Local and State News.

Guy Harvey has bought out the milk route formerly supplied by G. L. Rowell. Rowell has failed.

Rev. Edward Cleveland of Bath, N. H., will supply the pulpit at the Centre village next Sabbath day.

Particular attention is directed to the two advertisements of the Cemetery Association, to be found in this paper.

The work of repairing the St. Johnsbury House still goes on. There were 30 arrivals Monday, which looks like business.

John Corriveau and David Heon are opening a boot and shoe shop in the Avenue block, where L. W. Rowell's office used to be.

The first thunder shower of the season occurred Saturday night, and the second one followed Wednesday evening, both quite heavy.

Cyd Lacrosse has bought out one-half interest in Bowen's barber shop, and hereafter it will be known as Bowen & Lacrosse's barber shop.

They are putting a French bakery into the same building with the French grocery in Bingham's old building. It looks to us a good deal like a fire trap.

The gospel meeting postponed last Friday evening for the purpose of attending the union meeting, will be held next Sunday evening, at the Church of the Messiah.

Business meeting of the Y. M. C. A. next Saturday evening meeting, at North Church. Members, and those who wish to join, are requested to be present.

The weather remains cool for the season, with not one warm day as yet. A copious rain the past week has made green the grass, and the beautiful season is just upon us.

Franklin Fairbanks, A. S. Hopkins and C. M. Stone, are appointed delegates from the Y. M. C. A. of this place to the international Convention to be held at Richmond, Va., May 25th.

The gospel meetings at East Hardwick the week are being greatly blessed. Over thirty arose for prayers last evening. By request, several workers go from this place to Newport to-night.

Thirteen adult persons—one by letter from another church, the others by profession of faith, most receiving the ordinance of baptism—united with the Church of the Messiah, last Sunday afternoon.

We are pained to learn that Mr. Wheeler closes his labors as editor of the Farmer with this week's number. We have not learned the cause of this step, where he is going, or who is to succeed him.

The main sewer on the eastern side of the village is filled within five inches of the top, between Pearl and Railroad street. There is but a slight grade to the sewer at this point. It will be necessary to clean it out at once.

A leak in the main aqueduct pipe at the west end of the Portland street bridge, washed out a large place in the dump at that point, and stopped the passage of teams for a little time, but both leak and wash-out were soon repaired.

—What is the use in calling Canadian towns slow? They have just purchased their second steam fire engine at Sherbrooke—a village of about the size of St. Johnsbury. But then, they have plenty of water to throw with their machines there—the Magog river running through the heart of the town.

Cook's express horse died last week. He was put into the barn at six o'clock, and about eight he was found dead in the stall. He had broken through the flooring, and either burst a blood vessel in his struggles or choked himself to death. He was a valuable animal, and had done hard work daily on the express for seven years, but was still in his prime.

There was a pleasant little surprise at the scale works Saturday noon, just before the gong sounded. The workmen in the brass beam room gathered about their foreman, Mr. M. Bowker, and made him a birth-day present of a gold-plated watch chain, as a token of their regard for him and the good feeling which had always existed between them. It was a complete surprise to Mr. Bowker, and before he could find words to express his thanks fully, the gong sounded and brought the interview to a close.

Personal.

Mr. Horace Fairbanks, who has been ill in Boston for two or three weeks, continues to improve slowly.

In the case of the United States vs. Edward A. Jewett, Judge Shipman has overruled the demurrer, and the defendant will be called upon to appear at the U. S. Court, the next term of which is at Windsor, July 27.

Rev. C. M. Southgate, pastor of the North Congregational church in this place, has tendered his letter of resignation, and the same was accepted by the church at a business meeting last evening, and a committee appointed to unite with the pastor in calling a mutual council to consider the matter of his dismission. This action will bring great sadness to many hearts, as he is a pastor much beloved. Mr. Southgate has been at Atlanta, Georgia, through the winter, on account of the ill health of Mrs. S. We learn that her health is much improved.

Postmaster Henry W. Fleetwood is very ill of pneumonia, and has been for the last eight days.

E. C. Redington and wife, who have been spending a few weeks at their old home in this place, return to Bradford in a few days, where they expect to remain for the present.

