GAMENESS UNEQUALLED.

A PRIZE FIGHT WITHOUT A PARALLEL IN AMERICAN HISTORY.

One Man Burned by a Falling Lamp—The Contest Ends in a Kicking Match.

WILKESBARRE, PA., December 24.—Mike Beatty, who stook up before John L. Sullivan for two rounds three years ago, and George Monk, another local pugilist, fought a savage battle in an old shed at Plymouth at about 1 o'clock yesterday morning.

It was a brutal affair. In the eleventh round a lamp from the ceiling fell on Beatty's head, and set fire to him. He was badly burned about the face and hands.

The burning petroleum having made Beatty's hand useless after the nineteenth round, it was proposed that the two men fight the battle out with their feet. This was agreed to. A temporary platform was built and the fighters placed thereon; they then commenced to kick at each other and with good effect. Beatty had powerful legs and soon disabled him.

In the twenty-second round the referee awarded the fight to Beatty on a foul, Monk kicking him in the stomach. Both men were badly disfigured. The fight was for $500. Both principals will be arrested.

INDIANA SENATE EMBROGLIO.

The Green Smith and Robertson Racket Revived.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., December 24.—The Indiana Senate, from present indications, is pretty certain to begin its next session with another row, which will involve complications somewhat similar to the scene of two years ago, except that it is hardly probable that the trouble will continue longer than the first week and will not seriously interfere with legislation. It will be a fight over the old question as to who shall preside over the body. Greensmith is no longer a member of the Senate and consequently can not be the presiding officer. Colonel Robertson is the Lieutenant Governor until the first Monday after the beginning of the regular session of the Senate, and is the legally constituted presiding officer of that body, and it is his duty as such to call the Senate to order when it organizes for the session, but if he is prevented from being present it is provided that the auditor of state shall preside during the organization, and in the absence of the auditor also, one of the judges of the Supreme court shall temporarily attend to the duties of the position.

It appears, therefore, that it is inevitable that the Democratic senate, if it is disposed to be law-abiding, must submit to the rule of a Republican presiding officer, but the rebellious spirit of the majority will probably manifest itself in a determination as a matter of preference who that Republican shall be. It will go hard with them to recognize Colonel Robertson's right to preside, after having kept him out of the position all through the session two years ago, in defiance of the law and the court. It is understood that it is his determination to assert his rights.

The course that will be pursued, it is expected, will be to dispute Robertson's right to preside over the Senate, and after he has called it to order, elect a president from among the members to fill the position until the begining of the new lieutenant governor's term.

"PARSON DAVIES"

Debut as a Slugger in Fighting Manager McKay.

CHICAGO, December 24.—"Parson" Davies made his debut as a slugger in Illinois at about 11 o'clock Saturday night, when the police put down their foot Saturday afternoon and warrants were issued for Kilrain and Mitchell the "Parson" requested manager McKay to post a notice to this effect conspiciously at the theater entrance so that no admirer of delsarte movements should part with his money under false pretenses.

Mr. McKay neglected to do this, and quite a house was assembled by nine o'clock. The "Parson" then arrived on the scene and claimed 50 per cent. of the receipts, and his men were within call, and the notice had not been posted according to his demand. Manager McKay at first refused to give up a cent, but finally, after much argument, Otto Flauto, Mr. Davies' aide-de-camp, collected 25 per cent. at the box office, and when the "Parson" insisted on the balance, the trouble commenced. Manager McKay attempted to put the Parson out of his office up stairs there was a short grappling match. The Parson then struck out. McKay decided to rest for a while on the floor. This did not suit the Parson who pulled him up and struck him several times in the face again knocking him down. When Kilrain and Mitchell heard of the issue of the warrants for their arrest they packed their trunks and slid around to a place on Fifth avenue.

"I'm not afraid of 'Bobbies,'" Mitchell said, "but I don't fawney this bloody business in the police office, don't you know." The men went to Ft. Wayne yesterday. A small crowd at the Casino raised a big noise when the announcement was made that the exponents of delsarte movement would not appear. Parson Davis quieted them with a speech. He said he would put on the gloves with the police in court.

