NEW YORK SAILING PACKETS.—The fine schooner Mercover, Captain Brown, belonging to W. Roach & Co.'s long-established and fast line of New York sailing packets, arrived here yesterday in the excellent time of four days from New York. She brings a valuable assorted cargo of general merchandise. The vessels of this line are now in first rate condition, and are ready to give shippers the admirable facilities for which they have long been well known.

THE CROPS IN RICHLAND.—The cotton and corn [illegible] are beginning to suffer for the want of rain. Unless we have rain within a very few days the injury to these crops will be very great. Corn is well along, but yet the filling out of the ears is seriously retarded already, while the blades are showing unmistakably the need of more wet. On light sandy soil cotton will suffer serious detriment unless rains fall very soon. The weather has been quite cool for the past three days, indicating rain not far from us.

A NAKED NUISANCE.—About 12 o'clock on Sunday a party of colored boys, while disporting themselves in the high tide at the west end of Broad street, were surprised by a policeman who stationed himself at the clothes and ordered the urchins ashore. They were unable to cover their retreat and surrendered at discretion. Ben. Grant, Ben. Jones, Ben. Butler, Wm. Green and Chas. Williams came ashore, and having invested themselves, were taken to the Guardhouse. Next morning the Mayor sent them to the House of Correction for five days each.

STREET CORNER POLITICS.—The knot of politicians which is generally to be seen at the corner of Broad and Meeting streets, had some excitement and considerable amusement afforded them yesterday afternoon by an altercation between a white and a colored policeman. The former, whom his opponent denominated "a wolf in sheep's clothing," became indignant at being accused of buying eggs and refusing to pay for them after they had been used, on the ground that they were spoiled, and, all his patience having been "drained" off, struck his accuser over the head with his umbrella. Before the latter could retaliate the crowd interfered, and the affair ended in an immense amount of big talk.

THE CITY ELECTION.—The managers of elections for the several precincts assembled at the City Hall yesterday morning. They were sworn in and received their manifestos. After this the three managers from each precinct elected [illegible] to act as the entire precinct board.

The question of the validity of naturalization papers, issued by the City Court, was argued by Colonel Thomas Y. Simons before Judge Bryan, in the United States Court, yesterday morning. Judge Bryan expressed the opinion that naturalization papers issued by the City Court after December 20, 1866, are void, and his Honor advised that persons who held such papers should procure new papers in the United States District Court.

CLUBS AND STARS.—Joseph Cross, arrested for quarrelling and raising a disturbance on the street, was sent to the House of Correction for ten days.

Thomas Bryant, lodged on suspicion of larceny and vagrancy, is held for further examination.

Edward Barun, charged with an assault and battery, was turned over to Trial Justice Schroder.

Jane Ladson, lodged for getting drunk and resisting the police who tried to arrest her, was sent to the House of Correction for ten days.

Will Porter, arrested for stealing iron from the phosphate works on Lamb's Farm, was remanded for further examination.

L. Back, colored, taken up for driving a wagon without a license, was released to appear this morning.

THE COLUMBIA CANAL.—The Columbia Union, of yesterday, has the following: "Colonel Samuel A. Pearce, agent and manager of the Sprague Cabal, left for the North to-day on business connected with the same. Colonel Pearce has been pushing the work rapidly of late, and it is well worth the trouble of a visit to see what has been done. An examination will convince the most skeptical of the great advantages that are to be derived in the future from this enterprise, and it is to be hoped, as is believed, that the work will be completed at an early date. There has been an immense amount of labor performed, and in a quiet and unostentatious manner much has been done for the benefit of the city, and the county generally, by opening up a way for home industries, which heretofore has been neglected."

