☞ The Liquor Law Sustained.—At the September Term of the Supreme Court, Circuit session, for the first district, the Liquor Law was fully sustained by the Court.—Judge Bennett delivered the opinion of the Court—an elaborate and able production, which has been published in pamphlet form.

☞ We call attention to the advertisement of Mr. Huntington, the humane and excellent overseer of the poor of Burlington, for places for twenty-five boys. These boys are at present homeless or worse than homeless. They are unfortunate, but by no means irreclaimable. If placed under good influences now, before bad habits become fixed, they may become useful and industrious men. If not, they will probably be candidates for the poor-house and jail. The rescuing one such boy from a future of illness and crime, is a deed of mercy which will undoubtedly receive its reward. For several of them good places have been already secured.

☞ We call attention to Mr. Snow's advertisement of Verbenas. We have seen one of his catalogues. It shows an uncommonly rich list of varieties of that sparkling flower, with directions for cultivation &c., and the prices seem to us reasonable. The numerous florists in our region will do well to supply themselves.

Highway Robbery.—The telegraph announces that a hundred rifles and two cannon were "intercepted" at Lexington, Missouri, on their way to Kansas.

These arms were undoubtedly a part of those which have been forwarded from various places in the West and in New England for the use of the settlers in Kansas.

It is whispered here, that if they were part of the New England contingent, they were pieces without locks,—those necessary appendages to rifles and to the modern light field pieces, having safely arrived in Lawrence before the more cumbrous barrels. They will be delivered, therefore, to those who "intercepted" them.

But the business of "intercepting" may prove the most unfortunate move which General Atchison and his friends have taken.—Their operations in Kansas can be screened, more or less, under the obscurity of a newly settled territory; and there they profess to be men who intend to settle—there, also, they must be tried by the courts they have packed under the laws they have made. But in Lexington, Mo., they have acted under the laws of a State which professes to be civilized, which has officers of justice,—which has legal proceedings. They have "intercepted" some travellers, and taken from them their property.

Under the laws of Missouri this is highway robbery. It is so under the law of every civilized nation. We cannot conceive of a position more unfortunate than that into which the frontiersmen have thus been entrapped.

It will be very interesting to see the Washington Union's justification of the act, and President Pierce's in his next Kansas message.—Boston Advertiser.

☞ Important from Kansas.—A letter in the St. Louis Republican, of March 12th, gives an abstract of Gov. Robinson's Message to the Free State Legislature. He says it is understood that the Deputy United States Marshall has private instructions to arrest the members of the Legislature and State officers for treason, and that in such an event no resistance will be offered. He adds "Let what will come, not a finger should be raised against the Federal Authority until there be no hope of relief but in revolution." Exposed as the people are to the scalping-knife on the Western Border, and to bowie-knives and revolvers on the Eastern, a thorough organization of the military is called for.

A correspondent at Independence Mo., telegraphs as follows:

The Free State Legislature has adjourned to Lawrence, and was in session there on Saturday, the members fully determined to carry out their measures. Gov. Shannon has gone there to ascertain what is being done. Violence is apprehended, but there is but little excitement along the border. One hundred Sharpe's rifles and two cannon have been intercepted at Lexington, and will be held subject to the order of Gov. Shannon.

☞ The Cold and Snow.—Many of our exchanges speak of last Monday as the coldest day not only of this season but of many years. At Chelsea, Vt., the mercury was 35° below zero; at Bellows Falls 28° below; at Hanover, St. Johnsbury, and Wells River, 30° below; at Montreal but 12 below. The Windsor Journal pronounces it the coldest weather known in March for at least 20 years past.

The Ovid (N. Y.) Bee says that Cayuga Lake is entirely frozen over, a circumstance that has not occurred before in forty years.—Two locomotives on the road between Cortland and Binghampton, are covered with snow almost to the tops of their smoke-pipes.—The snow along the Allegany and Chest mountains has been full five feet in depth for some weeks past, and the road almost impassible to travellers.

The Rochester Union of the 10th says that never in the memory of man was there so much ice in Lake Ontario as at present.—Viewing the Lake from the mouth of the Genesee, a small space of open blue water is observable at the end of the pier, beyond which nothing can be seen but a vast field of ice.

The snow, driven by the high winds into the cuts, has occasioned almost unparalleled detentions of railroad trains. A train on the Rutland road was 15 hours in getting over Mount Holly last week. The road from Montreal this way as far as St. Johns was still under the drifts all last week, and passengers came by sleighs.

☞ The Agent of the Collin's line in New York states that the doors with white or glass handles, seen on ice field by the steamship Edinburgh, are similar to those with which the sleek cabins of the Pacific were furnished. The statement adds to the anxiety concerning the missing steamship, although, as such articles are common to most of the packet ships, it is considered quite possible that they belonged to some sailing vessel.

☞ Governor Chase of Ohio has made a requisition on the Gov. ror of Kentucky for the return of the slave woman who killed one of her children in Cincinnati, and who has since been sent back to slavery. The demand for her return is in order that she may stand her trial in the Criminal Court of Cincinnati for the murder.

☞ Disaster on the Ohio River.—The Louisville papers of the 10th inst., contain a full account of a terrible disaster by which the steamboat Henry Lewis was sunk, and fifteen or twenty lives lost. It occurred in the Ohio river, about 4 o'clock, Saturday, 8th inst., a clear starlight morning. The Henry Lewis, with a full cargo for New Orleans, from Cincinnati, and about forty passengers on board, was descending the river, just below Troy, when the E. Howard, ascending, came up, and a collision occurred, sinking the Henry Lewis in three minutes in about twenty feet of water. A wild scene of excitement ensued, as the passengers were all asleep in their berths at the time of the collision, and were hurried on deck amid the cry of fire, the hissing of steam, and the crashing of timbers. Two children belonging to a poor Irish woman; two cabin passengers from Portsmouth, Ohio; Wm. Jacobs, of La., the second steward, the second cook and ten or twelve of the firemen, were lost. Four of the Cincinnati fugitive slaves, belonging to Mr. Gaines, were on the boat, including Margaret and her infant child. The child was drowned, and the others saved. They were taken on the boat last Friday from Louisville, and were on their way to Arkansas. The mother exhibited no other feeling than joy at the loss of her child.

Army Jobbing in England.—The Times correspondent from the camp before Sebastopol gives many instances of sending out army supplies, like the following:

The number of pairs of woollen stockings and socks in store is over 200,000. Of course, I have not had the opportunity of counting them, but I give the above figures on excellent authority. Those that are being re-shipped are only fit for children. When they came nobody could get them on, and, as they were extremely short socks, there was no leg into which the men might have thrust their feet. The same deficiency in size was found in many of the flannel or woven waistcoats sent for the army last winter, and obtained in a similar manner. They were so narrow that the men had to cut them open all down the breast, thus leaving exposed the very part of the body they were chiefly meant to protect. The children's socks are now being sent back to Constantinople, and will doubtless, have to be sold for a song or given to the poor in England, which latter would be the best way of applying this precious Vienna-made hosiery.

——Fatal R.R. Accident. On the Roanoke Road, N. C., on the 11th, as a train was crossing a piece of tressel work some thirty feet high, the engine left the track, and was followed by the whole train—consisting of an express car, a baggage and mail car, and two passenger cars. Before any of those on the train had time either to reflect or act, it was found that the cars were on fire, and horrible to relate, no less than four persons were literally roasted to death in the flames. Every car was entirely consumed. Even the wood work on the locomotive, and entire mail and express freight was so thoroughly destroyed that nothing remained but a pile of ashes, with here and there a brass lock.

——The St. Louis Democrat describes the appearance of a pretty young lady in gent's boots, "which she was not at all squeamish about, but when the mud demanded, exposed as far up as the point upon which she is supposed to say her prayers."

Our Government also sends out a large batch of dispatches.

Seizure of a Slaver.

The schooner Falmouth, outward bound, was seized this morning at the Narrows by a U. S. Marshal—brought back and anchored at the Navy Yard. She was doubtless intended for the Slave trade, having on board all the necessary fixtures for that business. The Captain and mate were not on board at the time of the seizure.

COMFORT FOR THE AGED.

The Montreal Transcript, speaking of WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY, June 16, says: "We believe to be generally recognized as a useful medicine by medical men, and we can state, with perfect truth and sincerity that in one case with which we are more particularly acquainted—that of an old gentleman, at least eighty years of age, residing a few miles from this city, and who is troubled at times with an asthmatical complaint—the most decided relief is obtained whenever he makes use of the Balsam, this, at the advanced period of life which he has arrived at may be considered an unanswerable proof of its virtues.

At New Haven, Vt., on the morning of the 12th instant, Rensselaer Wheeler, in the 27th year of his age.

Mr. Wheeler was born in Lunenburgh, Mass. His father, Peter Wheeler, purchased at that place of emigrants who came to New England, and settled with a company from Connecticut, the Wyoming valley, and was killed by the Indians at Wyoming, and was killed at the battle of Wyoming, by the Indians. The mother of Rensselaer, with three sons, (the eldest only nine years old) after the massacre, set adrift in a canoe, down the Susquehanna to the Fort, were left, one day after the battle, without a protector, to fight their way back to civilization as best they could. Reaching the Indian country in the Mohawk Valley, Rensselaer was left with only three sons to protect them, and one of these a youth of only thirteen years. He was three days in the wilderness. On their way to Connecticut they passed the Mohawk Valley, in New Jersey—that land of Patience, and among the mothers and helpless children were accorded a small feeling of compassion and civilization to their relief. Preserved and kindly treated, were among the early settlers of Charlotte, in Chittenden County,—where some of their descendants reside.

Card.

The undersigned would respectfully announce to the inhabitants of Burlington and vicinity, that they intend opening by the 22d day of March, an entirely new stock of Goods, comprising Rich Dress Silks, De Laines, Lawns, Bareges, Tissues and Bayl'e Robes, all of the latest importation from England, France and Germany. Also a carefully selected stock of Goods, suitable for the Fall and Winter designs. Having large connection with Boston and Hudson, and being the agent for four American manufactories, the undersigned will not rank second to any one in offering to purchasers the most favorable terms, from Italian silk down to the most common cotton goods, in fast line.

In connection with the above we shall have a complete supply of the most genteel styles of gentlemen's furnishing goods, such as Shirts, Drawers, Cravats, Gloves and Hosiery, from a New York manufactory, which will be made at shortest notice in the most satisfactory manner.

Dress, with other goods which we can obtain at Boston, New York, Baltimore and Philadelphia, we shall endeavor to offer the same facilities in making purchases as if residing in large cities, and many articles at less prices, (as the large rents force them from time to time to change more, while we are under comparative lighter expenses.)

With our experience in wholesaling Foreign and Domestic Goods, (one of the firm having been for the last 10 years in a large Importing House,) we do not hesitate to say that our opportunities for buying goods are surpassed by none, and we certainly should be dull scholars if our lesson had not been well learnt by this time.

As regards prices, our customers are to be the judges whether the goods are cheaper or not. But one thing we engage, that you will call and examine our stock. And if we do not succeed in giving you a perfect right to do whatever you purchase, we ask not. And with politeness, strict attention and punctuality to business, we hope ere long to meet with a good share of public patronage. Respectfully,

DOUGLASS & ALLISON.
