Root Crops. The cultivation of roots for horses and cattle in winter, is happily beginning to commend itself to the attention of Vermont Farmers. We have seen large fields and fine crops of the Rutabaga, Mangel Wurtzel, Beet, Carrot and Parsnip, in the different parts of the State and in Canada, the past season. The following is the report on root crops, of the Bennington County Agricultural Society:

"The cultivation of roots has been too much neglected by the farmers of Bennington county. Why it is so, is a mystery.—It is certainly less exhausting to the soil—leaves it in a better condition for future cultivation, and returns a greater profit for the amount expended, than almost any other crop. Fed to farm stock in the winter, it answers the purpose of green food in the summer, and tends much to promote health and good appearance. There was more competition in potatoes this year than formerly. The yield varied from 252 to 228 bushels per acre. Those crops reported were planted upon green sward. Mr. Martin Wheelock who raised on one half acre 164 bushels, planted in rows, one way three feet apart, and the hills within sixteen inches of each other, and used two bushels ashes.

Mr. S. D. Walbridge plowed and planted the 29th day of April, in hills three feet apart each way. The seed was the Western Reds, and not larger than butternuts. He planted four bushels; and from 1-2 acre he harvested 126 bushels of good sized potatoes. The whole cost of the crop, including interest on the land, is estimated at $15,50.

Mr. Harlow Huntington says in regard to his carrot, beet and onion crops: the ground was all coated with dung and plowed in the fall. Another light coat was spread on the carrot and beet ground in the spring—then plowed, harrowed and rolled, and then plowed again. The carrots were planted in drills, 16 inches apart, and yielded on 29 1-2 rods of ground, 250 bushels. His beets were planted in rows, two feet apart and from three to six inches in the row. About one-third of the seed failed the first time planting, and had to be planted over again. Notwithstanding this, he harvested from 33 rods, 239 bushels.

Mr. Huntington planted his onions on the 8th day of May, later than usual, in drills 11 inches apart, and dropped by hand, and harvested the first day of October, when the tops are fallen and principally dead. On 33 rods of ground he raised 155 bushels.

Mr. Walbridge's carrot crop was raised on a sandy loam; had been mowed for several years—the crop of hay was light. Last May he spread ten loads of coarse manure, and plowed to the depth of seven inches, and subsoiled about six inches more. After which he spread one hundred bushels of leached ashes on the furrow and harrowed till it was in fine condition for seed. He then sowed half a pound with Emery's seed sower in rows two feet apart, running north and south. In consequence of the drought, the seed came up very uneven. He hoed them twice, and on the 6th of July sowed the vacant places with rutabagas; and on the 9th of November he harvested 200 bushels of carrots and 120 bushels of rutabagas. Owing to the toughness of the sward the carrots did not penetrate, consequently were short. The expense of raising it is put at $24,00. P. M. HENRY.

Proposals for carrying the Mails in the State of Vermont.

Extract from the act of Congress of 3d March, 1845, section 18.

"And be it further enacted, That it shall be the duty of the Postmaster General, in all future letings of contracts for the transportation of the mails on routes where there are two lowest bidder tendering sufficient guarantees for faithful performance, without other reference to the mode of such transportation than may be necessary to provide for the mail celerity, certainty, and security of such transportation; nor shall any new contractor hereafter be required to purchase out, or take at a valuation, the stock or vehicle of any previous contractor for the same route."

☞ Bidders will be careful to read the forms and instructions appended to this advertisement. They are required to state, in their proposals, the mode by which they intend to convey the mail. Where the size and weight of the mails, or the speed called for in the schedules, shall require it, the contracts will be made for coach, steamboat, or railroad conveyance, as the case may be, and, consequently, such modes will be let to bids proposing such modes of conveyance. In all other cases, the routes will be assigned to bids proposing the cheapest mode of transportation.

☞ Railroad companies are especially notified that their regular bids are to be understood as including the supply of such offices on the line of their respective roads, not over a quarter of a mile from a depot. Separate proposals for offices more than a quarter of a mile off will be considered.

PROPOSALS for carrying the mails of the United States from the 1st day of July, 1853, to the 30th of June, 1857, inclusive, in the State of Vermont, will be received at the Contract Office of the Post Office Department, in the city of Washington, until 9 o'clock in the 4th of April, 1853, for bids decided by the 20th of April, 1853, on the routes and in the manner and time herein specified, viz:
