VALUES DECLINE IN LOCAL GRAIN MARKET.

TOTAL LACK OF INTEREST CHIEF FACTOR.

Bulls Look for a Large Export Business This Week to Help Out Their Cause.

Values were on the downturn in Saturday's session of the local grain market. Both corn and wheat opened below Friday's closing, and their range was narrow. There was a total lack of interest, either speculative or outside. The market trailed along after Chicago, and the situation there appeared to be in the hands of a few large traders, who manipulated things to suit themselves.

Bulls believe that an export business will develop this week, which will materially assist their cause. On the other hand the selling side holds that there will be an abundant supply, even if the foreign demand reaches 100,000,000 bu.

The cash market both on corn and wheat was uninteresting Saturday. There was a fair demand for soft wheat, but on the hard article the market was dull and heavy.
