Who Says It Don't Rain

IN TEXAS.

And who don't say that money saved is money made.

We do know that a word to the wise is sufficient, those we deem it only necessary to make a slight suggestion to the good fathers and mothers, and all concerned, there is an old well known aphorism: "An ounce of pre-venion is worth a pound of cure." The cry has gone out that the farmers and doctors are going to have a grand harvest. Everybody knows that as best we have plenty of corn and meal, we also have plenty of chills and fever about us. Now, friends, such being the prospect ahead of us, with the hot summer's sun already upon us, we may reasonably expect the early visitation of "the disease," in his manifold forms, to make his appearance among our people, so we advise and admonish you, in due time, to lay in a good supply of

"SIMPLE REMEDIES."

Everybody in this neck of the woods knows of their efficacy in the relief of human suffering. You can, by having these favorite specifics on hand, at first appearances of disease, ward off the blow, unless it is an attack of imperial force. So, then, come one, come all. We have anticipated fully, the exigencies of the times, and made sure to provide for all the different maladies that a malarial district is cursed with; and in addition would say that we have a very large stock of sundries, and fancy goods, beside the amount we want to close out in order to reduce same, will sell very low. This stock consists in such articles as trusses, shoulder braces, female supporters of all kinds, family syringes, baby feeding bottles, pocket knives, razors, combs, brushes, sponges and tanning gloves, handkerchiefs, extracts and colognes. Prescriptions and family receipts have special attention by competent druggists.

In conclusion, farmer friends, would say that when you are in the city you should not fail to call and see us, for we have plenty of low priced buggies, and other conveniences can be spared if necessary. Awaiting you with full force of efficient attendants we remain,

Your friend, &c.,

W. L. TUCKER.

MASS MEETING!

The Citizens of East Waco Take the Bull by the Horns.

A Resolution Stating What Their Demands Are and They Want Done.

Committees Appointed to Confer with Railroad Officials in Regard to the Matter.

About one hundred citizens of East Waco, and several from this side of the river, assembled in the Baptist church yesterday afternoon, pursuant to a call, which had been published in the city papers.

Mr. F. M. Makeig, took the stand and called the meeting to order, and stated its object, which was to ask the Missouri Pacific, Houston & Texas Central and the Texas & St. Louis railways put openings under their road beds so as to drain the water which now comes down from the hills and floods the valley in East Waco and run it off in other directions.

On motion Judge G. B. Gerald was elected chairman of the meeting, and T. O. Plunkett was chosen secretary.

On taking the chair Judge Gerald said he thought every citizen had rights which should be respected, and it was time the people took hold of the matter for which the meeting had been called, and do something to protect themselves from being overflowed by the water which comes down from the country east of the city. Before taking his seat, the chairman said the meeting was open for suggestions from any one who wished to speak.

F. M. Makeig, Esqr., said there must be a remedy for the evils which the citizens had been subjected to in the years 1884 and 1885. Mr. Makeig said he had been living on the East Waco since 1857, and he had never known the water to overflow the houses on the east side of the Brazos before this year and last year. Mr. M. made a picture of the country which lay east of the city, and said it was flat with a gradual slope toward the south, and unless water was stopped and turned the other way, it would certainly find an outlet down the Marlin branch.

Major J. F. Herbert said as for what could be done with the railroads he was unable to say; but he knew the cause of the overflow was from the embankments on the Missouri Pacific and Texas & St. Louis roads, which were so constructed as to stop all the water from flowing down its natural basin, the Marlin Branch, and causes it to seek another outlet through East Waco. The remedy would be to make openings in the railroads where the water would seek its natural outlet.

Mr. Tom Selman said he had been a citizen of East Waco since 1851, and he had never known of the water to overflow East Waco until last year. He thought the greater volume of water came down the Central's track through Mr. Kellum's farm and flooded East Waco. If there was an opening in the track in this farm the water would run off in its natural channel and not drown out the citizens of East Waco.

Mr. Tom Davis thought the Central was wholly to blame for the flood of water, which came from the country west of Dry Pond. He had appealed to the railroad officials to have an opening made across the track of the Central, but they refused to do anything to relieve the people who were flooded near the Winship farm.

