ARRIVAL OF THE CALEDONIA

One Week Later

ENGLAND.

Foreign Office [illegible] brought forward his motion to [illegible] the people's charter. His speech was full of invective, especially in his allusions to the Lords—under whom he resided for 18 years in the service of the Queen's household. He was supported by Mr. Hume and [illegible] from a House of Five Hundred and Ninety-five.

Lord Brougham gave notice of an inquiry into the [illegible] Monday by Mr. Roebuck, relative to the relations of the government with the French at Rome.

A subject, not in behalf of the Hungarians, has been moved in London, which has warmly responded to.

The English papers [illegible] Lord Ingestrie and the United States postmaster, Abbot, who [illegible] from the corps.

IRELAND.

Public affairs in Ireland are alarming in a progressive state. Meetings are [illegible] to take place on the first or second week in August. The unemployed are [illegible] to have brought [illegible] in [illegible] of property, failing. In Dublin [illegible] are making to receive Kossuth and every demonstration of loyalty is said [illegible].

The Cholera.—Contradictory accounts from all parts of Ireland and England, [illegible] positive reports of the cheering prospects of the approaching harvest. The papers contain some [illegible] in regard to the [illegible] of the potato disease, especially in the South of Ireland, but they are not of a character to merit much [illegible].

FRANCE AND ROME.

The Legislative Assembly has been occupied much during the past week. The discussion which marks the proceedings of the Government is producing the effect of uniting various sections of the Assembly in a body [illegible] formidably—in opposition to the Ruling Ministry, and will be [illegible].

[illegible] Rome, Gen. Rodolphe Pierre is to take command of the army in Lombardy, [illegible] Chalons was ordered [illegible] Arrangements are [illegible] to 50,000 men.

Immediately on the reception of the news of the surrender of Rome, Gen. Oudinot, a telegraphic despatch says, M. [illegible] leadership [illegible] Rome.

According to the talk in the [illegible] Paris on Thursday, the General [illegible] takes the place of M. [illegible] Ambassador, and is also charged with a mission to Marshal Radetzky, to negotiate all necessary measures respecting the occupation of Italy. It appears certain that Gen. Lamoricière goes to St. Petersburgh as Ambassador, and that he is to protest against the Emperor taking any part in the affairs of Italy.

HUNGARY AND AUSTRIA

An official bulletin has been issued by the Austrians, announcing the compulsory retirement of the Hungarians from Raab. They are said to have withdrawn towards Ruszt, a town on the Danube, twenty miles from the Raab. Previously to the capture of the city, some of their forces had been driven near Comorn. The loss of the Magyars at Raab, it is stated, but 900 prisoners had been taken by Austria. They lost eight pieces of cannon, 2 howitzers, and 3 ammunition waggons.

[illegible] Raab, the Hungarians had [illegible] the Austrians, and fell back upon Raab. In the meantime the main corps of the Magyars had abandoned Raab, and taken up position between Gyongyos and Acs. The Austrian engineers now threw a fresh bridge over the Rabang, to replace the one, which had been destroyed by the Hungarians, and having united all their forces on the opposite bank, marched upon Raab. Here they could hardly say resistance was made in the rear of the Hungarians against the Austrian vanguard [illegible] evening. The loss upon either side was considerable. The two pieces of artillery taken by the Austrians were two old [illegible] belonging to the town, and quite unserviceable. The Hungarian army was neither attacked nor pursued. Monitors were however taken to cover Raab on the following day, and attack the town [illegible] the Magyars.

The Russian general, Grotenjem, having joined his corps with the weak Austrian division under General Fischer, and a free corps of some hundred Transylvanians under the notorious chieftain Urban, marched for the border on the 21st. From White Dunes these troops crossed the frontier in two divisions. One division direct[illegible] Miskolcz, and from thence on Borgo. Here there 30,000 Hungarians were intrenched with 48 pieces of cannon, a battle took place, in consequence of which the Hungarians fell back on Bistritz. The second column advanced through Tiboam (the [illegible] Nosrek, and at Feldra, on the 24th, engaged the enemy. The loss upon neither side was considerable. The Hungarians retreated here also, and the Austrians took 4 cattle and killed number [illegible]. Both columns will [illegible] Bistritz from thence Bergom Lucz and Szamos, if possible, to Kissmarkbarez.

Lamoricière is [illegible] the place of the Hungarians who [illegible] to retreat to Lower Hungary and will [illegible] engaged [illegible] country to look [illegible] upon him. The Russian Gen. [illegible] the Sikowich [illegible] Borgo.

