COTTON AND FLOUR MILLS—TOBACCO OPERATIONS OF THE YEAR—REAL ESTATE ASSESSMENT—MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS, &C.

[Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.]

JANUARY 2, 1881.

The total number of arrivals at this port during the past year was 751, with a tonnage of 30,632.

There are six cotton factories in and near Petersburg, whose annual consumption of raw cotton is 10,000 bales. They run 27,750 spindles and 900 looms, and give employment to 800 operatives. Their aggregate yearly manufacture of cloth is nearly 11,000,000 yards. These cloths are of various qualities, and find ready market, North and South.

The annual capacity of our flour-mills is about 250,000 barrels.

The inspections of tobacco at our warehouses during the year amounted to 11,277 hogsheads. The total exports of manufactured tobacco for the year were 3,955,713 pounds, and the amount of manufactured tobacco on which the tax was paid was 4,133,351 pounds, making the total of manufactured tobacco in the city for the year 8,089,064 pounds. The number of hands employed in our tobacco factories is 3,134, whose annual wages amount to nearly $271,000. The aggregate internal-revenue collections in the Petersburg district for the year were $857,737.51, of which $741,326 was paid in tax by tobacco.

The total receipts of our post-office for the year were $17,826.42, and the expenses $11,415.42—leaving a net profit of $6,415.

The value of realty in the city of Petersburg under the new assessment is $5,982,095, of which $659,800 is exempt from taxation, leaving a balance for city taxation of $5,222,295—being $425,628 less than the old assessment. The machinery in some of the tobacco factories which has heretofore been assessed as real estate is now omitted and will be assessed as personal property.

The receipts of the city during the past year were $367,349.12, and the expenditures $351,346.89.

During the past year 651 deaths were reported in the city—223 whites and 428 colored; 319 males and 341 females. The number of marriages was 164, of whom 92 were colored couples. The number of committals to jail was 547; deeds recorded, 516; cases tried in the Mayor's Court, 805; fines collected in the Mayor's Court, $765.

THE WEEK OF PRAYER—NEW FACTORIES—GUANO AND COTTON—STRANGE!—WILD HOGS—PERSONALS.

[Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.]

JANUARY 1, 1881.

Arrangements have been made for the observance of the week of prayer by the church-people of Danville and North Danville. The advice of the Evangelical Alliance as to the week of prayer has been followed here year after year, and it has been thought that the observance of it has proved both interesting and profitable. I remember hearing one of the older members of one of the Methodist churches say last January, at the close of the week, that he really wished the services could be kept up the year round.

There is now a strong probability that a guano factory and a cotton-factory will be set in operation here before the 1st of April.

The well in one of the yards on Patton street, which is fifty feet deep, was seen to pour with a stream of vapor yesterday morning in such a volume that the landlord at first thought that some mischief-maker had set a lot of forage from his cow-house afire and thrown it into the well. On the same premises there stands a sycamore-tree, which is near one of the south windows. Yesterday morning the outline of the tree was indirectly drawn in the coating of ice which had formed on the outer surface of the glass.

On a large body of land lying near the confluence of Dr. Shelton and the Craft and Davis tracts it has been found that there are many wild hogs. Some of these have been caught, and the weight has been from two hundred down. Amongst these are some boars, four or five years old, and having tusks from four to five inches long. These have torn several dogs to pieces. It is said that the wild hog will not squeal when caught or shot. Many hogs belonging to people who live around this wild-hog district have been found amongst these wild hogs, and this fact has pretty well put a stop to the sport of hunting the wild ones.

Mr. W. T. Hutchings, of this city, an alumnus of Richmond College, and now a student of the law course at Yale College, came home during the latter part of last week, and has been spending the holiday season with his parents, friends, and relatives.

Rev. L. E. Spencer, once a student at Richmond College, and recently ordained to the ministry, has been called to the pastorate of New Prospect church, in this county, and will probably settle in the northern part of the county and serve the New Prospect church and the Baptist church at Lynch's station, Campbell county. Mr. Spencer is now in the employ of the State Mission Board.

I can't imagine how I happened to give the name of Mr. Whittle as James P. instead of James M. One of the places at which he delivered a Sunday-school speech was Adkin Town, a place named (I suppose) for Owen Adkins, who was rendered famous by Mr. Woodson, of the New York Herald, about two years ago.

During this week there has been at the Arlington a sojourner from New Jersey who has with him five blooded dogs. He came South to train these dogs for a New Jersey sportsman.

Professor R. M. Tuck, principal of the public school, was knocked down and run over by a sleighing-party yesterday. He was suffering very much last night. He has no idea that any injury was intended him, but can only recollect that he was caught between two sleighing-parties as they were about passing each other.

Mr. W. M. Gilliam, while out sleighing with Mrs. Gilliam, was seriously hurt by being thrown out against a fence.

THE FOURTH SNOW; LAST BUT NOT LEAST—STREET CARS STOPPED—SUFFERING AND CHARITY—BIRD-SHOT FOR THIEVES—NEW RESIDENTS—MAJOR JAMES BREATHED AND GENERAL LEE.

[Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.]

JANUARY 3, 1881.

During the hours of Saturday night and Sunday morning, before day, the fourth snow of the season piled itself upon the top of its three predecessors. Its coming was not entirely unexpected. It was the deepest snow of them all, being anywhere between eight and twelve inches from the next lower stratum. The four together are in many places two feet above the level of the ground. So heavy was the fall that it stopped the street-cars from running on the streets, though for nearly a week they have suspended operations at the Fair-Grounds extension of the line. The cars have resumed their schedule in the city this morning. Yesterday the temperature considerably moderated, and the snow melted rapidly, where exposed to the sun, until dark. The same process has been going on to-day, though not so fluently. The river is frozen over, meanwhile, from shore to shore, to the depth of five inches.

In view of the unusual amount of suffering caused by the severe cold, there have been active exertions among the benevolent of the community to relieve it. A meeting of the Benevolent Association attached to St. Paul's church was held this morning to take steps of this kind at the call of the president, Mrs. Judge Spence. At the Court-Street Methodist Episcopal church there was to-day the usual annual distribution of clothing and other necessary supplies among the Dorcas children of the Sunday school.

Among the recent gang of negro robbers arrested by the police on the charge of robbing Mr. Sandifer's store, in Campbell, was one Williams, who proved on examination to have recently received a severe load of shot. It transpired that this wound was incurred while he and a partner in crime were engaged in robbing a hen-house of Mrs. Mary Steptoe, on Federal street, and that the shot was fired by a courageous colored servant of that lady. Depredators are likely to give those premises a wide berth since these circumstances have got abroad.

Mr. J. S. Worsham, late of Mississippi, has removed to this city and gone into business here. Another citizen of recent domicile is Judge Breathed, formerly of St. James's College, Hagerstown, Md., and father of the gallant Major James Breathed, who succeeded Pelham in command of the artillery battalion of the latter. It is said that when Judge Breathed was introduced to General Lee at Lexington some years ago General Lee asked him if he was any relation of Major Breathed. The Judge answered that he was his father. General Lee said: "If the army had consisted of ten thousand Breatheds the cause of the Confederacy would not have been lost."

COLD—CHRISTMAS—ENTERTAINMENT.

[Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.]

JANUARY 3, 1881.

The extraordinary cold is the general topic. Certainly, in the memory of the oldest citizens, there has been none to equal the three days of last week in this latitude. On Saturday it turned a little warmer, and Saturday night we had five inches more of snow. The snow is now thawing considerably in the sun. Everybody is intently engaged in trying to keep warm, and business and amusements are practically suspended. This warm sun may revive both.

This being court-day, quite a number of persons have braved the vigorous weather and come to town. Sleighs and "jumpers" are put into requisition, as wheels clog so badly as to make hauling any distance impossible. The town is now dependent upon the wood- and coal-yards entirely for fuel. Country-wagons, which ordinarily furnish a large proportion of fuel, are embargoed. The snow is on an average fifteen inches deep. The great weight on the roof of a tenpin-alley on Greene street caused it to collapse yesterday, and the whole roof was destroyed.

Christmas passed in a very dull and spiritless way. If there is evidence of better times, it has certainly not reached Charlottesville. There may be isolated cases in which people are better off than at the same date last year, but I find the majority of them complaining bitterly of the stagnation of business and lack of means. I have heard of no private entertainments. The public ones have been few. The one at the Baptist church on Thursday night was the only one given by any of the churches to the Sunday schools. The novel and unique character of this deserves a passing notice. The pulpit of the church was decorated with evergreens, and arranged so as to represent an old-fashioned fire-place, with all the appurtenances, and the stage extended in front to represent the room. Upon this stage was performed by little girls selections from Doane's Christmas Cantata. The solos, duets, and choruses were beautifully rendered by the little ones, some of whom were not over three years old, and showed admirable training for only two weeks' rehearsal, and that frequently interrupted by the bad weather. The whole thing wound up by the entrance of Santa Claus down the chimney, in the only way to children that old Kriss can come, and the distribution of gifts followed. The audience was delighted and the children made happy.

