TAK SISSON.

I suppose that neither yourself nor your readers ever heard of Tak Sisson—and as he was quite an interesting character, I will give you a short account of him.

Thomas Sisson a very wealthy and respectable farmer, lived in Tiverton, in Rhode Island, before and during the American Revolution. He had twelve slaves—the father and mother and ten children. Among the children was one named Tak—Tak Sisson. Tak from early childhood to adult age could never be prevailed on to eat flesh meat, but he subsisted on vegetable food and milk; neither could he ever be persuaded to eat high-seasoned food of any kind. When he was a child, his parents used to scold him severely, and threaten to to whip him because he would not eat flesh. They told him if he did not eat meat, he never would be good for anything; but would always be a poor, puny creature.

But Tak persevered in his nauseating and vegetable diet; and to the surprise of all, grew fast and his body was finally developed and athletic, and he was very strong and robust; and altogether the most vigorous and active, and dexterious, of any of the family. He finally became more than six feet high, and every way well proportioned, and remarkable for his agility and strength. He was as uncommonly shrewd and bright, and strong and active, that he became notorious for his shrewdness, and for his feats of strength and agility. Indeed he was so full of his playful mischief, that he greatly annoyed the overseer.

During the revolution Tak was sent by his master into the army, to serve as a substitute 'for another man who was drafted. When Col. Barton took Gen. Prescot on Long Island, Tak was one of Col. B's chosen men, and the one on whom he most depended. Having entered the house where Gen. P. quartered, Col. B. followed by Tak, and two or three others, proceeded silently to the door of the chamber where Gen. P. was sleeping. The Col. finding the door fastened, turned and whispered to Tak—

'I wish that door opened, Gen. Prescot taken, and carried by the guard to the boat, without the least noise or disturbance.'

Tak stepped back a few paces, then plunging violently against the door, burst it open, and rushed into the midst of the room. At the same instant, Gen. Prescott strang from the bed and seized his gold watch hanging upon the wall. Tak sprang upon him like a tiger, and clasping the Gen. in his brawny arms, said in a low, stern voice, 'One word and, you are a dead man.' Then hastily snatching the General's cloak and wrapping it around his body, and at the same time telling his companions to take the rest of his clothes, he took the General in his arms, as if a child and ran with him by the guard towards the boat, followed by Col. B. and the rest of the company. They succeeded in reaching the boat and escaping from the Island with their prisoner.

Tak Sisson lived many years after the close of the war, and attained to great age.—Library of health.

COMMERCE OF LAKE CHAMPLAIN.

The collector of the Champlain district has furnished a statement of the revenue derived from customs for his district during the navigable seasons of 1848 and 1849; also, the number of entries and clearances of vessels during the fourth quarter of 1849, at Rouse's Point in said district:

Revenue collected for two seasons is as follows:

1849	$13,663,70
1848	14,826,98
Increase,	$33,839,77

The intercourse between the Canadas, is as shown by the above figures rapidly increasing, and will continue to increase in nearly the same ratio for years to come, which will greatly augment the business upon the lake, and increase the tolls upon the Champlain canal. The number of British vessels entered and cleared at the custom-house, Rouse's Point, in the quarter ending 31st December, 1849, is 275; American vessels 259—total 534, besides two lines of steamers every day each way.

The returns from the custom house, on the opposite side of the lake, would undoubtedly show as great an increase of business on that side of the lake. Large quantites of Canadian flour, grain and ashes, have passed through the lake in bond for New York, to be exported from there.

One firm in Burlington, Vermont, the last season, shipped upwards of 80,000 barrels of flour and several thousand bushels of wheat from Cleavland, Toledo and Chicago, direct to Burlington, via the Welland Canal, through lake Ontario, down the St. Lawrence, and up the Richelieu river through the Chambly canal.—Oswego Times.

ANECDOTE FROM THE FRENCH

AN ASTONIZHED COACHMAN. A few Sundays ago, at the late hour of the night, a hackney coach was stationed before the iron gate of the park of St. Cloud, on the side of the Sevres. On Sundays there are always citizens there who either are afraid to take, or who cannot always get, the cars, and ingenious coachmen, speculating on this timorous or dilatory class, drive their carriages providentially on the road which leads to the foreign station called Montretout.

The coachmen start off after letting four seats to as many passengers.—outside the walls the coachman is sovereign, and he uses his rights. The excellent Comedian, G., at the Comedie Francaise, after having dined too long with a friend at Sevres, saw that the hour for the last train would have struck when he reached Montretout, and calling a hospitable coach, he said to the driver:—

'Will you start immediately?'

'Yes,' answered the coachman, 'if you pay me for four seats.'

'How much?'

'Twenty Francs.'

'That is too high.'

'Ah bien!' Get in, the three other passengers will not delay a great while before coming.'

The actor wished to punish by an old trick, all the exaggerated pretensions of the coachman. He got into the coach with the agility of a young man; the coachman shut the door, and stationed himself on the look-out, on the road to Sevres, to see if other passengers did not arrive.

