Forsythe & Corey,

HABERDASHERS.

Headquarters for Fashionable

MEN'S FURNISHING GOODS

Everything in the Models Neckwear. Underwear. Hosiery. Shirts, Collars, Cuffs, Gloves, Suspenders, Handkerchiefs, Etc. Specialties. Shirts Made to order and Wedding outfits.

We Lead the Ton in Our Several Lines.

PROFESSIONAL AND BUSINESS CARDS

FORT & MORROW,

AGENTS FOR

Fire, Marine and Tornado Insurance.

PHYSICIANS.

LENNEKER & FRAZIER,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW.

PEARRE & BOYNTON,

Attorneys-at-Law,

WACO, TEXAS.

MISCELLANEOUS.

W. A. CASSEDAY

Conveyancer and Abstracts of Titles

DAILY EXAMINER.

Largest Circulation in Central Texas.

BARROW & CRAVENS, Proprietors.

Business Manager.

Office: Corner second and Austin street.

Telephone: 70.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

Daily	One year	$15.00
	Six months	7.50
	Three months	4.00
	One month	1.50
Weekly	One year	1.50
	Six months	75
	Three months	50

ADVERTISING RATES.

Advertising rates made known on application.

Entered at Postoffice at Waco, Tex., as second-class mail matter.

WACO, TEXAS, SEPT. 7, 1887.

BUSINESS is improving.

COTTON the second bales already.

THE TEXAS WHEAT belt is still after the Texas.

SEVENTY-THREE thousand bales already for Galveston. Who can beat it?

WE should like which has on black-eyed the other, the News or Parsons Briggs.

A NEW republican paper the Houston Independent rankings it is the most Texas journal.

[illegible] the Waco News back into the Press agency advertising about as a legitimate newspaper business venture, but we hardly think so.

[illegible] Commerce for Money wants to know the worst of the News' influence in Baptistdom. He even goes so far as to intimate that the News doesn't understand the very first principle of the faith.

THE war between the News and the Trades has passed the limits of decency. Both papers have taken a position daily which are disreputable in the extreme. Both are [illegible] for the Hot Springs [illegible] It is simply [illegible].

THE members of the Trade Review in coming here, a fortnight of a few months growth, boasting of seeing the "migration" of the editor of THE EXAMINER in consequence of the edition which it is to offer is funny. We are independent both of his rating and his opposition. We propose to make this little affair just as bitter as the Trade Review cares to have it, and we have some quaint little advertising enterprises upon which to throw light, when the time comes.

An Unfortunate Controversy.

THE controversy now going on between the News and the Methodist newspaper, the Advocate, and the Baptist Herald, the state organ of the Baptists, is one of the most unfortunate that has ever been inflicted on the people of this country. The Methodist state paper, the Advocate, opens with a pretty, pious, pious, pious, and fine language as impudence has it possible for it to be. Even here we have all that we know nothing and care to know about the merits of the quarrel. We are now simply paying for a higher grade of journalism for purer morals, more chaste expression. It is horrid for the News to speak of the ladies of the church and of prohibition as the Herald acts. Of the merits of Allen's charges but it is simply atrocious for the Herald to reproduce the language, even for the purpose of refuting it. There are some things that should never be spoken or written under any circumstances, and the matter of this controversy belongs to that class. The News, as a secular paper, is entitled to one degree of condemnation and the religious papers to another, and it needs not a philosopher to say which should receive the greater condemnation. A short time since, less than a year, in fact, the News was then engaged in what it termed a struggle for the elevation of journalism and the purification of politics, but which was really only an effort to drag down an editor in the editor of this paper, to whom it had tendered a wanton and unprovoked injury, and who had resented it in the only way in his power. After that the people of Texas will not be willing to accept the theory that the News is pursuing the Rev. Mr. Briggs and the Rev. Mr. Hayden with so much rabidness, violence and such horrid language only and simply to advance the standard of clerical excellence and to elevate generally church morality. That the News has a grievance against Mr Briggs we do not doubt, but that it is warranted in pursuing him to such lengths we do not believe. But Mr. Briggs will doubtless recall the fact that the News announced in its assault upon the editor of THE EXAMINER, that hereafter those who would assail it might look out. That its policy would be to deal roughly with whosoever should fall under its ban, bring suit or attempt to injure in any way. Its present attitude toward one of the most eminent men in the Methodist church of this state, and also one of the most eminent men in the Baptist church of this state is evidence conclusive that its threat on that occasion was not a vain one. But rather that it is a settled policy deliberately formulated and calmly and determinedly pursued.

