COMMISSIONERS' SALES.

COMMISSIONERS' SALE OF Forsyth Property,

On Market and Chapline Streets.

In pursuance of a decree of the Circuit Court of Ohio county, entered on the 9th day of December, 1886, in the cause, heard together, of William Erskine against Robert Forsyth and others, and Marshall T. Frame against William J. D. Forsyth and others, we will on SATURDAY, THE 29TH DAY OF JANUARY, A. D. 1887, beginning at 10 o'clock A. M., sell at public auction, at the front door of the Court House of Ohio county, the property described in said decree, as follows:

"PARCEL NO. 1.—Viz: The south half of the lot numbered four (No. 4) in the thirteenth square, fronting thirty-three and one-half feet along Market street, extending back, or eastwardly, from that street one hundred and thirty-four and one-half feet and measuring thirty-three feet four and one-half inches at the back, or eastern, end thereof; and the south half of the lot numbered eight (No. 8), in the same square, fronting thirty-three and one-fourth feet along Chapline street, extending back, or westwardly, from that street one hundred and thirty-four and one-half feet, and measuring thirty-three feet four and one-half inches at the back, or western, end thereof; each of said half lots being bounded on the rear by the same line." These two half lots lie immediately south of Fisher's foundry, and will be sold separately or together, as may be found best for the interests of the parties.

"PARCEL NO. 2.—The south part of the lot numbered one in the Updegraff Addition, now a part of said city, which south part fronts eleven feet five and one-half inches along Market street, and extends back, or eastwardly therefrom with the uniform width of eleven feet five and one-half inches to the rear or eastern boundary of said lot No. 1."

"PARCEL NO. 3.—The lot numbered two in said Updegraff Addition, together with a strip about one and one-half feet wide adjoining thereto of the lot numbered three in said addition, forming together a parcel of land fronting about sixty-seven feet eleven inches along Chapline street, extending back, or westwardly, from that street, with the uniform width of about sixty-seven feet eleven inches to the rear end of said lots numbered two and three."

The parcel numbered three will be sold separately from the other pieces above described.

Said sales will be upon the following

TERMS:—Each purchaser to pay in hand one third, at least, of his purchase money, and as much more thereof as he may choose; and the residue, if any, in two equal instalments, bearing interest from the day of sale, and payable respectively in nine and eighteen months thereafter, the deferred payments to be secured by notes with good personal security, but I may purchaser pay in hand one-half or more of his purchase money, his notes for the deferred installments of the same will be taken without personal security. In every case, however, the title will be retained as security until payment in full.

COMMISSIONERS' SALE OF MARKET STREET BUSINES PROPERTY AND FULTON REAL ESTATE.

Alice V. Stewart, Administratrix, etc., vs. Nancy E. Kittson and others. } In the Circuit Court for Ohio County.

By virtue of a decree of said Court made in the above entitled cause on the 13th day of January, 1887, the undersigned appointed special commissioners for the purpose, will sell at public auction at the front door of the Court House of Ohio county, on commencing at 10 o'clock A. M., certain real estate of which Robert M. Stewart died seized, being the following described property situated in the city of Wheeling, in the county of Ohio, and State of West Virginia, that is to say: A portion of Lot No. nine (9) in square No. ten (10), which lot is situated on the south east corner of Market and Eleventh streets, and said portion is bounded as follows: Beginning on the east side of Market street at the southwest corner on Market street of the portion of said lot conveyed to Simon Horkheimer by Charity S. Martin, by deed dated October 17, 1871, and recorded in the Clerk's office of the County Court of said Ohio county in deed book 58 at page 68; said last named corner being the centre of the division wall between the house and store in lot occupied by Anthony Gollner, and the house next south then occupied by said R. M. Stewart; thence running in an easterly direction through the centre of said wall with the line of Horkheimer's fifty feet and three inches to a corner to Horkheimer, same being the northeast corner of the property hereby conveyed; thence running in a southerly direction with Horkheimer's line seventeen feet and six inches to Horkheimer's extreme southwest corner, (that is to say, his corner, which is a southwest corner of the property conveyed to him by said Charity S. Martin and is further south than any other corner on the west side thereof); thence running in a westerly direction through the centre of the division wall between the house occupied by said Stewart and the one next south thereof to the east line of Market street, a distance of fifty feet and three inches and from thence seventeen feet six inches to the place of beginning, being the same property conveyed to said R. Horkheimer by Jeremiah Harry and wife by deed dated March 11, 1881, and recorded in the office of the Clerk of the County Court of said Ohio county in deed book 65, page 582, and by said S. Horkheimer and R. Horkheimer, his wife, conveyed to said R. M. Stewart by deed dated June 20, 1880, and recorded in said Clerk's office.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 19, 1887,

Also, the following described lot of ground lying on the National Road in the town of Fulton, in Ohio county, and on the east side of a street running from the National Road to the Fulton paper Mill, being eighty-three feet and ten inches along the National Road and running southwardly the same breadth from the National Road to a line forty-five feet from the street on the front of the said paper mill, together with the buildings thereon erected, being the same property conveyed to said R. M. Stewart by Charles Stewart by deed dated November 3, 1866, and recorded in the office of the Clerk of the County Court of said Ohio county. The said two parcels of land will be sold separately.

TERMS OF SALE—One-third of the purchase money, and as much more as the purchaser may elect, cash in hand, and the residue in two equal instalments at one and two years respectively, with interest from the day of sale, the purchaser to give bond with good personal security for the said deferred instalments, and the title to be retained until the payment of the purchase money in full.

W. P. HUBBARD,
B. B. DOVENER,
Special Commissioners.

W. H. HALLER, Auctioneer.

That above named Special Commissioners have given bond with security approved by me, according to law, and as required by said decree, is hereby certified this 17th day of January 1887.

BLACK WOLF!

Or Black Leprosy, is a disease which is considered incurable, but it has yielded to the curative properties of SWIFT'S SPECIFIC—now known all over the world as S. S. S. Mrs. Bailey, of West Somerville, Mass., near Boston, was attacked several years ago with this hideous black eruption, and was treated by the best medical talent, who could only say that the disease was a species of and consequently incurable. It is impossible to describe her sufferings. Her body from the crown of her head to the soles of her feet was a mass of decay, masses of flesh rotting off and leaving great cavities. Her fingers festered and three or four nails dropped off at one time. Her limbs contracted by the fearful ulceration, and for several years she did not leave her bed. Her weight was reduced from 125 to 60 lbs. Perhaps some faint idea of her condition can be gleaned from the fact that three pounds of Cosmoline or ointment were used per week in dressing her sores. Finally the physicians acknowledged their defeat by this Black Wolf, and commended the sufferer to her all-wise Creator.

Her husband learning wonderful reports of the use of SWIFT'S SPECIFIC (S. S. S.), prevailed on her to try it as a last resort. She began its use under protest, but soon found that her system was being relieved of the poison, as the sores assumed a red and healthy color, as though the blood was becoming pure and active. Mrs. Bailey continued the S. S. S. until last February; every sore was healed; she discarded chair and crutches, and was for the first time in twelve years a well woman. Her husband, Mr. C. A. Bailey, is in business at 17½ Blackstone Street, Boston, and will take pleasure in giving the details of this wonderful cure. Send to us for Treatise on Blood and Skin Diseases, mailed free.

DRUNKENNESS

OR THE LIQUOR HABIT, POSITIVELY CURED BY ADMINISTERING DR. HAINES' GOLDEN SPECIFIC.

It can be given in a cup of coffee or tea without the knowledge of the person taking it; it is absolutely harmless, and will effect a permanent and speedy cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or an alcoholic wreck. It has been given in thousands of cases, and in every instance a perfect cure has followed. It never fails. The system once impregnated with the specific, it becomes an utter impossibility for the liquor appetite to exist.

A DOMESTIC EPISODE.

New York Sun.

The President sat in his easy chair,
With Lemont as close as could be,
And the President's wife sat over there
With her sewing upon her knee.

Said the President, "Dan, here's a job for you,
My head for the problem's too thick;
Before you retire I wish you would do
A sum in arithmetic.

"With twenty-five Congressmen lost this year,
Which seems to be nearly our fate,
Where will we be—say, Dan, do you hear?—
In the autumn of eighty-eight?"

Dan bit at his nails and scratched his head,
For the problem puzzled him so,
"Why, maybe, perhaps," he stammered and said,
Then declared he didn't know.

The sweet lady over there
Looked up, but not at the men,
And softly said, with a far-away air,
"His teeth will be cut by then."

The President looked before him straight,
And his brown made Daniel wince,
"My teeth will be cut by eighty-eight!"
I thought they were cut long since.

The sweet little lady hung down her head,
So busy with seams and tulle,
And, blushing a little, she softly said,
"I was thinking of something else."

THE HOUSEKEEPER.

"HOW I LEARNED HOUSEKEEPING"

BY MARION HARLAND.

PART 8—MY TREASURE.

[Copyrighted 1887 by the Author.]

Before the first half-year of housekeeping was up we had added to our staff of servants a robust young woman who was to be chambermaid and laundress, and assist in the family sewing. My health was giving way under the ceaseless wear-and-tear of following up Em'ly Grace, and the gnawing consciousness that my personal duties were, meanwhile, neglected.

"How many servants do you keep?" asked an old friend of my husband at this date.

"Three—and one slave," was the prompt rejoinder. "The slave is my wife."