Whilst the coachman is thus reconnoitering, the actor G., opened the other door on the other side of the park hurried through the darkness, after having left him behind his cloak, and taking a round about turn, he again presented himself, limping along to the coachman, and in a stammering voice he inquired if they would set out soon.

'Immediately,' said the coachman. 'There are already two, and behold two other travelers, whom I await, and who are just coming.' The limping actor, slowly gets into the coach, and the door is closed. He soon passes through the opposite door again with the slightest noise, and the second disguise of the actor is an old man. It is known that G. has all expressions and every tone of voice at his command.

'Monsieur,' said the coachman to the pretended old man, 'we will start right away; you make the third, and the fourth is in the house; he is getting his hat.'

The fourth was like the others, an imaginary individual, who would never have arrived, if the actor, performing for the last time, his stratagem, had not resumed his cloak in order to appear before the coachman with the staggering walk of a young man excited by the vapors of a mighty banquet.

'Ah! well if you are in a hurry, as you say,' cried the coachman in a triumphant tone, you can set out instanter, you make the required compliment.'

'Get upon the seat, and let's be off,' said the actor opening the door and closing it again after him. Soon the wheels were in motion and the horses in a gallop. The horses understood nothing of this mystery, and the driver was astonished at seeing them travel so fast, they drew but one passenger.'

At the Place de la Concorde, as far as it was agreed to go, the carriage stopped. The actor G., opened the door himself, and giving the coachman five francs, he disappeared. The coachman waited a couple of step back, for the appearance of the other passengers. No one came forth. 'They are asleep,' murmured the coachman, and he thrust his head inside in order to awaken them with his hands to the seats, but touched no one! He was thunderstruck, and stood as motionless as the neighboring statue.

How have these men vanished?—The horses had kept a full gallop, all the way from Saint Cloud to the Place de la Concorde. Four had entered the coach—only one had departed—What a subject for stupefaction! And at the bottom of this great mystery—more impenetrable than all other mysteries of Paris—there was something still more grave—the loss of the fifteen francs!

If the coachman had not tenderly loved his two horses, he would have sought the neighboring bridge, in order to commit suicide; but people do not often kill themselves when they will leave beloved beings on the earth.

As he was absorbed in these reflections, this mystery was still more complicated by an incident. An old mendicant, all ragged approached the pensive coachman, and held forth his hand imploring an alms from him.

'Oh! you choose your time well,' said he to him, I have just lost my senses and three hundred good sous pieces!'

'Behold them,' said the begger, handing him the sum mentioned; and then hurried quickly away.

It was G., the actor, who had met the mendicant and gave him this role and this mission.

The coachman, to this hour perhaps would still have been thinking of these wonders, if he had not been taken away by a passer by for a ride to the rue Rochechouart. He has told this adventure to his fellow drivers, and none of them credit it. It is the fate of all truth.

SANDS' SARSAPARILLA.

IN QUART BOTTLES

FOR THE REMOVAL AND PERMANENT CURE OF ALL DISEASES ARISING FROM AN IMPURE STATE OF THE BLOOD OR HABIT OF THE SYSTEM, viz.

Scrofula or King's Evil, Rheumatism, Chronic Cutaneous Eruptions, Pimples or Pustules on the Face, Blotches, Blotts, Chronic Sore Eyes, Ring Worm or Tetter, Scald Head, Enlargement and Pain of the Bones and Joints, Mercurial Disease, Syphilitic Symptoms, Scrofula or Lumbago and Diseases arising from an injudicious use of Mercury, Auritis or Dropsy, Dropsy or Inflammation in the Kidneys, Chronic Constipation, Diarrhea.

In these preparations are strongly concentrated all the medicinal properties of Sarsaparilla, a blood wash so much effected with the most salutary productions, the most potent remedies of the vegetable kingdom are at this time so fully tested, and so well by patients themselves, but also by physicians, that it has received their unqualified recommendations and the appreciation of the public, and has established on its own merits a reputation for RARITY AND EFFICACY far superior to the various compounds bearing the name of Sarsaparilla. Diseases have been cured, such as are not attributed in the records of time past, and what is the result thus far in the thousands who have used it, it is capable of doing for the millions still suffering and struggling with disease. In purifying, cleansing and invigorating the human sponge of life, and infusing new vigor throughout the whole animal frame.

ANOTHER CURE OF SCROFULA.

The following speaking and, as will be seen, permanent cure of an inveterate case of scrofula, commends itself to all similarly afflicted.