Mr. S. H. Brackett has accepted the position of teacher in the St. Johnsbury Academy, and is to begin his labors here in September. Mr. Brackett has been principal of the Keene high school for the past seven years. He has a family, and it is expected he will occupy the tenement in the North Hall soon to be vacated by Mr. Redington.

It is always pleasant to hear good words from St. Johnsbury boys abroad. An Allegheny City (Pa.) newspaper, gives the following word about Mr. Albert E. Frost, son of Mr. Selim Frost of this place, who has been connected with the State observatory in that city for several years: "Prof. A. E. Frost of the Observatory, delivered a very interesting lecture in Plymouth church, Manhattan street, last evening. Prof. Frost, though a young man, is a gentleman of fine culture, and is well versed in the beauties and mysteries of astronomical science, so that what he says is instructive, and the way he says it entertaining."

Death of Judge Howard.

At St. Johnsbury, May 7th, 1875, Theron Howard, aged nearly 76 years.

Judge Howard was born at Gilsum, N. H., July 12, 1799, and went to Danville to reside, Sept. 29, 1824. There and at Peacham he followed his trade of shoemaking until June, 1824, when he entered the office of Geo. B. Shaw, then a prominent lawyer in Danville, where he faithfully studied until the September term of the County Court in 1827, when he was admitted to practice as an attorney, at the same time with Geo. B. Chandler and Joseph P. Fairbanks. He resided at Cabot during a few years, but returned to Danville and became a partner with his fellow-student in the firm of Chandler & Howard.

Mr. Howard was elected State's Attorney as a Democrat, and was for many years an active member of that party; but he early recognized and entered the "irrepressible conflict," and, as a member of the Free Soil party, sat as a delegate from Vermont in the National Convention of Buffalo in 1848, which nominated ex-president Van Buren and Chas. Francis Adams for the two chief executive offices of the nation; and he was an energetic member of that party afterwards. In 1848, he was elected Judge of Probate for Caledonia District, which office he administered until 1852, and in 1856 he represented Danville in the General Assembly.

He came to reside in St. Johnsbury in March, 1862, soon after the change in the shire-town of this county, where he passed the remainder of his life, with the continued and increasing esteem and confidence of a large acquaintance.

Judge Howard was a representative man of the people. He entered public life with no early, worldly advantages, except such as our hard "Spartan Mother," Democracy, gives to all her children; and he rose in that life by honest, persevering work in the development and use of the faculties with which he was endowed. Having experienced the trials, temptations and struggles of a working-man, he was always on the working-man's side, and ever stood ready to take the part of the oppressed.

In early life Judge Howard made a public profession of religion, and was always a faithful and consistent member of the Methodist Church. Throughout the struggles and successes of a long and active life he remained true to his religious principles, always throwing his influence by example, as well as words, on the side of the Master in whose cause he had enlisted. He was an honest man,—a true Christian. And to the worth of such a life, no more fitting tribute can be offered than to apply the words of St. Paul: "I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith."

Great Religious Gatherings.

The brethren from Massachusetts came the fourth time, held meetings, and have gone again. The multitude that came in to hear them was greater than ever before; and the interest on the part of the public generally to hear all they had to say, was intense. The plan pursued in these meetings was similar to that adopted heretofore to present Christ in the simplest and plainest way. The meeting on Monday afternoon was varied somewhat, by distributing slips of paper among the audience on which to write questions, which questions, when the slips were gathered up, the leaders of the meeting answered. Some of these questions were quite pertinent, and the answers exceedingly apt. We are unable to give only a few, and but an abstract of the answers:

1. Is it right to do Christian duty when my heart does not draw me to it? Yes. Do your duty, and your heart will soon be right.

2. I think I have become a Christian, but have never prayed before my roommate, who is not a Christian. What is my duty? Pray before him, trusting thereby to do him good.

3. I have prayed for my husband three years, but have never asked him to become a Christian—have I done right? No.

4. If I want to do God's will, but am undecided as to what his will is, how can the path of duty be so plain I cannot be mistaken? Go and ask him honestly and earnestly.

5. I am troubled because my prayers for my son are not answered. Many have been before you. I know a wife who prayed for her child thirty years before God answered her prayer. Pray on. A thousand years with the Lord is as one day.

