LOCALETTES.

Prince of Denmark.

The Avenue for your rigs.

Prince of Denmark, the noted saddle stallion.

Go or telephone to the Avenue Stables for livery rigs.

Prince of Denmark, the noted saddle stallion is at Goldsmith's livery yard.

Driving is now good, and Howe & Gay of the Avenue Stables have the rigs you want.

For the best beef in the market, go to Richard Webb on the Avenue. Oysters and fish in season.

[illegible] groceries full weight, courteous treatment and prompt delivery go with [illegible] Austin street, under Waco National [illegible].

By a bright seen on the northern horizon it was evident that there was a fire out in the cedar brake about three or four miles from town.

Waco has now a flourishing population of more than twenty thousand persons and fifty thousand dogs. In the face of the hard times which Mr. Martin Berry of Bruceville in his very plaintive letter proves the twenty thousand persons have visited themselves to us the fifty thousand dogs. The last suggestion I throw out is in the hope that we may get rid of some of the dogs. Dogs and fleas are the curses of this city. Thousand dollars would be a Christmas service to the city.

Cigars and Tobacco

A. Herz has opened in connection with his new cigar store an elegant billiard parlor, where the young men of the city can spend a pleasant evening away from objectionable surroundings. Best cigars in the city. All the latest periodicals.

Gabert Brothers have now gotten located in their new quarters in the Pacific hotel building with one of the finest assortment of gentlemen's spring tailoring goods in Waco. With a fine corps of efficient workmen the man they can't please must be hard to please indeed.

Richard Webb is now in charge of the Austin street stand of the recent firm of Webb, Kastner & Moberly. He is offering the best meat in the market and at the lowest price. Satisfaction is guaranteed all old customers and a trial order is solicited from new ones.

A Pleasant Time.

A pleasant social dance at the residence of Mr. W. C. Spencer was given last evening complimentary to Miss L. Ella Carey—the occasion being the young lady's seventeenth birthday. Quite a crowd of young people were in attendance to wish the young lady many happy returns of the day. At a seasonable hour the participators were invited to partake from a well-laden table of all the delicacies of the season, and at a late hour the departing guests said it was good to be there. In common with other friends THE EXAMINER wishes for the young lady many returns of the day.

A Puzzled Question

Where did you get your groceries asked one lady of another a few days since. At Chambers', of course, responded lady No. two.

Why do you go there?

Because we get better bargains than any where else, and besides because they are always pleasant and accommodating and sell very good goods. Try Chambers' and Westbrook.

An Attempt at Train Wrecking

[illegible] Va., March [illegible]—A number of attempts to wreck the Baltimore and Ohio [illegible] near Wheeling were made [illegible]. About three miles from the city there was a crossing there and a pile of railroad ties lying on the track and [illegible] across the rails. This occurred some time before the train came by. The engineer, finding the track obstructed, came to the depot to notify the railroad officials. Fortunately the train was nearly a minute late, or it would have certainly been wrecked. Had the ties not been seen by the engineer, a number of lives would have been lost. The train was crowded with people. Suspicion is directed to the parties who have been arrested for the crime. The accomplishment of a wreck was a thing very easy on the road, happening frequently in the night time.
