WAR FEVER IN BOSTON.

NOTHING FURTHER FROM COL. PEPPER

HEADQUARTERS OF THE ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, Aug. 7, 1862.

The reconnoissance of Monday night has resulted favorably. Our troops drove in the rebel pickets early yesterday morning and the fight immediately commenced which lasted between two and three hours.

At Malvern Hill everything was quiet during yesterday.

It was reported last night by deserters and contrabands that the rebels had been moving from the vicinity of Richmond all day in large force towards Malvern Hill, with a view of attacking that position.

TORTRESS MONROE, Aug. 7.

Three thousand rebel prisoners from Fort Lafayette, Fort Lafayette, Fort Mallory, and Fort Delaware, were up from Harrison's Landing Aug 1.

The troops are have returned with 3000 rebel prisoners from Richmond. Transports are in the vicinity and will be ready to take to Old Point. The others will land on the North side.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.

A despatch to the Commercial from Fort Monroe, Friday, says the Rebels fired upon a flag of truth yesterday morning, in violation of the agreement made by Lee.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.

The Express publishes a letter from Richmond of recent date.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.

Gen. Banks's army is in camp at Fredericksburg, ready for a movement.

The N. Y. Times has a letter of the 7th, from Pope's army, representing McClellan's army as moved to Coggin's point on James River.

A guerrilla band, thirty in number, recently broke into Warrenton, Va., and carried off Capt. Ashby and Lieut. Chew, of the 7th Ill. Cavalry.

There were rumors in Washington yesterday of heavy fighting in Gordonsville, but they are not fully credited. It is impossible.

The Times' letter of the 7th from the Army of the Potomac says important movements are progressing on the south side of James River, but are of such a character as not to admit of disclosure.

HUDSON, Mo., Aug. 9.

Additional particulars of the fight between Col. McMillan's command and Porter's guerrillas at Kirksville some days since have been received here. 128 dead rebels were found on the field and buried. Their entire loss could not have been less than 200. It is intimated on reliable authority that 2000 of Porter's gang have deserted him and are scattered, several hundred of them being prisoners. The balance of his force which was originally 3,000, are rapidly reducing, pursued by Col. McMillan in four columns. The official loss is 8 killed and 25 wounded.

DETROIT, Aug. 11th.

The war fever is increasing. Most of the stores and offices close at 2 p. m. Bible meetings, bands playing, companies parading, meetings are being held, &c., to stimulate enlistments. The 33rd Regiment leaves tomorrow.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.

Port Royal dated on the 8th states that the gunboat Unadilla exploded the Bremen steamer Gladiator as she was attempting to run the blockade. She had been previously struck while trying to run by Port Pendleton. She has a heavy cargo.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.

The barque Reindeer reports that the British steamship Sedan, with a cargo of arms for the rebels, sailed from Bermudas for Nassau July 25th, and when going out of the harbor hoisted the rebel flag.

FORTRESS MONROE, Aug. 9.

The sick and wounded Union soldiers are being moved away from the Army of the Potomac. The transport State of Maine came down from Harrison's Landing this morning, with 300 sick and 40 wounded soldiers. They go direct to Philadelphia.

The transports Louisiana also arrived with 300, mostly sick, from the same place. They are also bound for Philadelphia. There are now at Fortress Monroe 1500 sick and wounded soldiers on transports, all going to different places north where they can be better cared for than in the army hospitals. It is understood that the army hospitals of the Potomac are to be immediately cleared out of all the sick and wounded. They make a very short stay at this place and consequently it is quite impossible to obtain their names.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.

A letter, dated off Mobile July 31st, reports that 6 men had deserted from Fort Morgan, reaching the frigate Susquehannah with a sailor's skiff. They had all their arms and accoutrements and agreed to assist each other rather than be recaptured by the rebels. They report that the force in Fort Morgan numbers from 600 to 800, many of them foreigners and but little resistance would be made by two thirds of the garrison to our forces. Two companies of light artillery who shelled Island from Fort Sumter, garrison Fort Gaines.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 11.

Gen. McClellan's body has been received here and is lying in state today. The funeral will take place from here.
