Rutland Weekly Globe.

FRIDAY MORNING, MARCH 13, 1874.

A Frightful Accident.

A young man, a son of Mr. Giddings, living between West Rutland and Castleton, was kicked Friday morning while caring for one of his father's horses. When found he was insensible and bleeding profusely from a ghastly wound in the face. The horse's foot had evidently struck a sort of a glancing blow, for beginning at the forehead it split his face down through his nose and upper lip, and along the lower edge of the eye, skinning off, as it were, one half of his face and turning it outwards so as to lay it over his ear. Dr. Burton of Castleton, the family physician, was summoned and a messenger dispatched with all speed for Dr. Goldsmith. These gentlemen, after a long and painful series of operations, so restored the appearance of the face that no visible deformity is left, save the bruise and swelling naturally incident to such an injury.

Musical.

The Paterson, New Jersey Daily Press publishes a notice of a "grand court dress concert," which recently came off in that city. The concert is reported to have been a fine affair, and the receipts which were appropriated to the relief fund for the poor of Paterson, amounted to $500 after paying expenses. Thirty-five musicians participated, among whom we notice the name of Miss Mary Campbell of Poultney, well known to the musical public of Rutland county, who now is a teacher of music in a literary institution in Paterson.

The following is the compliment paid Miss Campbell, by the Press:

"A charming quartette "Greeting to Spring" came next on the programme, and was finely rendered by Miss Campbell, Miss Crooks, James Crooks and H. B. Utter. Part 1 closed with a noble chorus from Rossin's William Tell by the full company. Part 2 opened after a brief intermission with another fine chorus "Hail Smiling Morn," by Spofforth, after which Miss Campbell favored the audience with one of the finest soprano solos from "Lucretia Borgia." She was dressed in black velvet flowing robes, with white ruff, a white cap and with a gold cross suspended from a gold chain hanging below her waist. Her costume was so elegantly simple, her manner so unassuming, and her singing so sweet, that there was a tremendous outburst of applause when she concluded the Italian solo. An encore was insisted upon, and at last she responded with "Annie Laurie," and which she sang with exquisite grace and to a second encore she repeated the concluding stanza or two of the same sweet ballad."

Fancy Gardening.

Several years since there was in Rutland county a professional man, who, besides being considerable of a wag, was quite a hunter, fisherman, and very fond of early vegetables. Did his neighbors' vines bear ripe tomatoes before his, some say they found their way to his table. He was so fond of them, that sometimes nice, ripe red peppers were found cut up with his tomatoes. One season he concluded to have some early corn, and started some in a hot house, transplanted it in his garden. Early in June it was some two feet high. He took pride in exhibiting it to his neighbors, and inviting them to eat green corn with him. On a Saturday he received a personal call out of town and employed a native of the Green Isle to hoe his corn during his absence. Before he left he told the man to thin the corn—to have no more than four stalks in a hill. Upon his return home he proceeded to examine his pits and found his gardener had pulled up all the large stalks, and left only a few of inferior growth.

Says he, "Here you gawky Irishman, what did you pull up all those large stalks for?"

"Faith and be shure to give the little ones a chance to grow!"

Robbery at Ticonderoga.

A daring highway robbery was perpetrated at Ticonderoga last Friday evening. About half past seven o'clock, as a French girl by the name of Mirtt was accosted while near Mr. Stone's residence, on Lake George avenue, by two men who demanded of her what money she had, accompanying the demand by threats of injury if not complied with. Having about $15 with her, and fearing for her personal safety, she handed it over, and, after receiving it, the highwaymen vamoosed. The girl then alarmed some of the residents near by, and stated that she thought she recognized in the robbers two young roughs named Joseph and E. L. Slucia. They were immediately arrested and held for examination.

Obituary.

Rev. Azariah Hyde, formerly pastor of the Congregational churches in Benson and Pawlet, also for several years principal of Castleton seminary is deeply afflicted in the death of his son, Willard Tenney Hyde, Esq., of Rockford, Illinois. He died at the residence of his father-in-law at Mason City, Iowa, February 24th.

He was on a journey to the milder climate of California for the benefit of his health, but on reaching Mason City was too much exhausted to proceed and died in a week. Only a telegram has been received and the many friends of Mr. Hyde and family will await with interest further particulars.