Dr. S. A. Owens said he had been in Waco since 1856, and last year was the first time he had ever known the water from Dry Pond to run across the country to Judge Davis' farm, thence down to East Waco. Before the embankment was built by the Missouri Pacific road at Dry Pond an overflow was never known; all the water which fell after the pond was full found an outlet in the Marlin branch. The Doctor said if the road had put trestle work instead of an embankment across Dry Pond, East Waco would not have been overflowed last week nor last year. When the water in the pond was full to the top of the railroad embankment, it was higher than the country west of the pond, so it came down on the people in East Waco and flooded their homes.

Col. George B. Gurley had made a survey of the country west of Dry Pond. In running a level from the Winship place to the Dry Pond he had found a natural drainage toward the Marlen branch. The Dry Pond was level, but after it was full to the top of the railroad embankment, as a natural consequence it overflowed the country west of it and ran down into East Waco to find an outlet.

Mr. F. M. McKeig offered the following resolution, which was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That it is the sense of this meeting that we do not wish to injure the railways, nor to raise any quarrel with them, but we only ask of the companies in a spirit of fairness to give us the relief we need by making the openings under their roadways that the natural lay of the land shows to be necessary. This we ask and this we believe we have the right to demand.

On motion of Major John F. Herbert a committee of seven were appointed to open communication with the officers of the Missouri Pacific, Houston & Texas Central and Texas and St. Louis railways and ask them that they grant such relief as the citizens may ask in making openings in in their roadbeds was to allow a free passage of water which has for the past two years came down to East Waco and flooded the business part of the city. The following gentlemen were named as such committee: J. B. Baker, J. W. Mann, W. R. Kellum, J. M. Harris, G. B. Gerald, Geo. B. Gurley and J. R. Harrison. The committee will act in conjunction with his honor Mayor Wilkes, and a committee from the city council, and they were instructed to look after the railroads in and out of the city.

On motion of Mr. C. Falkner a committee of five were appointed to solicit labor and contributions to dig a ditch from Dry Pond to Marlin branch so as to give immediate relief to those whose premises are overflowed just, west of the pond and near the county poor farm. The chair appointed Messrs. J. F. Herbert, F. M. Makeig, T. O. Harris, and James Garrison. The committee went to work and raised quite a sum of money and were promised labor from several men who were themselves in the overflowed district.

On motion the following named colored men were added to the committee to solicit labor: Ed Thompson, Joseph Mathews and Arnold Weaver.

Dr. S. A. Owens very generously gave the right-of-way for the canal to to be cut across his land.

There being no further business the meeting adjourned.

Mr. J. S. Hedley, of Cameron, was in the city yesterday, shaking hands with his many friends.

Mr. J. S. King, is lying very sick at the residence of his uncle, Mr. John D. Johnson, on Austin avenue.

Dr. A. J. Howard of Eagle Springs, an old and esteemed friend of the EXAMINER'S paid us a pleasant call yesterday.

Mrs. H Swarts and children left yesterday morning for Marlin on a visit to friends. Mr. Kirky's little daughter accomdanied them.

Mrs Susan Plunkett left last night via the Missouri Pacific road for Little Rock, where she will spend the summer with her son Mr. R D. Plunkett and family.

Hon. A. J. Rose, master of the Texas State Grange, passed through the city yesterday en route to his home at Salado. Mr. Rose has been traveling through the State in interest of his order, and reports it in a flourishing condition. The next annual meeting of the state grange will be held in Waxahachie in August.

Judge J. F. Davis says he is not so bad off as the EXAMINER reported him yesterday morning. He came to his office but was too weak to hold court, but if he continues to improve he will try several cases which were set for to-day. We are only too glad to see the Judge able to be out, and to know that the gentlemen who said he was so bad off were mistaken.

The EXAMINER is pleased to see the Rev. Francis R. Starr able to be out on thestreets. The reverend gentleman has had a terrible spell, but he now looks almost as well as he did before the attack of fever came on him. It is Mr. Starr's intention to go to Lampassas Springs with the Light Infantry, and if he can get accommodations he will take his family with him.
