For the Spirit of the Age.

SWITCHES. 7.

I saw her but once, years ago,
Ere my brow had grown wrinkled and bent,
Ere I'd read about Mr John Doe
And gaped over Blackstone and Kent.
But, never, though all but that one,
Of boyhood's bright visions have fled,
Has "copy!" or "proof, sir!" or dun
Driven that, for an hour from my head.

Around me it hovers by day and by night,
Sunshine of my soul, ever dear,
It steals o'er my spirit, as light
As the winds in the spring of the year.
But once! and then,—seen evermore,—
With a hand like the Appenine snow,
Away from her father's back door,
She was driving the hog with a hoe.

☞ But few occurrences so trouble the Scandinavians as the return of Mr Van Buren to his native State. Every where he is received with demonstrations of joy and gratitude. If he had been successful in the late contest his return home could not have been more in triumph—more as a victor. The federalists are afraid of his shadow. His popularity is every day increasing with the people. Take care!

Death of Mr Chitty.—This distinguished law writer, whose works on Pleading, Bills of Exchange and Practice, have been so extensively used in our country, died in London on the 17th of Feb. 1841, in the 66th year of his age.

Baldwin, of the Newport Argus, has 'peeled' a first rate Patchogue Broom, a 'picter' of which appears in his last paper. It heads the removals from office of the 'no party' President. We reckon it will get 'used up' defore it has got half the rooms swept out.

Major Eastman of the Age, will feel very diminutive when he sees our appointment to the arduous and responsible post of COLONEL. Persevere Major, and you may yet catch up with Col. Greene and ourself.—N. H. Argus.

"What a man it is." Only hear him talk!—Perhaps a certain Major did n't have the offer of a Colonelship, but declined the questionable honor in consequence of that post being so common as to be conferred upon almost any body. Some peop'e are a little particular about the company they keep, a-hem!

☞ Edward Kendall, the celebrated musician, came passenger in the Acadia.

The Spirit of the Age is almost as good a paper as ours; don't blush, Eastman—it is a fact. If he will give us another "Switch" as good as the following, he shall have a cake the next time we bake.
New Haven (Conn.) Register.

The next time you bake! Where's "Mrs Bamble?"

Carlyle's Lectures on Heroes and Heroism.—In press, and in the course of publication in the NEW WORLD newspaper these celebrated Lectures, delivered in London the past winter by Thomas Carlyle, author of Sartor Resartus, the French Revolution, &c. There are six lectures, namely I. The Hero as Divinity. II. The Hero as Prophet. III. The Hero as Poet. IV. The Hero as Priest. V. The Hero as Man of Letters. VI. The Hero as King. THE NEW WORLD of Saturday last (April 10,) contained The Hero as Divinity.
Price six cents a copy, $4 a hundred.
J. WINCHESTER,
30 Ann street, New York.

The Richmond Star says that a talking match lately 'came off' at New Orleans, for five hundred dollars a side. It continued, according to the Advertiser, for thirteen hours; the rivals being a Kentuckian and a Frenchman. The bystanders and judges were all talked asleep, and when they waked up in the morning they found the Frenchman dead and the Kentuckian whispering in his ear.
Spirit of the Age.

Not the least doubt of that story, Major. We know a woman who would have killed both of 'em, and whispered on "old hach" like you into the "shy-stracks!!"—Newport Argus.

Speak from experience, Baldwin?

☞ If C. P. Isley, attempts to come the rale game over us, he'll smell woolen burning, we can tell him that.

The Lady of the White House, that is to be.—John Tyler, who is now constitutionally President of the United States, is a widower. The son of the President is the husband of the late Miss Cooper, (now Mrs Tyler,) the daughter of the venerable Thomas Cooper, Esq., the distinguished tragedian She is the grand-daughter of the late Major Fairlie, deceased, formerly of this city, an officer in the revolutionary war, one of whose daughters was the wife of Mr Cooper. Mrs Tyler is one of the most amiable and accomplished ladies in the country, and will honor the station to which, through the dispensation of an all-wise and just Providence, she has been elevated.—N. Y. New Era.

