Scholastic basketball teams claim attention today as some of the best of the floor experts vie with each other in league games as well as independent struggles. At the Arcade, Central is sending its team in again for a battle with St. Albans, while Western and the Army and Navy Preps are taking the floor. At Business, Friends Select School is paying its annual visit.

The Catholic University team will go to the Naval Academy tomorrow afternoon and Gallaudet will play Loyola in Baltimore. George Washington takes the rattler for Charlottesville to play the University of Virginia, which is the entire collegiate card for the morrow.

Tonight Gallaudet stages a benefit doubleheader at the Noel House Gym when the first team meets the Rolands and the second five engages the Federals. Coach Haag is expecting to get Gallaudet in shape for the Loyola game, and the return battle with Catholic University at the Arcade Saturday week.

The Interscholastic Basketball League games will bring two of the strongest teams together when Western and the Army and Navy Preps take the floor. The A. N. P. team has been strengthened by the acquisition of Reds Williamson, while Western may be weakened by the absence of John Whelchel.

Central is not expecting any trouble in defeating the St. Albans team, although the Cathedral youngsters may be expected to spring a surprise. Friends players have had a long layoff and Business is hoping to pile up a record score against the Quakers. It will be remembered that the Stenographers got 82 points in their last battle with Friends.

Georgetown and George Washington tussled and tackled all over Ryan Gym last night to a 27 to 23 score, the Blue and Gray emerging with the long end of the contest. Better condition told for the Georgetown players who appeared to be a bit better acquainted with the baskets.

The George Washington players had many chances to win, but blew many easy shots in their eagerness to count. The game was characterized by individual work at all times, rather than by concerted action. Neither team appeared to be certain just where the players were when possession of the ball was obtained and there was a great deal of individual dribbling combined with long pot shots at the basket.

Beardini, for Georgetown, was responsible for a victory for his team, as his baskets were made at critical stages of the battle. Harry Kelley's foul shooting kept his team in the lead. Donnelly and Curry performed creditably while O'Lone got away in the second half for several pretty plays.

A shift in the G. W. U. team was made in the second half, Almon going to forward. A tendency to take too long shots proved disastrous for the G. W. U. Hawtes, Matthews, Shaver and Almon played consistently well.

Over at the Arcade the Catholic University team won a 34-to-12 score on the Virginia Medical College of Richmond, playing ring around the Virginians in the first period. Twenty-five points were scored by Fred Rice's collegians before the Medics shed kim their side of the controversy and decided to make a fight of it.

Gallihan's playing was a feature for C. U. Cartwright, Keegan and Coffey played well throughout the battle. Keegan led both teams in goal shooting, caging six baskets from the floor.

The Georgetown Junior Prep's won an 18-to-7 victory over Western's midget team yesterday. Western defeated St. Alban's youngsters recently and dropped a game to the Friends' midgets. Games are being arranged with the Army and Navy Preps and Gonzaga midgets by both the Prep and Western youngsters.

Teck will pick a basketball captain at the practice scheduled at Carroll Institute today. The squad has been cut to ten players. Teck's first venture on the floor was a defeat at the hands of the Episcopal High School players.

Syracuse Track Men Must Train to Stick

Thomas F. Keane, coach of track athletics at Syracuse University, has made it plain that all those who expect to make the track team must keep in condition. He threatens to suspend any one who does not observe his rules. Coach Keane requires all his men to retire at 10:30 o'clock p. m., and refrain from dancing.

Thieves have found the Dartmouth hockey squad a profitable field for activities during the time players were on the ice. Last week about $100 in cash and several fraternity and society stickpins were taken from the players' clothes.

CARROLL'S PROTEST ON RACE SUSTAINED

Distance Title Event Will Be Run Over in April and Medals Will Be Returned.

The Amateur Athletic Union cross-country run, protected by Carroll Institute on Thanksgiving Day, will be run over again some time in April, the same contestants taking part. The board of managers of the A. A. U. sustained the Carroll protest at last night's meeting in Baltimore, and ordered the event run over at a distance of not less than six miles nor more than six and a half miles.

Both Baltimore and Washington presented sides of the controversy recently, and the registration committee referred the matter to the board of managers. It was established that the Carroll runners in the recent race were unaware that the distance scheduled as six miles had been cut down to something like four miles. It was further established that the Baltimore men knew the distance was shortened.

The team trophy, won by the Cross Country Club, of Baltimore, will have to be returned, as will the medals won for the first three places. The date of the race will be decided later in Baltimore.

Just College Bits In Short Lengths

Twenty-nine games have already been signed up by Graduate Manager Charles R. Cox for the Hilltop varsity nine next spring.

Harvard is expected to meet Pennsylvania on "Straw Hat Day," the first Saturday in May. Princeton has declined the annual date.