MRS. CARLISLE

Gives a Reception in Honor of Mrs. Cleveland.

WASHINGTON, December 24.—Mrs. J. G. Carlisle gave a handsome luncheon to a number of ladies, Saturday, in honor of Mrs. Cleveland. In front of Mrs. Cleveland, who sat at one end of the table, and of Mrs. Carlisle, who sat at the other, were were round baskets of flowers, and between were tall silver candelabra, with the white tapers capped with pink and blue shades. The menu cards were unique, and were designed by the hostess. They were square and had a small bow of ribbon tied in one corner. The card was set diamond shape, and under the ribbon was laid on smoothly a small photograph of Mrs. Cleveland, that her friends present will be happy to treasure as a souvenir. At Mrs. Cleveland's right sat Mrs. Fuller, wife of the chief justice, and on her left Mrs. Dickinson. The other guests were Mrs. Hornsby, Mrs. Senator Pugh, Mrs. Senator Cockrell, Mrs. Harlan, Mrs. A. A. Wilson and Mrs. John M. Wilson.

A Soldier Killed at Dayton.

DAYTON, O., December 24.—Shortly after dark Saturday evening Theodore Trampenau, aged 70, an inmate of the National Military Home, was found murdered near the gates of the home. Trampenau drew a $90 pension. When found his pockets were empty. Another soldier was robbed near the same spot by a negro. The negro is believed to be the murderer of Trampenau. No arrests. Trampenau was killed by a heavy blow on the forehead.

The Chesrown Murder Trial.

ASHLAND, December 24.—Saturday night closed the third week in the celebrated Chesrown murder trial with no apparent indications that the case will be given to the jury in another two weeks. Throughout the progress of the case the utmost interest has been shown by the people, and particularly is this true of the residents of the country. This morning Prof. Frautfelter, of Akron, and A. E. Hyre, of Cleveland, testified as to the good character of the defendant. The examination of Adam Chesrown was continued when court adjourned until Monday.

Heavy Verdict Against the Pan Handle.

EATON, December 24.—The Pan-handle Railroad Company had a heavy verdict given against it Saturday by a jury here in the Preble county courts. Eight years ago four small boys found a signal torpedo on the Pan handle track at Manchester, and exploded it. One of the boys, Adam Christler, was killed. Wm. L. D. Shields lost one eye, another had an arm so badly injured that it had to be amputated, and a fourth was seriously injured.

Damages were claimed, and the cases fought up to the Supreme Court and sent back again for trial. Last week the jury gave a verdict against the company for $2,200 for the boy who was killed, and Saturday another jury gave the boy who lost one eye damages to the extent of $5,000. The Pan handle will take the case up.

NOT GUILTY.

ALLEN O. MYERS IS ACQUITTED

OF THE CHARGE OF COMPLICITY IN THE TALLY SHEET FORGERY.

The Jury Agrees to that Verdict After Eight Hours of Deliberation.

LUCKY, O., December 24.—It was almost 12 o'clock, Saturday, when Hon. John F. Locke finished his closing argument for the state, in the Myers case, and Judge Pugh announced that he would not begin his charge to the jury until after the dinner hour. As soon as Mr. Locke had finished his speech, a few warm words were indulged in by that gentleman and Mr. Wilson, the attorney, touching certain remarks he (Wilson) had heard that Locke made in his argument. The storm soon blew over, and court adjourned.

It was 1:30 when the court opened in the afternoon, and Judge Pugh began his charge to the jury. He first explained what evidence must be considered, and in this line pointed out their duty as jurors. He then explained the nature of the crime charged against the defendant, and entered into a legal discussion. The question of conspiracy occupied a great deal of the time, it being dwelt upon in all its legal aspects. The evidence of witnesses was then mentioned.

Judge Pugh said that the testimony of Justice Martin and J. D. Poston tended to show the existence of a conspiracy; that of A. B. Colt and Douglass Doyle likewise. The matter of procuring evidence was explained to the jury in unequivocal terms. Judge Pugh occupied just forty minutes in reading his charge.

The counsel for the defendant took a long list of exceptions to the charge and to the refusal to charge in a certain manner.

The jury retired at 2:13 o'clock and the court took a recess pending their report.

At 10 o'clock the jury sent word that they had agreed upon a verdict and the court was notified. The foreman on being asked what the verdict was replied, "not guilty." There was quiet in the court room, not many being present, then Myers' friends began to congratulate him. It was but a few moments before the court room was cleared and the most interesting trial held here for a long time was over.

The jury ballotted five times. On the first ballot it stood seven for conviction and five for acquittal. On the second ballot the jury stood nine for acquittal and three for conviction. On the third there were ten for acquittal and two for conviction. On the fourth ballot ten voted for acquittal, one for conviction and one blank. On the fifth the jury stood unanimous for acquittal.

Myers was present in the court room when the verdict was read, and broke completely down, but managed to thank each juror, taking each one by the hand, and then received congratulations from everyone present.

The case has been on trial thirteen days, the counsel consumed fourteen hours in presenting their argument and the case has cost Franklin county for witnesses alone about $400.

ANOTHER CONFLICT

Between the Whites and Blacks in the South.

NASHVILLE, TENN., December 24.—A special to the American from Montevallo, Ala., says: Near this place last Thursday a negro boy made a criminal assault on a young white girl, but she escaped from him before he accomplished his purpose. Yesterday several negroes were arrested, and when taken before the girl she identified one of them as the party who assaulted her. Last night a crowd of negroes led by John White, a colored desperado, surrounded the house where a constable and posse were guarding the prisoner. White called one of the guards out in the yard and demanded to see the warrant on which they were holding the negro. The white man called out to a companion in the house: "Hand me that double barrel warrant lying on the bed." At this the negroes opened fire, which was promptly returned by the whites, and about one hundred shots were exchanged. John White, leader of the negroes, and several of his party were wounded. The negroes then fled, taking their wounded with them. No further trouble is anticipated.

ARTEMUS WARD.

The Deceased Humorist's Will the Subject of Litigation.

NEW YORK, December 24.—Charles F. Brown, Artemus Ward, having left property in this country and also legatees here, Judge Barrett, of the Supreme court, has signed a decree establishing the validity of the will in order that the bequests may be made. The will was executed on February 20, 1867, at Southampton, England, where the humorist died. After making a few minor bequests, the residue of the property is left for life to the testator's mother; after her death the greater portion of the principal is directed to be devoted to founding an asylum for worn out printers in the United States. At the death of his mother the testator directed that the children of John G. Gerry, of Waterford, Maine, should receive $1,000. Hence the application to have the will probated here, after it had been duly probated in England.

His Fingers Slipped.

BALTIMORE, December 24.—About six o'clock Saturday evening George Wiley, a butcher, residing at No. 214 Sycamore avenue, in Woodberry, rushed into his mother-in-law's house and told her that he had accidentally shot his wife Kate. He then went for a doctor, and when they had arrived at Wiley's house the woman was dead. She was shot in the head. Wiley says that his hands were greasy from handling meat and that his fingers slipped from the hammer of the pistol which he was handling. Wiley was arrested and locked up.

WHERE IS ADMIRAL LUCE?

No Tidings From Him yet Received at Washington.

WASHINGTON December 24.—Contrary to expectations no word has as yet been received at the navy department announcing the arrival at Port au Prince of the United States steamers Galena and Yantic under Admiral Luce. They have been gone from New York ten days and as the sailing time is fixed at seven days the navy officials expected to receive tidings before this. A good deal of anxiety exists.

Cotton Culture in East Africa.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Dec. 21.—[Special.]—John S. Scott, a well known planter, of Marion county, in this State, has been offered a large salary by the Russian government to go to East Africa to teach the native Africans the cotton culture.

A Smuggling Trust, Which is a Private Affair.

SARNIA, Ont., Dec. 21.—[Special.]—It is reported that a syndicate has been organized here to smuggle opium into the United States.

THE JANITOR AN ANARCHIST.

How the Chicago Anarchists Secured a Hall For Sunday's Meeting.

CHICAGO, December 25.—The hall of the Plasterer's Union, an organization of workingmen, was rented last week to the Anarchists' society known as the Arbeiter Bund, for a meeting Sunday. It appears, however, that the plasterers were ignorant of the character of the Arbeiter Bund society, and that their hall was rented for the meeting by the janitor, who is claimed to have Anarchistic tendencies. When the plasterers discovered who their tenants were a committee from the union waited on the chief of police and requested that he assume the responsibility of preventing the occupancy of their hall by bund, saying that the janitor would be dismissed for conniving at the anarchist meeting on their premises. The chief replied that he would take charge of the matter and when the members of the Arbeiter bund began to assemble at the Plasterers Hall yesterday afternoon, they found the police in charge of the entrance and were informed that no meeting would be permitted. The anarchists concluded to make no further attempt to hold a meeting and quietly dispersed a number going to the socialistic meeting then in progress at No. 122 Lake street. The latter was largely attended and several detectives were among the audience. Mrs. Woodman delivered a lecture on free speech and said, among other things, that it was futile to attempt to check the growth of ideas by breaking up meetings. The most dangerous class were those who were silenced but not convinced. At the conclusion of her lecture several other persons spoke on various points touched by Mrs. Woodman, some of them making satirical or contemptous references to the police and the city authorities who prevented the meeting of the Arbeiter bund.

The following resolution was adopted: "That the action of the police authorities in closing the public meeting places by threats of destroying the business of the proprietors, not because of any violation of the law by the owners of the halls, nor by those who met there, but simply because the police powers of the city contemptuously ignore the law, cannot be too strongly condemned. That this is a further confirmation of the too apparent fact that there is one law for the rich and another for the poor."

WHO DUVERGE IS.

Recognized As An Old Sea Captain of Baltimore—His Checkered Career.

BALTIMORE, December 25.—In Captain Duverge, whom cable dispatches report as having killed Victor Stanwood, United States Commercial Agent at Andikole, Madagascar, Baltimoreans recognize a former captain of the yacht, Nakoma, owned by E. M. Padelford, of this city. Duverge has had a remarkable career and was once reported dead. He served in a Massachusetts regiment. President Arthur appointed him to a consulship at St. Paul, De Leander, on the west coast of Africa. He was at this time well known in New York and New England. His wife accompanied him to Africa, but was unable to stand the climate and she returned, leaving her husband there. Some time afterward she saw an announcement of his death published. In the meantime, however, she had secured a divorce in New York courts, on the plea of abandonment, as her husband had never written to her since the time she left him in Africa. Some years after the announcement of his death, a former Grand Army comrade of his in Baltimore received a letter from him stating that he was a colonel in the Madagascar army. His friends here were greatly surprised to hear that he was in the land of the living. The captain next turned up in Paris, where he published a letter on his travels and adventures in Madagascar, in which he preferred charges against Stanwood, who held the position of consular agent at Madagascar, for which Duverge had been an unsuccessful applicant. Duverge is of French noble descent. When a boy, he served in the French army under Boulanger, and he also served with some distinction in the French navy.

A COLOR WAR

As it Bears Upon the Southern Episcopal Church.

CHICAGO, December 25.—A special to the Chicago Tribune from Charleston, S. C., says: An event of more than ordinary interest in Episcopal religious circles occurred here Sunday. It was the ordination by Bishop Howe to the Deaconate, of the Rev. E. N. Holtings, a young negro theological student. Holting is the second colored man who has taken holy orders in the diocese of Charleston. He is 53 years old, was born in Charleston and educated at the Saxon school for freedmen, established here by the northern philanthropists at the close of the war. The ordination services took place at St. Mark's, the colored Episcopal church of this city, the clergymen participating being Bishop Howe, of the Doche, A. Porter and J. V. Welch, white, and J. H. M. Pollard, colored. There was only a sprinkling of white persons present. The ordination bears directly upon the color war that has been raging in this diocese for the last ten years. The war led, two years ago, to the withdrawal from the diocese convention of most of the lay delegates and prominent clergymen.

FROM INDIANAPOLIS.

General Harrison Will Now Begin Cabinet Making—Statesmen from the Capital Arrive.