Forgery by a Member of Congress.—The Hon Charles P. Mitchel, federal Representative in the last Congress from the District of Niagara, N. Y., has added his name to the host of forging scoundrels with which our country is infested, and decamped for Texas. The N. Y. Signal says—"The medium through which he practised his rascality, was sundry checks purporting to have been drawn by the Bank of Orleans, at Albion, on the State Bank at Albany, indorsed by the honorable gentleman, and sold by him to brokers in Wall street."
Bay State Democrat.

The ladies are about to adopt a resolution that they will never marry any man who makes a practice of borrowing his neighbors newspaper.' Do you hear that, you sneaking fellows as do n't pay for what you get—hey?—Richmond Star.

"Come rest in this bosom," as the Turkey said to the stuffing.

No glasses affect the eyes more unfavorable than glasses of brandy.

A smoky chimney may be cured, by keeping fire from it.

REAL ESTATE FOR SALE AT AUCTION!!

THE well known TAVERN STAND situated in the South Village of Woodstock, on the Stage Road leading from Woodstock Green, to Springfield Vt., and Charlestown, N.H.—belonging to the Estate of Ezekiel Pearsons, and now occupied by Galen Pearsons, is offered for sale. The convenient and desirable location of said Stand, and the consequent run of custom it will always receive—as there is no other Tavern in the village—need not be stated in this advertisement, for any person wishing such a Stand, and that too, at a great bargain, can learn all such facts by applying on the premises.

If said Stand is not disposed of at private sale previous, it will be sold at auction on Saturday, the 1st day of May next, at one o'clock, P. M.—Also on the premises at the same time, will be sold at auction, various articles of household furniture, &c. &c. GALEN PEARSONS.
So. Woodstock, April 6, 1841. 39-52 Executor.

RANAWAY,

ON the 23d day of March last, from the employment of the subscriber, residing in Plymouth, Vt Levi Wilder, a minor and indented apprentice. This is to caution all persons against harbouring or trusting said Levi, on my account, as I shall pay no debts of his contracting.

NEW-YORK TRIBUNE.

ON Saturday, the 10th day of April instant, the subscriber will publish the first number of a new Morning Journal of Politics, Literature and General Intelligence.

The TRIBUNE, as its name imports, will labor to advance the interests of the People, and to promote their Moral, Social and Political well-being. The immoral and degrading Police Reports, Advertisements, and other matter which have been allowed to disgrace the columns of many of our leading Penny Papers will be carefully excluded from this, and no exertion spared to render it worthy of the hearty approval of the virtuous and refined, and a welcome visitant at the family fireside.

Earnestly believing that the Political Revolution which has called WILLIAM HENRY HARRISON to the Chief Magistracy of the Nation was a triumph of Right, Reason, and Public Good over Error and sinister Ambition. The Tribune will give the New Administration a frank and cordial but manly and independent support—judging it always by its works, and commending those only so far as they shall seem calculated to subserve the great end of all Government—the welfare of the People.

The Tribune will be published every morning on a fair royal sheet—size of the Log Cabin and Evening Signal—and transmitted to its City Subscribers at the low price of One Cent per copy. Mail subscribers $1 00 per annum.—Subscriptions are respectfully solicited by HORACE GREELEY, 30 Ann Street.

SAVE YOUR FUEL.

CHASE'S COOKING STOVE,

OPERATING UPON A PRINCIPLE ENTIRELY NEW.

THE subscriber having contracted with Mr S. L. Chase for the right of his stove for the County of Windsor, begs leaves to call the attention of the public to the same. The stove is beyond doubt more economical and convenient than any other cooking stove in use. It is convenient, because of its peculiar construction, and economical, for the reason that it will save three fourths of the fuel necessary to be consumed in other stoves, in order to do an equal amount of cooking. It contains two ovens of large dimensions, which can in an instant have the temperature changed by dampers, so as to be adapted to baking or roasting the most delicate as well as the coarsest food. The boiling department is perfect in every point of view. Six boilers can be used at a time, The broiling department is so constructed, that the smoke is not suffered to pass into the room, being conveyed directly into the stove. Owing to the peculiarity of the principles upon which this stove operates, none of the heat from the fire chamber is suffered to pass directly into the pipe, while all the coldest air in the stove is so discharged. This is done by an air chamber for rarefying the air and smoke after it has parted with its heat and, in such a manner, as to produce a very strong draught—thus all the heat generated must be applied to some practical purpose.