The first sermon delivered in New England was preached at Mohegan Island, Connecticut.

"Facts and Hints."

In this busy age of restless activity, the people have little leisure for the examination of elaborate works on science, medicine, or in fact any other subject. Hence, every volume issued from the press, which presents to the reader, in a condensed form the facts, and theories for the education of every household, is to be hailed with gratitude, as one of the educating forces of the present time.

Among the most useful and valuable of this class of books, is a volume of 412 pages just issued from the press of W. J. Holland, of Springfield, Mass., which contains facts and hints for everyday life. It is a book for the household, containing more than one thousand articles on "Chemistry for the Household," "Infancy and Childhood," "Furniture," "Animal Physiology," "House," "Cookery for the Household," "Gardening," "Toilet Hints," "Clothing," "Accidents and Diseases and their Remedies, etc," "Dumps," "Fruit," "Food," "Amusements and Exercise," "Stationery and Artistic," "Law," "Miscellaneous."

An examination shows the volume to be one of the most useful and important that has ever come from the American press, and none who read its pages can fail to be entertained and instructed. In fact, educated. The person who peruses its pages carefully cannot be classed as an ignorant man or woman, for according to Tillotson's definition, "He that does not know those things which are of use and necessary for him to know, is but an ignorant man, whatever he may know beside."

The book has evidently cost the labor of years, and it has packed within its pages as much reliable information on as large a variety of subjects as would render the book valuable in connection with nearly all the requirements of every day life.

The dictionary form has been adopted, thus making it accessible at any moment upon any subject the reader may desire to refer to, and where one set of facts cross references have been inserted to avoid repetition, in order that either may be consulted readily when needed. A special index has been prepared at the end of the volume.

It is a useful and important volume that should be in the possession of every household, and in fact every individual. No money can be better invested than that expenditure of $1.75 for its purchase. Its perusal will justify every statement made in reference to its value.

Mrs. M S Richardson is now canvassing the town for this valuable book. Persons from out of town desiring the book can procure it by addressing her at Rutland, postoffice box No. 47.

New Haven.

Feminine New Haven is not to be turned from its purpose by ordinary hindrances and in spite of the storm on Wednesday, twenty-eight of them assembled at the parsonage for their semi-monthly sociable.

A former resident, Rev. Mrs. Whetherbee of Nashua, N. H., was present and encouraged her friends with a report of benevolent and social objects among the Nashua churches.

These gatherings have a pleasant effect on the social atmosphere and their pecuniary results are not to be despised. The last year the ladies of New Haven have supplied blinds for the parsonage, renovated the chapel in a tasteful manner, given a helping hand to various small charities and contributed a barrel of goods for a missionary on the western frontier. This last has put them in communication with a capital letter-writer and an earnest worker, Rev. J. H. Rockwell, Syracuse, Otoe county, Nebraska. He reports one of the wants most keenly felt among them, as ministers, is that of reading matter and wishes every family in the east who are in the habit of packing away their old books and magazines in the attic knew this. (Editors and reviewers please take notice.)

The New Haven auxiliary to the Vermont branch of the W. B. M. will be heard from again. L.

Bennington.

Our village abounds with entertainments of mingled intellectual greatness and social amusement, which sometimes follow each other in quick succession. On Wednesday evening last a small but appreciative audience were delighted with an intellectual treat given under the auspices of the Young Men's Association. The lecturer, Mr. Wallace Bruce, closed the course with the best or most popular discourse on "The landmarks of Scott."

FIREMEN'S FESTIVAL

Again on Friday evening the Gen Stark fire engine company came before the people with what proved to be a more popular entertainment in the form of a festival and supper accompanied with music by the Gen. Stark glee club, and for dessert the voting for an elegant cake to be given to the minister (?) who should receive the largest number of votes rather than prayers. The proceeds of the evening are to be devoted to a re-equipment of the members of the Engine-company. As is usually the case when the palate and stomach contend against the intellect and brain the attendance was large. Everything available conspired to make the entertainment attractive. The weather was favorable; the decorations, the tables, the music and the company were cheerful and inviting. The effort to find out, by vote, who is the most popular physician, having proved successful in its monied aspect if in no other, it was now determined to make the modest clergymen the innocent candidates for popular favor, less, we think, with the purpose of putting the reverend gentlemen or their friends against each other, than for the pleasant enthusiasm awakened by the rivalry and for the sake of making them occasions of pleasant financial success. However it may be with seekers of office and lovers of position, it is presumed that these good men will not strive for such a mastery secured by such means, though they look on and smile at the enthusiastic sport of their favorities.

