OBITUARIES.

Died, in this village, on Tuesday, 22d inst., C. WATSON BANCROFT, merchant, aged 48 years. In the estimation of those who have had the most favorable opportunities of realizing personal worth, is what friends and relatives look to with confidence and consolation when death has left them no longer the privilege of returning their affection and respect. In this, the memory of Mr. Bancroft is soothing to his bereaved companion and his many sympathizing friends, though by his death a father's household is filled with grief, and a mother's home made desolate. Cut down as he was, at a time when he, perhaps, might have looked forward to many years of usefulness, his death has brought unaffected sorrow to many hearts. So soon perish all human hopes; so soon are blasted our fondest expectations.—But his memory will not moulder with his ashes. The remembrance of his kind and benevolent disposition will never be forgotten; especially by one, who has every reason to remember and appreciate the loss of a true friend, for it is but simple justice to say, that by those who knew him intimately, he was deservedly respected and esteemed; and not one of these heard of his death but with emotions of deep and sincere regret.—But he has gone the way of all the earth; and while we read this tribute to the departed, we fully sympathise with his sorrowing companion in the blank silence of her lonely home, and with the other sad mourners, who, by his death have been bereaved of an affectionate father and a kind husband. Death of Professor Thompson.

Died, in Burlington, January 19th, REV. PROF. ZADOCK THOMPSON, in the 60th year of his age.

Mr. Thompson was born in Bridgewater, Vt., in 1796. He was the second son of Mr Barnabas Thompson, whose father was one of the early settlers in that part of the country. At an early day Mr. Thompson showed that strong propensity for observing facts in natural science, and for mathematical applications, which became his distinguishing characteristic after he had arrived to manhood.—In his youth, like many others, he had to make his own way up the hill of science, through the difficulties which attend narrow pecuniary circumstances. Such obstacles made no substantial check to his progress, and when he graduated at the University of Vermont in 1823, he had already acquired a reputation for solid attainments in science which went on increasing as long as he lived. Though he was ordained deacon in the Protestant Episcopal Church in 1830, he found his health too unstable to justify him in taking the charge of a parish, and his ministrations as a preacher were only occasional.—At different times he occupied himself as a teacher of youth; but his chief employment was that of independent investigation, and the labors of authorship.

In all these relations of life which most nearly concern the daily intimacies of family and social existence, the character of Mr. Thompson was one to be appreciated in an eminent degree. His kind disposition, his sterling good sense, his sound judgment, his single-hearted uprightness, his unwearied industry in the attainment and diffusion of knowledge, joined to a remarkably sedate and christian simplicity of manner, secured for him the respect of all who knew him. Such a man could not fail to be greatly endeared to the members of his own domestic circle; and by all those who were wont to meet him from day to day, his death will be felt as a severe and irreparable loss.

But this loss is by no means confined to the members of his own family and the people of this town. It is a public one. Mr. Thompson was widely known and greatly appreciated throughout the State, and beyond it. His writings are, perhaps, more familiar to the people of Vermont, than those of any other man. Saying nothing of his smaller useful works, intended for schools, and his preparation of the astronomical part of the calendar, with which so many thousands have been familiar for more than thirty years, his History and Gazetteer of the State is specially noticeable. As early as the year 1824, the year after he graduated, he published his Gazetteer, a work which, though necessarily got up with haste, showed remarkable industry, and contained a large amount of useful information. He continued to accumulate facts pertaining to that subject, and in 1842 published his large work on the Natural History of the State, on its Civil and Political History and that of its various Institutions, followed by an enlarged and improved edition of the Gazetteer. A valuable appendix was issued in 1853. The whole work is one highly estimated at home and abroad. It will always be a work of authority and will connect the name of the author permanently with the literature of his native State.

