bessie Fowler, Schell City; Nora J. Gill, Braymer; Laura B. Hawkins, Maryville; Jennie Johnson, Mount Vernon; Burtis M. Little, Harrisonville; R. E. Lundeen, St. Charles; Ada McDaniel, Higginsville; Winifred McFarland, Webster Groves; Ethel Miles, Independence; O. H. Moore, Carrollton; May Morgan, Urich; Chas. E. Russum, Carthage; Gussie Sievers, Herculaneum; Mabel Symonds, Lake City, Ark.

The following had five-year contract renewed after having made two or more satisfactory records in summer schools or took additional examinations: W. T. Bender, Rockwood; J. N. Cross, Mexico; Gertrude Pugitt, Carthage; Elmer Mann, Clarksdale; Calvin C. Moore, Clarksdale; J. H. Simpson, Novinger; Bertha A. Stobernack, Hannibal; I. R. Tuttle, Millersburg.

INVENTS TROLLEY MAIL BOX.

Inventive Missouri Farmer Saves Himself Walk to Front Gate.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

Mexico, Mo., Sept. 9.—H. M. Royalty, living near Curryville, east of this city, has a novel method of saving effort in securing his mail each day.

Although Mr. Royalty had no objection to riding several miles for his mail before the rural free-delivery service was instituted, when his mail was delivered at the front gate to his farm, several hundred feet from the house, the effort of walking to the mail box after each trip of the mail carrier became irksome and he planned a trolley mail box, by which the mail can be drawn to the house by a strong cord.

Poles are erected on which are placed wires for a small tram system, the motive power being supplied through an extra cord, attached to a crank. Mr. Royalty said: "The device is a great convenience for lazy men like myself and a time-saver for a busy man."

GARFIELD WANTS EVIDENCE.

Asks for Copy of Information Filed Against Standard Oil.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 9.—City Attorney Swanson has received a letter from James R. Garfield, of the Department of Commerce and Labor, asking that he mail to the Bureau of Information a copy of the information recently filed against the manager of the Standard Oil Company in this city, alleging the use of short measures in the sale of oil.

The case against the manager of the company was recently dismissed by the Police Judge on the ground that the standard used by the City Inspector, showing the cans of the oil company to be short, was not the standard authorized by the State of Missouri.

WALKS THREE MILES TO VOTE.

Joseph Milde of Cape Girardeau, 87 Years Old, Is Still Vigorous.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

Cape Girardeau, Mo., Sept. 9.—Although 87 years old, Joseph Milde, living three miles from this place, walked to the city polling place to cast his vote for the issuance of bonds to build a new Courthouse for Cape Girardeau County.

Mr. Milde is among the oldest residents of the county, and his feat of walking so far to vote is looked on with wonder by his friends.

INDIAN CONVENTION MAKES ITSELF A PERPETUAL BODY

Adjourns to Meet Whenever Exigencies May Arise—Adopts Railway Provision and Amendment Asking Continuance of Territories' 784 Schools—Constitution Now Ready for Ratification by People—Eighty Thousand Votes Probably Will Be Cast for or Against Document, Which Is Said to Have Been Framed Regardles of Politics.

TWO ARGUMENTS TO BE ADVANCED TO OBTAIN ENABLING ACT

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

Muskogee, I. T., Sept. 9.—Just one month from the day the delegates were elected the Constitutional Convention which proposes to create the State of Sequoyah out of the area of the Five Civilized Tribes, has taken an indefinite recess, after having prepared a Constitution which the delegates believe will meet the requirements of the occasion.

That the convention took a recess, subject to the call of the chairman at any time, instead of an adjournment sine die, is a fact worth remembering, as it may be full of possibilities.

This convention has thus created itself a perpetual body with the express understanding that it will continue convening at various times as exigencies may require, until it purpose is finally accomplished.

If Congress should lend a willing ear to the appeal of the Constitution, but require some changes, this convention can reassemble at a day's notice and adopt the necessary changes. Likewise, should it make other changes should it find conditions demanded them.

RAILWAY PROVISION.

In its closing hours yesterday the convention made one important amendment and adopted a thoughtful resolution. The amendment provides that no railroad shall build a line within four miles of an established county seat without building to that town and establishing a station.

This was done for the purpose of preventing railroad promoters from holding up towns for bonuses under threat of building rival towns and cutting the county seats off from railroad communication. There was a stiff opposition to this amendment, but it carried.