[illegible] Correspondent at [illegible] of the 24th, from Nasrd [illegible] Hungarians had crossed the Waag [illegible] and Austrian Silesia. The Hungarian garrisons of Salova and [illegible] had [illegible] their quarters on the 21st.

There is no doubt of the Porte having [illegible] allow the passage of a Russian army through Servia.

On June 23 Thorwaldsen died. Rome would have declared in consequence of Pius IX's death, which by the bye [illegible] all his own government, that Pietro Lucchesi [illegible] a great [illegible] to his country [illegible] was a [illegible] band. Prince [illegible], according to the Agram correspondent to Cotta Zeitung, has lost the confidence of his officers and government, and has been obliged to resign his command to a certain Tom, who formerly commanded a division under Bem. The Austrians find the country [illegible] and amongst the troops the cholera is raging. The Magyar correspondent from Pirsburg says, that early on the morning of the 28th ult. a strong cannonade was heard in the direction of Szeged, and that the Hungarians have crossed the Waag to act on the defensive.

Since the reappearance of the cholera at Vienna, 290 of the citizens have been attacked by it, of these 120 have died, 63 recovered, and 110 remain under treatment. Of the military in the capital, 300 persons were attacked, 174 have died, 153 recovered, and 33 under treatment. From the army in Hungary we have no official returns, but the statement put forth that hundreds of the soldiers and many officers have died of the disease. M. Kossuth is very much indisposed, but it appears to proceed from anxiety at Pest-Ofen, where bloodshed of the Magyars daily fall victims to it.

It appears from a resume of the London papers, and all Hungarian business, to merge power in more numerous bodies in the Hungarian army, who fought safely [illegible] Austrians at Moniatz, are [illegible] in the neighborhood of Pest [illegible] Kossuth [illegible] patiently [illegible] themselves in the [illegible] Comorn, and [illegible] in the [illegible] of action. Subscriptions are [illegible] to enable them to return to their country.

BADEN.

A despatch from Rastadt states that the Prussians, on the neighborhood of the vanguard of Mayence and Maggenau, between Cassendt and Rastadt. The Prussians were defeated. Several Prussian [illegible] the Prussians of Prussia were in Gen. The Prussians were confined in the fortress of Rastadt, where some of their corps had retreated in the direction of Stuttgart and Kehl.

The Prussische Staatszeitung of the 27th ult. publishes a telegraphic despatch from the Prussian army in Baden, stating that the 1st and second corps advanced on the 23rd ult. from Malsberg, Carlsruhe and Durlach against the right bank of the Murg, and drove the enemy from the [illegible] Rastadt, Gernsbach, Forbach, Weisenbach, Bischweier, and Kuppenheim.

CANADA.

Annexation is now advocated by the Montreal press generally, and a speech is about being sent to its special support. Many of the London journals, conducted by sensible men, say they also favor annexation. The London Examiner, a Whig paper of considerable influence, says it will be a good job for Canada and Great Britain. The Times says it is an idea of growing dominance. It only requires calmly and seriously considering the expediency of [illegible] to open the door so that it will come [illegible] and peaceably into Uncle Sam's broad lap.

Whig Nominations.

For Governor,

CARLOS COOLIDGE.

For Lieut. Governor,

ROBERT PIERPOINT.

For Treasurer,

GEORGE HOWLES.

For County Senators

HON. HENRY STANLEY
EZRA JUNE,
Dr. JOHN CROWLEY

It seems that the united Democracy—or as they choose to call themselves the "Free Democracy" are still dashing on—with lots of long tissues and abuse of the Loco Whigs as usual. This we regard as of small account—their misrepresentations will not pass with the intelligent whigs of Vermont—we are sure not with those of Rutland County—and we all have been accustomed to their puffing and blowing this will pass by as the idle wind. But to view in the extraordinary evenings now being made in our opponents in other ways, it seems to us the whigs of this county and the State to arouse themselves at once and prepare themselves for (perhaps) the hardest fight they ever had. It is not to be disguised that in the coming contest the whigs have got to contend with obstacles such as they never before met. We regard as we ever have the alliance formed at Montpelier as treason to the extreme. No sympathy can exist between an honest freesoiler and a legitimate loco-foco, the thing is preposterous,—and yet many an honest minded man, strongly imbued with the noble principle of anti-slavery, will be drawn into the net set for him by our reliance then,—and we have little texts in the matter—texts upon the more enlightened and more clear sighted wing abolitionists, who will spare the lash offered them by their heedless friends, and form solo here where they belong, in the ranks of the whig party—the only reliable abolition party in Vermont. On this question the whigs as a party have always been right, while the locos have acted against them, and in concert with the slave power. What reliance then can be placed in the sincerity of these new converts? What new principle of action would be established, or who would be supposed to witness a hitherto abolition hornpipe this year for poetical effect—and a regular Jacobin fugle of defiance at their dupes the next. With the history of the past in his recollection, we question whether any really honest and sound minded whig abolitionist will trust to present pretensions of professions of these new born freesoilers.

As we have before said we have no doubts as to the result, but we ground our expectations of success in a united Whig and Conservative organization! The Whigs have ever been too neglectful of this, their opponents never, and our word for it, the officers of this party, from Major General, down to the corporals corporal, never never before so active as at the present time. Let then the old stood whigs, and the really true whig abolitionists, of Rutland County look to it in season that they are prepared and ready—as they always have been—to give their whole strength to the good whig cause.

TRUE PROPHECY.—We learn by Telegraph from Prof. Jas. Meacham of Middlebury College—and honestly of the town—has received the benediction of the whigs of this district for Governor.

This intelligence will greatly hearten our friends in Rutland County, and, what is [illegible] [illegible] [illegible].

☞—While the Locofocos under the name of the "Free Democracy" are using their most strenuous efforts to dupe and mislead the intelligent whigs of Rutland County, and thus secure their votes at the coming election we trust that they will be awake to their interests and those of the country with truth and right on their side they will frustrate the sleep-laid plans of the opposing party. It cannot but be noticed to every reader that a greater effort is being made by the locofocos to secure the election than has been made by them for a long time, and they intend to do this by persuading the unwary that that party is the only party that is opposed to the extension of slave territory, and in favor of the propagation of liberal principles. We hope and believe that all true Whigs will be on their guard. While we oppose the extension of slave territory, by all constitutional means we think there are other points under discussion which are of vital importance and which should not be overlooked. Whigs of Rutland County, shall "the star which has never set" but which has shone through all the defeats and reverses of the whig party now be eclipsed by the black cloud of locofoco rule.

☞—We learn from the Free Press on Friday last that the Cholera has made its appearance in Burlington. The physicians have reported ten or twelve cases, seven or eight of which have proved fatal. According to the report of the physicians, the Cholera has not yet attacked no one save the intemperate and the imprudent. The news will not disregard this impressive warning.

☞—The TIMES OF NEW UNION is decidedly the best appearing sheet which visits our office. Its typographical appearance is an honor to the publisher.

The Honeymoon.

[illegible]

The Honeymoon is past, and the "all hail Democracy cry here, and in the days of war." The Argus, Post Times, Pennsylvanian, Sentinel, and a host of other influential Democratic journals are not backward in welcoming the recent disgraceful coalition, pronouncing the most favorable results to the party, and taking upon the true Democratic ground that "all are their principles as in happier days."

The Washington Union congratulates the surrender at the outset, but it looks [illegible] quite [illegible] the gloss.

We anticipate that the Democrats of the old line will petition for a divorce before another election.

Fatal Accident.

Frederick R. Hunger Jr. of Meriden aged 22 years, started from home last Saturday in company with his father and another person to look for an ox and carried with him his gun, loaded with buck shot. Having entered the woods and while in the act of stepping over a log he had slipped and he stumbled which brought the hammer of the gun to the ground and the contents rushed to his breast, where the gun was accidentally discharged, the charge entering the left breast, and piercing the heart which caused his death instantly.

The Summit.—We had occasion to visit this unpopular work in Mount Holly a few days since. The amount of rock which has been removed is immense, and the amount which is yet to be removed is not inconsiderable. It is impossible to imagine what an amount of labor can be accomplished by men when perform such a given task. The 'Summit' is decidedly the greatest piece of Railroad work in the State, and cannot fail to be an object of interest to any beholder.

☞—The Washington Republic states that there has been several persons appointed to fill important offices under government during the last four months, than there were Whigs appointed during the twenty two years previous, excepting those appointments made under Harrison. No wonder for joy, [illegible].

☞—The people of Ireland are dying from want and disease. O'Brien, Meagher, McMahon, and O'Donahoe are [illegible] at Van Diemen's land.

☞—The National Grammar School Convention which was to have been holden at Philadelphia on the 22d of August has been postponed to the 17th of Oct. on account of the Cholera.

☞—The Concert given by Messrs. Squires & Smith in [illegible] last evening, was well attended, and gave universal satisfaction. Many of Mr Squires's new songs were particularly pleasing, and his execution of them as usual by the brilliant tenor, in the hands of Mr Smith, was admired by all.

We regret that gentlemen as masters in their profession, and men that they deserved such fair patronage and good attention, which they so richly merited and having met Mr Squires "Hail Anderson, My Joe" and [illegible].

[illegible] Mr Squires [illegible] Hail Anderson, My Joe" and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]