In 1853 the General Assembly "authorized and directed the Governor to appoint Prof. Zadock Thompson State Naturalist," and made it his duty to institute a survey of the State, and to publish the results of it, embracing its Physical Geography, Scientific Geology and Mineralogy, its Botany and General Zoology. On this work Prof. Thompson entered with earnestness, and expended his labors in the University of Vermont, (in which he been appointed Professor of Natural History &c. honorary two years before,) that he might devote himself wholly to the work. His first endeavor was to get into an available shape if possible, the materials and information which in attempt of former years, under another person, had been gathered at the expense of the State. This he soon found to be a hopeless task in the main, and he had to rely almost entirely on his own resources. On all parts of the subject he had been gathering information and materials for years, and his Labors to perfect his knowledge by original observation, where it was wanting, and to bring his work into a methodical shape were unwearied, far beyond what his health and strength at times would justify. His work was already far advanced, and could he have been spared to complete it himself, it would have been of great value to the State and to Natural Science. As it is, we trust it will not be lost to the public.

The complaint of which he died was an organic affection of the heart, which doubtless had been slowly in progress for many years. Conscious as he was of growing feebleness of body, he did not realize fully till a few days before his death, that his earthly work was drawing to a close. In reference to his public labors this conviction was for a short time a painful one, and that he might be spared to finish his work for the State was his earnest desire. But he had labored faithfully, and he soon came to feel that it God willed that he should leave the work unfinished, it was his duty to submit. He bore the distress of his last illness without murmuring, and when told that the moment of his departure was at hand he had but to say 'God's will be done,' to take leave of his family, and to commend his soul to Him in whom he had put his trust. The end of the good man was peace.

In Putney, Jan. 10th, Hon. Theophilus Crawford, aged 91 years, 8 months and 15 days.

As a friend of the deceased, I am unwilling that his memory should pass into oblivion without recording some of his many virtues. As a husband and parent, the deceased was devoted and kind, benevolent and sympathizing to the poor and afflicted, and in all the relations of life, public and private, and prompt in the discharge of his duties.—At the age of five years, he with his parents, emigrated from Connecticut, to Westminster Vt., then an almost unbroken wilderness; where the trials and hardships of the early settlers were many and severe, and privileges few. He was a useful man in community, possessing its confidence, and often called to offices in his town, county and State. Too young to enter into the stirring events of the early part of the Revolution, he was subsequently found shoulder to shoulder with the "Green Mountain Boys" under the banner of Col. Ethan Allen, in defence of the settlers against the "Yorkers." The fact that he was a constant reader of the "National Intelligencer," from 1812, until near the close of his life, is significant of his political creed. He loved the Union, and opposed nullification, whether it came from the South or the North.

In his declining years, he was an example of Christian resignation and patience, under disease and suffering, expressing his trust in the mercy of God, through the merits of a crucified Redeemer, for final acceptance with Him.—Chronicle. COMM.

In Waitsfield, Dec. 10, Lydia Nathan Benton, aged 80. Dea. Benton for a long period, was a professor of religion, and by a devoted Christian life, adorned the doctrine of God the Savior. For more than thirty years he was deacon of the church in Moretown; and as the church was feeble, and generally destitute of preaching, he was one of the principal supporters of religious meetings there upon the Sabbath, during that time.—He was extensively known as a man of unyielding integrity, sound orthodox faith, and humble, consistent piety. After enduring with patience and fortitude, a painful sickness of a year and a half, he quietly fell asleep in Jesus, and now, without doubt, enjoys the rewards of the faithful servant.—Ib. COMM.

At Peacham, on the 7th inst., John Shaw, Esq., aged 63. The deceased was the third son of the late William Shaw, Esq., of Barnet; brother of Rev. Peter H. and Robert Shaw. The family were from Scotland, and are descended from the Rev. John Shaw, who, in connection with the Erskines, Ralph and Ebenezer, were the founders of the Secession Church; and are a happy exemplification of the purity and power of the family religion of that branch of the church of Christ. Eight—all of the children who came to maturity—made a profession of religion, and evidenced its possession—two in the ministry.

John Shaw, the grandfather of the subject of this notice, sustained a character of special piety, and was a ruling elder in the Associate Secession church, in the city of Greenock. And after the close of the revolutionary war, immigrated with his two sons, John and William, and their families, to Barnet.——Ib.