The resolution was not a part of the Constitution, but an appeal to Congress to make provision to continue the 784 schools in the Territory after the 4th of March, at which time the availability of all present Government and tribal school revenues ceases.

It further requests Congress to make an appropriation, in case statehood is granted, of such a sum as would equal the amount of school tax on lands which the Government has rendered nontaxable by Indian treaties.

It further recommends that Congress give to the new State a school fund that would be equal to the usual amount of public land donated to a State as a public school fund, it being impossible to make such a land grant in Indian Territory because the land has all been allotted to Indians.

MUST NOW BE RATIFIED.

The Constitution must now be ratified by the people. To that end two committees have been appointed—Campaign and Finance committees. The one will raise the money to conduct the campaign and hold an election. The other will direct the campaign.

The Finance Committee believes that $1,000 can be raised in each recording district, making a campaign fund of $78,000.

Towns that want to become county seats under the new regime will be expected to contribute largely to this fund. The Campaign Committee has already decided that a still hunt will be more effective than a hurrah campaign.

Therefore, literature and club organizations will be the basis. There are nearly 700 Post Offices in the proposed State. A separate State club will be organized at each Post Office.

ELECTION RULES.

The Supreme Election Board has already issued notice of the rules that will govern in the election. Every town that wants to have its name printed in the ballot as a county seat candidate must notify this board before October 15. A negative vote on the Constitution means the rejection of its provisions entire.

The board gives any political party the right to call conventions and nominate four candidates for delegates to Congress. These having been properly nominated, will be voted upon, the two receiving the highest number of votes from each party will be the members of Congress as soon as the State is admitted.

To provide against failure of political parties making nominations, the convention itself selected four candidates who will be voted upon unless the political parties nominate.

The Democrats may nominate four candidates and the two getting the greatest number of votes will be declared elected. Likewise the Republicans. Such a campaign will net cast votes, and to vote for Congressmen, the voter must first vote for the Constitution.

EXPECT 80,000 VOTES.

The Constitution is a document that even adverse critics pronounce "an able effort of statesmanship." But it will have no weight whatever unless the people ratify it and do so with a large vote. It is believed that there are 100,000 voters in the Territory. Of these 80,000 should vote, and the men who made the Constitution believe that 60,000 will be for the Constitution.

The plan from the first has been to get the Constitution on such a broad plane and in such form that the man who votes No thereby declares himself in favor of no statehood, and there are mighty few men in this country who want to go on record that way.

There has been absolutely no politics in the formation of the Constitution. Every effort has been made to give both Democrats and Republicans representation on all matters.

The fact that there were more Democrats then Republicans in the convention does not indicate the percentage of the parties in the Territory, but does indicate that more Democrats than Republicans favor separate statehood.

There could be no politics in the arrangement of counties or legislative or judicial districts because there has never been a vote in Indian Territory, and no on knows where the Democratic or Republican majorities are.

LOCAL QUESTIONS ELIMINATED.

The vote on ratification is the important element in the movement. It will decide whether the people want separate statehood or not. To get this expression, as many local questions as possible were left for a decision by the people in order to arouse their interest in the prime question.

If the Constitution fails to draw the voters its supporters think it should, the election will be the dying effort of the separate State advocates.

For this reason the advocates of single statehood will direct their efforts against the ratification of the Constitution. But most of them have gone on record, both at home and at Washington, as favoring that kind of statehood which they can get first, whether it be single or double.

Separate statehood is the only kind now offered. The single-State men have nothing to offer in place of it, and if they vote "No" on this plan they go on record as "no-staters."

ARGUMENTS FOR ENABLING ACT.

The argument for an enabling act, making the Constitution effective, which will be made before Congress at the next session, will be based on two principles.

First, that the Government is bound by all its treaties with the Five Tribes not to make them a part of any other State or Territory than that embraced by their own Territory without their consent.

The Indians have, through their councils and their chiefs, gone on record as against single statehood, and that they want separate statehood and want it now. Congress will be asked to stand by its treaty obligations.

The other principle will be that the majority of the people want separate statehood, and have so indicated by their vote; that they are prepared for statehood as shown by their Constitution; that they want statehood now because they have provided the machinery for State government and sought admission in the same manner that thirteen other States have been admitted.

GOVERNMENT PREPARES TO SELL MANY TOWNSITE LOTS.

Indian Inspector Wright Begins General Cleaning Up of All Unsold Property in Territory.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

Muskogee, I. T., Sept. 9.—Indian Inspector J. George Wright has commenced a wholesale cleaning up of all unsold town lots in all Government townsites in Indian Territory.

A Government townsite is a town where the land was segregated from allotment, and the lots with improvements on them scheduled and sold to the owners of improvements and the unimproved lots are sold to the highest bidder, the Government conducting the sale, receiving the money in annual payments and placing it to the credit of the nation in which the town is located.

There are a great many towns in which there are but one or two lots to be sold. The following is a complete list of all towns where ten or more lots are to be sold at public auction, and the date of sale:

COTTON COMPRESS DIRECTORS

New Officers to Be Elected This Week.

At the annual meeting of stockholders of the St. Louis Cotton Compress Company, held yesterday, the following Board of Directors was elected to serve for the ensuing year: William K. Kavanaugh, James M. Carpenter, A. L. Shapleigh, Robert Ranken, Julius Lesser, J. D. Goldman, R. W. Upshaw, John D. Davis, Breckenridge Jones, H. N. Davis and Sol Lande.

The new Board of Directors will convene this week to elect officers.

Killed Trying to Save Mill.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

Turner, Mo., Sept. 9.—While attempting to save his woolen blanket mill from destruction by fire Frank T. Faulkner, one of the leading residents of Turner, was overcome by smoke and perished.

The mill property, constituting the town's principal industry, was burned. The monetary loss is $6,000.

TO SLAUGHTER BIG GAME IN MONTANA

Harry B. Hawes, Perry Francis and Herbert Walker Off for Three Weeks' Hunt in the Rockies.

The bear, cougars, deer, elk and other big game which survived President Roosevelt's trip to Montana last spring will have to face a new danger that is threatened by Harry B. Hawes, Perry Francis, Herbert Walker and others, who departed for the Western haunts yesterday.

Armed with big rifles, a plentiful supply of ammunition and the enthusiasm of Nimrod, the party left St. Louis hopeful of returning with much glory and pelt.

Their objective is Gardner, Mont., in the heart of a country where the largest and most ferocious animals are said to abound. From Gardner, the hunters will travel 132 miles on horseback to a wild section of Yellowstone Park, marking their path by the carcasses of the country's fauna. The principal theater of slaughter will be the Jackson Hole region, in which President Roosevelt wrought so much havoc among the bear and elk.

Communication with civilization will be suspended while the nimrods are slaying their big prey, and the outside world will not know for three weeks the exact mortality traceable to their presence in the wilds.

Mr. Hawes and Mr. Francis will be the guests of Mr. Walker during the expedition. They will be absent from St. Louis about three weeks. On their return a distribution of the skins and horns of their quarry will be made among their friends.

OLD SETTLERS HOLD REUNION.

William Budd Elected President at Bunker Hill, Ill.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

Bunker Hill, Ill., Sept. 9.—The twelfth annual reunion of the old settlers of Southern Macoupin and Northern Madison counties was held here on Friday. The attendance was estimated at 2,000.

Mayor Cook of East St. Louis was the speaker of the day. He delivered the address in the afternoon in Hulse's Opera-house. Other speakers were Congressman Zeno Rives for this district and W. B. P. Anderson and E. C. Knotts of Carlinville.

The historian's report showed that forty-nine old settlers, members of the association, have died within the past year. The honor of being the oldest person present fell to James Prewitt of Fosterburg. He came to Bunker Hill vicinity seventy years ago, and has lived here since.

The officers elected by the association for the coming year are: William N. Budd, president; J. L. Campbell, secretary; S. T. Silver, treasurer; E. W. Hayes, historian.

THIEF WORE FULL DRESS SUIT.

This "Gentleman" Burglar Hands Back Jewels and Silver.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

Philadelphia, Sept. 9.—It was really so like a fiction story that Mrs. Florence Kroneman forgot to faint as she came upon a burglar, clad in full evening dress, in her dining-room at 3 o'clock in the morning.

"What——" began Mrs. Kroneman.

Before she could finish the question the burglar turned, bowed, and said:

"Ah, I see; you have caught me. Very well! I regret having frightened you.

"Although I am a burglar, madam, I trust I still retain some vestiges of gentlemanliness. To prove it, I give you back this (waving his hand toward a large pile of solid silver which was gathered together in a heap on the table) and these."

So saying, the man produced a handful of rings, brooches, pins and other trinkets belonging to Mrs. Kroneman, tossed them on a chair and fled into the night.

"Good evening," he said, as he vanished.

Then Mrs. Kroneman fainted.

TELEPHONE GIRL GETS $20,000,000

Aged Canadian Millionaire, Whom She Married Last Spring, Dies, Leaving His Entire Estate to His Pretty Bride.

New York, Sept. 9.—It was learned today that E. R. Whitney, the aged and very wealthy Canadian who married the telephone girl at the Grand Union Hotel last spring, died recently at Concord, N. H., where he went with his wife to recover his health.

It is said that he had been suffering from Bright's disease.

His young wife, who was formerly Miss Annie Bennett, will now come into a fortune estimated at $20,000,000.

The marriage of Mr. Whitney to Annie Bennett, the pretty telephone operator in the Grand Union, on May 7 last, created an immense sensation in this city. The millionaire was attracted to the girl by her modest and pleasing manner and her general bearing.

Upon her wedding day he placed a bank account to her credit of $10,000 and gave her $5,000 to pay for her trousseau. He also gave her $500 in cash for "pin money" and a diamond sunburst as a wedding gift.

Annie Bennett was earning $8 a week at the hotel switchboard when Mr. Whitney met her. They went to Atlantic City on their honeymoon and, upon their return to the city, put up at the Hotel Majestic until a magnificent home in Riverside Drive should be finished. It was then that Mr. Whitney fell ill and went to New Hampshire.

MILLER RECEIVES NEW POST.

Germany Objected to American Consul Because of Writings.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

Washington, Sept. 9.—J. Martin Miller, who was removed as American Consul at Aix-la-Chapelle on account of objections offered by the German Government, has been appointed Consul General at Auckland, New Zealand.

The new post is a promotion in the service and carries with it an increase of salary. The German Government objected to Mr. Miller's presence at Aix-la-Chapelle on account of several articles Mr. Miller had written about Germany during his career as a newspaper man and war correspondent.

Mr. Miller will succeed Frank Dillingham of Vermont at Auckland. Mr. Dillingham will be sent to Aix-la-Chapelle.

FOLK APPOINTS ELECTION BOARD OF KANSAS CITY.

Selection of Daniel R. Holmes Comes as a Surprise—Lowe and Epperson Other Members.

SPECIAL BY CABLE.

Kansas City, Sept. 9.—Just before departing from Jefferson City for Portland to-day Governor Folk issued commissions to James M. Lowe, Daniel R. Holmes and A. E. Epperson, the new Board of Election Commissioners for Kansas City.

He had previously announced the appointment of Mr. Lowe and Mr. Epperson, but the selection of Mr. Holmes came as a surprise to many of the Democrats who have taken an interest in the appointment.

Mr. Holmes is a friend of Mr. Lowe, the chairman of the board, and the two men will work together in harmony.

Mr. Holmes is a Democrat and an attorney. He was an early supporter of Folk as a candidate for Governor, but was never specially active or known as a politician. The new board will organize Monday.

DAUGHTER SUES HER PARENTS

Asks $6,000 Damages for Alienating Husband's Affections.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 9.—Mr. and Mrs. John Brown, who live a farm in Clay County, were sued to-day for $6,000 damages by their daughter-in-law, Alice Brown, who alleges that they alienated the affections of her husband, Louis Brown.

She married Brown in Davenport, Ia., in 1900 and went to live with her husband's parents upon the farm. She alleges that they did not like her and that they induced him to leave her destitute with two children.

Habeas Corpus for Sappington.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

Jefferson City, Mo., Sept. 9.—Frank Farris, attorney for Frank Sappington, who was sentenced to twenty years in the Penitentiary from Washington County for rape, secured a writ of habeas corpus from the Supreme Court in chambers to-day. The writ was granted to have the Circuit Judge show why he should not release Sappington on bond pending the appeal to the higher court.

Thinking of the Cook.

Jones: "What makes you think Stubbs is absent-minded?"

Frayer: "We went into an auction store yesterday. The auctioneer was shouting, 'Going! Going!' and Stubbs shouts, 'Please don't go. I will give you five dollars a month more, and have a girl to help you with the cooking.'"

Couldn't Be Worse.

Visitor at Seaside Boarding-house: "I say, landlord, your food is worse than it was last year."

Landlord: "Impossible, sir!"—Judge.