The young men of the Gen. Stark company are persons of character who aim by their labors to merit the commendation and to deserve the patronage and encouragement of the people. Forty in number they have charge of an elegant, showy and powerful steamer, which cost $4,000, and has sufficient capacity and force to throw from its two nozzles six hundred gallons per minute.

Taking these several things into consideration it is gratifying that the entertainment was successful in both its social and financial aspects. The cake voted for was awarded to Rev. B. Hawley, D. D. who received 495 votes. The voting as reported stands as follows:

Bostwick Hawley	495
R. M. Luther	448
C.B. Hulbert	45
Father Dwyer	21
J. I. Bliss	16
Isaac Jennings	4

Whole number of votes cast 1029. The gross receipts were about $245; the net not far from $175, which will be carefully expended in supplying the company with fire-helmets, and the hose-men with rubber coats. The cake is of fruit, elegantly trimmed, and sitting on an ornate standard with a surmounted arch on which is printed in gilt "GEN. STARK, 1874." It was formally presented the next morning to the successful candidate by a committee of four gentlemen, Mr. Isaac Morton making the presentation address. B.

State Council of the Patrons of Husbandry.

The meeting of the Patrons of Husbandry of the State held at Montpelier on the 5th inst., was well attended, considering that the roads were in a bad state and a wash-out on the M. & W. R. R. R. prevented the trains running over that road. Thirty granges were represented. Col. John B. Mead, of Randolph, was chosen Master, and the other officers were chosen from the different granges, as in the subordinate grange. The forenoon was taken up by hearing reports from granges represented. The afternoon was chiefly occupied in considering what system should be adopted to facilitate the commercial work of the granges. Plans from the executive committee were before the convention.

A resolution was passed relating to the misappropriation of the Agricultural College fund. Col. A. Clarke of the St. Albans Messenger was invited to address the meeting and presented his views on the management of the Central Vermont railroad.

At the close of the address the meeting adjourned to meet again at Essex Junction the 24 of April at 10 o'clock a. m.

A Suggestion to Listers.

The lack of uniformity in listing property in the different parts of our state, says the St. Johnsbury Caledonian, and even in different towns of the same county, seems to call for a convention of listers to agree upon some basis on which to assess property, both real and personal. Can any one give a reason why property should not be put in at its full value, instead of two-third or less, as is now done; and why tax payers should not make oath to their list? We presume that all agree that lists should be uniform for the same class of property throughout the state; and every one knows they are not so now. We call for a convention of the listers of the state to arrange matters and put all on equality.

Patrons of Husbandry.

A Grange of the Patrons of Husbandry was organized at New Haven, in Addison county, on Friday evening last, by Z. E. Jameson, with the following officers:

Ezekiel Hanchet	Master.
M D Parmalee	Overseer.
A D Searles	Lecturer.
E C Smith	Treasurer.
H S Skinner	Secretary.
F A Smith	Steward.
G W Flint	Assistant Steward.
D S Parmalee	Chaplain.
W S Walker	Gate Keeper.
Orida Walker	Ceres.
Martha Donshee	Pomona.
R G Walker	Flora.
C N Flint	Lady Steward.

Twenty-five members.

THE FARMERS ON THE MOVE.—A St. Johnsbury correspondent of the Boston Journal says: "Farmers are on the move. Granges are multiplying in all the regions round. The old farmers' clubs are wide awake, and there seems to be unusual activity in the profession. One feature of this movement is that farmers' wives are interested with their husbands, joining their clubs and granges. A farmers' festival was held at the east village the other day, which was largely attended. Hon. Calvin Morrill presided, Rev. Mr. Humphrey offered prayer, and papers were read upon different subjects by various persons, all farmers, highly creditable to their authors. Farmers are beginning to realize their position and opportunities, and are making commendable efforts to improve them. Success to them.

State, County and Vicinity.

BRANDON.