In this persuasion he hired Lucy on his own responsibility without so much as consulting me. She bore an excellent character, was grave of face and low-voiced, and the deftness of her motions contrasted refreshingly with Em'ly's elephantine lurchings. The quiet dignity of my new maid's department gave a new aspect to the household. She seldom smiled and never chatted; was neat in person, obedient, respectful and never idle. I grew really fond of her restful, helpful presence in less than a month from the time she entered our service. John was gratified, but not surprised.

"I knew that good hired servants were to be had somewhere," he said. 'Our former experience was singularly unfortunate. Lucy is a genuine treasure.'"

We were so well convinced of this that when the summer vacation came, we seriously considered the expediency of leaving the house keys with our picturesque servitor. Fear of arousing the jealousy of Sam and Em'ly turned the scales against the proposition. Assisted by her, I put up flannels and furs in camphor and newspapers; set to right drawers, closets and store room; gave out provisions enough to last the kitchen cabinet during our absence; left poultry-yard and garden at their mercy, and we departed on our well-earned holiday. The keys were committed to the care of my best neighbor.

We were absent four weeks. The parsonage was clean, bright and inviting on our return. My friend had superintended the preparations for our reception but Lucy's had been the executive power. She came out to meet us as the carriage stopped. Her full, white apron and white turban were crisp from the smoothing iron, she was tall and straight, and walked with a long steady step, too gliding for a stride. I had brought two young girls home with me, and was proud of my maid as she took their wraps and bags, and answered our salutations with grave courtesy.

"Such a treasure!" repeated my guests, day by day, in echo of our encomiums. "Housekeeping is a pleasure when one has a servant like her."

"Lucy is a good, faithful girl," said my dearest neighbor. "You left a window unfastened upstairs, and she ran into our house one night when a thunder cloud was rising to ask my husband to come over with the key and let her shut out the rain. It was a basement window and she heard it flapping back and forth. The catch was broken, and I had it mended. But for Lucy, floors and walls would have been drenched."

We used "burning fluid" and camphene lamps in those days. Every one in the house was empty when we got back from our "summering." John explained readily that the volatile contents had evaporated. Another time he would know better than to leave the lamps full.

The girls were invited to a party in the course of their visit to us, and while the discussion of their toilettes was going on I brought down from the topmost shelf of my closet a box containing an Indian muslin gown, a sash, French flowers, etc., that had formed a part of my trousseau. I had never chanced to wear them, and the girls might fancy some part of the costume.

"Not worn them!" was the exclamation as I lifted the tissue-paper coverings.

The waist had been dragged together in front and pinned over a frame much larger than mine. The seams were strained; a rent between the shoulders had been neatly mended; stains on the front breadth washed and then ironed over. The broad white silk sash was perforated by several pin holes and spotted with coffee; the flowers were tonzled.

The girl insisted that I had worn the dress in a fit of somnambulism. John was quite positive that he recollected escorting me to the party at which I spoiled the array.

I had but one answer:

"Can a maid forget her ornaments, or a bride her attire? I never wore the dress, sash or flowers, waking or sleeping!"

While we talked, Lucy sat in the room, busy with her sewing, the sweep and return of her hand to the garment she was at work upon as regular as machine gears. I appealed to her;

"See, Lucy! is not this shameful? Such a pretty dress! Who do you think could have done it?"

"Yes, ma'am," raising her serious face for the first time. "It is a great pity. I cannot imagine who could have dared do such a thing."

She spoke with feeling and propriety, but when she was dencient in either? Investigation was useless. For aught we could say the wrong might have been committed months ago. It could hardly have happened while Lucy's watchful eyes were on house and contents.

It may have been two months thereafter that I set forth on a round of afternoon calls, lost the heel of my shoe before I had gone three blocks, and retracted my steps limpingly to the parsonage. As I entered the hall I heard a shrill altercation on the back piazza. Peeping through the parlor blinds, I saw Lucy and Grace. The former sat sewing on the steps, the latter stood before her, gesticulating violently and fairly screeching with rage.

"I 'ont take more 'o you' cassimess! Ef you gimme 'nother word, I'll let on to Miss Mar'on how you sot de ladder 'gins' de house 'n' broke de winder-ketch, de night you was married, 'n' fetched out her fine white dress 'n' towers 'n' sash 'n' wore 'em you'self. An' how you tuk hur lamps, 'n' table cloth, 'n' sheets, 'n' I'd know what all fur you' weddin' party—"

At this point the older woman cast the sheet she was hemming into the face of her accuser, wound it dexterously about her head and, holding her fast, thus muffled and gagged, with her left hand, beat her with the right until Grace dropped to her knees, and wrung her hands in the agonies of suffocation.

"What have you got to say now? said the even tones of my treasure in releasing the half-dead captive. "Next time you won't get off so easily."

Grace slunk off, whimpering, but she entered no complaint against the assailant.