THE COTTON CROP IN GEORGIA.—The Savannah Republican says: "Our accounts from nearly all sections of Georgia, during the past week, were more favorably received for two months. Heavy rains have ceased everywhere, and have the cotton plant a decided check, and the planters made the best of the advantage to clean out their crops. Some points have suffered recently from sudden dry weather, which, though of brief duration, had a bad effect after so long a rainy spell, especially upon corn, which is now rapidly maturing. From all quarters the accounts are more hopeful than heretofore. An abundance of food of all sorts will be made, and cotton will turn out better than was expected. It has had a hard time of it, however, and we have no thought that, under the best of circumstances, the crop will much exceed three million bales, if indeed it should reach that figure."

IMPROVEMENTS IN THE CITY.—There is no better indication of our improving prosperity than the buildings now going on along the line of the burn district, and in the western part of the city, which the late fire materially benefited. The 90's, a depression is allowable, but the bricklayers and carpenters do not seem to be much inconvenienced. In Cumberland street, near Meeting, opposite the Phoenix Engine-house, a handsome brick building is being put up by Mr. Guillemin for a residence, the lower story of which will afford room for a large store. The house is of good size and is substantially built. Along Meeting and King streets, also, the fences around the vacant lots have been repaired and whitewashed of a yellow hospital color, which contrasts charmingly with the green fields within them. Captain Jenkins's laborers have been at work here, and the luxuriant weeds which covered the lots have been all removed, leaving a smooth carpet of grass. On the other side of King two frame houses have been commenced in the vacant lot adjoining the Cathedral Chapel, on the west side. These are being put up by Madame Bernard, and when finished will be neat wooden dwellings of two and a half stories, with brick foundations. Just opposite to these a similar building has just begun. A few doors north of Queen street, on the Rutledge street Park, a handsome residence is being erected, which will be an ornament to that pleasant locality. Charleston has taken out a new lease with the prospect of the success of the Conservative candidates, and real property will soon be on the rise.

SUSPENDED.—Officer Marochetti has been temporarily suspended from the detective force on account of the unpleasantness between himself and the chief, last Thursday night in the detective office.

SHREWD business men keep up their trade in dull times by advertising. In such times purchasers appreciate the value of every dime they expend, and scan the papers to see where they can buy to best advantage.

GET YOUR NATURALIZATION PAPERS.—All naturalization papers issued by the City Court after December 20, 1866, are null and void, and will not be accepted at the polls as proof of citizenship. Natives of other countries, therefore, who desire to vote at the approaching municipal election, and whose papers issued from the City Court since the above date, should at once procure certificates from the United States District Court now in session.

ALMOST AN INQUEST.—A crowd of excited lookers on gathered yesterday afternoon at the corner of Calhoun and Rutledge streets around the prostrate body of a colored man, lying on the sidewalk. Though not sunstruck, his state was plainly attributable to the influence of "Sky," and he was found to be dead—drunk! After a short time he revived and reeled off to the intense disgust of the spectators, who evidently expected a sensation.

THE CHARLESTON AND NEW YORK STEAMSHIP LINE—THE NEW PIER AT NEW YORK.—The steamships of the New York and Charleston line enjoy a high reputation for speed, safety and comfort. Their business is steadily increasing, year by year, and the facilities afforded them a more commodious berth than could be had at Pier 5, North River, at which point they formerly received and discharged cargo. The matter of increased accommodation was taken in hand several months ago, and the line now possess and occupy the largest and finest pier in New York.

This pier is known as No. 29 North River, and is 638 feet long, and 70 feet wide. There are three entrances for vehicles, together with a spacious gateway for foot-passengers. Upon the wharf are gigantic scales for weighing freight, and nothing is wanting for the safe and expeditious transaction of business. The foundation of the pier is of the most substantial kind. A lofty roof protects the commodious freight sheds from sun and rain. The sides of the pier are of corrugated iron, with [illegible] doors on the approximate. Are solid and made to last, and the pier richly merits the praise which it has received. A good idea of the comparative dimensions is given by the fact that the usual width of the New York piers is from 35 feet to 40 feet, while the new pier of the New York and Charleston Line is, as before stated, 70 feet in width.

The offices of the company are immediately opposite to their new pier. These are the old offices of the original California steamship line, and within their four walls a mint of money has been made out of steamships. They have been thoroughly refitted, and from their position are readily reached by both shippers and passengers. The agents, Messrs. Morgan & Co., and their experienced employees, are always ready to give any information that may be desired, and we are sure that they who once try the New York and Charleston line will agree with us in saying that these steamships are the finest on the Southern coast.

THE SPANISH TRADE OF CHARLESTON.—In notice of the Spanish trade of Savannah, and furnishing some "valuable" statistics for the year 1870–'71, a Savannah paper of a late date complacently informs its readers that the Spanish trade of Charleston has been transferred to that city. The Spanish trade of Savannah may be as large as is stated, but our sister city is very far from monopolizing the whole of the business. Since the war the Spanish trade of Charleston has steadily increased, and is now larger than ever before. As an example: In the season of '69–'70, running from September to September, 19 Spanish vessels visited this port, exporting 6559 bales of cotton and 2605 barrels of rosin. In the season of '70–'71, not yet concluded, 39 Spanish vessels have visited the port, 37 of which were consigned to W. P. Hall, one to J. A. Enslow & Co. and one to Mordecai & Co. They consisted of 1 steamship, 1 ship, 10 barks and 27 brigs. Of the above mentioned vessels, all except three loaded here, and were cleared for Spain, exporting 15,29 bales of cotton, 2919 barrels of rosin and 103,500 feet of lumber. These statistics show that the Spanish trade of Charleston has more than doubled in a single year. Further, by "Spanish trade" we do not mean all cargoes exported in Spanish bottoms to all ports, but only such as are shipped directly to Spanish ports. The Savannah paper claims an export of 31,162 bales of cot on for their Spanish trade during the present season. But a reference to the receipts at Spanish ports show that the exports of cotton from Savannah to Spain were only 15,860 bales during the season of 1870 and 1871. The Savannah figures, therefore, undoubtedly include the cargoes of Spanish vessels which were cleared with cotton for New York, Liverpool and other ports not Spanish. It is probable that the total export from Savannah of 1830 barrels of rosin, 236,833 feet of lumber and 41,609 staves was figured up in like manner, and includes the cargoes of these ores dispatched to other ports in Spanish vessels. On the other hand, the three Spanish vessels, which were cleared with large cargoes from this port to Liverpool and New York were not included in the Charleston figures. The increase in our Spanish trade is as gratifying as it will be surprising to the general public. Doubling the trade in a single season is about as fast moving as we care to do.

DEATH OF THE REV. C. P. GADSDEN.

The Rev. Christopher Philip Gadsden, the beloved pastor, the eloquent preacher, and the finished model of a Carolina Christian gentleman, is no more. His illness was short in duration, but the disease at once assumed an alarming character, and the physicians in attendance despaired of his life several days ago. On Sunday morning last prayers for his recovery were offered in many of the churches of the city. The pastors and congregations of nearly all denominations united with the Episcopal churches in offering up devout orisons for the preservation of a life so useful. But an All-wise Providence had determined otherwise, and at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon the sad tidings struck sorrow into many a heart when it was announced that Mr. Gadsden had died.

Mr. Gadsden was born in Charleston, August 5, 1825. After he had received his preliminary education here, he entered the South Carolina College, where he graduated in December, 1844. He gave early promise of future brilliancy and usefulness; and Dr. Thornwell pronounced him one of the brightest minds that had passed under his tuition. Feeling called to the holy work of the ministry, he read divinity under the direction of his uncle, Bishop Gadsden, and was ordained in December, 1847, at the age of 21. The Parish of St. John's, Pineville, where he assisted the Rev. Mr. Dehon, was his first field of ministerial labor. Here he remained until the fall of 1852, when he came to Charleston, where he occupied the position of assistant minister of St. Philip's Church until 1857, when he formed the new parish of St. Luke's, who worshipped at first in the temporary wooden chapel (now St. Mark's) till their new church edifice at the corner of Charlotte and Elizabeth streets was completed. Of this parish he remained the rector to the time of his death.

