SACRIFICED.

Detroit Tribune.

Mary had a little lamb
Whose fleece was white as snow;
There was not a thing worth knowing
That that brute didn't know.

A much respected, clean young man
To Mary's hand aspired,
Which was just enough to make his
Jealous lambkets very tired.

He followed that young man around,
His vengeance dire to seek,
And when his chance appeared he knocked
Him into the middle of next week.

But Mary flew into a rage
When she ascertained her loss;
And that is why the little lamb
Is served with caper sauce.

WHAT IT HAS COST.

The Democratic Tariff Tinkering Has Been Worse Than War.

New York Press.

That was a dramatic and memorable scene in the United States senate on Saturday, when, in the debate on the Bourbon tariff measure, Senator George Frisbie Hoar declared, with all the oratorical power of which he is so consummate a master, that "in the cost in money, the distruction of property, the ruin of trade, the misery, the starvation of men accustomed to work for the comforts of life, this bill is twofold worse than four years of war."

It is no wonder that the Bourbon senators quailed before the overpowering indignation of the venerable senator from Massachusetts. Senator Hoar's burning words had the resistless might of truth. It is literally true that the Bourbon threat to overthrow protection has cost the American people more than that titanic struggle which taxed the energies of the loyal north from Maine to the Pacific and drenched the soil of the republic with the blood of her bravest sons. The cheerless homes; the silent factories; the streets that once resounded with the hum of prosperous industry and now echo only the heavy trend of disheartened seekers for employment; the farms, whose sturdy tillers look forward to the future with grim despair; the deserted mines; the countless industrial communities, busy and thriving under Republican rule, now gloomy, stagnant, paralyzed; the children that hunger; the wives and mothers that suffer destitution in heroic silence—these are the tokens of the triumph of Democracy, the first fruits of the victory of the men who gained power with a lie on their lips and hatred of the north in their hearts. What the bourbon south could not do with cannon and bayonet its implacable leaders are striving to accomplish by the iron hand of legislation.

Shall this conspiracy, as wicked, as wanton, as treasonable as the plot to disrupt the public in the interest of human slavery, be permitted to succeed? Shall the destruction of northern industries, the beggaring of northern workingmen, the devastation of northern homes, be completed? Shall the farmer be robbed of his flocks and deprived of the home market for his products, the wage earner in American woolen and carpet mills be turned adrift in idleness or compelled to labor for a miserable pittance, the whole body of American citizenship be forced down to the level of degradation and poverty? Shall the nation's honor be tarnished, the statute books of the republic be polluted by the enactment of an infamous bargain with a conscienceless monopoly which has purchased the license to plunder the people from legislators faithless to their trust?

Senators of the north, this is for you to answer. The fate of the tainted and infamous measure which has caused such incalculable misery must shortly be decided by your action. The rules of the senate give to you, who represent the prosperity, the independence and the honor of the nation, the power to defeat absolutely the passage of this detestable bill. The people have commanded you to use that power in their defense. The safety of the republic, which is the supreme law, demands that you shall use to the utmost limit the weapon of obstruction and resistance with which the nation has armed you. Once more the Press calls upon every Republican senator to stand firm, as the men of the north stood firm thirty years ago, against the tide of Bourbon hostility and destruction. Once more, in the name of every class, of every industry, of every northern commonwealth, the Press urges you, Republicans, to maintain unbroken the glorious record of Republicanism by defeating, at whatever cost of energy and effort, the wicked and ruinous Bourbon tariff bill!

FINANCE AND TRADE.

The Features of the Money and Stock Markets.

NEW YORK, June 26.—Money on call easy at 1 per cent, last loan and closed at 1 per cent. Prime mercantile paper 2½a4½ per cent. Sterling exchange dull at $4 88a4 90. Silver certificates 61a65c. Sales were 91,390 shares.

Speculation was very dull to-day and the volume of business was lighter than on any day for weeks past, but the tone of the market was firm and the trading was distributed more generally through the list than usual. London was a buyer of most of the arbitrage stocks. American securities were in better demand on the London exchange and there was a general air of improvement. The better tone was also perhaps entirely to the statement made through the newspapers this morning by President Cleveland as to the condition of the national finances. The confident manner in which the President spoke of the affairs of the treasury department seemed to have the effect, at home and abroad, of stimulating purchases of American securities, and in this market it induced the covering of short contracts. St. Paul led in point of activity and shows a substantial gain for the day. Burlington and Rock Island were also active and higher. Considerable Missouri Pacific stock came out during the day, the stock closing ½ per cent higher than on yesterday.

The unloading process in Atchison goes on steadily, but the stock finds purchasers, and the last price to-day is ¼ above yesterday. The market closed strong and higher.

Government and state bonds dull.

Railway bonds were steady.
