GENERAL NEWS OF INDUSTRIES

Statistician Ruley's Estimate of the Amount of Unmined Anthracite.

FUEL FOR MANY YEARS TO COME

Eckley B. Coxe Again Named by Newspaper Rumor in Connection with the Future Management of the Lehigh Valley Railroad—Mining Activities at Richmondale—Bright Paragraphs of Industrial Intelligence Culled from Many Sources.

According to an estimate just made by W. W. Ruley, of the bureau of anthracite coal statistics, the unmined coal in Pennsylvania aggregates 4,684,000,000 tons, all of which is located in an area of 213,000 acres. According to these figures, if the yearly average were to continue at 14,000,000 tons for, say, 167 years, the fields will have become entirely extinct. The Reading company not only heads the list as to acreage, but its unmined coal is more than double that of all the other coal companies combined, the estimate placing its figures at 2,450,000,000 tons. The estimate follows:

	Acres.	Tons Unmined
Phila. & Reading	102,000	2,450,000,000
Delaware & Hudson	21,300	260,000,000
D., L. & W.	13,200	400,000,000
Penn. Coal Company	12,650	180,000,000
Hillside Coal & Iron	7,200	70,000,000
Lehigh Valley	22,720	400,000,000
Lehigh & Wilkes-Barre	12,650	395,000,000
Kehigh & Luzerne	800	5,000,000
Lehigh C. & N.	9,400	370,000,000
Alliance C. M. Co.	4,000	130,000,000
Pennsylvania R. R.	4,280	74,000,000
Totals	213,000	4,684,000,000

This is a view taken by the Hazleton Sentinel, not always a trustworthy upon Lehigh Valley railroad subjects, but nearly always an interesting one: "It seems to be evident that the coming man in the management of Lehigh Valley affairs will be Eckley B. Coxe. No man who has the interest of the region at heart could desire a better man at the head of the great property. The signs all point to a change of management, and if Mr. Coxe should accept a place that he can undoubtedly have if he says he will accept, it will be the greatest gain to this community. The very near future will show that Mr. Coxe has either forced the Lehigh Valley to make him exceptionally advantageous terms for the shipment of his coal to tidewater, or that another and more important deal has been made."

Work in and around the Richmondale colliery, says the Forest City News, is being as actively carried on as ever despite the dulness in nearby places and throughout the country. In the shaft the north gangway has been driven about 700 feet, four chambers have already been started and more will be commenced this week. The south gangway has been extended to meet the slope or second opening, a distance of 11,000 feet. The slope is 300 feet long. There are four headings on the south gangway and chambers will be started this week. About eighty men were employed on the inside last month, but the force will be largely increased as the work progresses. Richard Beers, who understands mining thoroughly, is the inside foreman. Outside everything is running without friction. The big breaker does its work in a most satisfactory manner. Last month the output of coal was 4,177 tons, and these figures will look small when once the number of miners are at work that it is expected to employ. About thirty men are now employed outside. The top vein is between six and seven feet in thickness, as far as worked yet. Sixteen feet below is the second vein, and it will average eight feet. The coal is of a good quality, that in the top vein being especially fine. Richmondale will present a scene of great activity next summer.

MINOR INDUSTRIAL NOTES.

Five passenger trains have been taken off of the Pittsburg and Lake Erie railroad to reduce expenses.

Four Pennsylvania firms received the contract to build 1,000 standard hopper gondola cars, equipped with Westinghouse air brakes, for the Delaware, Susquehanna and Schuylkill line, owned by Coxe Bros. & Co. The order was divided as follows: Murray McDougal & Co., Milton, 450 cars; Carlisle Manufacturing company, 200 cars; Jackson & Wooden Manufacturing company, Berwick, 175 cars; Lebanon Manufacturing company, 175 cars.

The Jersey Central has abandoned its freight, ticket and telegraph office at Rita, near Wilkes-Barre. The station will be kept open, however, for the convenience of the patrons there. The night telegraph office at Penn Haven Junction has also been discontinued. The closing of these various offices is for the purpose of reducing expenses.

The Reading will lease the Quarryville and Lancaster.

A Cleveland special says the moulders of that city may strike because of a general reduction of 10 per cent. in wages.

Fountown people claim that the vein of coal which was discovered near that place recently is workable.

A correspondent of the Binghamton Herald says that the division terminus of the Ontario and Western railroad will be changed from Middletown to Hancock Junction. Shops and other necessary buildings will be located there.

Agents of the Standard Oil company are said to have been in Brooklyn last week endeavoring to buy up land leases which were some time ago obtained by various syndicates.
