Richmond Dispatch.

TUESDAY.....MARCH 9, 1880.

The Emperor of all the Russias must be weary of life. He no longer wears a coat of mail, but his carriages are plated with iron, and such is the mysterious secrecy with which he is surrounded that even the most trusted policemen are ignorant half an hour beforehand in what direction he is going. The cook is watched at his work by two special employés, and the kitchen-door is guarded by two sentinels. The viands are tasted by experts, and only offered to the Czar when they are convinced that no poison is lurking in them. Fond as he is of a good cigar, he is obliged, from similar motives of prudence, to forego the pleasures of smoking.

Instead of having the names of a few good dishes in plain English on a bill of fare, hotel cooks appear to be laboring under the impression that when a man sits down to a table he wants to eat conundrums and French dictionaries. An onion by another name will smell as sweet, and hash is hash the world over. Sometimes a man from the country takes home his victuals programme to show his family what he has eaten in the city, but he can never know himself. He asks for "some of that," and gets it.—New Orleans Picayune.

Mendelssohn in his youth was in the employ of a merchant. His employer was never charged with being the inventor of powder; if he was remarkable for anything it was stupidity. At that time Mendelssohn already enjoyed a reputation. When an inquisitive friend asked him how in the world he could work for such a blockhead, Mendelssohn replied, "By working for him both of us are taken care of; for if I was the master, I would feel obliged to discharge him."

"What was the oldest thing General Grant met with abroad?" asked Smith. "The pyramids, of course," said Jones. "No," said Smith, "I see that Grant, while in Havana, visited the American circus." "Well, you don't mean to say that the American circus is older than the Egyptian pyramids?" "Perhaps not," said Smith, "but it's jokes, you know, its jokes!" Jones caved.

"General Grant," says the Paris Figaro, "made a mistake in coming to Paris. Before his arrival many persons pictured him to themselves as a kind of Bonaparte at the time of the Consulate—brilliant, profound, audacious—a master, in short. Unhappily, he has been seen, and the ideal is considerably battered down."

There is no truth in the report that Miss Anthony passed herself off on Boston people for Mrs. Langtry. Boston people are not blamed fools.—Boston Post. Maybe they are not; but those who have never been outside of Boston might naturally take Miss Anthony for a great beauty.—Courier-Journal.

We believe that the doctrine of "fiat money" comes about as near idiocy as any idea of public policy evolved since Jack Cade's experiment in trying to make a quart pot hold three pints, and we have little respect for the intelligence of any man who believes that a safe medium of exchange can be made without real value as a basis.—Boston Herald.

"Doctors declare," says the Chicago Journal, "that electric light will eventually destroy the eyesight." When Edison heard the remark he retired into his innermost laboratory, and when he had shut and locked and put a chain against the door, whispered to himself, with a sardonic smile, "First catch your electric light."—Albany Journal.

At dinner she had a doctor at either hand, one of whom remarked that they were well served, since they had a duck between them. "Yes," she broke in—her wit is of the sort that comes in flashes—"and I am between two quacks." Then silence fell.—Boston Transcript.

Some of the high-toned would-be-fashionable people of Fifth avenue, New York, are giving receptions at which only French is spoken. Something still more remarkable would be a swell party at which only good English was spoken.—New Orleans Picayune.

Kate Field proposes to organize a co-operative millinery establishment in New York, with a capital of $250,000. Ten of the forthcoming new spring bonnets will represent the entire capital.—Norristown Herald.

At the request of the owner, who has removed to Southwest Virginia, I will sell at public auction, on the premises, on SATURDAY the 20th day of March, 1880, at 12 o'clock M., that MOST DESIRABLE FARM known as "KRISHUAGHAR," situated in Hanover county, Va., three miles from Verdon, on the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad, thirty miles from Richmond. This excellent FARM and RESIDENCE is bordered on one side by the Newfound river and on another by the public road leading to the city of Richmond, by which the distance is twenty-six miles.

The tract contains 255 ACRES, 60 acres of which is in original growth timber of oak, hickory, and pine, the balance cleared and in a fine state of cultivation, having been improved by recent and copious applications of Lee's prepared agricultural lime, barn-yard manure, and the following of repeated green crops. About 80 acres is well set in clover and other grasses, the yield of which has fully demonstrated the adaptability of the soil to the growth of the various grasses. About one half of the tract is of granite soil, the balance of a rich sandy loam; the whole being underlaid by a red clay subsoil. The farm is inclosed by a good, substantial fence, and conveniently divided into separate fields by cross fences. It is well watered by Newfound river and three springs with their branches, besides an excellent well of water in the yard.

The buildings consist of a FINE, LARGE, SQUARE BRICK DWELLING containing large, airy rooms, halls, closets, &c., with commodious dining-room and kitchen detached, in the midst of a well-fenced, shady yard adorned with beautiful shrubbery and evergreens. The out-buildings are ample and convenient, consisting of stable, granary, corn-crib, sheds, &c., also ice-house and comfortable quarters for laborers.

An excellent orchard and garden.

From the superior soil, healthfulness of location, convenience to schools, churches, mills, &c., this neighborhood has retained and attracted the best society, and this sale undoubtedly affords a fine opportunity for a profitable investment as well as the securing a comfortable and beautiful home.

The sale will be without reserve.