I had not heard of Lucy's marriage, although Sam, Em'ly, and every other negro in town must have known of it and suspected, if they were not privy to her manner of borrowing my goods. I did not think of catechising any of them. Between race and class loyalty, and fear of the revenge of the betrayed party, they never turned State's evidence, much less "carried tales" to each other. But what I had heard made me sick and dizzy. I had so trusted that woman as to give her the keys of store-room, smoke-house and side-board again and again, when articles were needed that had been overlooked in the semi-daily giving out, and I was too busy to look after Sam myself. John had advised me to save myself interruption and annoyance whenever I could delegate such tasks to faithful, intelligent Lucy.

Before the day was over I privily took account of the stock remaining. In four months we had used eighty pounds of coffee, (bought raw, by the bag), two hundred pounds of sugar and four barrels of flour. In two months we had made away with ten hams, as many shoulders and sides of bacon, fifty pounds of lard,—but why swell the inventory? We were young and unwary, foolishly blind, recklessly trustful. The plucking was inevitable.

"Single lessons two hundred dollars!" said John, as the sequel of my long, sad tale that night.

Beyond him my confidence did not extend. We did not care to become the laughing stock of the neighborhood. If Lucy drew her own conclusions from my stricter guard of the keys and less familiar manner to her herself, they were not corroborated by overt reproaches or unkindness. At the end of the year she went "home," her mistress, whose favorite maid she was, having grown tired of boarding, was unable to keep house without "such a treasure."

Self-Praise no Recommendation.

Self-praise is no recommendation, but there are times when one must permit a person to tell the truth about himself. When what he says is supported by the testimony of others no reasonable man will doubt his word. Now, to say that Allcock's Porous Plasters are the only genuine and reliable porous plasters made is not self-praise in the slightest degree. They have stood the test for twenty-five years, and in proof of their merits it is only necessary to call attention to the cures they have effected and to the voluntary testimonials of those who have used them.

Two million gallons of wine yet remain in the Anaheim, Cal., cellars awaiting shipment.

Saved His Life.

Mr. D. I. Wilcoxson, of Horse Cave, Ky., says he was, for many years, badly afflicted with Phthisic, also Diabetes; the pains were almost unendurable and would sometimes almost throw him into convulsions. He tried Electric Bitters and got relief from first bottle and after taking six bottles, was entirely cured, and had gained in flesh eighteen pounds. Says he positively believes he would have died, had it not been for the relief afforded by Electric Bitters. Sold at fifty cents a bottle by Logan & Co.

A frost in San Pedro de las Colchus, Mexico, is said to have destroyed 50,000 pounds of cotton.

What True Merit Will do.

The unprecedented sale of Boschee's German Syrup within a few years, has astonished the world. It is without doubt the safest and best remedy ever discovered for the speedy and effectual cure of coughs, colds and the severest lung troubles. It acts on an entirely different principle from the usual perscriptions given by physicians, as it does not dry up a cough and leave the disease still in the system, but on the contrary removes the cause of the trouble, heals the parts affected and leaves them in a purely healthy condition. A bottle kept in the house for use when the diseases make their appearance, will save doctor's bills and a long spell of serious illness. A trial will convince you of these facts. It is positively sold by all druggists and general dealers in the land. Price, 75 cents, large bottles.

Don't Experiment.

You cannot afford to waste time in experimenting when your lungs are in danger. Consumption always seems, at first, only a cold. Do not permit any dealer to impose upon you with some cheap imitation of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, but be sure you get the genuine. Because he can make more profit he may tell you he has something just as good, or just the same. Don't be deceived, but insist upon getting Dr. King's New Discovery, which is guaranteed to give relief in all Throat, Lung and Chest affections. Trial bottles free at Logan & Co.'s drug store.

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so send at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN TEETHING. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation and gives tone and energy to the whole system. MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN TEETHING is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. The morning was fairly active, a large number of the active list being unchanged and others showing insignificant changes only from yesterday's final figures.

In the afternoon prices moved backward and forward within a narrow range and closed steadily, generally a shade above the opening prices.

Final changes are in a majority of cases in favor at higher figures, and in very low instances are for more than fractions. Jersey Central, however, is up 1¾c, consolidated gas 6¾c, and Hocking Valley down 1¾ per cent.

CHICAGO, Ill., Jan. 22.—The weather entered into the wheat market to-day. Heavy snow storms reported throughout the winter wheat belt, which, it was argued, would leave the fields bare, and if followed by a sharp cold spell as predicted, would prevent serious injury. The cables were a trifle firmer, and under these combined influences, wheat opened ⅝c higher at 84⅝c for May, ran quickly to 85⅝c, fell back to 81⅝c, rallied to 85⅝c and closed at 85⅛c. Corn strong. Oats active. Provisions active and strong. Flour dull and unchanged.