J. Howard Berry, who was barred from the Pennsylvania football team for refusing to take orders, announces he will report for the baseball and track teams.

Columbia has revived rifle shooting. Twelve dual shoots have been arranged, including one with Penn State, February 5.

Syracuse's football schedule, which has been completed, shows that the New York State's big games are with Pitt, Michigan, Dartmouth, Colgate and Tufts. E. and M. and Susquehanna, two Pennsylvania teams, are now on the list and both games will be played at Syracuse.

Mike Bennett's football contract calls for another year at Haverford, and he will doubtless be seen with the Main Line eleven next fall. The scarlet and black will be glad to have him back.

Cann, who was a star on the New York University football team last fall, is one of the best point-getters on the basketball team.

Sol Metzger, former Penn captain, who is to succeed Bob Folwell as coach of the W. and J. team, virtually owes his new job to the good showing his team made against the Washington collegians last fall. Metzger's West Virginia eleven held W. and J. to a 6-6 score and was one of the few teams able to break up Folwell's rapid-fire forward passes.

Syracuse, Pennsylvania, Annapolis, and C. C. N. Y. have agreed to compete against Rutgers in dual swimming meets this winter. The Rutgers team is also planning to take the Easter vacation if enough games can be arranged to make it a financial success.

Dartmouth may soon be strengthened, athletically, in several ways, by the entrance of Mickey Roach as a student. When Mickey went to school in Boston he carried a great reputation as a hockey player, and is now playing on the Boston Arcos sevens. He also is a fiend in a football suit and a regular Ty Cobb on the baseball diamond.

CREW ENTHUSIASM AWAKE AT FORDHAM

New Shells Are Promised and Jack Mulcahy Issues Call for Candidates.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Although Fordham representatives of no rivers of rowing, game last season, there is no intention to abandon the sport. Jack Mulcahy was up to Fordham last week and is anxious to get practice started next week, when the students return from the Christmas recess. He has again volunteered his services.

At least four machines will be rigged up in the gymnasium and the call for candidates is expected to be posted tomorrow morning. Outdoor practice on the Harlem will be started earlier than last year, Coach Mulcahy desiring to get his oarsmen on the water as soon as the river is clear of ice.

Although it is still uncertain whether Fordham will be represented by a varsity crew to compete in intercollegiate regattas, it has been determined to have at least three crews. The junior varsity will be composed of last year's freshman oarsmen and others in the upper classes if no senior varsity is boated.

The preps will also have a crew. The football players in both college and prep reported in large numbers last season, and this year they are expected to turn out in an even better percentage.

The Pittsburgh club of Fordham alumni has already provided for a new shell, and another one has practically been promised, so the training facilities will show a decided improvement over those of last season.

Track athletics, which have been dormant at Fordham during the last few years, are expected to take a new lease of life this season. Manager Peter Finch has not yet completed the season's schedule, but the Maroon athletics will be seen in more meets this winter than in 1914-15.

Feerick, Crace, Golden and Sullivan make a fast relay team, but there are a number of promising youngsters in college that will make them a close battle to retain places on the team.

Noel Girls Win.

The Noel girls' basketball team defeated the Georgetown girls by a score of 22 to 16 in an all-comprehensive game. The Misses Dore and Selby played the best game for the winners.

HARVARD MUST WAIT FOR GREAT MENTOR

Percy Haughton Says He Must First Do a Man's Work With the Braves.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 14.—Percy D. Haughton, for eight years autocrat of Harvard football and arch-enemy of all newswritterers, has turned over a new leaf in his capacity of president-elect of the Boston National baseball team and is now chatting amiably with all members of the fourth estate, calling the baseball reporters by their first names and treating them as if they were boon companions of his college days, and Percy is wearing a wrist watch, much to the surprise of a coterie of Harvard football men, who dropped in today to wish him good luck in his new venture.

Haughton, speaking about his new job, says: "Just because I have helped Harvard to win on the football field, I have a real man's job cut out for me on the baseball field of endeavor.

"It's going to be no child's play. I am anxious to see Stall[illegible] pretty well already. [illegible] the way through. I have no misunderstanding.

"As I said, I must [illegible] and as soon as I [illegible] of things and find [illegible] how little time I will be able to tell Harvard whether or not I can continue with the football team. Meanwhile, Harvard must wait.

"I have thought a lot of baseball lately, of course. I am not as yet the president of the Braves, though I shall be shortly. I will not say what policy I will maintain in regard to the Braves. I have been called the autocrat of Harvard's football.

"Maybe I have been, but that's no reason that I am to be the autocrat of the Braves. I, as president of the Braves, will represent some big moneyed interests. They may later take an active part in the business part of the team."
