MEDICAL

Don't feel well

Why?
Oh! I don't know. Worry I expect.
Worrying about what?
Well, you know the servants are a heap of trouble.
The children worry me a heap.
I am broken down.
In the morning I generally have a headache;
Along towards evening my back feels as if it would break.
Every time the baby cries I nearly jump out of my skin, I am so nervous.
Your system needs toning up. Why not take Brown's Iron Bitters, the best strengthening medicine made. It will give you a good appetite, make your blood rich and pure, give you strength, make life a pleasure. Not only take it yourself, but give it to the children. It is pleasant to take: Small dose. The only iron medicine that don't blacken the teeth. But get the genuine—it has crossed red lines on wrapper.

OPENING GUN

Of the Ohio Republican Campaign Fired at Springfield.

A BRIGHT GALAXY OF LEADERS

Address a Crowd of Vast Proportions. General Bushnell, Governor McKinley, Senator Sherman and Ex-Governor Foraker Speak—Ringing Words of Wisdom, and Harmony Prevails in the Republican Camp.

SPRINGFIELD, O., Sept. 10.—The opening of the Republican state campaign here to-day is a great success. It is estimated at noon that between 30,000 and 40,000 strangers are in the city and they are still coming by train loads and in vehicles. The streets are nearly impassable. Senator Sherman, Governor McKinley, General Jones, Chairman Kurtz and delegations from Columbus and the northern part of state arrived at 11:30.

Speaking began a little before half-past 2 o'clock. At the fair ground Chairman J. P. Goodwin, of the Clark county central committe, called the meeting to order.

After prayer, Senator Sherman, as chairman, spoke first, General Bushnell followed Senator Sherman, then Governor McKinley, then ex-Governor Foraker, and General Jones, candidate for lieutenant governor, closed the speaking.

A BUSINESS SPEECH.

General Bushnell spoke from a business point of view. If the practice of business men in taking an inventory of his business every year and estimating blunders, mistakes and mismanagement for illustration and comparison, be applied to present political conditions, he said, then the election of Grover Cleveland, for President, with a Democratic Congress, has turned out to be a very profitless investment for themselves and for the whole country.

This was the keynote of his speech. He charged that in two and a half years of power, the Democratic administration had increased the national debt $300,000,000 in bonds, interest and deficiencies. Such management in a private business would not be tolerated and a party putting itself and country in this predicament should be removed from power. In his declaration of principles, he said:

"I desire to express my entire approval of each and every portion of the platform adopted at the Zanesville convention. While the fact that the declarations of a Republican convention should be accepted by and become the political faith of every Republican, and should therefore be so regarded by me, I desire in addition to say that I have no inclination to take from nor add to any of the principles there laid down, but am proud to stand upon that platform and go with you to the great victory that awaits us."

THE GOVERNOR'S ADDRESS.

After calling upon Ohio Republicans to stand by their principles in triumph as they had in adversity, Governor McKinley spoke particularly of the senatorial elections. He said:

From 1861 to 1869 the Republicans had two senators—Wade and Sherman. This year, 1895, we are going to resume our rightful place. Mr. Foraker will take the seat of Mr. Brice. Ohio Republicans are united firmly and resolutely on that proposition. The Republicans have formally, officially and in hearty good faith, in state convention assembled, declared their preference for senator to be Joseph B. Foraker, and the choice of the convention will be ratified in November and he will be elected to succeed Mr. Brice.

I cannot enjoin upon the people of the state too strongly or earnestly the importance of electing a Republican legislature, which shall elect a Republican United States senator. There is nothing before us this year at all to be compared in importance to our legislative election. The legislative ticket must have our especial concern and command our undivided support. All differences and divisions, if any have heretofore existed, should be swept away now and forever, and all Republicans should rally as one man to secure a decisive majority in both branches of the legislature, which shall make certain and triumphant the election to the United States senate of ex-Governor Foraker, the declared choice of the Republicans of the state.

A PERTINENT QUESTION.

Governor McKinley summarized the platforms of both the Republican and Democratic parties of Ohio. He congratulated the people that at last the Ohio Democracy had declared for sound money. After criticising the foreign and domestic policy of the Cleveland administration, the governor asserted that the real subject of contention in Ohio is the tariff. He quoted the Cincinnati Enquirer as declaring that a vote by Cleveland of the Gorman-Brice act would "be a cleaning up of much rubbish and uncleanliness in the Democratic household." Then he quoted the Ohio Democratic platform of 1894, favoring further reductions in the tariff; and he asked: "Is this 'rubbish and uncleanliness in the Democratic household' to stand, and that which was a year ago unworthy and impure, and a stench in the Democratic nostrils, now to be accepted as worthy and pure?"

"Has the Democratic party of Ohio changed its views since September, 1894; and is it now willing that the protective duties, which are retained in the Brice-Gorman-Wilson act, shall remain, and the law be a permanent settlement of the tariff question? 'Is a law,' using the language of Mr. Cleveland, 'which puts the wool of the farmer on the free list and the protection of tariff on the iron ore and coal of corporations and capitalists' to receive the approval of the people of Ohio by their votes in November next?

"My friends, there is one objection to the law, if there were no others, which must make its permanency impossible. It fails to raise the needed revenues for the daily expenses of the government. That would condemn it in the judgment of the American people whatever differing views they might have on the question of protection and free trade. The law, from the date of its enactment to the present time—and it is now a year old—has not raised enough money from customs duties and internal revenue combined to meet the necessary expenses of the government."

A LONG TIME COMING.

Said he: "It is loudly proclaimed through the Democratic press that prosperity has come. I sincerely hope that it has. Whatever prosperity we have has been a long time coming, and after nearly three years of business depression, a ruinous panic and a painful and widespread suffering among the people. I pray that we may be at the dawn of better times and of enduring prosperity. I have believed it would come, in some measure, with every successive Republican victory.

The increase of wages in 1895, much as it may be and gratifying as it is, does not equal the decrease of wages from 1892 to 1895, and there is yet a vast difference, as every workingman realizes, between the price paid labor now and the price paid labor before the Democratic party took control in March, 1893."

The governor particularly denounced the repeal of protective duties from wool.

Taking up the financial question he said: "In the first two years under the fiscal policy of President Cleveland's administration, which is warmly commended by the Springfield convention, the government has been compelled to borrow $162,000,000, and the maintenance of the gold reserve now depends upon a syndicate of foreign and home capitalists, who are under contract to preserve the credit of the nation until the first day of October—a syndicate unknown to the laws and unrecognized in the government, hired to sustain the credit of the government. What a spectacle!"

FINANCE AND TRADE.

The Features of the Money and Stock Markets.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—Money on call at 1a1½ per cent. Prime mercantile paper 3½a5½ per cent. Sterling exchange dull and steady at $4 89¼a4 90. Silver certificates 67½a67½c.

The New York stock market to-day was about one-third less active than that of the previous day, but the course of prices was fully as irregular. The distribution of business was fair, with Sugar, Tennessee Coal, St. Paul and Reading among the leaders. The opening was weak in sympathy with fractional declines in American stocks in London. Foreign dealers were also sellers of Louisville & Nashville and Reading in this market. The apparent causes of the depression were the failure of the government bond syndicate to make good the impairment of the treasury gold reserve below the $100,000,000 mark and the unabated strength of the exchange market, which was thought to foreshadow further large exports of gold. The engagements of gold for export to-morrow proved to be unusually light. In the early declines, Louisville & Nashville and Reading were the chief sufferers. After the initial dealings, prices firmed up almost generally under the lead of the industrials. Sugar rose 1¼, American Tobacco 1¾ and Tennessee Coal 1¾ per cent. About the end of the first hour another reaction set in which effected the entire list. Sugar broke 1⅝, Tennessee Coal 1¼ and in the specialties Erie Telegraph broke 1¾ record of successive advances by a decline of 2 per cent from the highest of the day. Near mid-day the market again steadied and recoveries in prices were made extending to 1⅛ per cent in Sugar. The speculation practically halted during the greater part of the afternoon. The market closed dull but steady in tone.

The bond market had a tendency to lower figures during the greater part of the day, although near the close a somewhat firmer tone was evident. The sales were $1,878,000.

The total sales of stocks to-day were 221,239 shares.

Government bonds steady.
State bonds inactive.
Railroad bonds firmer.