It is our belief that we express the sentiment of the public when we state that Mr. Gadsden was a most popular minister—popular, not because he sought notoriety or popularity, but because he was endowed with those gifts and graces which attract and please. For a number of years he occupied a front rank in the diocese, and, as is well known, at the late convention was the unanimous choice of the Low Church clergy for assistant bishop. To firm natural talent he brought good training and large and judicious reading. He was a fluent extempore speaker, and almost from his first entrance into the ministry ranked as one of the best and most pleasing preachers in the diocese.

He was kind and sympathetic, large hearted and liberal. The humblest member of his congregation found in him a friend as well as a pastor. Nor were his ministrations confined to those of his own household of faith. He was beloved by all who knew him—scarcely less by members of other denominations than by those of his own communion. His loss will be deeply felt by the church and by the community at large.

Mr. Gadsden's funeral services will be held at St. Luke's Church at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

THE CONSERVATIVE NOMINATING CONVENTION will meet this evening, at 7 o'clock, in Masonic Hall. It is important that a full representation or delegates should be present as the nominations for aldermen and school commissioners will be made.

THE LAST OF THE SAWFISH.—This uncouth monster, with its exaggerated proboscis, was skinned on Saturday evening, and the integument, dressed and stuffed large as life, and twice as natural, may be seen on exhibition on the premises of Messrs. Lopez & Leslie. Another chance of learning so much natural history for ten cents may not occur again in a hurry.

ST. PETER'S PAROCHIAL SCHOOL.—This favorite institution closed on last Friday, to reopen again on the first Monday in September. Before closing, the scholars were examined in the various branches taught, and prizes were awarded to the most proficient and best behaved, by Fathers Northrop and Cafew. The examination was most satisfactory, and reflected great credit alike upon teachers and pupils.

THE RADICAL CAUCUS.—The members of the Radical convention assembled last evening at the Market Hall, and had a private pow-wow over the coming aldermanic nominations. The meeting was excited and protracted, and from certain indications it is plain that numerous members of the convention are hard at work pulling the wires to secure their own nominations. Outsiders were rigidly excluded.

FIRE.—A fire broke out yesterday morning in the wooden dwelling in the rear of Doyle's barber shop, on the east side of Church street, four doors below Cumberland. The alarm was given, but the inmates, with the assistance of a few outsiders, extinguished the flames just before the arrival of the German steam engine on the ground. The fire originated on the shingle roof of the building, and was ignited by sparks from a neighboring white lead mill. No damage was done beyond a small hole burnt in the roof of the house. The building was not insured.

MOONLIGHT EXCURSION.—There can be no more charming picture than our beautiful bay and city when seen from the decks of a steamer under the silvery rays of the full moon. With a just appreciation of this, the Thalia Verein have selected next Thursday evening, when the moon will be at its full, for a moonlight excursion. With a fine band of music, and under the direction of the committee, the trip cannot but be one of the pleasantest, and the Thalias may expect a crowded boat for this trip.

ROBBERY IN BROAD DAYLIGHT.—Between 2 and 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, a colored boy entered the house of a dressmaker in Bottle alley, between Archdale and King streets, by breaking open one of the front windows, and without giving any alarm gathered and made off with a large number of valuable dresses and other dry goods. A short time after Detective Burke met the thief in Archdale street, and seeing the officer upon him, the scamp dropped his bag of plunder and took to his heels. After an exciting chase he succeeded in making his escape, but the bag he dropped was found to contain all of the stolen articles. These are at the Detective office, to be identified by the owner. The thief is known and will be apprehended.