On Monday last the scale shops commenced working on full time. The company is doing an increased business.

E. F. Dana has taken the position of bookkeeper of the Otter Creek marble company.

E. D. Higgins, son of the late Julius E. Higgins, has become connected with a mercantile establishment in Boston, Mass.

Mr. Hawley, formerly teller of the National Bank of Orwell, has become bookkeeper for the Brandon manufacturing company.

It is said that the town affairs of Brandon were never managed better financially than last year.

Albert Matthews, formerly of the Bates House and Berwick Hotel Rutland, has leased the Douglas House again and takes possession April 1st.

S. B. June has been elected master of the Brandon Grange No. 4 of the Patrons of Husbandry, in place of S. E. Segar, declined.

Mr. Selleck, a saloon keeper, was arraigned last week before Justice Eva June Plead guilty to four offences of selling liquor and was find $40 and costs. He pledged himself to stop dealing in liquor.

H. A. Sumner has sent to J. H. Furnam of Grafton, Vt., a pair of brown turkeys weighing fifty pounds.

The spring term of the Brandon graded school will commence on Monday, March 23d, under the supervision of its accomplished principal, J. S. Cilley. This one of the best schools in the state and offers superior advantages, not only to Brandon, but the towns in the adjoining vicinity, who should appreciate the excellence of its instruction and liberally patronize it rather than send their children to a distance where the facilities are no better if as good.

J. P. Ives has purchased a new dwelling house near the Town Hall of Sumner Briggs, for $2,700.

Riley Hull has sold his farm to William and John Hull, for $27,000.

The liquor case of Riley Deming has been postponed until April 30th.

There are said to be a large number of Good Templars and Grangers in Brandon.

It was voted to listers the sums expended by them for counsels fees in the suit of N. T. Sprague against them.

The constable is to be paid two per cent. for the collection of taxes, and pay the overseer of the poor $150.

MECHANICSVILLE.

Rev. Thaddeus F. Stewart of Burlington preached in Mechanicsville Sabbath afternoon, March 1st, and held a series of meetings at S. H. Livingston's hall in Tarbleville through the week following, and, by appointment, will continue them the present week. Much interest is manifested in the meetings and many hopeful conversions have been made as the result of his advent among us.

Rev. Joshua Clements of the Baptist church in Mount Holly, is holding meetings at the school house in District No. 14, near John Graves' mill, every Wednesday evening. We hear that good results are attending his labors.

Town meeting passed off quietly with us, most of the old board of town officers being re-elected. There were some who did not agree with the majority however, that voted to raise but 30 cents on the dollar for town tax, as they thought it would need more than this amount to defray the expenses of the coming year.

A vote of the town at town meeting set D H Parker and Gardner Carlton from District No 12 to 14, and Wm Roberts, George Briggs, Sylvanus Dickerman and Thomas Danna from 12 to 9. The necessity of the above changes in school districts are not fully seen by the people.

Willie Moore, whom I have mentioned in other communications, as the little sufferer having a cancer in the eye, died Feb. 23d. He dropped quietly away at last and little unexpected to the family in his final departure.

Mr. Tarble has shipped to London this spring some 600 dozen rakes via New York, it being about his usual amount of goods sent to the same firm for the past six years.

We hear that at the present term of court a new petition has been made and served, to call the road commissioners out again to make alterations on the Horton road, so called. It is hoped to get through with the road this summer. Cannot it be done?

I see by THE GLOBE that Henry Priest, of East Wallingford, is editor of a periodical, the Tuftonian, published by the students of Tuft's College. Now, we all know and honor the abilities and peculiar fitness as editor of Mr. Priest in his position on the racy, spicy Tuftonian. We believe his residence is here; his father lives about half a mile from our village and he has always made his residence with him.

BRIDGEWATER.