In proof of the above, I have connected with this advertisement, the following certificates from gentlemen of undoubted character who are now using the stove in this vicinity.

The stoves will be kept constantly on hand and for sale by. TITUS BUTCHINSON JR.
Woodstock, July 15th 1840.

CERTIFICATES.

Dear Sir,—I have used one of your Cooking Stoves, in my family for some time past. The Stove is all that you have recommended it to be and I feel it my duty to state that I consider it one of the most important inventions within my knowledge. Being simple in construction and convenient in form I deem it to be a durable, and well calculated Stove. From the fact that I believe it would save the price of the Stove in fuel in one year in addition to the many extra advantages which this stove possesses over all other stoves in use, I have no hesitation in recommending it in pecuniary point of view to every one, whether they already have or have not other stoves. PAUL HOWE.
Woodstock, Vt., June 15th 1840.

This certifies that I have used S. L. Chase's Cooking Stove for all the purposes of cooking Washing &c. usual in families and find it to be the most economical and convenient cooking stove which I have ever used or seen and from experiment I find that it requires no more than one fourth of the fuel necessary to be consumed in any other cooking stove which I have used or seen calculated to draw equal amount of cooking. The ovens of the stove surpass anything of the kind in use they bake and roast admirably well. In a word the stove is without a fault and I would most confidently recommend it to all persons in want of stoves. R. E. WITT.
Woodstock Vt., July 15th 1840.

Mr. S. L. Chase.—Having used your cooking stove in my family for some time past and finding it worthy of all praise I feel it my duty to state that I consider it to be by far the best cooking stove in use. Having used it for all the purposes of cooking such as baking, roasting, boiling broiling &c. I can confidently assert that in point of economy and convenience it very far excels any thing of the kind which has come to my knowledge. The stoves is most ingeniously calculated for every culinary purpose. My family are remarkably well pleased with the working department of the stove none of the smoke being suffered to come into the room. ZERAH LULL.
Woodstock, Vt., July 15th 1840.

Mr. Chase.—Sir After having used your cooking stove No. 2, in my family for a sufficient time to have fully satisfied myself of its usefulness; I am prepared to express my opinion that it is preferable to any Cooking Stove of which I have knowledge. The saving of fuel, the amount of business that may be accomplished by it, the ease of which the meals are cooked, and all its advantages united together, render it, in my estimation, DECIDEDLY SUPERIOR TO ANY ONE NOW IN USE. I think that none who try it will be disappointed, but will realize all the advantages that could be reasonably anticipated from such an article. JASPER HAZEN.
Woodstock, Vt. Oct. 19th 1840.

I have used one of Chase's Cooking Stoves, No. 2, since last October, and have no hesitation in recommending it as being a better Stove in every respect, than any now in use in this vicinity. The great convenience derived from having two good ovens, and the saving of one-half of the fuel consumed in other Stoves, besides the other good qualities, gives it in my opinion, a superiority to any other Stove with which I am acquainted. JASON DARLING.
Woodstock Vt., June 25, 1841.

This is to certify that I have used Chase's Stove, No. 2 for the past four months, and I am willing to hazard the opinion that it is decidedly the best Stove in use. The amount of business that may be done by it—the great saving of fuel and labor, together with the ease and convenience with which it may be accomplished, render it a very desirable Cooking Stove, and for warming a room it is not surpassed by any Stove in the market. ORA PAUL.

Mr Chase: Sir, I have been using one of your Cooking Stoves for some time past, and am satisfied that any other Stove that I am acquainted with will take twice the amount of wood to do the same amount of business of yours. The oven surpass everything of the kind I have seen, for doing all kinds of baking. In a word, I consider it the best Stove that has been offered to the public.
I am respectfully yours,
THOMAS M'LAUGHLIN.

Chase's Cooking Stove has been in use in my house for several months past, and I consider it decidedly superior to any Stove, which I have seen in use.
