Dedicado.

Weep not for them who weep
For friend or lover taken hence; for child
That falls 'mid early flowers and grass asleep,
Untempted, undefiled.

Mourn not for them that mourn
For sin's keen arrow with its rankling smart;
God's hand will bind again what He hath torn,
He heals the broken heart

But weep for him whose eye
Sees in the midnight skies a starry dome,
Thick sown with worlds that whirl and hurry by,
And give the heart no home;

Who hears amid the dense,
Loud trampling crash and outcry of this wild
Thick jumble world of dear magnificence,
No voice which says "my child;"

Who marks through earth and space
A strange, dumb pageant pass a vacant shrine,
And feels within his inmost soul a place
Unfill'd by the Divine;

Weep, weep for him above
That looks for God and sees unpitying Fate,
That finds within his heart, in place of love,
A dull, unsleeping hate

THE CHARLESTON MARKET.

[FOR THE WEEK ENDING THURSDAY, JULY 29, 1869]

THE CROPS.—There have been moderate rains experienced over a large portion of the State during the past week, which have had a favorable influence on the crops. Early corn, particularly on upland, was too badly injured to receive important benefits, and much of this planting has proved a failure; but that which was not so forward will be materially assisted by these showers. The yield of this valuable grain will, however, be light, and it will require good management for the planters to get along without considerable purchases. Upland cotton generally progressed favorably, with an occasional report to the contrary; but no event has occurred up to this period to prevent a moderately good yield. Sea island cotton has had quite a flattering appearance, and up to a few days past very sanguine anticipations for a full crop were entertained; but the unmistakable appearance of the caterpillar on several of the Islands has caused the most gloomy prospects. Several weeks will be necessary to show the extent of the injury likely to ensue. The rice crop generally has a favorable look, but has been suffering to a limited extent for the want of rain.

THE COTTON MARKET.—The market for this staple during the week has exhibited moderate firmness at Liverpool, the article commencing at 12¼d and improving to 12⅝d ℔ lb, with fair transactions; at New York there was only a limited business done, prices commencing at 33¾@34 declining to 34c, and at this point operations have been light and unimportant, prices having an easier tendency; middling uplands which began at 33c ℔ lb nominal fell off to 32c ℔ lb.

The movements of the staple at Liverpool and New York for the week have been as follows: On Friday, July 23, the former was quiet, sales 12,000 bales, uplands 11¾d; the latter was dull and lower at 33¾@34c. On Saturday the former was firm, uplands 12¼d; the latter was steady, sales 1200 bales at 34c. On Monday the former was firmer, uplands 12⅛@12¼d, sales 12,000 bales; the latter was dull, sales 200 bales at 34c. On Tuesday the former was steady, sales 10,000 bales, uplands 12¼d; the latter was without important change, sales 950 bales at 34c. On Wednesday the former was a shade firmer, uplands 12¼d, sales 12,000 bales; the latter was rather active, sales 1800 bales at 34c. Yesterday the former was unchanged; the latter was inactive and prices drooping at 33¾c.

The arrivals at this port for the week have been no bags of sea islands and 187 bales of uplands, against 2 bags of sea islands and 389 bales of uplands the week before, and no bags of sea islands and 300 bales of uplands for the same week last year. These receipts have come through the following sources: way of uplands, per South Carolina Railroad, 128 bales; per Northeastern Railroad, 49; from Georgetown, S. C., 10.

The stock of cotton in sight at the latest dates was as follows:
