BODY BURIED IN OLD SHACK.

Wickliffe, Ky., Disturbed by Grewsome Find of Railway Gang.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

Cairo, Ill., Oct. 26.—A murder mystery at Wickliffe, Ky., has caused much excitement and the officers of that place are baffled in locating the person guilty of the deed.

On last Tuesday a party of railroad men working near an old shack located one and one-half miles southeast of Wickliffe were annoyed by an unpleasant odor which seemed to come from the shack.

They concluded to investigate, and as they entered the building they found that the odor came from under the floor, which they took it upon themselves to rip up, as it consisted of only boards laid on the ground.

They discovered in one corner a man's foot sticking up from the ground. Further examination brought to view a headless trunk.

Digging deeper, the men found the decapitated head. Three or four months ago the building was occupied by a gang of railroad men, and it is believed that the body is that of some member of the gang.

SAYS HUSBAND TORE HAIR.

Lack of Wardrobe, Another Allegation of Divorce Applicant.

Ida F. Van Beek, in her suit for divorce filed in the Circuit Court yesterday, alleges that last January her husband, Herman, tore out a handful of her hair and struck her in the face with his fist.

He beat her, October 9, and afterwards locked her in a wardrobe, to prevent her from notifying the police, she alleges. He struck her on many other occasions and failed to properly provide for her, she claims. He earns about $25 a week, she states.

Other divorce suits filed yesterday were: Emma Hromatka against Johann Hromatka, and Mollie S. Johansen against August E. Johansen, alleged failure to support; Laura I. Wellman against George G. Wellman, Emma Hendrickson against George Hendrickson, and Everett Wheeler against Blanch W. Wheeler, alleged desertion; Mary Oberkrom against August Oberkrom, alleged failure to support and desertion, and Annie Steiner against Julius Steiner, Viola Beacom against George R. Beacom, and Matilda Lolley against Jacob J. Lolley, alleged infidelities.

TISSOT PAINTINGS ON VIEW.

Exhibited at St. Louis Museum of Fine Arts.

The Committee of Exhibition of the St. Louis Museum of Fine Arts is now exhibiting the Tissot collection of paintings illustrating the Old Testament. This series of paintings has been exhibited in all the large cities of the world. Aside from the interest they possess as works of art they are of great value to the student of archaeology and bibliography.

Professor Ives has written letters to every pastor in the city, inviting them to see the collection.

"We will be glad to make arrangements with teachers and Sunday-school superintendents," said Professor Ives, "so that they may bring their congregations or Sunday schools to the museum and deliver sermons on the paintings or study them with their pupils. There will be no admission charges. All we ask is that they pay for the lighting and expense of keeping the museum open. They can make arrangements for special dates, when the galleries will be at their disposal."