2 weeks later from California.

NEW-ORLEANS, Friday, Jan. 25 1856.

The steamship Daniel Webster, from San Juan, Nicaragua, on the 19th inst., has arrived at this port. She brings news from San Francisco to the 5th inst.

The California news is generally unimportant.

A severe earthquake was experienced at San Francisco on the 24 inst.

The Sacramento Valley Railroad had been opened a distance of 22 miles.

The news from the mines is of an encouraging nature, and new, rich diggings have been discovered on the American River.

Oregon dates are to the 20th of December. Nothing had been heard from Col. Kinney's party which had left to attack Fort Walla Wal'a, which was in the possession of the Indians.

George M. Chase, United States Consul at La Haina, is dead.

From Nicaragua we learn that Col Walker was receiving accessions by every steamer, and his effective force of Americans was a boat 850 men.

Central America.—Gen. Walker, it is said, has now 850 Americans under arms. The suburbs of the city of Granada had been laid out into building lots, and already sold. A pier is being built into the Lake, and will be ready for use early in March. Schooners are advertised to sail three times a week to Virgin Bay and San Carlos.

Walker has lost two of his finest officers, by elohers—Capt. Davidson and Lieut. Col. Gilman—who died very suddenly last week, within a day or two of each other.

Col. Fry, who went out with a scouting party of 30 men, to march to a point about one hundred miles north of Granada, has been surrounded. The report is that he has cut his way through, and was retreating towards Granada, with a loss of 11 men.

Oregon.—The latest dates from Oregon are to the 20th ult., brought by the Panama, which arrived at San Francisco on the 21th. Precious accounts gave the intelligence that Col. Kinney was marching with his command to attack Fort Walla Walla, which was then in possession of the Indians. No intelligence had been received from the expedition, up to the date of the sailing of the Panama, and fears were entertained for the safety of Col. Kinney's party Sandwich Islands.—The dates from Honolulu are to Dec. 8th.

George M. Chase, late U. S. Consul at the port of Lahaina, died there after an illness of three days. He was about 50 years of age. Mr. Chase was born in Vermont, but has resided many years in Maine

Markets.

Boston Market---Jan. 29.

ASHES—The market is very dull for both Pots and Pearls. The sales of the former have been in small lots, at 7 a 7 1-4c, and the latter at 7 7-8 a 8c per lb, cash.

CORN EXCHANGE.—The demand for Flour has been more active the past week than we have had occasion to notice for a month or two past, and on some descriptions prices have advanced full 25c per bbl. The sale base been at $8 25 a $ 50 for common brands Western, $8 75 a 9 25 for fancy brands, the latter price for very good brands, and extra ran n from $9 25 a 11 per bbl, favorite brands St. Louis and Genesee selling at the latter rate. In Canada Flour the sales have been at $8 a 9 25 for fancy, and $9 75 a 10 50 for the range of extras. The arrivals of Corn have been quite light, and, with the prospects of light receipts for some weeks, prices have advanced The stock is now in the hands of dealers, and the sales have been in small lots at $1 a 1 05 for Southern yellow, and 95c a $1 for white. Oats have been selling pretty freely during the week, and the sales have been principally at 50c a 51c per bu for Northern and Canada. In Rye the sales have been at $1 20 a 1 25 per bu, and in limited demand.—White Beans have been in steady but moderate demand at $2 50 a 2 75 per bu for common and good Canada Peas have been in moderate demand, at $1 per bu.

HOPS—The demand for Hops has been quite limited, but prices are steady at 2c per lb, cash, at which a lot of 50 bales sold.