I presume your readers may be interested especially at this time, about anything that touches the subject of intemperance; and probably many of them will rejoice to hear of anything of note in this direction done by moral suasion. On Sunday evening, Feb. 8th, A. E. Willis, a native of Bridgewater, a former resident of Rutland, at present a good mechanic of Springfield, Mass., at the head of the Good Samaritan order of that city, gave the people of Bridgewater village and vicinity a "talk" as he calls his efforts, at the village school house. His "talk" seemed to stir up the people, and that was an agent which was the means of procuring fifty-two pledges to total abstinence that evening. One week later A. E. Willis and A. N. Jenne were with them at the same place, making some telling remarks that were very attentively listened to, and others, residents of the place, made some timely suggestions as they saw fit. Some good music furnished by an impromptu choir gave much interest to the occasion. Altogether, it was, as was remarked by one or two, quite a "love feast." The result was twenty-eight pledges and an organization of the "Bridgewater Good Samaritan Reform Temperance Society," Lemuel Shattuck president. The 23d ult. another social or "conference meeting" was held, and though the elements without were not auspicious, there was a goodly number within, and another profitable time for the cause of reform, eleven signing the pledge.

In another part of the town a meeting has been holden in a small school district, where thirty-two out of the thirty-four present signed the pledge. These are not all new converts, but some of them are the hard cases of Bridgewater. We hope they may hold out and that a true spirit of charity may be extended to the weak, tempted ones who are trying to throw off the yoke of this fell destroyer, but fills sixty acres of drunkards' graves every year in these United States. As Woodstock is not very far away, and is not supposed to be very much more prohibitory than some of her sister towns in Vermont, some of the boys of Bridgewater say that "some of those saloon 'fellers' will have to go into some other business, if we fellers up here all sign the pledge and keep it."

Well, we say the thing looks encouraging and call that a pretty good fortnight's work for old Bridgewater, and may we hope that the blood of her citizens may be in future always more vitalized with pure water, and her mills, machinery, &c., be washed away less by the floods from the skies.

At the meeting on the 23d Chester Capron read a very telling poem, entitled "I have drank my last drop." On the 15th, A. N. Jenne recited one, from W. D. Woods, Esq., "When all men shall drink no more."

Hon. Thos. B. Powers spoke March 1st on temperance. We have not heard the result, but it is sufficient to say that he is too well known to need any eulogy.

Adna Eaton of North Bridgewater, an old man 87 years of age, recently fell on the ice and broke several ribs. A.

SPRINGFIELD.

The town library has lately received an addition of one hundred dollars' worth of new books, and a large number more are to be ordered.

Ass Rollins recently butchered a cow which dressed 850 pounds.

The choir of the Congregational church are soon to give a musical entertainment, entitled the "Floral Queen."

Mr Alaijah Miller—father-in-law of H. R. Dyer of Rutland—recently deceased, was for a long time a resident of Springfield and the owner of a large amount of real estate in town.

The real estate of the co-operative manufacturing company has been sold at auction, and was bought by Hamlin Whitmore for $17,500. It is expected the company will pay ten or fifteen cents on the dollar.

WOODSTOCK.

Woodstock on Tuesday, voted to try the Street commission system, and elected Chas. M. Perry, Isaiah T. Fullerton and Justin S. Montague commissioners. The town has over $14,000 of railroad bonds that were never issued, and the selectmen were instructed to destroy them.

MILTON.

Burglars visited the office of Clark, Beardman & Co., in Milton, Thursday night and opened a safe with chisels and other implements they found in the room, from which they took $200 in U. S. bonds belonging to Mrs. Ward; $115 in postage stamps belonging to the assistant postmaster, and a gold watch and chain worth $150, held by Mr. Jed. P. Clark as security for money loaned. There is no clue to the burglars.

TICONDEROGA.

Rev. Wm N Bacon the efficient and highly esteemed pastor of the Congregational church in Shoreham, occupies the pulpit of the Congregational church at Ticonderoga a portion of the time, and on the evening of March 5th his friends presented him with $79.73 as a donation. It was a well deserved thank offering to this faithful minister of the gospel.

The school exhibition comes off next Friday evening.

On the anniversary of St. Patrick's day a supper will be held at Good Templars Hall. There will also be a temperance lecture. Tickets are fixed at $2, the proceeds to go for the benefit of the Catholic church.

Two well known capitalists of Burlington are about investing in property and probably manufacturing at Ticonderoga.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hopper were serenaded, on Monday evening, by the cornet band on their return home from their wedding trip.

The sash and door factory of DeLano & Ives has commenced running on full time.

