The Gas

Pipes are spread [illegible] slowly. Hurry up, ye men of light [illegible]

Business

In East Waco, as [illegible] in all other parts of the city, was exceedingly dull yesterday.

Another Pony Race

The people of old West Waco, had an exciting pony race yesterday. Hard earned dollars changed hands very readily.

A very Large train of freight cars arrived Wednesday. It comprised goods of all descriptions and of every character.

The dark eyed

Little musicians, from the gutters of Naples are again playing their sweet notes in saloons of Waco. Poor little fellows, we love to speak kind words for them.

A party of Boys

Were making a noise near the Baptist University last night. A policeman happened round about that time, and——the boys made it interesting to him.

Is the Waco

Base Ball Club a myth? we have not seen or heard anything of it for a long time, except through the Gatesville Sun.

The New

County officers have now dropped quietly into their new grooves, and are giving very general satisfaction, we believe.

Messrs. Powell & Bell

Propose to start another lumber yard in East Waco very soon. The heavy and increasing demand for lumber is one of the most favorable features of the situation. Bell, we believe, has taken more than any other county from this market this season, though the shipments have been enormous to Coryell, Bosque, Hill, Comanche and other adjacent counties.

The Rain

Friday night and Saturday made the streets very sloppy, and the roads nearly impassible. The heavily loaded cotton wagons, in consequence of which, business in all branches of trade, was remarkably dull yesterday.

Messrs. Fort & Jackson,

Have completed the improvements in their new banking house, and it is now one of the very finest and most comfortable places of business in the State.

It is a Great

Convenience to all classes of people in Waco, to be able to get their mail matter in the evening. We hope it will be a long time before the present schedule will be changed. We are indebted to the polite clerks in the post office for many favors.

Our Unusually

Clear headed contemporary of the White Pecker, calls the Galveston News the leading Democratic journal of the State. All a mistake neighbor, the News of the 30th, disclaims any connection with the Democracy, or other party, but proposes to furnish politics ready made, for all shades of opinion. Nipping up politics, it extracts its power. It calls its principles from the Universe of political doubt and obscurity, and from precedents, and precedents, have but doubtful virtues in the eyes of the great "Bohemian."

Meeting of the Texas Cotton, Spinning and Manufacturing Co.

The meeting was organized at Richey Hall, Friday, Jan. 30th, at 8 o'clock, p. m. for the purpose of taking into consideration the proposition of Geo. Butler, of Galveston, for organizing the Texas Cotton, Spinning and Manufacturing Company of Waco.

T. C. Haggard of Galveston, explained the object of the meeting, and the proposition of Geo. Butler, the owner of the Waco Manufacturing Company's Mill. Col. W. A. Fort was appointed Chairman, on motion of Mr. Haggard. J. W. Downs, Secretary.

The Secretary read the Charter of the Texas Cotton Spinning and Manufacturing Company, under which the old Waco Manufacturing Company had been organized. After which, the Chairman presented Mr. Butler, who explained to the citizens what he had done and what he had accomplished, and read the proceedings of the organization in Galveston, which was all subject to the Board of Directors. The people of Waco should select, after subscribing the necessary capital to put the mill in active operation on a good and healthy footing.

The necessary then read the deed to the Mill and all the property therein, from Mrs. Butler to the Company, which is on record here.

Mr. Butler conveys the entire property, which has cost about $100,000, for the sum of $55,000 currency, and proposes to take to himself the sum of $30,000 in stock—making it necessary for our citizens to take about $12,000 stock to put our cotton factory once more in operation.

After some considerable discussion of the subject, by many of the representative men of Waco, a stock committee was appointed, consisting of W. A. Fort, D. T. Chamberlin, R. W. Lusk and Major H. B. Banks. This committee was authorized to open books for the subscription of stock at the Banking House of Fort & Jackson for the ensuing days. Twenty per cent. as specified must be in cash, the balance payable in three and six months, which, certainly, Waco can easily do to promote the values of all real property owned and controlled by her own citizens, all of whom are vitally interested in this enterprise. Among these, there are quite a number possessing sufficient capital to run this whole institution without calling on his neighbor for support.

There were at this meeting many of our citizens who were not acquainted with the manufactory of cotton and the great profits derived by stockholders, and knew less of our own mill and its capacity and machinery now standing idle here.

In this they were most agreeably surprised and enlightened by statements and estimates made by Whitney from Galveston who was introduced to our meeting of citizens. Mr. Whitney is a thoroughbred cotton spinner and manufacturer, having been connected from his boyhood, with the heaviest manufactories of the North, and has as manager or superintendent, been for a thorough inspection of the buildings and machinery, gave the following as his estimate of the value and capacity of the property in question—mill buildings and tenement houses $20,000; cotton machinery $[illegible]; wood machinery $3000; shafting and pulleys $3000; belting $2000; boiler and engine $3000; spools and fixtures $1000; 12.10-100 acres of land $3,750; total $80,750. These estimates are as to the present cash value of the property. The above, if properly managed, is capable of 6000 pounds of cotton yarn per week, at a cost of five cents per pound, worth in any market, not less than thirty cents per pound; allowing 10 cents per pound for cotton, you have a margin of fifteen cents per pound, which is not more than the raw material costs in the North, thus leaving to the manufacturer here, a margin of the whole cost of manufacturing, over and above the northern manufacturer, showing conclusively that if the Northern man can make a living profit, you can reap a rich harvest. On have room and capacity for at least forty yard-wide looms—the cost of which in the factory, and ready for operation would not exceed $3,000, or a few looms for weaving seamless bags could be added, producing seven-eighths bags per day, at a cost of 7½ cents each, which are worth here at least fifty cents, giving a profit of one hundred per cent.

By the above anyone can readily see that on the capital invested there ought to be a clear profit of at least 40 per cent. The factories in Georgia are doing even better, as shown by the fact that some of them have, and are now paying dividends of 5 per cent. per month.

We quite

Agree with our friend, the "New Local," that it is bad taste to fill the columns of a newspaper with personalities. The people have no interest in them. But the affair in question was of his own seeking; were "impersonal pleasantry," won't do. At the time he assailed us we were the only person present, in either the local or editorial departments of the Examiner and any allusion to it thus became personal. We are for a finished French scholar. We hardly think the "up country friends" of the "New Local" will relish the conclusion, that to our residence among them, it is attributable, our deplorable ignorance of all the social or professional amenities, of which our "new" friend possesses so liberal a share. The difficulty is one of his own manufacture, as is also the mode of treating it, and whenever he is tired, and wishes to change, we will cordially join him. (Is this sufficiently plain?) To establish our identity, we have a modest Confederate record, but, alas! the "breeches" have long since succumbed to hard usage, and our hand is not red.

An inquisitive French bishop once caught a Tartar in the Duke de Roquelaire. The latter, passing in haste through Lyons, was hailed by the bishop with "Hi! hi!" The duke stopped. "Where have you come from?" inquired the prelate. "Paris," said the duke. "What is there fresh at Paris?" "Greenpeas." "But what were the people saying when you left?" "Vespers." "Goodness, man," broke out the angry questioner "who are you? What are you called?" "Ignorant people call me Hi! hi! Gentleman term me the Duke de Roquelaire. Drive on, postillion."

The New York Times has followed the New York Tribune, and is at present arrayed against the Grant Administration. Not a single daily of any note in the great metropolis now supports the Washington dynasty. It would be pleasant if we could recall Horace Greeley to life and take a vote now between him and Grant. The people have opened their eyes, unfortunately, a year too late.

The Emperor of Germany has conferred upon Miss Anna Thacker, of Wolverhampton, the War Medal, with ribaud, and the insignia and diploma of this decoration, for services rendered to the sick and wounded in the hospital at Cologne. This is in addition to the cross already received by Miss Thacker.

A Well Merited Compliment.

A letter from the United States Commissioner at Vienna, announces that the Emperor of Austria has created Frederick Fairbanks, of S. Johnsbury, Vt., the inventor of the Fairbanks scale, a Knight of the imperial Order of Francis Joseph. This is a rare honor, the name of an American inventor being placed on the roll of honor, the highest value of a reliable and standard weighing machine to the commerce of the entire civilized world is conceded, if it one fully earned.

These scales are for sale at their depot, 54 Carondelet, New Orleans.

The auction man of the West, makes things lively on his side of the square, judging, as we do, from the amount of goods we see leaving his house, purchased at a mere song.

How Jack gets his goods is another thing, but we suspect him in some way connected with that class of merchants who get their goods in that mysterious way that enables them to sell for one half the price of the other merchants.

And but the fact that we have known Jack for lo! these many years, we might go a step further, and say he S—— them. No, we won't say it: out we tell you what we will say: Long may he wave that's whats what. D&Wtf

Mr. S. M. Lackland:

Dear Sir—I have been sorely afflicted with Rheumatism for several years, so much so that at times I have not been able to walk without the greatest pain for two and three months together. I have tried every remedy, and been attended on by several good physicians, but have never experienced any relief until I was induced to try "Luckett's Liniment." After using three bottles I find myself entirely well, and I cheerfully give this to the public, hoping that others may see this and profit by my experience, and speedily seek relief in this truly wonderful medicine.