PROVISIONS—The demand for Pork has been very fair the past week, and a good range of prices continue to be sustained, although the market is hardly so firm as noticed at the close of last week. The sales have been at $15 50 a 16 for prime; $17 75 a 18 for mess, and $20 a 20 25 for clear, cash and 4 mos. In Beef there is very little doing. Prices remain the same, with moderate sales at $14 a 16 for mess and Western extra mess, and $12 a 13 50 a change. The stock here is moderate and the market firm, at 11 1-2 a 12c in bbls and 12 1-2 in kegs, cash and 4 mos. For Butter the demand has improved and the market is firm. The sales have been at 24 a 26c per lb for good and choice, and 18 a 23c per lb for common and fair quality. Cheese has been in moderate demand and prices range from 6 a 11c per lb, as to quality. Dressed Hogs are in good demand and sales to some extent have been made, at 7 1-2 a 8 3-4c per lb, as to quality, for common and choice.

TALLOW—The market is firm for rendered, with sales at 12 1-4 a 12 1-2c; and rough ranges from 9 a 9 1-2c per lb, cash.

WOOL—Fleece and pulled Wool continues to meet with a very fair demand, and prices are firm and well sustained. The sales of the week have been 150,000 lb, at prices in the range of quoted rates.

LYON'S KATHAIRON.

The Ladies have proclaimed this article to be, by far, the cleanest and most delightful preparation ever used; and from their verdict, in such matters there is no appeal. Their decision is certainly well grounded for its wonderful efficacy in cleansing, preserving and beautifying the Hair, curing nervous Headache, &c., together with its delightful perfume, and its perfect cleanness as delicacy, the result of the great care taken in its preparation, have made it the most universally popular article of the kind, in the world, and sold by all respectable dealers for only 25 cents. Be sure to look for LYON'S KATHAIRON, to avoid valueless imitations.

PROFESSOR WOOD'S HAIR RESTORATIVE

IS, no doubt, the most wonderful discovery of the age of practice. The following is from a distinguished scientist of the St. Paul Journal:

St. Paul, January 1, 1855.

Prof. O. J. Wood—Dear Sir—Unsolicited, I send you this certificate. After being nearly bald for a long time, and after trying all the hair restoratives extant, I was induced to try your Hair Restorative. In a few days I noticed signs of the hair on the top of my head, and my head well covered with a good stiff brush, on the Restorative then applied and well rubbed in, little more was all it took. I just mention this fact, that in three weeks time my hair commenced growing, and in three weeks more it was nearly restored, and grew rapidly from August last up to the present time, and is now thick, black and strong—and my pleasant to the touch—exactly like that of my wife, and that of my little boy, who is now fifteen years old. It is growing rapidly. I will not your Restorative about three a week, and shall now have good and perfect head of hair. Now I have tried all these things—and what has not—and know what I say when I say that your Hair Restorative is the only one which any person who has really lost their hair by any of the ills to which flesh is heir, or of the early years, can rely upon to restore the hair to my experience. I shall be happy to recommend the Restorative to any friend or acquaintance, and I feel that I can do this with the more ease, for I have a large and extensive acquaintance in the city. The people here are like others, and have some share in it. All who have tried it here will concur with me in what I say, and I think you may safely rely on it, as the wholesale agent for the territory, is already exhausted, and daily inquiries are made for it. You deserve success for your ingenuity. I for one wish you success, for I believe it will be a benefit to mankind. Yours respectfully, JAMES H. FRENCH.

DENTISTRY!

DOCTOR M. NEWTON,
DENTIST,
Office over Burbank & Langdon's Store, Main St., Montpelier, Vt., from date until further notice.

THOSE wishing to consult me professionally at my office, must do so from the 1st to the 15th of the month. I shall visit Waterbury on the 25th of January, and I may visit Barre the latter part of February. I shall remain but a few days in each place, unless to fulfill engagements—consequently, those wishing to consult me at that time will act without delay. Those employing me to Dentist, will find me the cheapest source of time.—Perhaps it will not be necessary for me to say anything more in respect to my qualifications as a Dentist, than that I have engaged in that profession for the last ten years above any other Dentist in the State. Owing to some recent improvements and increased facilities for the manipulation of gold, I think of Teeth, I shall be able to do work equal to any one in the State. Any Dentist in the State, and I can throw in most of a set of Teeth, without cost, call on me before having their work done elsewhere, and if I do not succeed in giving satisfaction, I will do so for PRICE. Ether or Gas, if desired, will be administered to my patients GRATIS, and all work warranted to give satisfaction. Dentists to pay traveling expenses. I shall make no charges according to the number of teeth inserted, but simply according to the value at at my office, the same as other work.