The Methodist, Presbyterian, and Baptist churches have united for the week-of-prayer services, which commenced last night at the Baptist church. Rev. Mr. Martin, of the Methodist church, was to have preached, but indisposition prevented, and his place was supplied by Rev. Mr. Quinby, of the Episcopal Mission to Japan, who delivered a most interesting lecture upon the Japanese and the work of missions there. The meetings will be continued by services in the Baptist church Tuesday night, when Professor F. H. Smith is expected to address the people on Christian education; Wednesday night at the Presbyterian church, and Thursday night at the Methodist church.

THE COLD SNAP AND THE "BEAUTIFUL SNOW"—THE MERCURY DOWN TO TWENTY DEGREES BELOW ZERO ON THE 31ST—MORE SNOW ON THE GROUND THAN EVER KNOWN BEFORE—CHRISTMAS.

Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.]

JANUARY 3, 1881.

The comparative long silence of the Dispatch's Louisa correspondent has resulted from the scarcity of news items of general public interest. And to commence a newsletter at this time other than with a weather paragraph would most assuredly be out of order. It commenced snowing here Monday the 18th of December, about twelve inches falling. To this superabundant quantity more was added from time to time during the remainder of the month, there being no clear days, and in consequence of the absence of "Old Sol's" genial rays scarcely any thaw. On the night of the 1st instant it commenced snowing again, in real earnest, and by sunrise Sunday morning about six inches more had been added, making a greater quantity on the ground than has ever been known before in the lives of some of our oldest inhabitants. No exception is made for the memorable snows of '56 and '57, for while the latter interfered more with travel, it resulted from extensive drifting; whereas the present snow in these parts drifted none. The cold has been intense here, it also having had no equal in the recollection of our oldest citizens. On Friday morning the mercury fell to 20 degrees below zero. Dr. N. H. Crawford, one of the venerable citizens of our neighborhood, has stationed in his porch a thermometer which has been in its present location about fifty years. The unusually cold and warm days as indicated by this venerable instrument have been faithfully recorded ever since—this practice having been observed by the Doctor's father during his lifetime, and having been kept up by the Doctor himself. On last Friday morning it registered 17 degrees below zero—eight degrees lower than ever before. In consequence of this extreme cold, and heavy snow, Christmas week was not lively here. There were a few socials in town, and two of the Sunday schools had Christmas exercises. On Christmas-eve night the Methodist school had a Christmas tree, which was filled with presents for every member of the school, old and young, and which was quite pretty. The welcome address was made by Captain H. W. Murray, the superintendent of the school, and some good music was rendered. On Christmas-day the Disciples' school had what was termed "A Fish-Pond," presents for the scholars being arranged behind a curtain, to which the scholars alternately advanced, and, being furnished with a "hook and line," fished out their treasures.

From Norfolk.

DEATH OF A FORMER DRY-GOODS MERCHANT—EMANCIPATION DAY—THE WYANOKE CUT THROUGH BY THE ICE.

[Special telegram to the Dispatch.]

NORFOLK, VA., January 3.—Lycurgus Berkeley, a prominent dry-goods merchant of Norfolk up to his removal to the county, died at his home, in Berkeley, last night.

The colored element of the two cities celebrated the anniversary of emancipation to-day. The procession was headed by four companies of military.

The steamer Wyanoke, of the Old Dominion Line, while cutting through the ice in James river yesterday afternoon on her way from Richmond to Norfolk, stove a hole in her bow when off Sandy Point. The hole is about ten by twelve inches. The vessel was run ashore. The crew and cargo escaped injury. The damage to the ship is slight, and she will be gotten off at once.

A Car Case Decided in the United States Circuit Court in Baltimore.

BALTIMORE, January 3.—In the United States Circuit Court this morning, in a suit of the Pullman Palace-Car Company against the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company for an infringement of the patent of the complainants by the railroad company in using the Pullman sleeping-cars on their roads, and praying for an injunction against the railroad company, Judge Bond filed the opinion of the Court refusing to grant the injunction.

The Chesapeake and Ohio Canal.

THE MOTION FOR THE APPOINTMENT OF A RECEIVER DENIED.

BALTIMORE, MD., January 3.—Immediately after the reading of the decision in the Pullman palace-car case to-day Judge Morris read the opinion of the court in the case of D. K. Stewart, an English subject, formerly of Richmond, Va., and a preferred bondholder, against the president and directors of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company, praying that the defendants be enjoined from any further control and management of the canal and asking the appointment of a receiver to take possession of, manage, and operate it.

