BLACK WOLF!

Or Black Leprosy, is a disease which is considered incurable, but it has yielded to the curative properties of SWIFT'S SPECIFIC—now known all over the world as S. S. S.—Mrs. Bailey, of West Somerville, Mass., near Boston, was attacked several years ago with this hideous black eruption, and was treated by the best medical talent, who could only say that the disease was a species of and consequently incurable. It is impossible to describe her sufferings. Her body from the crown of her head to the soles of her feet was a mass of decay, masses of flesh rotting off and leaving great cavities. Her fingers festered and three or four nails dropped off at one time. Her limbs contracted by the fearful ulceration, and for several years she did not leave her bed. Her weight was reduced from 125 to 60 lbs. Perhaps some faint idea of her condition can be gleaned from the fact that three pounds of Cosmoline or ointment were used per week in dressing her sores. Finally the physicians acknowledged their defeat by this Black Wolf, and commended the sufferer to her all-wise Creator.

Her husband hearing wonderful reports of the use of SWIFT'S SPECIFIC (S. S. S.), prevailed on her to try it as a last resort. She began its use under protest, but soon found that her system was being relieved of the poison, as the sores assumed a red and healthy color, as though the blood was becoming pure and active. Mrs. Bailey continued the S. S. S. until last February; every sore was healed; she discarded chair and crutches, and was for the first time in twelve years a well woman. Her husband, Mr. C. A. Bailey, is in business at 17½ Blackstone Street, Boston, and will take pleasure in giving the details of this wonderful cure. Send to us for Treatise on Blood and Skin Diseases, mailed free.

SENSIBILITY.

LUTHER G. RIGGS.

Heavenly fountain, never failing!
Ever with perfumed dews regaling,
Moistening with God's gifts so precious,
With which balmy skies refresh us.

From the crystal fount of feeling
Drop sweet tears, so softly stealing,
Of fond sympathy's bestowing,
Even for woes of others flowing.

And thou g'vest tears consoling,
Which in secret hours are rolling
Through our hearts in pain, as breathing,
Twining them with friendship's wreathing.

When our souls in prayer are turning,
And with holy flames are burning—
While at our God we are adoring,
Love in baptism thou art pouring.

THE PERMANENT SEAT.

Wherein the Capital City is Deficient—Gossipy Notes About Charleston.

Special Correspondence of the Intelligencer.

CHARLESTON, W. VA., Jan. 16.—George Byrne, now of the Texas Tarantula, once telegraphed to the INTELLIGENCER from here in response to a request for information as to the damage done by a late frost:

"Here everlasting spring abides,
And never withering flowers.
Jack Frost with icy breath divides
Your frost-cursed land from ours."

Or words to that effect. Shortly after writing that George went to Texas and embarked in the newspaper business. Doubtless he finds it warm enough there. But here it is quite the reverse. On Friday the thermometer went up to 60 in the shade. Yesterday and to-day it is ranging between 15 and 25. This has one advantage; it has frozen the mud stiff and made it possible to get around. The prevalence of mud here is a standing joke with some of the members and the subject of some profanity with others. A newspaper man told me this evening that in digging in Capital street, just in front of the State House, the Commissioner unearthed a forgotten brick pavement. It is no wonder the Charleston pavement wears well. No wheel ever reaches as deep as its surface.

A Senator from the interior unburdened himself to-day. He said when the Legislature arrived here and saw how uninviting everything looked except the handsome Capitol erected by the State, and how little improvement the city has made or tried to make in ten years past, if it had not been absolutely out of the question there would have been a dozen bills introduced looking to the return of the Capital to Wheeling. I felt authorized to say that if it came back the State would build its own Capitol.

"Oh, well," said he, "Wheeling would at least furnish the sewers, and here the State had to provide drainage to the river for the building."

This reminds me of a peculiar thing about Charleston. All her street improvement is done in winter.

Life here will be more tolerable now for large crowds. The hotel Ruffner is being pushed rapidly to completion, and this morning for the first time breakfast was served in the building. About one hundred rooms have been finished and nearly all of them are occupied.

A dramatic company headed by Nellie Free and Phil Greiner, and made up of pretty bad actors, is making a good thing of it here. They appear at the Cotton Opera House for two solid weeks playing at 10 and 20 cents, and the house is literally packed every night. It is about the only way to put in an evening here. The best people among the citizens and visitors go, "to see the audiences." If a really first class dramatic attraction would drift this way it would do well.

The absence of a morning paper here is severely felt just now. The hunger for the day's news is remarkable. The Wheeling papers are gobbled up like hot cakes as soon as the B. & O. train arrives. So far it has been difficult to supply the demand for INTELLIGENCER'S. The Cincinnati papers are also snatched up eagerly, especially the evening papers, which get here in the morning. The supply of newspapers in general is not at all adequate to the demand just now.

The captain of the Salvation army got off a good one last night. The army was parading up and down Front street, and as they passed the St. Albert hotel, the captain, a buxom lass of about 180 pounds, with a voice "accordin," cried out:

"Sing up now boys, here's where the Legislature stops."

A member passing asked her: "Do you expect to recruit from the Legislature?"

"Nobody's past redemption," she retorted, "Sing hearty, boys!" W. S. F.