Now then role unto the News to a dirt but what shall we say of the intemperate language in the two denominational papers named. Does the action of the News, its language and statements warrant the abusive language, the vigorous expletives, the "double entendres" appearing either as original or clipped matter in either papers. Most certainly not, and there is not a sincere christian or lover of purity in Texas but will think less of these two papers for their having given way to it even under the terrible provocation they have had. They might have followed the Master in this and turned the other cheek. They could have borne more. Human patience was not exhausted quite, and how much better it would have been for the cause of morality and religion both. The News toys with religion and morality as the plaything of its leisure moments, but these are the life principles of the two papers named, and certainly it should never have followed the expedient of the [illegible] contest whereat had the editor of the News as the advantage of the ground of experience and natural aptitude for the work. The News will lost them both in the effort which they will injure the News only in its financial parts.

Summed up it is this simple. Let the controversy end how it will, the public the readers of these journals, and morality and religion are the parties injured most.

BRO. HAYDEN just literally wipes up the earth with the News in his article in the Baptist Herald of the 31st of August. This is about the most withering thing we have seen in print for many a long day. With two such men as Hayden and Briggs and two such papers as the Advocate and Herald after it the News cannot fail to feel the injury accompli. With the merits of the quarrel we have nothing whatever to do. We only know that both sides are soiling their papers with language which ought never to appear in the columns of newspapers, and that it does should retire to spell it out. We see no way of ending the quarrel except by arbitration of the craft. As it stands it is a disgrace to the state.

WHEN Dexter Brackenridge reported $[illegible] mortgages to THE EXAMINER he failed to accompany the statement with explanation that they were not vendor's liens made as is usual when purchasing newspaper offices, and that THE EXAMINER has met most of the notes as they have matured and that it has paid off considerably more than half the paper for which the liens were made. The citizens of Waco will not consent to build up a Trade Review which is run for the purpose of breaking up a legitimate enterprise in the interests of one whose legitimacy may well be questioned.

THE bitterness of the struggle hangs on yet, which only proves that the struggle should never have been made.—WACO EXAMINER.

Does THE EXAMINER desire the bitterness of "the late struggle" to subside. If its course since the election indicates anything it certainly indicates that it does not. If not, why not? Time will tell.—Sulphur Springs Gazette.

As long as the prohibition executive committee holds secret meetings, issues addresses and is in communication with the northern wing of the party, we shall keep up the watch. When they disband, quit and go at something else, the war from our side will end.

THE News accuses Messrs. Briggs, of the Advocate, and Hayden, of the Herald of a conspiracy against it, or at least combination. Now it would be serious indeed were all the Baptists and all the Methodists of the state to refuse to patronize the News. That great paper would then feel a little as THE EXAMINER felt once upon a time, when the News' both ends jumped on it with both feet, as it were.

THE EXAMINER makes the announcement that "the rains are moist. Are the rains around Waco usually dry?—Marshal Messenger.

If the Messenger had been out in the Waco shower for the six hours in which eight-odd inches fell, it would have also voted it a moist rain. In dry weather our rains are not moist to any alarming degree.

IF Burke had stolen an hundred millions of dollars it would not have paid him for half the agony he has suffered since he left Texas. Poor fellow! what a hell-on-earth he has made for himself, to be sure.

COTTON receipts at Waco from nineteen counties surrounding this city. It is an immense trade territory, and it can never be won away from us, if we are watchful and wary, as we should be.

IT is a subject of utter astonishment how Waco has lived and prospered all these years, before Dexter of the Trade Review emigrated here.

THE "I" has crept in, and the demure owlish look and doubtful looking, crept in with it.

THE commercial supremacy of Waco in the marts of Texas is conceded.

WACO will be right as long as she can handle 250,000 bales every year.

A SHORTHANDER should stick to it to the last, to the last.

ONE hundred thousand force bill figure, they say.

THE good papers are now combining in a flood.

A TRADE REVIEW should review trade.

WACO [illegible]

Weather Reports by Carrier Pigeons.

From the New York Herald.

John J. O'Donnell, formerly assistant signal observer at Atlanta, arrived here Saturday. He has been in Washington for several weeks studying up the management and control of homing pigeons, and the object of his going to Key West is to establish communication, by means of pigeons, between that point and the West India Islands for the benefit of the signal service. This service will be operated under an arrangement recently perfected between Gen. Greely and the British authorities.