6. Can I not be a Christian without telling of it? No. If the love of Christ is in you, it must come out.

7. Should I do Christian duty when I do not feel like it? Certainly, said Mr. Littlefield. Feeling must not be consulted. I have got up a great many mornings at 3 o'clock to go to market (he is a produce merchant,) when if I had consulted my feelings I should have remained in bed. Do your duty and let feeling come afterwards.

8. I have difficulty in keeping the shortness of life and the certainty of death in mind. What do you want to keep it in mind for? Live as you should, and the Lord will take care of you in the dying hour. He gives dying grace.

9. I have not faith enough—what shall I do? Go to work with what faith you have. Work strengthens faith.

10. Is it right for me to go and see a friend on the Sabbath? It is not right to do any thing on the Sabbath as a pastime.

11. I have great difficulty in keeping my thoughts from wandering during prayer—what is the remedy? Have a burden on your heart. Chase a bad thought with a good one.

12. How shall I get rid of self? Fill yourself with Christ.

13. I cannot see why God should punish eternally. And I cannot see, said Mr. Littlefield, why he should reward eternally. But he says he will, and I take him at his word.

14. Explain the passage, "idle words." This verse in which the above passage occurs, contains solemn truths. Idle words, like the thistle down driven by the wind, lodge somewhere. Jests and by-words, especially on serious matters, hurt somebody. When I was a boy, said Mr. Littlefield, I was quite a singer, and the boys used to get me to sing for them to dance. After the dance they would gather around me, and I would amuse them with low, vulgar and obscene songs. And even now, sometimes when I am trying to sing God's praises, some strain in the music will remind me of those miserable songs of my boyhood days; and they come back to sting me. Mr. L. gave a fitting rebuke to those who teach such songs, and thus defile youth and purity with a taint that can never be effaced.

15. A young wife hopes she is a Christian; and her husband, although perfectly willing she should enjoy her religion, will not come to Christ. What shall she do? Love him, said the large-hearted Remington. Nothing so commends the religion of Christ as love in his disciples. He then gave an incident or two in proof, which had come under his personal knowledge, which were quite affecting.

16. How shall those who have once enjoyed religion, but have gone back, get into the light again? Begin right over again. Get on your knees and start anew.

This afternoon service—of which we have given but a faint idea in the above—was extremely interesting, and we think profitable. At the close of this service, a meeting was held in the machine shop at the scale works, attended not only by the workmen, but also by many from the village and even from out of town. A touching incident in this meeting was the receipt of a telegram from Mr. Horace Fairbanks,—who has been seriously ill in Boston, but who was then considerably relieved and improved—and which was read to the workmen, as follows:

BOSTON, May 10. For the four o'clock meeting. Psalm; 116; 6, last clause—34; 3—20; 5, last clause—Phillippians 1; 8—11. (Signed) HORACE FAIRBANKS.

This telegram was read by Mr. Winslow connectedly, as follows: "I was brought low, and he helped me. O magnify the Lord with me and let us exalt his name together. The Lord fulfil all thy petitions. For God is my record, how greatly I long after you all in the bowels of Jesus Christ. And this I pray, that your love may abound yet more and more in knowledge and in all judgment; that ye may approve things that are excellent; that ye may be sincere and without offense till the day of Christ; being filled with the fruits of righteousness, which are by Jesus Christ, unto the glory and praise of God."

The meetings on Sunday and Monday evening were thronged. We had thought we had seen large audiences at former meetings, but never anything like these. Not less than fourteen or fifteen hundred people from this and surrounding towns, came in to hear what these men had to say. A good number started in the new life, and those who had started before were instructed and incited to renewed service in the Master's cause. The people of this place owe a debt of gratitude to gentlemen Moore, Remington, Winslow and Littlefield, for their untiring and earnest labors here, now this fourth time.

Slight Accidents.

There have been several slight accidents in the village the past week. Lyndon Arnold's little girl fell and struck the back of her head on a stone, and for a while serious results were feared; but fortunately she has recovered. R. Pendridge's second girl was run over and just escaped being killed. Mr. Stowe fell off a staging, laming him for a number of days; and a man in the scale works had a foot pretty severely jammed.

Mr. Gough's Opinion of the Slanderer.

In his lecture at this place two weeks ago, Mr. Gough said of the slanderer, that he knew of no punishment adequate to the offense. To emphasize this, he repeated the statement twice. It is perhaps unnecessary for us to say that the slander circulated the last few days against the conduct of one of the gospel workers from this place, in another town, is wholly false and wicked, and calculated to injure the cause of Christ and bring disgrace upon a body of young men who have, some of them at much personal sacrifice, done good work for the Master. David asked, "Lord, who shall dwell in thy holy hill?" And this is the answer: "He that backbiteth not with his tongue, nor doeth evil to his neighbor, nor taketh up a reproach against his neighbor."

A Pressing Necessity.

During the past few days our people must have realized more than ever, the need of a hall larger than any we now have. Our village residents will more than fill any room in the place, so that it hardly seems fair to try to induce our neighbors from adjoining towns to come here to popular lectures or meetings, when we cannot assure them seats or even standing room. We do not wish to "scold," but we suggest that the residents of our village consider themselves active members of a Ways and Means committee on adding to the many advantages we now enjoy in St. Johnsbury, a commodious Village Hall.

Fire in Danville.

The Shattuck wooden mill, on Joe's brook in the south part of Danville, was burned last Thursday, with most of the machinery and contents. Also a saw mill adjoining, belonging to R. Dwarth. Loss on the mill, estimated $15,000; insurance $5,000. Loss of saw mill total—no insurance.

Greensboro Bend.

R. H. Cuthbertson is building a dwelling house, and Tolman, Simpson & Cuthbertson are building a wholesale and retail store. The steam mill company are running on full time, and have orders for dressed lumber as fast as they can fill them. They are putting in machinery to make boxes. We understand that the company have recently made it a rule to employ no help who drink liquor, and that if any man in their employ is found to use it, to discharge him. Young men seeking employment will do well to make a note of this; sober men are wanted at good wages everywhere; intemperate men are not wanted any where.

McIndoe's.

Reuben Bruce has opened a first-class grocery store in connection with his boot and shoe business. It is hoped that first-class goods may be had at less prices.

Miss Emma Hooker has just opened a full line of millinery and fancy goods in Mr. Hunt's building. With her familiarity and good taste in that trade it is thought it will insure her a liberal share of patronage.

Miss V. Johnston has opened a dress making shop over the store of Gilchrist & Perry, with flattering prospects of doing a good business.

A Startling truth.—Thousands die annually from neglected coughs and colds, which soon ripen into consumption, or other equally fatal diseases of the lungs; when by the timely use of a bottle of Dr Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry their lives could have been preserved to a green old age. 50 cents and $1 a bottle, large bottles much the cheaper.

A good turn is done our readers in commending the Ansonia House, Boston. Its gentlemen's parlor, recently re-furnished and re-frescoed, is said to be one of the finest drawing rooms in the country, and with its adoption of all late improvements it is equaled by few hotels. Courtesy to strangers has ever been a marked feature in its management, while its location, appointments and extent are all that can be desired for merchants of families travelling. tt

The Christian Era, of Boston—a staunch and able Baptist paper—celebrates its Quarter-Centennial by the offer of the paper to all new subscribers until next January, for $1. Cheap enough? 2t

Stop that Cough! No pulmonary complaint, however chronic, can long resist the healing influence of Dr. Morris' Syrup of Tar, Wild Cherry and Horehound. As a specific for Coughs, Colds, Asthma, and Bronchitis, cure for CROUP, and preventive of Consumption, it has no equal. Acts like a charm in hoarseness and sore throat. Clears and strengthens the voice of speakers and singers. Takes away all the distress of WHOOPING COUGH. Contains no opium or other dangerous drug, and is pleasant to take. Trial bottles, 10 cents. RESOLUTIONS.

Adopted upon the death of Sister Sophronia Armington, by Temperance Star Lodge, No. 186, I. O. of G. T., at the regular meeting, May 4th.

Whereas, It has been the will of our Divine Worthy Chief, to remove from our Lodge below to the Heavenly Grand Lodge above, our oldest sister and member, therefore: Resolved, that we, the members of Temperance Star Lodge, remember her with affection and esteem, and that we cherish her memory as a worthy member of the Lodge and community.

Resolved, that we sympathize with our brother in his affliction and hope that this great bereavement will be sanctified to his and our good.

Resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to our afflicted Brother, and a copy be spread upon the records of this Lodge, and a copy be inserted in each of the papers published at St. Johnsbury. MARTHA A. MILES, Sec'y.
