GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

CHICAGO PRODUCE MARKET.

CHICAGO, Jan. 3.—Values of wheat to-day were lower and corn and pork were higher than at the close of 1887. The lower price of wheat was due to the fact that Liverpool and New York quoted it lower. May opened at 85⅝c against the close of Friday at 87⅞@88c. Pork opened higher on light receipts of hogs. May pork started in 10c higher at $15 75. Corn opened off with wheat, but immediately advanced in sympathy with the pork market. May corn opened ¼c lower at 44⅝c, but it immediately afterward sold up to 55⅝c. The monthly deliveries of wheat were fairly large, but of corn and pork were very light. Hardly any corn went around. Lard deliveries were moderately heavy. In the first hour there was free selling of long wheat, which took the price down to 85c. It then went up to 85½c but trading was light. Corn was very firm. The early bulge did not stop until prices had reached 55⅞@55⅝c for May. An estimate of 470 cars of wheat as receipts for to-morrow, together with heavy selling, caused a decline to 54½c but plenty of buying orders were brought out on the decline, and May was specially pushed up to 56⅞c, when wheat began to advance. Provisions were steady, but there was no trading of especial significance. The market for lard was strong on different stock abroad. Fluctuations on May pork were between $15 70 and $15 80, and lard moved in about the same proportion.

CIRCULAR.

WACO, TEXAS, August 10th, 1887.—Glancing back to our cotton business for the season of '86 and '87, we acknowledge feeling highly gratified at the general expressions of satisfaction and the benefits our many friends say they derived from their consignments to us We have always recognized this sterling fact, that any measure calculated to add to the welfare of our customers was alike beneficial to our interest, and to this end our highest ambition was always directed. It will at once be apparent that the successful interior merchant is he who handles the cotton raised in his community successfully, by which he is enabled to make the most satisfactory collections and best sales. In this position we were determined to place our friends, and while it has cost us a great dal of labor and a considerable outlay of money, we take great pleasure in informing you that our efforts were rewarded. Our Mr. M. N. Rosenthal has just returned from Europe, where he remained three months, visiting in person the largest mills and factories in England and France securing us connections unsurpassed in the United States. We can safely say no house in the state of Texas has ever been placed in the position we are now to handle the crop of this country it is indeed a source of gratification to know we can speak so confidently, not only because It enables us to offer you unexcelled advantages, but we add to the already well-earned laurels of our city as the great cotton market of Texas, a fact the most skeptical will be obliged to recognize this season. To be brief, we will ask you to bear in mind, first, that we have the means at our command to furnish you with all the money you will require to move the cotton in your community; secondly, in consigning your cotton to us you can always feel assured of getting the actual cash value of every bale. Your section will undoubtedly make a fair crop of cotton. We have offered you the facilities to do well, and hope you will take advantage of every bale where you see the chances are good for your collections and sales. It would please us to know you captured every bale that came to your town. As heretofore, we make no charges nor ask commissions for handling your shipments. Our compensation will be the pleasure of knowing that our humble efforts have proved of vast benefit to you. In conclusion, we offer to the trade the most complete lines of dry goods, furnishings, hats, clothing and boots and shoes ever shown in Central Texas. All departments are replete with novelties, carefully selected by our buyers. We fear no competition. Our prices are up with the times, and we guarantee to duplicate eastern markets.