"How long will it take a pigeon to fly from Nassau to Key West?" Mr. O'Donnell was asked.

"About an hour and a half, I guess. They fly very rapidly. Their average velocity is about forty-five miles per hour, but in good weather and under favorable conditions they have been known to fly at the rate of about a mile a minute. When flying their velocity is greater than railroad trains besides, of course, they make no stoppages, as trains do; but if on land they do not fly at night. Of course, at sea, I suppose, they would have to. While flying over land they would go to roost about dark, and next morning, just at daylight, they make another start for their destination. They first circle up and up until they strike their course, and then strike out on a direct line. They do not feed while making a trip, but continue on their way until they reach their original loft."

"How do you manage to get them to go to any particular point?"

"Well, you know a homing pigeon won't live anywhere except at its home. We will have pigeons enough at Key West from Nassau and other points, and of course will send our pigeons to those points. If we want to send a message to Nassau, we will shave the middle tail feather of one of the Nassau pigeons, write the message on tissue paper, so as to make it as light as possible. This is then tightly wrapped around the shaved quill and securely tied with a silk thread. The pigeon is then liberated, when it starts for its home in Nassau. On arriving there it goes directly to its loft, where it is discovered by the observer, who removes the message and reads it. A message arranged in this way gives the bird no uneasiness whatever in fact, it does not know that the message is there.

Gov. Stockdale's Eyes.

From the Victoria Advocate.

The Advocate is pained to learn that its time-honored friend, Gov. F. R. Stockdale, is in danger of losing his eyesight from cataract. He returned to his home in Cuero from Austin a few days ago, to which city he went some times since for medical treatment. He was little benefited by his trip, however, and will leave for Boston in a short time to consult noted oculists of that city. We hope to see him return to us soon with his eyesight to be restored, so that he may continue, for many years to come, the brilliant scholar of his profession and the leading citizen in the community where he has long resided.

Know-Nothings.

From the Omaha World.

Every American has been a veritable know-nothing for years. He knows nothing about the personal character of the candidates he votes for. He only knows they are the nominees of his party.

Love the Erring.

From the Courier Journal.

It is plain that the great majority of republicans favor the renomination of Mr. Blaine. What large charity there is for an erring statesman! Mr. Blaine should return, if only out of gratitude.

Mark of Cain.

From the Louisville Commercial Democrat.

The guilty party who took that piece of Dunnigan's cake would better own and settle. His breath gives him away.

Made John Smith.

From the Philadelphia Times.

Sherman's comment on Forakers Wheeling antics was a smile that made the Ohio dawn look dark.

The Deutscher Kriezer Bund.

CHICAGO, Sept. 6.—The convention of Deutscher Kreger Bund of North America was resumed this morning. A Baltimore society with [illegible] members was admitted, making twenty-five subordinate societies. It was decided to tax each of these ten cents per year to help support the official organ of the Bund published at Cincinnati. The following officers were then elected: President, Wilhelm Smith of Chicago.

Vice president, Fred Griele of Cincinnati.

Secretary, Chris. Albrecht of St. Louis.

Assistant secretary, Julius Eggert of Chicago.

Treasurer, Frederick W. Sprour of Cincinnati.

The convention adjourned after decided to hold the next convention at Cleveland.

Meteorological.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—For Texas: Fair weather, nearly stationary temperature, light to fresh variable winds generally southerly.

Don't miss the Episcopal lawn party tonight.

The German Catholics.

CHICAGO, Sept. 6.—The German Catholic convention devoted this morning's session to committee work and this afternoon will be used for the same purpose. It was the desire of the various committees to finish their routine work today but owing to the large amount of it they will not be able to finish before tomorrow.

CHEAP COLUMN.

WANTED.

WANTED—A young man to a partner in good paying business, small capital required. Address, stating age, qualifications and references exchanged. Address A. D. [illegible] Examiner.

WANTED—MAN—To take [illegible] and sell at retail [illegible] Wages [illegible] Address [illegible] Co. Cincinnati, O.

WANTED—[illegible] to drive a [illegible] on Wagons, also [illegible] per day, and get board and lodging, [illegible] Johnson, Fort Worth, Los Angeles, Cal.

WANTED—One hundred [illegible] at Waco furniture shop.

WANTED—To buy a [illegible] household goods. Top [illegible] and to rent furniture. Waco Curiosity Shop.

FOR RENT.

