A PANIC AND A RESCUE.

FEARFUL COLLAPSE OF AN IRON PIER AT CHATHAM.

Eighty Excursionists Submerged in Deep Water—Said Pacha Seized With a Fit of Apoplexy—The Sultan—Sir Moses Montefiore Dead — Foreign.

SIR MOSES MONTEFIORE.

LONDON, July 29.—Sir Moses Montefiore died at his home at Ramsgate at 4:30 o'clock. He was born October 24, 1784.

Submerged.

LONDON, July 29.—At Chatham, on the Medway river, between the Rochester that Dickens made famous and the Nore, at the mouth of the Thames, a scene famous for the mutiny, over a hundred excursionists were enveloped in an accident which for a quarter of an hour seemed likely to occasion a shocking sacrifice of lives. During months past an iron pier has been constructing at the bend of the river near the Ordnance dock yard to accommodate excursionists going to or arriving from Southend, a watering place on the Essex coast much resorted to by East End Londoners and Kentish people.

It appears that shortly after 3 o'clock the steamer which plies between Strood village, opposite Rochester, and Southend, called at Chatham pier on its way down the river. As is usual when the weather on Sundays is fine and very hot, a large number of excursionists were waiting on the pier head for the arrival of the steamer. As soon as the vessel was moored alongside a stream of passengers passed through the barrier to descend to the lower tier of the pier by means of an iron structure known as a "brow," when, without a second's warning and at a moment when some seventy or eighty persons were on the brow, this brow oscillated violently and ultimately twisted over in a most extraordinary manner, precipitating all the persons awaiting to go by the steamer into the river, which just there is very deep.

The panic among the hundreds standing on the upper portion, and the piercing shrieks and struggling of those in the water were perfectly indescribable. A large proportion of intending passengers were women, who in many instances were accompanied by children, and it was only by the exercise of prompt skill that the boatmen at the pier head managed to thread their boats through the entanglement of broken iron and woodwork. A large number of those saved sustained fractures by falling on wooden piles, and several women were taken to the Sun hotel, hard by, in a half drowned and unconscious condition.

But the coolness and efficiency of Mr. Whitfield, the pier master, assisted by the water men, enabled all the persons immersed, it is believed, to be brought safely to land. Fears were at first expressed that some might have been drowned, but a careful search leads to the belief that all have been picked up. At all events, up to midnight no one is reported missing. Nevertheless, it is possible that further grapplings by the scores of boatmen engaged under the bright moonlight in connection with the divers may show some loss of life. A strict inquiry into the breaking of the pier will be held by the board of trade, as at this time of year excursions are in vogue everywhere and a bank holiday is approaching.

A Turkish Crisis.

VARNA, July 29.—Deep interest and much excitement have prevailed in official and diplomatic circles for the last few days, owing to the dangerous illness of the grand vizier, who had an apoplectic attack. It is still doubtful whether he will recover from its effects, but his retirement is regarded as almost certain. According to the law persons once so stricken are no longer considered competent to direct public affairs. Various reports are current as to the cause of Said's illness, some alleging the common reason that it was produced by indigestion, others whispering that it was brought on by the fear of having fallen under suspicion of maintaining secret intercourse with the Heir Apparent.

A circumstance which gives color to the last report is the sudden dismissal of three palace physicians who were only recently promoted to higher rank through imperial favor. A change of ministry is undoubtedly imminent. Rumor is already busy with the name of Said's successor. Abdin Pacha, Hamdi Pacha and Hassan Fehmi are mentioned. Ethem, who was grand vizier during the war, is considered to have the best chance, although the partisans of the British alliance will strive to secure the appointment of Hassan Fehmi.

The chances of such an alliance are much increased of late, and the retirement of Said would probably hasten the matter, he being its greatest opponent. The mission of Sir Henry Drummond Wolff is very favorably viewed at the palace, the sultan having already intimated that he will receive him with pleasure. In view of the prospective alliance leading to a settlement of the Egyptian difficulty, both Tewfik and Ismail are paying great court to the sultan, who is acting with much diplomacy and acknowledging the attentions in such a manner as leaves no ground for believing that either is the object of his special favor. Said Pacha is is very unpopular, and his retirement would give great pleasure to the official world, except to those who favor an alliance with the Russians.

A Devastated Village.

PARIS, July 29.—Private news from the village of Montagudo, in the province of Soria, 100 miles north of Madrid, states that in eight days there have been 210 deaths from cholera and 300 remain ill, out of a population of 800 persons. The greatest consternation has been caused by this extraordinary death rate, which is more severe than in any previous case during the present epidemic. Even the highest village officials are forced to bury their own dead, as no sextons remain.

Financial Panic.

DUBLIN, July 29.—The Bank of Ireland announced its decision to refuse financial aid to the Munster bank. The proposition submitted to the Bank of Ireland was for to advance five hundred thousand pounds, which sum it was believed would be sufficient to enable the Munster bank to resume. The refusal of the Bank of Ireland to grant the assistance asked has precipitated a panic in the financial circles of Cork and Dublin.

The Spanish Treaty.

PARIS, July 29.—The dispatches regarding the abandonment of negotiations for the American commercial treaty with Spain were absolutely incorrect. The adjournment of the Spanish Cortes was the signal for renewed activity in the negotiations, according to reliable authorities in the foreign office. No interruption has since occurred.

Honors to Collins.

DUBLIN, July 29.—The corporation of the city of Dublin voted to present Hon. Patrick A. Collins, of Boston, the freedom of the city. The gentleman will avail himself of that honor some time in August.

By the arrest of John Peters in the mountains back of Kitanning, Pa., and William McCoy, in Cleveland, O., the celebrated Hazleton gang of desperadoes, who have worked the Mahoning valley for a long time, is completely broken up, the other now serving terms in the penitentiary.

The stock market was strong at the opening this morning, first prices showing a gain of ⅛ to ½ per cent. generally, with Lake Shore up and New York Central ¾, but Jersey Central was unchanged and Pacific Mail ½ lower. Immediately after the opening there was a slight advance, but this was soon checked and a general decline set in, accompanied by considerable activity, during which prices fell from ⅛ to ½ per cent., led by Union Pacific and Missouri Pacific. This was checked about 10:30 and a rally occurred, carrying prices to within small fractions of opening quotations. Shortly before 11 o'clock another decline occurred and prices fell to the lowest point of the morning generally. Missouri Pacific has been conspicuously weak, losing 2 per cent., while Jersey Central was notably strong, gained 1½ per cent. At 11 o'clock the market is dull and weak.