The opinion reviews at considerable length the legislation of the State in regard to the canal, its management by the president and directors, the various allegations as charged in the complainant's bill, and says that "the allegations of mismanagement are not established by the proof. Only one bondholder besides the complainant, and he holding but a small amount of bonds, has united in the suit. It is but a very small minority of the bondholders who are asking for the relief prayed for in the bill, and it does not appear that any others believe that the remedy now sought would be beneficial to their interests, and the trustees of the mortgage, who are in no way connected with or committed to the present management, and who are as individuals owners of considerable amounts of bonds, are here in court strenuously opposing the present application. In regard to the charges of misappropriation of the income of the canal by the president and directors, the Court says that of the expenditures for outlet locks above Georgetown, D. C., and the wharf property at Cumberland, the complainant had full notice of the intention of the corporation to acquire these terminal facilities, and the reasons for so doing, and it does not seem that he can now be heard to say with any force that they were a violation of his rights under the mortgage. The construction of the telephone along the line of the canal was a reasonable expenditure and a direct benefit. The Court, however, says that the proof fully sustains the charge of misappropriation of income in extravagant hotel-bills incurred by the president and directors and charged by them to the corporation without warrant or authority. Such conduct in the managers of an insolvent corporation is well calculated to excite suspicion and distrust with regard to the fidelity of their general management of its concerns; but, while it is true that these things tend to excite distrust, they do not actually prove anything themselves, and are not in then selves sufficient to justify the costly machinery of a receivership. It seems to us, however, that the bondholders should be afforded some convenient method of scrutinizing the expenditures which so vitally affect them and them alone. We think that without appointing a receiver it would be within the power of this court to retain the bill for the purpose of having the corporation at stated intervals render an account of its receipts and disbursements for the information and protection of bondholders. The motion for a receiver is denied."

Sauer (Tammany Democrat) got 8 votes; Bernard Kinney (Irving-Hall Democrat) got 6; Petty (Republican) got 6, and McClare (Republican) 1. Each of the nominees failed to secure a majority of the votes cast, and on motion the Board adjourned until Wednesday next without any further attempt to permanently organize. The mayor's message will not be read until the Board is organized.

FREDERICKSBURG, January 3.—The snow-blockade has been raised, but all the trains yet pass on delayed time. The Piedmont railroad will send out a snow-plow to-morrow to open the road. The Rappahannock river is closed with ice, which is eight inches thick. There is a great scarcity of firewood, the principal fuel used here. The authorities have taken possession of all the wood in yards, in order to protect the destitute. The supply of water has been almost cut off by freezing in the supply pipes.

PICKED UP AT SEA.

HALIFAX, N. S., January 3.—The Allan Line steamer Sardinia, on her way from Boston to this port, picked up a boat containing Paul Nelson and Charles Lund, belonging to the fishing schooner Waldo Fonine, of Rochester, Mass. They were badly frost-bitten in their hands and feet and were quite exhausted, having been in an open boat three days without food or sleep. They had lost their vessel in a snow-storm, and a gale coming on they were blown out to sea. The men will be sent home by the American Consul.

A Year of Distress and Disturbance.

LONDON, January 3.—The Dublin correspondent of the Times says: "A more repulsive and terrible year has never come upon the country. Its history may be written in two words—'Distress and Disturbance.' It came in with the beggar-box, and has gone out with the bludgeon. It will take many years to reconstruct the social system now in ruins, and few can be sanguine enough to hope the task will be accomplished in the present generation."

The Irish State Trials.

DUBLIN, January 3.—On the resumption of the State trials this morning the court was crowded, though the proceedings were very uninteresting, simply consisting of the reading of the stenographic notes of the speeches of the Traversers.

The Court to-day decided that the speeches delivered in favor of the Traversers at the various meetings throughout the country may be read by their counsel. This decision will considerably protract the trials.

Watching Irish Political Societies—Shots Exchanged.

LONDON, January 3.—A dispatch to the Pall Mall Gazette from Birmingham says: "The Irish police have arrived here to watch the proceedings of Irish political societies. It is stated that similar precautions have been taken in other large towns. The police patrol in County Sligo last night exchanged shots with an armed party. It is supposed that one of the prowlers was mortally wounded. One arrest was made."

A large torpedo net has consequently been buoyed around the ship to keep boats or torpedoes off, and other measures of precaution have been taken. The Lord Warden is an armor plated steamship of 7,800 tons, and carries eighteen guns. She is in the coast-guard service.

They smashed the windows and mobbed all the Jews they met. The police were comparatively helpless. Another café was invaded and emptied of Jews. Large and stormy meetings continue to be held, and the crusade seems to be gaining force, the list now being substituted for the tongue."