SOUTHBURY, CONN. Jan 1 1849

Messrs Sands. Gentlemen—Sympathy for the afflicted induces me to offer you one of the many testimonials in your Sarsaparilla in the case of my wife—she was severely afflicted with the scrofula in different parts of the body, the glands of the neck were greatly enlarged and her limbs much swollen. After suffering over a year and finding no relief from the remedies used, the disease attacked her leg and threatened amputation. Her physician advised that it should be laid open which was done, but without any permanent benefit. In this state she commenced taking your Sands' Sarsaparilla. The first bottle produced a decided and favorable effect, relieving her more than any prescription she had ever taken and before she had used six bottles to the astonishment and delight of her friends, she found her health quite restored. It is now over a year since the cure was effected, and her health remains good, showing the disease was thoroughly eradicated from the system. Our neighbors are all knowing to these facts, and think very highly of Sands Sarsaparilla.

Yours with respect, JULIUS PIKE

Extract from a letter received from Mr N. W. Harris a druggist well known in Louisa county, Va.

Gentlemen—I have sunsold seven boxes of mine with your Sarsaparilla also, was attached with Scrofula, and to a wonderful family. Yours truly, Fredericks Hall, Va July 17 1848 N W HARRIS.

SANDS SARSAPARILLA—It seems almost unnecessary to direct attention to an article so well known, and so deservedly popular as this preparation, but probably often wishing to use the extract of Sarsaparilla, are induced to try worthless compounds bearing the name, and receiving little or none of the virtue of this valuable medicine, we cannot confer a greater benefit on our readers than in directing their attention to the advertisement of the Messrs Sands in this column. The bottle has recently been enlarged to hold a quart, and those who wish a really good article will find concentrated in this all the medicinal value of the root. The experience of thousands has proved its efficacy in curing the various diseases for which it is recommended, and at the present time more than any other perhaps is this medicine useful, in preparing the system for a change of season.—[Home Journal of Sept 1848

California Life Risks,

taken at lower rates than by any other Company

The business of the Company will be conducted upon the JOINT Stock, and upon the MUTUAL principal, at the option of the insured, thus meeting the wants and circumstances of the public more fully, it is believed, than purely mutual companies can do.

On the Joint Stock principle the insured will pay 33 1-3 per cent. less for insurance than the rates of the best organized mutual Companies, or will receive what is equivalent to 33 1-3 per cent. per annum in additional profits—paid in advance, instead of receiving an uncertain amount at the end of each year in script certificates, redeemable on certain contingencies, while at the same time the annual cash payments are increased by the interest paid on notes given for half the amount of the premium.

On the Mutual principle, this company propose to insure at the usual rates of mutual Companies, dividing the net earnings each year, giving script certificates redeemable after a Mutual Insurance Fund of Two Hundred Thousand Dollars is accumulated, and charging a commission for conducting that part of the business, equivalent to only about one half the expenses of the Company, securing (losses being equal) a larger yearly dividend to the mutual insurers, besides giving the members a lien upon a Joint Stock Capital of One Hundred Thousand Dollars, a large Joint Stock Reserve Fund, which will be pledged as security for payment of losses, in addition to the usual Capital and reserve Fund in mutual Companies.

This company is not only one of the most prosperous but also one of the very best in the country.—Hartford Daily Courier.

No Company in the Union has had such a run of business as this company since its organization.

Men for California

are almost universally insuring in this Company because terms are so reasonable.

HEADS OF FAMILIES are anxious to insure in this Company—a safe institution.

SALARIED MEN, are insuring in this company by scores.

Hard working men, invest in this company because they regard it as the best of saving shanks to lay up their earnings in for their wives and children.

Capitalists invest with this company by taking out policies for life, because they regard it as good as money at 12 to 20 per cent interest.

All classes and conditions of men insure in this company because, just as they do every thing in Hartford, when they meet with losses, they pay "up" at once.

DR S. CHASE M. D. Dental Surgeon.

And Manufacturer of Mineral Teeth.

LETTER FROM REV JOHN DUDLEY.

To H. S. Chase, M. D., Woodstock Vt.

QUEBECK, Dec 10th 1849

DEAR SIR * * * * * * *

The set of Teeth which you made for Mrs Dudley, I consider to be one of the finest specimens of the Dentist art. Nothing can exceed the beauty of the work, and the truthfulness of the imitation. But the triumph of your skill over the peculiar difficulties of the case, I regard as the truest test of your proficiency in the delicate profession, and more praiseworthy than the exquisite neatness of the teeth themselves. A more difficult case could hardly be conceived; and a more successful and satisfactory operation, it is impossible to suppose. The work was an entire double upper and under set, and in the utility and comfort, they have surpassed our utmost expectations. They not only serve all the purpose of natural teeth for personal appearance, comfort and speech, but the far more desirable one of mastication. * * * * * * It may not be less gratifying to you, than it is to me, that she can not only eat with them, but that she does not eat at all without them.

* * * * * * *

Allow me therefore, dear sir, to say that this piece of work has won our entire confidence in your superior skill as a dentist. * * * * And it affords me great pleasure to add my testimony to the beauty, durability and truthfulness of your work and thus contribute, if may, to the well earned popularity which you are already enjoying.