Teeth inserted upon Gutta Percha base, if desired.

CHEAP EDITION
OF
AMOS LAWRENCE.

JUST PUBLISHED,

Diary and Correspondence
OF THE LATE
AMOS LAWRENCE.

EDITED BY HIS SON, WILLIAM R. LAWRENCE, M. D.

WITH a logical steel Portrait of Amos and Abbott Lawrence, and other Illustrations.

ROYAL 12MO . . . . CLOTH, . . $1,00

The octavo edition of this work has had an almost unprecedented sale. Within twelve weeks after its first publication, have been sold, without producing any sensible abatement of the demand. Scarcely any other biographical work has met with equal success in the same length of time. This success is due entirely to the intrinsic merits of the work.

TWELVE THOUSAND COPIES

It is the Autobiography of a merchant who began business with only $20, and gave away during his lifetime, in public and private charities, more than SEVEN HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLL'S.

As a book for young men, it has been pronounced invaluable. In this connection, merchants and business men have largely purchased it for presents to their clerks and employees. In Boston, six to ten have thus put upon it the stamp of their approval; in some cases, one hundred copies, in others, 60, forty, twenty-five, fifteen, &c., having been purchased by a single firm. The example has been followed in New York, Philadelphia, and other places.

CLERGYMEN,

regarding the book as a rare source of healthful influence in the community, have voluntarily come forward to extend its circulation, by making it the basis of Sermons and Lectures, and recommending it in public assemblies.

Harriet Beecher Stowe, in a letter to the N. Y. Independent, speaks thus of the popularity of the work:—We are glad of this book. We are willing to let it go forth as other books as a specimen of what America can produce. The good effect which this book may have in interesting the youth of young men to honor and virtue, is incalculable."

So high is the estimation put upon the book in all quarters, that urgent and repeated demands have been made upon the publisher, by the press and by individuals, for a cheaper edition, now although the price of the octavo edition is much below what is usually charged for such a volume. Yielding to this demand, they now offer to the public a

CHEAP EDITION.

It is a large 12mo. volume, printed on thick white paper, from the plates of the octavo edition, and is sold at the extremely low price of ONE DOLLAR. All things considered, the publishers are confident that a cheaper book will not be found in the market.

The OCTAVO EDITION will continue to be published and for sale as heretofore, at One Dollar and Fifty Cents.

Congregational Singing.

UNQUESTIONABLY the best and most useful Hymn Book for Church Singing, for the use of Lectures, Prayer and Conference, and Congregational Singing, is TEMPLE MELODIES.

This work contains five hundred Hymns and two hundred Tunes. It has been pronounced the best collection of sacred music, and from its superior adaptedness and ease a larger number of the really fashionable tunes are introduced than in any other book of the kind that has been issued. It has also the advantage of being furnished at a very low price, thus bringing it within the means of almost all congregations. TEMPLE MELODIES is already in extensive use, and is constantly being more widely introduced. Letters from many distinguished musicians in the highest terms of its merits, are in the hands of the publishers. We sincerely invite the attention of all congregations, and all persons who are interested in securing a greater proficiency in the singing exercises of divine Worship, to this work.

To meet the wants of all, two editions of TEMPLE MELODIES are published—one in large and the other in small type. In other respects, the two editions are alike, page for page, precisely alike, so that they can be used together in the same congregation. The prices are as follows:

Tuning fork, (small tone,) in Pocket Wallet, per doz. $3.
The same, in leather covering, per doz. 4.
Tuning Fork, (large tone,) with lining case, per doz. 7.
The same, in leather binding, per doz. 8.

Single copies sent for examination, on receipt of 50 cts.

Temple Melodies is published by