DeLano & Ives are now shipping to Port Jarvis, N. Y. some ash furniture for the new Episcopal church, consisting of slips, stalls, footstools, lectern, altar and sedilium. The furniture, which is of carefully selected ash, is rich in design and chaste in appearance, and reflects great credit upon the resources of the establishment. All the work is of original design, except the sedilium, or bishop's chair, which was furnished. The carved black walnut tira, upon the back of the chair, is the most noticeable feature, and is, indeed, a handsome ornament. Carving is a new class of work recently introduced by the firm.

"Old Ti." Masonic Lodge, No. 503, holds its regular communication the 2d and 4th Saturdays of every month.

Sounding Water Lodge, No. 481, of Good Templars meets every Friday evening.

MURDER AND SUICIDE.

A Swedish Maniac in a Connecticut Wheel Factory.

The little village of Wallingford, on the Hartford and New Haven railroad line, about ten miles from New Haven, was the scene of a bloody tragedy Saturday forenoon, involving probably the loss of two lives. John Anderson, a Swede, living in New Haven, became a workman in the wheel manufactory of Hall & Parmalee at Wallingford about two years ago. One day last week he threw up his contract, because, as he said, he couldn't make it pay. The company immediately employed other men in his place. This seemed to displease Anderson, and he left the shop in anger. He passed the Sabbath in New Haven, and went to Wallingford again on Monday morning. Last Thursday morning he went into the factory, and was very violent, threatening to take the lives of those who had taken his place and of the the officers of the company. He assaulted one Norton, for which he was arrested, but a deacon of the Baptist church gave bonds for him and unfortunately he was released. Friday he went back to New Haven, where he greatly alarmed his family by his violence and his threats. At seven o'clock Saturday morning he arose and taking a pistol went to Wallingford swearing vengeance. He wandered around for some time. At half past eleven he went to the factory, which is near the depot. Entering with a cocked revolver in each hand he declared he would shoot every man in the building, and immediately fired at one Edward Yale, happily without effect. He then rushed up into the wheel room, where 15 or 20 men were at work, and running up to within six feet of Albert Norton, one of the men who had taken his place, fired at him without effect. He fired again, putting a ball into Norton's shoulder. He then turned upon Horatio Hall and shot him in the lower part of the temple, near the ear. Hall fell, exclaiming, "I'm shot; for God's sake get a doctor as soon as you can." The madman then rushed at E. H. Ives, treasurer of the company, and pursued him down stairs, firing at him twice without hitting him. Then returning to the second story, Anderson shot himself in the upper part of the head, afterwards covering the pool of his own blood on the floor with sawdust. He then went down stairs with his revolvers in his hands, and began to fire upon the workmen indiscriminately, fortunately without hitting any of them. He then rushed on to the front front platform of the building, thrust a knife into his throat, and fell covered with blood. He lay thereabout fifteen minutes, when he arose and started for the depot, still flourishing his revolvers. He was caught and taken back to the factory, where he became a raving maniac for a time, and then fell into a death-like stupor. At two p. m. he revived and his wounds were examined. They are probably fatal. Hall is delirious and lies in a very critical condition. He will probably die. Anderson is a small man, twenty-two years old. He has been in this country about six years. A countryman of his, John R. Johnson, a man of refinement and good education, now lies in New Haven jail, sentenced to death for murdering Mrs. Hess, his landlady, in Meriden two years ago in a fit of ungovernable rage.

SUDDEN changes of climate are sources of pulmonary, bronchial, and asthmatic affections. Experience having proved that simple remedies often act specifily and certainly, when taken in the early stages of the disease, recourse should be at once had to Dr. N. G. White's Pulmonary Elixir, let the cold, cough, or irritation of the throat be ever so slight; as by this precaution a more serious attack may be effectually warded off.

LET THE PEOPLE SPEAK.

MANHATTAN, KAN., April 8, 1873.

R. V. PIERCE, Buffalo, N. Y.:

Dear Sir:—Your Favorite Prescription has done my wife a world of good. She has taken nearly two bottles and has felt better the past two weeks than at any time in the past two years. No more periodical pains; none of that aching back or dragging sensation in her stomach she has been accustomed to for several years. I have so much confidence in it that I would be perfectly willing to warrant to certain customers of ours who would be glad to get hold of relief at any expense. I have tried many patent medicines, but never had any occasion to extol one before.

Very truly yours,
GEO. J. WHITING.