FOR RENT—The store house next to [illegible] shall & Hearn, [illegible] Cooper, Clifton & Co.

FOR RENT—Neat three room cottage, [illegible] Ninth street, in good repair, [illegible] Apply to E. B. Lery, Real Estate Agent.

FOR RENT—Rooms on Fourth [illegible] cent, apply to E. B. [illegible] Apply to [illegible]

FOR RENT—One of the most pleasant residences in the city, corner Austin and Eighteenth, [illegible] Austin and store room [illegible] W. Angelina [illegible]

FOR RENT—The [illegible] store room [illegible] Waco National Bank, [illegible] for a grocery store, having been used for a purpose for several years past.

The brick store room next to Mansfield's dry goods house on Austin street, near the square. A good stand for a drug store or a furnishing goods house.

The same brick store room next to A. Herz's cigar store on Austin street, [illegible] square. Suitable for a barber shop or confectionary store. Apply to A. Herz.

FOR RENT—The two story brick building now occupied by A. Hirschman & Co., situated on the West End Austin street. A good stand. Possession given September 1st. Apply to [illegible]

FOR RENT—The [illegible] room [illegible] on Austin avenue, [illegible] occupied by Leslie Bros. Possession given September 1st. Will rent it whole or partition it off to suit [illegible]. Apply to Charles Kaufman.

FOR RENT—The storehouse [illegible] occupied by Cooper, Clifton & Co. Possession given Sept. 1st. W. T. Fort.

FOR SALE.

FOR SALE—Lot [illegible] perfect [illegible] Apply to [illegible]

FOR SALE—[illegible]

FOR SALE—[illegible]

FOR SALE—[illegible] Mills, Waco.

MISCELLANEOUS.

BARNARD BROS. have moved their store to the north side, next to McKnight's.

STOVES, STOVES, STOVES, STOVES. We have a large lot of stoves, nearly all kinds, which we can sell at a bargain. Big box stoves at cost this week. Curiosity Shop.

FURNITURE, FURNITURE, FURNITURE. Our stock is now larger than ever, our prices low, and terms such that most any one can furnish their house and pay north. Curiosity Shop.

NEW RAG CARPET, only [illegible] cents per yard. Waco Curiosity Shop.

SECOND hand furniture bought and sold by Barnard Bros.

GO to Barnard Bros. for stoves.

FOR SALE—Many [illegible], refrigerators, good as new, [illegible] Curiosity Shop.

GO to Barnard Bros. for chairs, parlor sets, bedroom suits, etc.

GO to Barnard Bros. for beds, bedsteads, mattresses, etc.

BARNARD BROS. dealers in all kinds of second hand furniture. Austin street, opposite Hirschman & Son.

Notice to Contractors.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, Supervising Architect's Office, Washington, D. C., August 22, 1887.

Sealed proposals will be received at this office, or at the office of the supervising architect of the Treasury Department, Washington, D. C., and opened at Washington, D. C., and opened at Chicago, Illinois, custom house, on the fifth day of September, 1887, for all the labor and materials required for the construction of a custom house at Waco, Texas. Each proposal must be accompanied by a certificate of a national bank, payable to the order of the Secretary of the Treasury of the United States, for the sum of $500, which will be forfeited to the United States if the right to award the contract is reserved. The plans and specifications can be had, and any information obtained on application to this office or the officers of the supervising architects at the cities named.

WM. A. FRANKLIN, Supervising Architect.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, Supervising Architect's Office, Washington, D. C., August 22, 1887.

Sealed proposals will be received at this office, or at the office of the supervising architect of the Treasury Department, Washington, D. C., and opened at Washington, D. C., and opened at Chicago, Illinois, custom house, on the fifth day of September, 1887, for all the labor and materials required for the construction of a custom house at Waco, Texas. Each proposal must be accompanied by a certificate of a national bank, payable to the order of the Secretary of the Treasury of the United States, for the sum of $500, which will be forfeited to the United States if the right to award the contract is reserved. The plans and specifications can be had, and any information obtained on application to this office or the officers of the supervising architects at the cities named.

WM. A. FRANKLIN, Supervising Architect.

NEW ENGLAND CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC Boston, Mass.

THE LARGEST BEST EQUIPPED WORLD

Fall Term

POZZONI'S MEDICATED COMPLEXION POWDER.

TAILOR, [illegible] herself and large family of little ones. [illegible] proper proportions of the same, and the method of its

Liquors and Cigars