INDIANAPOLIS, December 25.—A car load of Indiana office-holders in Washington arrived here late last night to remain over the holidays. Ex-Senator McDonald and Congressman Bynum accompanied the party.

During the holiday week General Harrison will suspend his afternoon receptions, which have hitherto been held between two and four o'clock of each day. It is the General's desire to give attention to important and pressing matters, and his friends and the public generally will therefore see the necessity of him having command of his time for the week at least.

Later of the Haytien War.

WASHINGTON, December 25.—Neither the navy nor state department has received any news up to the hour of closing, confirming the report that the Haytien republic had been turned over to the United States.

Unprecedently Warm in Minnesota.

ST. PAUL, December 25.—Yesterday was the warmest December day in the history of Minnesota. Many pedestrians were on the street wearing linen dusters. A steamboat excursion has been planned for tomorrow.

A Governess Ruined.

CINCINNATI, Dec. 21.—[Special.]—Alice Bennett, a respectable girl, governess in an aristocratic family on Walnut Hill, threw her illegitimate child into a vault this morning, and then jumped in after it. She was accidently discovered and rescued, barely alive, but the child has not been found. The author of her ruin is said to be a gentleman of much social and political prominence.

CHICAGO, Dec. 21.—[Special.]—The passenger rate war has broken out west of St. Paul. The rates are seriously cut on all roads west.

THE EARTH TREMBLED.

A TERRIFIC EXPLOSION AT MT. PLEASANT, OHIO,

Shakes Up All the Eastern Part of the State—The Carelessness of a Boy Brings Disaster, Ruin, and Loss of Life.

PITTSBURG, PA., December 25.—A special to the Times from Wheeling says that a heavy, booming explosion and a tremor of the earth was felt in that city and surrounding towns at two o'clock yesterday afternoon. Nothing could be heard of the cause until last evening, when a report was received to the effect that it was caused by the explosion of thirty hundred weight of dynamite at Mt. Pleasant, Ohio, seventeen miles from Wheeling. The details, which are very meagre, state that the town is wrecked and many people were killed. The dynamite was for the use of workmen engaged on the Wheeling and Lake Erie railroad. Reporters have been dispatched to Mt. Pleasant, but it will be late before word can be received from them.

There were in the magazine at Mount pleasant 210 kegs of powder and ten cases of dynamite.

A fourteen year old boy, Charles Gleck, of Charleston, W. Va., visiting near, broke the locks, and with two other boys, went in smoking. The other boys ran before the explosion. Young Gleck was literally blown to atoms. The other two boys are badly hurt. Seventeen men are badly injured. Nearly every house within a mile was badly wrecked. Fifty yards away there were thirty tons of dynamite in a cave which was not exploded. The injured men are largely Italian railroad laborers.

THE TALE OF A JUG.

A Gallon of Whisky the Subject of Iowa Litigation.

DES MOINES, IA., December 25.—A new phase of the prohibitory law was passed upon in the District court here yesterday. Judge Conrad released a package of alcohol which was seized in the United States Express office in this city some time ago en route from Rock Island, Ill., to Runnells, Iowa. The package was not labeled or marked so as to show its contents, and the state law requires all shipments of liquor within the state to be so marked. The constables seized the alcohol and claimed that after it once crossed the line and came inside the state it fell under the provision of the statute for the rest of the journey, and was therefore liable to seizure for being unmarked. The court holds that this was inter-state shipment belonging to inter-state commerce, and therefor not subject to state laws, until the transit had ended and the liquor became a part of the mass of Iowa property. He therefor orders that the gallon jug be sent on its way to Runnels undisturbed.

ELOPEMENT.

Fashionable Society of Louisville Shocked.

LOUISVILLE, December 25.—It was announced here yesterday morning that Thomas Buchanan and Ida Shallcross, two members of the ultra-fashionable society of the city had eloped. Miss Shallcross is the oldest daughter of Stephen H. Shallcross, Esq., of the firm of McFarran, Shallcross & Co., pork-packers, and is one of the most beautiful women in Kentucky. Mr. Buchanan is the son of James Buch
